We have pure food and pure drug laws, and now Victor Murdock, the Kansas Congressman, has introduced a bill for "pure clothes." His idea is to compel manufacturers of wearing apparel to label everything they make with the exact grade of goods used therein. The plan is to thus prevent the use of the terms "pure wool" and "pure linen," in a misleading sense, as is so frequently the case with some classes of tradespeople. Mr. Murdock's bill is a good one. It would not interfere with any legitimate business, but would make it hard for the fellow to sell goods who goes into a town for a few days, with alleged bankrupt stocks of questionable character, and stays long enough to unload his next to worthless lines, following this by disappearing over night. That kind of tradespeople do not do any community the slightest service, and they separate people, who do not investigate carefully, from their money in such a way that it is impossible to get justice.

Only the sanction of the Legislature prevents the voters of Savannah, Georgia, from adopting the commission form of government in that progressive Southern city and this will be obtained as speedily as possible. The municipality's affairs will be administered by five men and the initiative, referendum and recall will be a part of the plan of government. Gadsden, Alabama, is also the scene of a campaign for the adoption of a businesslike and modern form of city government. And there are a hundred or more other places where the people are agitating for a change to a commission form such as is now in vogue in nearly 200 cities and towns in the United States.

Now the newspapers tell us that Mr. Taft and his supporters are worried because they have learned that about 100 of the men who have already been chosen as candidates for the Republican Presidential electors will not vote for the President in the electoral college, if they are chosen but will cast their ballots for Col. Roosevelt. They claim that no moral obligations are placed upon them to vote for Mr. Taft, and that they will be violating a confidence if they do not vote for Mr. Roosevelt.

Young men particularly will find some wholesome advice in tomorrow's contributed editorial. It will be written by a prominent Plainfielder whose life work is the helping of the young man. One of the cardinal rules for success in the business world will be dwelt upon and it is certain that the discussion of the subject will be both interesting and instructive.

This Lorimer business is getting tiresome. The quicker the Senate fires him out, the better it will be for the country. He has already been the cause of the downfall of a number of Republican Senators, and if he is allowed to keep his seat much longer he will be the cause of still more of his associates being "elected to stay at home."

The Treasury Department has decreed that the Goddess of Liberty be banished from the five cent piece. She is to be succeeded by the Buffalo. We have lots of animals that might do service as a National figure; there's the Bull Moose, the Jersey Skeeter, the Houn' Dawg and what not. Oh, yes, there's the Jelly Fish, too.

IN BOROUGH COURT.

Samuel Brischi, of 48 Horner street, was arrested by Chief Weiss, of the borough, last night for beating Anna Terry, of 35 Somerset street, during a quarrel. When arraigned before Judge Gano this morning he would not account for his actions and therefore was fined $10, with a caution not to repeat the offense. Ann Terry, who was arraigned on a charge of running a disorderly place, was given two days to leave the city. John Day, of 611 Spooner avenue, was fined $2 by Judge Gano in the borough court this morning for not appearing before him Monday morning, as he had promised. Day is one of the crowd arrested Sunday for profanity while swimmming in Debele & Stahl's pond on Maple avenue.

COLORED FOLKS OUTING.

Many colored folks of Plainfield and neighboring towns started on the annual union excursion of Baptists to Bellwood Park this morning at 8 o'clock. The excursion was planned and supervised by Rev. E. W. Roberts, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, and Rev. G. W. Bailey, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. All the colored Baptist church congregations of Plainfield attended this excursion. They were the Calvary church, the Ebenezer church, the Mount Olive church and the Shiloh church.

BOYS' CAMP VISITORS.

The local Y. M. C. A. will be represented at the first section visitors' day of the Jersey Boys' Camp at Lake Wawayanda tomorrow by Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Plainfield association, and William D. Murray, a member of the boys' state work committee. They will remain at the camp over Sunday and return to this city Monday morning.

NEVER CROSSED THE OCEAN.

But That Didn't Keep Him From Giving His Novel a Salt Sea Flavor.

The story is told by the Bookman of how a certain novel which was popular three or four years ago got its setting:

"When the story was being planned the author, who has since achieved a literary position of considerable importance, though not as a novelist, could not hit upon just the right background. He needed a setting that would hold his three principal characters, a woman and two men, together for a period of ten or twelve days, despite the fact that the complications of the tale itself would inevitably have moved one or the other of the men to immediate departure.

"He told a friend of his dilemma. 'Why,' said the mentor, 'put them on board a slow going transatlantic liner, one of the new boats.' 'But,' retorted the novelist, 'I have never crossed the ocean and know nothing about transatlantic liners.' 'That,' said the other, 'is a matter of easy remedy. The —— sails at 10 tomorrow morning. Let us go down at 9 and put an end to your troubles.'

"The next day the two visited the ship in question, the author asking questions of his friend and making observations and notes. The smoking room was studied carefully as being just the place for the fight and certain remote corners of the decks as suitable scenes for discreet and fervent courtship. Before the clanging of the gong, with its 'All ashore who are going ashore' message, the novelist closed his notebook with the manner of a man whose task is finished.

"'A year or so later,' said the friend who had directed the search for local color, 'I was crossing the ocean and gave my friend's book to the captain of the boat to read. He did not care so much for the love passage, but what did please him was to find at last a novelist writing of the sea who really knew his subject. He had not read half a dozen pages before he knew that here was the real thing.'"

BRUSHED THE LAW ASIDE.

The Way Witches Were Tried In Massachusetts In 1692.

When the witchcraft delusion of 1692 seized the province of Massachusetts the people would not wait for the workings of the established tribunal of justice. It was too slow to suit them. So they cried out for a special court to hustle along the trial of witches, and Governor Phipps meekly yielded to the clamor and named seven judges to conduct the trials.

It was distinctly a popular court and was controlled absolutely by the popular will. Not a single one of the seven judges was a lawyer. Two of the judges were clergymen, two were physicians, and three were merchants. The common law was thrown aside, rules of evidence were ignored, and the judges and juries were left untrammeled by any "quibbles of the law" to follow their own feelings and the popular will.

Says Washburn in his "Judicial History of Massachusetts:" "The trials were but a form of executing popular vengeance. Juries were intimidated by the frowns and persuasions of the court and by the outbreakings of the multitude that crowded the place of trial to render verdicts against their own consciences and judgment." He cites one case, that of Rebecca Nurse, in which the jury actually had the courage to bring in a verdict of not guilty, whereupon "the accusers raised a great outcry and the judges were overcome by the clamor." The jury was sent back, returned with a verdict of guilty, and the woman was accordingly executed.—Boston Herald.

A Modest Judge.

Alvo Yusuph, chief judge of Bagdad, was remarkable for the modesty which accompanies wisdom. Once, after a long investigation of the facts of a case, he publicly confessed that his knowledge was not sufficient to enable him to decide it. "Pray," said a pert courtier, "do you expect the caliph to pay you for your ignorance?" "I do not," meekly answered the judge. "The caliph pays me well for what I know. If he were to attempt to pay me for what I do not know the treasures of his empire would not suffice."

A Definition.

The teacher was explaining the meaning of the words "ex-president" to the little folks and told them that it was a man who was formerly president, but had retired to private life. The next day the class was asked the meaning of the word "export." A little hand went up. "Well," said the teacher, "what is the meaning of the word export?" "It's a feller that used to be a sport," replied the young American.—Kansas City Star.

Pun Upon Pun.

Strange, Moore and Wright, three notorious punsters, were on a certain occasion dining together when Moore observed, "There is but one knave among us, and that's Strange." "Oh, no," said Wright; "there is one Moore." "Aye," said Strange; "that's Wright."—London Tatler.

BALL TEAM BENEFIT.

The Temple Baptist church will have a "crack" baseball team if success favors it as well as it favored the strawberry festival held last night for the team's support. The event which was held under the auspices of the Baraca and Philathea Bible classes, was well attended and everything was sold. The lawn in the rear of the church, where the festival was held, was lighted up with colored electric lights and an orchestra, which played all the latest tunes, added to the pleasures of the evening. The net profits of the festival have not yet been determined.

COURT RULING LIMITS CIVIL SERVICE

Trenton, July 12.—Seven decisions handed down by Justice Voorhees for the Supreme Court completely established the right of the City Commission of Trenton to regulate municipal affairs in the appointment of officers and employes of the government.

The decisions also establish that the civil service law in so far as it effects de facto officers was superseded by the Walsh act of last year. The effect of this is to limit the application of the civil service act to de jure employes.

The immediate effect of the decisions will be to oust from their present positions seven employes whose removal was temporarily prevented by certiorari proceedings instituted by the incumbents against the city commissioners.

The most important change brought about will be the removal of Major Harry P. Salter from his position as city clerk and the installation in that office of Frank Thompson, who was appointed by the commission last October with the understanding that his term was to begin December 1 last.

Other officials of the old regime who have been similarly held over pending the outcome of the litigation are Benjamin Goldshalk and E. Clifford Wilson, of the local tax board, who will be succeeded by Charles H. Metzger and Robert R. Volk.

Mr. Volk is at present chief clerk of the tax board, the commission having named as his successor in that office Michael F. McDade.

The commission abolished the position of assistant city treasurer held by Stephen Zieger; that of assistant secretary-treasurer of the water works held by Leon D. Hirsch, and clerk to the board of assessors held by James A. Howard. These three incumbents attacked the abolition of the positions upon the ground that it was not done in good faith, but solely for the purpose of ousting them.

The most important of the opinions was that handed down in the Salter case, inasmuch as it involves the first judicial construction of the Walsh act. In the syllabus of this opinion, Justice Voorhees said:

"By the act entitled 'An act relating to regulating and providing for the government of cities, towns, boroughs and other municipalities within this State,' (the Wash act), the management of municipal affairs is entrusted to a board of commissioners, but it largely leaves the mechanism of the adopting city's government and the provisions of its charter untouched. It does not alter general laws or charter provisions relating to the government of such city, except when inconsistent with its provisions.

"Where the law prescribes the term of a municipal officer, it is beyond the power of the board of commissioners of a municipality to elect for a greater or less term, or for an indefinite term, and an attempt to do so will not constitute a valid appointment, and a vacancy in contemplation of law will still exist in such office.

"One complaining of the illegality to office of another in his stead must first show that he himself has legal title to it.

"The application of the civil service act must be limited to the protection of officers ed jure, and cannot be extended to keep in office de facto officers."

PROCTOR'S GOOD SHOW.

The headine act at Proctor's theatre this week is presented by the Four Grohvinis, wonderful gymnasts. They are wonder tumbers, balancers and contortionists. Nelson's Rube Minstrels are good and the trio have a lot of good stories, jokes and songs. Smith & Campbell present a comedy satire, "Camping Out," extremely funny. "The City Editor," a comedy sketch, is offered by Grace Hampton & Co., and Karl and Emma Gath appear in "Amateur Night on the Bowery," a good singing and talking act.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOME SUMMER SOUPS.

WHEN the days are sultry and appetites are capricious light soups make acceptable variations in the bill of fare. Fresh vegetables are then abundant and may be used in the making of these wholesome and nourishing foods. With the fresh vegetables, too, it is possible to vary the kind of soup.

For those who may wish to try them here are several recipes for seasonable soups:

A Cream Soup.

Cream of Beet Soup.—The basis of this soup is a rich milk to which a little butter, pepper and salt are added. Stew chopped beets until they are tender and add them hot to the cream. Strain before serving.

Lettuce Soup.—Take two heads of lettuce, wash and dry thoroughly, then tear them into pieces of a suitable size. Add to them a green onion washed and cut into one inch lengths, a large turnip cut into tiny squares and a gill of green peas. Place half an ounce of butter in an enameled stewpan. As soon as it boils add the vegetables and fry for five or six minutes. Drain off all the grease, add three pints of well flavored stock and simmer slowly until the onions, etc., are thoroughly cooked. Add the well beaten yolks of two eggs pepper and salt to taste and a tiny pinch of sugar. Make very hot again without boiling, then send to table.

A Rich Bisque.

Tomato and Clam Bisque.—Take a quart of clams and pour over them a cupful and a half of cold water. Then drain. To the water add clams finely chopped. Heat slowly to the boiling point, cook for twenty minutes and strain. Cook together one-third of a cupful of butter and one-half an onion for five minutes. Remove the onion and add to the butter one-third of a cupful of flour and very gradually the clam water. Next put in two cupfuls of cream and as soon as the boiling point is reached one cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes to which a tiny bit of soda has been added. Season with salt and cayenne and serve.

With Carrots and Onions.

Carrot Soup.—Put two ounces of butter in a saucepan with an ounce of bacon, two onions sliced, two or three sticks of celery and six good sized carrots sliced and simmer gently for ten minutes. Then add a quart of weak stock and draw the pan to the side of the stove, where the vegetables can cook slowly until they are quite tender.

Strain them from the stock and pass them through a sieve. Add the vegetables to the stock and let the soup boil. Season it with salt, pepper, nutmeg and a small pinch of sugar and then add a tablespoonful of flour which has been mixed until smooth with two tablespoonfuls of milk. Stir the soup for five minutes after adding the flour, letting it boil gently, then serve.

MODISH MATTERS.

Summer Linens Are Soft, Pliable and Drape Well.

White is much used in millinery in combination with a single strong color.

The linen of this summer is soft and drapes as well as the new woolen materials.

Fine tucks with bands of Irish lace give a simple and rich effect on the blouse of white lawn or mull. One so trimmed had the narrow lace band with an edging at the low square neck and bands of the insertion to mark the deep armscye and as a finish for the elbow sleeves.

Scalloped edges are seen on taffeta frocks, lingerie, laces and embroidery.

Silk suits are almost invariably relieved with lace or lingerie, but lace plays the greatest role in the season's fashions.

The princess slip is one of the most useful garments a girl can own. This one may be made of lingerie material and take the place of the corset cover and petticoat to be worn beneath any dress. It can be made of messaline silk or sheer muslin.

This handmade hat of fancy blue straw is in the ever popular becoming bonnet shape. A band of dark blue velvet ends in a pump bow at the side, and another band starting at the front is brought over the left side to the center of the back, thus forming a unique trimming.

Little silk grapes in natural coloring are placed in groups of three on this band of velvet.

"DON'TS" FOR HUSBANDS.

Rockefeller Pastor Offers Ten as a Solution of the Divorce Evil.

Dr. W. W. Bustard, pastor of John D. Rockefeller's Euclid Avenue Baptist church in Cleveland, O., recently gave these ten "don'ts" for husbands as a solution of the divorce evil:

Don't forget your wife wants to be loved as much after marriage as before.

Don't arrange for your second marriage before your first wife is either dead or divorced.

Don't compel your wife to ask for a cent every time she needs one.

Don't expect your wife to work fourteen hours a day when you work only eight.

Don't carry all your religion in your wife's name.

Don't let your neighbors pity your children because you were their father.

Don't gossip. Men should not encroach on a woman's privilege.

Don't try to run a forty horsepower automobile on a four horsepower salary.

Don't live beyond your means or according to your meanness.

Don't forget the best legacy you can leave your family is the memory of a good husband and a kind father.

"All the honeymooning of life ought not to end with the honeymoon," said Mr. Bustard, supplementing his several "don'ts." "A man should always remember it is no sin to kiss his own wife. Love is not for courtship alone, but for life."

Practical and useful is this new vegetable and noodle shredder which the shops are showing. It has seven sharp cutters in form of wheels which led 28 miles from Cape Henlopen.

"The log is posted every noon. We awoke at 6:30 after a night of unbroken sleep and wondered where we were. It took us several minutes to realize that we were really on the ocean bound for Europe. We imagine our friends ashore are all feeling sorry for us, thinking we are seasick. Such is not the case, at least not at present. All the girls are gay as larks and having such a good time. This morning the Bishop of Bethlehem (Penna.) conducted an Episcopal service in the dining room at 10:15. The steamer surgeon read the lessons. Bishop Talbot read the prayers and gave a short sermon on "The Fatherhood of God," which was unusually good. We closed by singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee." A collection was taken for the Sailors and Seaman's charities. One-half to go to the English and one-half to the American sailors' homes. Father Carton held a Catholic service in the steerage. The service was largely attended and highly appreciated by all present.

"After church promenading followed by dinner. Then a life-boat drill, which we had hoped would be exciting, but which proved rather dull, everything was done so slowly. The steward told us that the captain and the first and second mates were responsible for our safety. They take turns watching on the bridge; all the sailors take turns in the crow's nest, one hour each in winter and two in summer. At four o'clock we were served tea and snaps on deck; we also indulged in some fruit sent us by kind Plainfield friends.

"The Merion received and sent several messages by wireless. All the S. S. communicated with were bound west. There are two wireless operators on our boat. Where we sit we can hear the wireless clicks and when we hear it never fail to scan the horizon in hopes of seeing the vessel and oftentimes we do. We saw the sun set a great red ball sinking from the cloudless light blue sky into the deeper blue of a calm sea. I never, never saw the sea so perfectly calm.

"This evening at 9:20 we came into communication with the "Dominion," the vessel we expected to sail on if we had sailed the 29th. We saw her pass in the distance and watched the flashes of light as she sent a Morse message to us. There are many pleasant and attractive people, and a number of sweet, well behaved children on board.

"There is a sweet little boy of eight among us who is worrying considerable because he isn't seasick he fears he is losing something when he lands. He wants to tell the other boys how seasickness feels. Evening moonlight on the water and the sounds of singing wafted up from below, make an ideal accompaniment for resting.

"June 24 — Monday — Fair and warm. Sea calm. Lat. 38 de. 52 N. Long. 63 de. 48 W. Distance travelled today 301 miles. Distance from Cape Henlopen 529 miles. Distance from Daunt's Rock 2,648 miles.

"We sailed in the Gulf Stream today. At about eleven o'clock a steamer appeared on the horizon. We watched it with our glasses as it grew larger and larger. We received this wireless message today at noon: 'Chicago convention nominated Taft last night.' Then we found out how our party stood on politics. Passed school of porpoises about 2 p. m. During the afternoon we did the usual things on shipboard. Promenaded, had afternoon tea, and met new people.

"There are some sweet little foreign children in the sterage. They sometimes come up the stairs and peep through the railing at us. I talk with them. They are very polite.

"During the evening we had a short entertainment, music, singing and speaking. Dr. Kendall told us the old man who stopped the train at Clews to take his pill. During the evening everybody promenaded in summer evening dress. The sea was perfectly calm, and the moonlight entrancing. It seemed to us more as if we were on the piazza of a seashore roomy hotel than on the deck of an ocean liner. The steward says this boat is of extra width so will not roll very much in stormy weather. You see we are laying up knowledge against a rainy day. Later in the evening as we sat resting in our chairs, Mrs. Bradshaw played familiar airs upon her harmonica. We greatly enjoyed her music as did all others who had the good luck to hear her. Set our watches 20 minutes ahead.

"June 25 — Tuesday — Fair and hot. Sea calm. Lat. 38-30 N. Long. 57-20 W. Distance travelled today 303 miles. Total distance 832 miles. Distance from Daunt's Rock 2,345 miles.

"This morning we didn't anyone of us wish to get up. We think we overworked at doing nothing yesterday.

"The usual shipboard routine during the day, after dinner the starboard deck was cleared and trimmed with English and American flags, the phonograph brought up and all was in readiness for the dance at 8:30. At 7 o'clock we went down on the front sterage deck and the sailors entertained us with songs, music and dancing. One laughing song was especially attractive, they all entered into the spirit of it so heartily. It was very amusing. At the close of the concert came 8 bells and we watched one new man run up into the crow's nest and the man already there run down. Then came the dance. George, the deck steward, ran the phonograph. Refreshments in dining room at 10. Marconi messages all day. Flash-light message tonight. This is our busy night.

"June 26 — Wednesday — Fair, cooler. Sea calm. Lat. 37-46 N. Long. 38-49 W. Distance travelled today 311 miles. Total distance 1,143 miles. Daunt's Rock 2,034 miles.

"Usual shipboard routine. Just after lunch we passed very near a "tramp steamer." Our steamer did not notice them. No messages were passed. Right after dinner we went out on the fore steerage deck and the sailors entertaind us with hornpipes and other sailor dances, also songs and solos all to the accompaniment of an accordion and harmonica. At 8 o'clock came changes of watches in the crow's nest. Later in the evening many of the passengers got together and sang the old familiar songs and hymns. Refreshments at 10.

"June 27 — Thursday — Fair, cooler. Sea calm. Lat. 37-54 N. Long. 44-36 W. Distance travelled today 300 miles. Total distance 1,442 miles. From Daunt's Rock 1,734 miles.

"We turned north today. Usual shipboard routine. We wrote and read steamer letters. Played games. After lunch Miss McWilliams and Miss Vail took our pictures. We hope they will be good. Then we went away out on the forward deck and watched the prow of the boat plough through the water. Saw some porpoises. This is the loveliest day we have had yet. This evening we had an entertainment in the dining room, songs, recitations, whistling solos, selections by the quartet and piano solos. Usual evening amusements. Set watches 25 minutes ahead.

"June 28—Friday—Fair, cooler. Sea calm. Lat. 41-02 N. Long. 39-32 W. Travelled today 301; total distance 1,744; from Daunt's Rock 1,433.

"Usual shipboard routine this morning. After lunch the poem "To the Merion," composed by Mrs. Robert Drought, of Los Angeles, Cal., and read last night at the entertainment, was put into a bottle with the passenger list and thrown overboard. We took pictures of George and the stewardess. She is such a sweet little English woman. George says there are 15 automobiles in the bottom of this steamer and they will surely keep us from rolling. Growing cooler; sunset poor. A school of over 50 porpoises went by right close beside us. A wonderful sight. Phosphoresence on the water this evening.

"P. S.—As we sat out on the bow this afternoon we saw several flying fish. They were very pretty, their wings were gauzy and blue.

"June 29—Saturday—Fair and cooled. Sea calm. Lat 44-02 N. Long. 33-45 W. Distance travelled today 313; total 2,057; from Daunt's Rock 1,120.

"Read aloud Aunt Minerva and William Greene Hill. Very funny. While we were at the barber's buying pictures, two tiny children came across from the steerage with a penny to spend. The barber laughingly said, 'Excuse me, I mustn't neglect my heaviest traders.' We had banana fritters for dinner. Agnes asked our waiter, a solemn-looking Englishman, if the banana fritters were good. 'Course not, Miss, we'd never be making fritters if the bananas were fit to eat.' Agnes and I bought a fine picture of our steamer. This afternoon we had a message from the Olympic saying that a great storm of wind was coming. We played shuffle board and found it good sport. Mr. Scott, the artist, told us yesterday that he had crossed more than a dozen times and had never met such a long spell of pleasant days. The captain said we haven't had such a long spell of beautiful weather at sea for two years. Dancing this evening. Refreshments in dining room at 10.

"June 30—Sunday—Fair, cooler. Sea calm. Lat 46-39 N. Long. 27-10 W. Distance traveled today 315; total 2,372; from Daunt's Rock 813.

"It came up foggy in the night and we thought a storm was coming. The fog horns blew for a short time. But the sunshine came in the morning. The Bishop held services in the dining room and the Priest held them in the steerage. Two sharks folowed us for a while. A whale spouted in the distance at about 2 o'clock. This afternoon we went upon the bridge, saw all that was to be seen and visited the Marconi room, where Mr. Murray let us send messages across the room. Then Mabel Vail took a number of pictures all of which came out good.

"July 1—Monday—Fair, very cold. Sea calm with first white caps we have seen. Lat. 48-44 N. Long. 20-10 W. Distance travelled today 313; total 2,685; from Daunt's Rock 502.

"This morning the captain took us all through the steerage. Also showed us the workings of the ship and all the cooks and store room and treated us to nuts and cakes as we went along. It was all extremely interesting. In the afternoon the upper decks were cleared and athletic sports were indulged in. Such fun as everyone had. Very cool tonight. I must close now as we have to begin to think of getting our possessions together, preparatory to landing. None of our party has been seasick. With all best wishes to the home folks, I will close.

"Sincerely,
"HELEN HOWARD."

AMERICANS SECURE MORE POINTS ABROAD

Take Second and Third in Olympic Discus Throw Today.

Stockholm, Sweden, July 12.—Upsets in form continued to figure in the Olympic contests here today, and the Americans received a severe jolt in the first final of the session when a Finn won the discus throw, best hand event, with two Americans second and third. It was thought that the United States might score a sweep in this contest, but an even break in the points was the best that the team could secure.

James Duncan, the American world's record holder, was away off in form and finished third with a throw many feet below his best records.

The winner turned up in Taipale, the big Finlander, who has been showing well in all of the strength contests. H. L. Byrd, of Adrian College, was second, and Duncan third. The winner's distance was 148 feet, a new Olympic record. Ralph Rose and Patrick McDonald, who were expected to show well, finished far down the list.

The Americans made a clean sweep of all three places in the 110 metres hurdle race, the finals of which were run this afternoon. Fred W. Kelley, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, was first; James Wendell, of the New York Athletic Club, second, and the third place also went to an American.

In the running broad jump Albert L. Gutterson, of the University of Vermont, landed first place, making 24 feet, eleven inches. This is a world's record.

The 400 meter swimming race, breast stroke, is in progress as the Press goes to press.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT THE NETHERWOOD REFORMED

Arrangements have been made for holding a special musical service at the Netherwood Reformed church Sunday night, when the Dutch Arms, men's association, which gave the organ to the church, will attend in a body. George W. Stout, brother of Rev. Royal A. Stout, who was formerly organist of the First Reformed church, New Brunswick, as well as the chapel at Rutgers College, will preside at the organ and give a fifteen minute recital.

There will also be selections by a male trio comprising Horace J. Martin, Sr., Dr. G. Thornton Longbothum and F. B. Willis, Jr. Mr. Stout, the pastor, will make a short address.

LOCAL BOYS HAVE FINE PROSPECTS

Chances for Winning Silver Loving Cup at Y. M. C. A. Camp Are Fine.

BELL AND FOSTER SHINE

Two Win Nineteen Points For Season Trophy, and Get Second Place in Point Competition For Plainfield Association.

The first section of Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys that left for the State camp at Lake Wawayanda on July 2, are making things lively for the other associations at the camp. The local group are going in for every activity and are making the larger delegations hustle to hold their own. In the first section athletic meet which was held on Monday the Plainfielders came in second to Paterson with a score of nineteen points made by two from this city. The handsome silver loving cup that is offered for first place in athletic competition every year is still within the reach of the local favorites however, as the standing is reckoned on the total point score for the four sections. Plainfield's best athletes stayed out of the meet in this section so they could compete in one large group in the second, third or fourth sections when the local association will have nearly forty lads in camp. Paterson sends her whole delegation up in the first section, so although she now has a pretty good lead in the point score, she is not conceded as a cup possibility. The record of the Queen City athletes is all the more wonderful as their nineteen points were all scored by two boys, Walter Bell and Esty Foster. Bell chalked a total of eight by taking first place in the running broad jump and second place in the 100 yard dash. Foster was the best high jumper in the camp and was also a close runner up in the 75 yard dash and running hop, step and jump. His points added up to 11. Paterson, with nearly ten times as many entrants, secured 30 points and this gave them the lead in the first two weeks at the camp. Ridgewood took third place with fifteen points and Orange broke into fourth with thirteen.

The last three sections of Plainfield campers contain many sure point winners and the local lads have high hopes of landing the cup. Last season Plainfield was nosed out by a margin of one point for the trophy. Athletics are not the only things the boys from this city are starring in, they have been rehearsing a play that will be presented to the campers sometime in the near future.

Joseph Sattels is conceded a sure winner in the competition for the quoit cup and if he succeeds in landing it this year it will become his permanent possession as he has already had it for the past two years.

In a letter from C. William Bingaman, who is the assistant director at the camp, he says that all are well and are having a fine time. The few cases of homesickness that are bound to occur every season have worn off and everyone is now happy. There is fine fishing in Lake Wawayanda and bass and pickerel are running plentifully. The groups from different cities have made a number of excursions to nearby towns and have inspected dairies and farms. The weather has been very cool at the lake and they have not had any idea of the intense heat in this section.

BILLY WEBER ENTERED IN WOODBRIDGE GAMES

Billy Weber, interscholastic indoor half-mile champion, and incidentally one of the best in the country on the cinders, is the first Elizabeth boy to enter the Woodbridge Columbian Club games to be held on Saturday, July 20. Weber will compete in the 1,000 yard handicap and in the 300 yard dash, the latter event being open only to registered athletes in Union, Middlesex and Monmouth counties.

Ezra Wenz, the king of schoolboy two-milers, will probably compete in the event of that distance. Both youngsters are traveling in fine form and should come pretty near winning out.

Weber and Wenz are both well known to Plainfield cinder track followers. The former was captain of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. track team which appeared here on March 30 in a dual run with the local Y. M. C. A. These two little runners ran a wonderful race at that time and were breast to breast from the start until within ten yards of the finish, when the speedy little captain put on one of his famous sprints and crossed the tape a winner by less than a foot, over Wenz.

—Blobbs—"Is it possible to come all the way through from California without change?" Slobbs—"Well, you probably won't have any after the Pullman porter gets through with you."

—Mother—"I really think you'd be happier if you married a man who had less money." Daughter—"Don't worry, mother; he will have less in a very short time."—Boston Transcript.

GAMES OF THE SCOTS HERE ON AUGUST 17

A revival of the old time Scottish games will be held by the Clan MacKenzie, 204, of the Order of Scottish Clans, on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, August 17. Plans are under way for a set of games similar to those held by the Caledonian Club in New York every year. The program will include a number of unique Highland events such as sack racing, quoit pitching, tossing the caber and Scottish dancing in costume. There will also be a number of more common athletic feats contested, such as high jumping, hurdle racing, broad jumping, pole vaulting, the hop, step and jump, hammer throw, three-legged race, shot put and throwing the stanc. The afternoon's program will also include women's and girls' running races besides the runs held especially for the men and boys. The Clan has engaged an extra fine bagpipe band from Newark for the occasion and they will parade through the town in typical Highland dress before the contests, accompanied by visiting clans from all over the State as well as from New York and Philadelphia.

Numerous handsome prizes have been offered for the open races and special awards will be made for the Scottish events. Any local athlete that desires to learn more about the affair can secure the necessary information and entry blanks from Robert Murray, of 326 West Front street, or from Charles R. Bostwick, director of Parker Field.

SWEEP IN POLE VAULTING

Columbia University Youth Not Only Wins Race, but Makes New Olympic Record—Americans Again Show Superiority In Qualifying For Hurdles.

Stockholm, July 12.—Undeterred by unexpected setbacks, the Americans added sixteen points to their score in the Olympic games. Now they lead by five points in the track and field events all the other nations combined.

In the pole vault America scored another sweep, taking all three places. There was great satisfaction expressed over the fact that the first place, with the honor of an Olympic record, went to that sterling athlete Harry S. Babcock of Columbia university. Babcock cleared 12 feet 11⅝ inches and thus made amends for his defeat in the intercollegiate games this spring, when, competing with a crippled knee, he was forced to take second to Gardner of Yale, who was the first man to clear over thirteen feet.

Babcock an All Around Athlete.

Since Maxey Long brought the blue and white into international notice by making the world's record for the quarter mile Babcock is the first Columbia man to so distinguish himself. He is an all around athlete of the first water, and no more popular victory has marked the present Olympic team than that of the Columbia man. With the exception of Gardner, all the best vaulters in the world were represented, including Marc S. Wright of Dartmouth, who made the world's record of 13 feet 2¼ inches at the Boston tryouts. The best Wright could do was to tie with Frank T. Nelson, formerly of Yale, for second place, thus placing all the points to the candidates of America.

America's other points were scored in the 200 meter final and in putting the shot with both hands. In the sprint race Ralph C. Craig of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. carried the American shield to victory for the second time, with Donald Lippincott, the University of Pennsylvania freshman, in second place. In the shot put with both hands Ralph Rose of the Olympic Athletic club of San Francisco turned the tables on Pat McDonald, his conqueror of the day before, but both beat all the other competitors, so that five more points were added to the United States total.

In the only other event decided, the 10,000 meter walk, America was unplaced, the honor going, as expected, to the wonder walker, Goulding of Canada. E. J. Webb of England was second and F. Altimani of Italy third. Goulding made a new Olympic record for the distance of 46 minutes 28 2-5 seconds.

Yankees Win Eight Heats.

In qualifying for the 110 meter hurdle race America again showed superiority. In the preliminary round there were eleven heats, and the Yankees won eight of them. Then came the semifinals, where only the winners qualified for the final heat. One outlander was allowed to remain in the competition with the glorious band of Americans. He was K. Powell of England, who defeated John J. Eller, Jr., of the Irish-American Athletic club in the first of the semifinal heats. The other five heats were won by Americans in the following order:

Martin W. Hawkins, Multonomah Athletic club, Portland, Ore.; John P. Nicholson, University of Missouri; James Wendell, New York Athletic club; Fred W. Kelley, Seattle Athletic association, and John R. Case, University of Illinois.

—Wigg—"Adam must have been primitive indeed to allow an apple to influence his downfall." Wagg—"Oh, I don't know. Many a modern man can trace his downfall to a peach."

—"Why nag your husband so about the rugs? He has consented to beat them; so why keep nagging him?" "Oh, if he's thoroughly irritated he'll make a much better job of it."—Washington Herald.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

America is still showing the way to the other contenders at Stockholm and our representatives are looked upon as almost sure winners of the championship this year.

Umpire Langdon's berth as a Bound Brook arbitrator is not at present a bed of eiderdown. His decision on the Oval last week did not please some of the fanniest of the visitor's fandom. We are compelled to admit that the play was a close one but then Plainfield would have just as much ground for a kick if he had called it safe.

Last Saturday's fray is still echoing around the town but we will have to wiat until the third game of the series is pulled off before we can determine who had the best grounds for a kick.

Praise from a rival is praise worth while. Charlie Newhouse, of the Bound Brook team, in referring to the unfortunate occurrence on the Oval last Saturday, says that Manager Dorflinger, of the local nine, is a good, clean sportsman and was in no way responsible for the outcome.

The high cost of kicking is shown in Bound Brook's forfeit. If they had stayed on the field and played to a finish, they had an excellent opportunity to clean up on the local bunch and carry away the three-game championship series. As it now stands another contest will have to be played to decide the supremacy.

Plainfield seems to be at last waking up in regard to the use of Parker Field as a place for public meets. Clan McKenzie, of the Order of Scottish Clans, is the latest to put it into practical use. Robert Murray, the clan hustler, will stage one of the biggest Scotch athletics affairs ever held in this section on the playground on August 17. The events will all be of a Scotch nature but any one can enter them and they will not be the kind that cannot be mastered with a little effort. Get in line you Plainfield athletes. Murray says he wants to keep the handsome prizes in this city and the only way to keep them from getting away is to win them.

The Manufacturers' Baseball League is now on the home stretch and the first place is still a matter of doubt. That's going some for an organization of this kind on the field for its initial year.

We are now looking forward to a post-season series between the pennant winners in the Sunday-school and Manufacturers' Leagues.

The current question in baseball circles tonight is: "Will Frederickson succeed in taming the Westfield aggregation at Recreation Park tomorrow afternoon?" The Westfield bunch have lost but one game and Freddy will have his work cut out for him tomorrow. The local southpaw is at his best however and says he will bring home the bacon.

Park Avenue has filed a protest over the outcome of their game with the South Plainfield nine at the latter place last Saturday. The losers claim that all their opponents did not attend Sunday-school the required number of times to be eligible to play in the Sunday-school League. When one of the players was asked how he found this out he said he could tell it by their actions on the ball field last week.

A new one in baseball and turned out by the big league, too. Here it is: Clarke, of the Pittsburg team, says Fred Luderus, in Tuesday's game carried in his hip pocket a tube of very powerful linament, with which he covered the ball twice. This was done to keep Marty O'Toole's spitter from working but was detected by Umpire Eason, who threw the balls out.

Ralph Craig, the American sprinter, again led the way to another first place in the Olympics yesterday. After winning first place in the 100 meter run, he now comes in first in the 200 meter.

ROYAL GIANTS TO PLAY DUNELLEN TOMORROW

The Royal Colored Giants baseball team will journey to Dunellen tomorrow afternoon and try conclusions with the balltossers of that place. The game bids fair to be one of the most closely contested played in Dunellen this season and a large delegation of rooters from this city are expected to accompany the colored ball players, both to get a line on the nine of that town which plays the Plainfield Baseball team on the oval next Saturday and to see a good ball game, as the local nine play at Westfield tomorrow and the Dunellen contest is somewhat nearer than the Recreation Park game.

When seen this morning Manager Peter Simmons, of the colored team, was full of confidence and said: "The fact that Dunellen has defated Bound Brook by a score of 6 to 1, and Westfield by a 8 to 6 count, does not phase our men in the slightest. In fact it makes them more anxious to win."

Manager Bogardus is equally as certain of a victory and while he is not making any perdictions in regard to the final score he says that his team will pull off a win although they will have to play great ball in order to down their dusky opponents. He says that the game tomorrow will without a doubt be the best one played in that town this season as the two contestants are pretty evenly matched and he is looking for the colored leader to spring some crack players on him Saturday afternoon. Manager Simmons is keeping his lineup a secret just at present, but says it will be the strongest he has placed on the field this year, and that is going some.

Old "War Horse" McLaughlin will be on the mound for the home team with Lou Dixon, the Plainfield backstop at the receiving end.

POSITION CHANGE IN S. S. LEAGUE

General Shakeup in Standing When Tomorrow's Games Are Ended.

With the six Sunday-school Baseball League contestants playing in mid-season form and the organization running smoothly, the teams will open another round of the season's schedule tomorrow afternoon. As last Saturday's games failed to bring about any material change in the league standing something is due to happen in tomorrow's contests and a general shakeup is looked for.

If Park Avenue's protest in regard to the game played with South Plainfield is allowed at the Sunday-school League meeting tonight, there will probably be a big change in the league standing before the teams take the field tomorrow afternoon.

If this is the case, Hope Chapel will have to put one over on the Park Avenue nine in their game, in order to hold on to the top rung. Temple Baptist does not seem to have a whole lot of chance of breaking into the won column this week, as she stacks up against the fast going Monroe Avenue bunch, who are hot on the trail for first place. The First Baptist team are likely to find a much patched up nine when they invade the South Plainfield territory as several of the village ball players are charged with playing truant from Sunday-school and are therefore not eligible to compete.

WESTFIELD WILL SEE LOCALS NEXT

Dorflinger's Ball Tossers Will Try Their Luck Away From Home.

For the first time since their game with Bound Brook at the latter place, the Plainfield baseball nine will tomorrow journey away from Crescent Oval and endeavor to add another scalp to their already long list by taking the Westfield baseball team into camp. The game will be played at Recreation Park and will open a series of three games between these two old rivals. Next to the annual trio of battles with Scotch Plains this is always the most important series of the year for the local ball tossers and a large delegation of Plainfield fans are expected to accompany the local team to Westfield.

Plainfield will stack up against a team that has lost but one game tomorrow, and the Westfield nine will make the visitors go the limit in order to get out of the town with a win. Manager Dorflinger will have his regular lineup in the field with Frederickson in the box.

WESTFIELD'S AGGREGATION FOR TOMORROW'S GAME

When the Plainfield Baseball team takes the field at Recreation Park in Westfield tomorrow afternoon it will be opposed by a team of ballplayers that has dropped but one contest of nine played. The manager of the home nine announced his lineup this morning.

Jack Kurfuss, who played with Summit last year will look after the keystone sack, Evans, the former New York University player, will play short, Wallon, who played in the Sussex County League last season will look after the initial sack, Callin, formerly of Stone Hall College baseball fame, and last year with the Waterbury team, of the Connecticut League, will receive either Scotty Walters or Al Phinn, who are carded to twirl for the nine; Macauliff, Cull and Lang will look after the garden. Macauliff is a left fielder and is under contract with the Lawrence, New England League team. Cull and Lang are both from the Newark Ironsides and are well known in this section.

Plainfield will have its regular lineup on the field which is in another column of this paper.

LEAGUE CONTESTS FOR TOMORROW

Any One of the Six Teams Has a Chance for the Daily Press Trophy.

With the season's schedule now two-thirds finished the Manufacturer's League race is beginning to tighten up and the outcome of first place is within reach of any of the six contestants. The R. G. E. have but a one-half game advantage over the Commercials for first place, while the latter nine has only this much lead over the Public Service players for second. The Banks, Spicer and Saurer aggregations are all closely bunched and none is out of the race for the Daily Press cup.

The R. G. E. will have little trouble holding on to its top rung position unless the Saurer people spring a big surprise tomorrow. The Banks and Commercial contest promises to be the best of the trio of games staged tomorrow in this league and may mean a decided change in the team standing. The Spicer nine is traveling along at a fast clip just at present and may take a fall out of the Public Service lads and scatter the second place argument.

STROUDSBURG TEAM'S GAME WITH SCOTCH PLAINS

The Sunday attraction at Scotch Plains this week will be taken care of by the well known Stroudsburg, Pa., nine. This team is a traveling aggregation and Manager Joe Alberts has been lucky in signing it up for this week as it is in great demand all over this section and several of the managers of nearby semi-professional nines have advertised their coming in order to draw large crowds to their respective ball parks.

This is not the case with Alberts, however, and he says that the semi-professional team managers who have the name Stroudsburg attached to their advertisements for a Sunday game this week are giving the name of this well known nine to a combination of inferior ball tossers. Manager Alberts says that the team Dave Driscoll has heralded in several Metropolitan papers under the name of Stroudsburg are a set of nine players picked up in Newark and are not the genuine article. Scotch Plains will have McLaughlin in the box with "Nibs" Hand behind the bat.

LORIMER, IN RAGE, ATTACKS HIS FOES

Says T. R. Sought Nomination by Corrupt Methods.

AFFIDAVITS ARE OFFERED

Declares They Are Introduced "Merely to Show Hypocrisy That Is Running Rampant Through This Country." President Taft and Newspaper Proprietors Also Flayed.

Washington, July 12.—Senator William Lorimer made a last desperate stand before his colleagues. Facing almost certain expulsion, his grit did not fail him. He did not mince words in speaking of his foes.

He attacked President Taft for the attitude he had assumed toward him, flayed the newspaper proprietors who had insisted on the prosecution of his case and finally threw a bomb into the Roosevelt camp by charging that the colonel himself would have obtained the nomination at Chicago if his friends could have got it through corruption.

Mr. Lorimer's attack upon Roosevelt was his answer to the speeches against him that Roosevelt has been making up and down the country, but he added to the effectiveness of his argument by sending to the vice president's desk three new affidavits from southern delegates to the Chicago convention. These delegates charge that the Roosevelt people tried to bribe them to vote for the colonel at Chicago.

"These affidavits," thundered Lorimer, stamping down the center aisle of the senate, "have no bearing on my title to my seat and are introduced by me merely to show the hypocrisy that is running rampant through this country."

Affidavits Cause Sensation.

The production of the new affidavits was the sensation of the Lorimer speech. It was toward the close of a three hour effort that the Illinois senator turned on Colonel Roosevelt. He was almost exhausted. His collar was wilted flat, his hair was wet with perspiration, and his voice was husky. There was hardly a senator in the chamber whose sympathy was not going out to him in his final struggle.

"Mr. Roosevelt," yelled Lorimer, "has declared that my election was corrupt on what H. H. Kohlsaat had told him. He never read a line of this record in his life. Yet he says he wants to get rid of the bosses."

It was at this point that the Illinois senator paused and sent to the desk certain affidavits.

"They prove," shouted Lorimer, "that Colonel Roosevelt would have been nominated for the presidency at Chicago if his friends could have obtained it for him by corruption."

By this time there was a scurrying among the Roosevelt people on the floor of the senate. Senator Joseph M. Dixon, manager of the Roosevelt movement, was not in the senate when the documents were read, but he appeared hurriedly and began to make inquiries as to what had been charged. Before he had an opportunity to reply the senate had voted to take a recess.

Mr. Lorimer will resume his speech today, and the vote will be taken immediately afterward. There seemed to be no doubt that he will be thrown out. If that happens Lorimer will carry his fight to Illinois and seek his vindication at the hands of the people of that state.

BRYAN WARNS GOVERNOR DIX.

Trouble Ahead Comes the Word From Out of Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., July 12.—In a statement released here William J. Bryan warns Governor Dix of trouble ahead. After the Baltimore convention Governor Dix was quoted as saying that "Bryan should be eliminated from the party."

In answer to this Mr. Bryan republishes an editorial from the New York World quoting the governor on the elimination of Bryan and adding that Governor Dix will have his hands full during the next month to prevent his elimination from the office of governor of New York.

ANTARCTIC VESSEL SIGHTED.

Aurora at Dunedin, New Zealand, Reports Australian Party Well.

Victoria, B. C., July 12.—A private cablegram from Dunedin, New Zealand, says that the antarctic exploration steamship Aurora arrived off Dunedin heads from the anarctic.

She reported the Australian exploration expedition all well when she left.

RYAN IS FOR WILSON.

Magnate So Declares Himself as He Sails For Europe.

"WILSON IS SURE"—RYAN.

Traction Man Certain Jersey Governor Will Be Chosen.

New York, July 12.—Thomas F. Ryan was a passenger aboard the Hamburg-American liner Amerika. Mr. Ryan refused to say anything about business, but he was entirely willing to go on record with a prophecy that Governor Wilson will be the next president.

"It's a sure thing for Governor Wilson," he said. "I don't know where I am going about Europe on my trip, or how long I am going to stay, but you may be sure that I'll be back in time to vote for the New Jersey governor."

ARCHBALD REPORT IS APPROVED BY HOUSE

Only One Vote, Representative Farr's, Recorded In Negative.

Washington, July 12.—By a vote of 222 to 1 the house adopted the thirteen articles of impeachment for high crimes and misdemeanors against Judge Robert W. Archbald, formerly district judge of the United States court for the middle district of Pennsylvania and now a judge of the United States commerce court. Representative John Farr, Republican, of Scranton was the only member of the house to vote against the adoption of the articles of impeachment. His was the only speech in defense of Archbald.

After adopting the articles of impeachment the house unanimously adopted a resolution appointing the following representatives as managers on the part of the house to present and press the impeachment in the senate: Clayton of Alabama, Floyd of Arkansas, Webb of North Carolina, Davis of West Virginia, Sterling of Illinois, Howland of Ohio and Norris of Nebraska.

A resolution was also passed directing that the senate be informed that articles of impeachment had been adopted and that the foregoing representatives would conduct the prosecution. Another resolution was adopted authorizing the managers to obtain counsel and incur necessary expenses in handling the case.

The message informing the senate officially of the house's action will be transmitted by the clerk of the house, and the managers will then await the pleasure of the senate.

KNOX GETS NOTE IN PANAMA CANAL ROW

British Embassy Calls Attention to Hay-Pauncefote Treaty.

Washington, July 12.—A note from the British embassy received by Secretary of State Knox puts it squarely up to congress whether American ships shall have free use of the Panama canal in the face of vigorous objection upon the part of Great Britain or whether the United States is to yield the right to favor ships owned by American citizens.

Alfred Mitchell Innes, counselor and charge d'affairs of the British embassy, followed up his request for a delay in pending canal legislation with a definite and positive statement of the objections which his government entertains to the pending bills. He stated that his government was of the opinion that for the United States to allow American ships to pass through the Panama canal without a payment of tolls as assessed on ships of other nations would be a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

The British government, declared Mr Innes' note, would consider that the treaty was violated whether tolls were not collected from American ships or whether they were collected and then refunded. The Innes note recited further that as to discriminations in favor of ships engaged in coastwise trade it would be difficult to frame a provision which would not be regarded as injurious to British interests.

T. R. TO STUMP AGAIN.

He Is Likely to Visit Kansas, Michigan and Iowa.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 12.—Among the important developments at Sagamore Hill, where the third party campaign plans were pushed vigorously ahead, was the fact that Colonel Roosevelt has practically decided to cover personally several of the middle western states before the holding of the primaries at which presidential electors are to be named.

"I have been asked," said the colonel," to go to three particular states to take part in their primary campaigns."

Kansas, he admitted, is one of the states which wants his assistance. It is believed the other two are Michigan and Iowa. Whether he will go depends upon the decision arrived at by his managers in the respective states.

TWO GIRL BATHERS DROWN.

Miriam Fritch and Jessie Wilkie Camp Victims at Coroga Lake.

Gloversville, N. Y., July 12.—Miriam Fritch, aged eighteen, and Jessie May Wilkie, aged sixteen, two American girls, who were camping at West Coroga lake, northwest of Gloversville, were drowned.

They were members of a party of twenty Amsterdam girls who were passing their vacation at the lake. A number of young women were in bathing when Miss Wilkie and Miss Fritch ventured a bit farther than the rest of the party and walked into a hole. When they went down their companions gave the alarm, and several men attempted to effect a rescue, but without success. The bodies were recovered.

MANY DIE IN MONTREAL.

Ninety-five Funerals In One Day, Due to Hot Spell.

Montreal, July 12.—Ninety-five funerals were held here in one day, and the majority of those buried were victims of the hot spell. Eighty of the dead were little children.

The demand for horses was so pressing that many of the bodies had to be taken to the graveyards in cabs, and masses were said over five or six bodies at one time.

A horse attached to a white hearse dropped dead in one of the funeral processions.

GIBBONS FOR HIGH LICENSE.

Cardinal Leads Fight In Maryland County to Curtail Saloons.

Leonardtown, Md., July 12.—The residents of St. Mary's county have entered into a bitter campaign to obtain higher liquor license rates at a special election, which will be held on Aug. 3, when the voters will decide whether the license rate be raised to $200.

The fight for the higher license is led by Cardinal Gibbons and local members of the clergy. The cardinal wrote that he believed the solution of the temperance problem in rural districts lay in high licenses, by means of which the number of saloons would be curtailed and the amount of temptation lessened.

STRIKERS STONE THE DOCKS.

London Battle Lasts an Hour as Many Are Hurt.

London, July 12.—Strike breaking dock workers were again furiously attacked when they left the Surrey docks for lunch. Sympathizers with the striking transport workers' union greeted them with showers of stones.

Several men were seriously hurt. The attacking party did not give ground when rushed by the police.

The riot raged during the entire noon hour. On both sides there were many casualties.

Weather Forecast.

Showers today in southern, fair in northern portion; tomorrow fair; warmer in the interior; light to moderate variable winds.

BARBARY PIRATES

These Fiends Terrorized the Sea For Five Centuries.

DEFIED THE ENTIRE WORLD.

They Held at One Time Forty Thousand Captives as Slaves, Among Whom Was Cervantes—The Cannon's Mouth For a French Envoy.

Those pests of the sea, the Barbary pirates, who defied the civilized world for 500 years, had at one time 40,000 Christian slaves in bondage in Algeria. The methods by which they were obtained and how treated are described by Sir Henry Norman in Scribner's Magazine:

"Ships were seized in all European waters, even off the coast of Ireland, and their crews taken into slavery. So were the crews of vessels which came to trade. When any state attempted punishment the consul of that country was sent to the galleys, and Sir Lambert Playfair, British consul general and erudite author of Murray's 'Handbook,' tells us that in one instance on the approach of a French fleet their representative was blown toward them from a mortar. Cervantes himself was a slave there in 1555.

"In the seventeenth century the Algerine pirates held prizes worth 20,000,000 francs. Again and again the Christian powers of that and the next century failed to inflict a lasting defeat upon this 'scourge of Christendom.' The British parliament passed an act to 'undertake the Christian work of the redemption of the captives from the cruel thralldom they lay under,' but its intention exceeded its power, for not long afterward 350 English ships were captured and 6,000 English slaves brought into Algiers in the space of seven years, and when after five years' war between England and the pirate state a peace was signed the dey refused to surrender a single English slave, and the treaty had a clause to the effect that 'the king of Great Britain shall not be obliged by virtue of this treaty to redeem any of his subjects now in slavery,' probably the most degrading treaty, as Sir Lambert Playfair remarks, ever signed between England and a foreign power.

"At one time 40,000 Christian slaves were in bondage in Algeria, of all the nations of Europe, many of them men of rank, learning and piety and all of them suffering daily the most cruel hardships, starvation and torture. One would have expected the Christian nations to join forces for one object at least and wipe this puny pirate state off the earth, yet for 500 years Barbary held them at bay.

"Just as the old sailors' chantry about 'the coast of the wild Barbaree' took its origin in the terrors of that coast, so the religious order of the Fathers of the Redemption was originally founded to collect alms for the ransom of the Algerian slaves, and many of its members, with perhaps the noblest Christian charity on record, voluntarily shared the lot of the captives for the comfort they could give and the services they could render in negotiations of ransom.

"One ghost of all these unhappy thousands takes literally concrete shape. An Arab Christian named Geronimo, taken as a baby by Spanish soldiers and educated by the vicar general, was captured by the pirates during a raid. As a renegade he was, of course, the subject of the utmost persecution, and when no inducement or suffering could make him apostatize he was at length offered by the dey the choice of being thrown alive into a mold of concrete which formed part of the foundation of a new bastion or of embracing Islam. He chose the martyrdom and was flung into the mold with his hands tied behind him and the concrete poured over him. This was in 1569.

"In 1612 a Spanish Benedictine father wrote a history of Algiers in the course of which he narrated at length the martyrdom of Geronimo and described particularly the situation of the bastion in which his body lay. In 1847 a translation of this passage was published in an Algerian newspaper, and in 1853, when the old fortress was destroyed, search was made. Exactly as had been described the skeleton was discovered, and on plaster of paris being poured into the impression in the cement the figure of the martyr emerged, the hands tied behind it, much as he had been three centuries before. This plaster cast is today in the Bibliotheque musee."

The Pole Star.

Some curious results follow from the precession of the equinoxes. The pole star varies from age to age, for the pole of the equator in its revolution round the pole of the ecliptic must pass different stars in succession. Wherever it points the star nearest is the pole star. When the first catalogue of stars was made the present pole star was twelve degrees from the pole. Gamma Draconis was the pole star 3,000 years ago. The brilliant Vega will be the pole star 12,000 years hence.—Harper's.

Blaming the Doctor.

"My doctor says I ought to ride a horse," said the indolent man.

"What for?"

"I don't know. Maybe he's tired of treating me for dyspepsia and wants a broken collar bone for a change."—Washington Star.

If thou hast a loitering servant send him of thy errand just before his dinner.—Fuller.

Tells Senate How Much It Costs to Elect President.

It cost the Republican national committee about $1,900,000 to finance the Roosevelt campaign in 1904. This total was disclosed officially for the first time when George B. Cortelyou, who was chairman of the national committee during the Parker-Roosevelt campaign of 1904, appeared as a witness before the senate committee that is investigating campaign contributions.

STATE'S POLITICS BADLY INVOLVED

Third Party Movement and Wilson Nomination Cause Many Complications.

SEVERAL HUGE PLUMS

Governorship and U. S. Senatorship Are at Stake—Numerous Candidates For Numerous Berths—How the Lines Are Drawn.

With so much hanging in the balance in State and national affairs few New Jersey politicians are planning to take vacations this summer. The Presidential fight naturally occupies first place in the minds of the people as a whole, but with a Governorship and a United States Senatorship at stake, the political heads find the subject of the election of the members of the State Legislature almost as interesting as the Presidency.

Had the Roosevelt supporters in New Jersey decided to remain in the party and try to nominate Roosevelt electors instead of Taft electors the legislative contest would have taken on even greater interest, for the selection of electors is one of the duties of the candidates for the Legislature when they hold their annual convention. But with the Roosevelt men out of the Republican party, the Taft forces are expected to name their electors without opposition at the annual State convention.

The State convention this year will consist, just as last year, of the holdover Senators, and candidates for the Senate and the Assembly. The Democratic convention in addition will have the Governor as one of its members. But members of the Republican and Democratic State committees are still ineligible to membership in the State convention.

The Geran law provides that members of the State committee shall be elected at the primaries at which candidates for Governor are nominated and that after having been so elected the committeemen shall be eligible to sit in the State conventions. But another year will have to roll around before the first committeemen will be elected under this act.

The split in the Republican party will detract much from the interest which usually attaches to the Republican primaries. The Progressives will, if their present plans hold good, take no part whatever in the primary fight, but will name all their candidates by petition in time to have their names appear on the general election ballots.

The Progressives have little hope of controlling the Legislature. The Senate is particularly hopeless for them. Only six Senators retire this year. Three of them are Republicans: Hand, of Cape May; Lewis, of Burlington, and Prince, of Passaic. Three are Democratic: Price, of Sussex; Gebhardt, of Hunterdon, and Silzer, of Middlesex.

If the Democrats succeed in electing Senators in Sussex, Hunterdon and Middlesex they will need but one vote more to capture the Senate. The Republicans are almost ready to concede that Burlington will go Democratic, and Cape May is also on the doubtful list. To add to the misery of the Republicans, their party is split in twain and the prospect of keeping control of the Senate is decidedly unfavorable just now.

With the control of the Senate goes the choice of the next Governor—in case Governor Wilson is elected President. On this account the fight in the six counties where Senators are to be elected will be particularly strenuous.

Senator Walter E. Edge, of Atlantic City, is regarded as the man whom the Republicans will put forward as their candidate for the Senate in case the Senate is controlled by them. Edge was majority leader last year. Just before final adjournment was taken, a resolution was unanimously adopted electing him to be acting President of the Senate in the absence of the President. At the time this unusual action was taken to mean that Edge was regarded as next in line for the place of President of the Senate.

If Wilson is successful in the Presidential fight and if, at the same time, the Republicans carry the Senate, the election of a State President would be tantamount to the selection of a Governor to fill Governor Wilson's unexpired term. The honor is one for which Senator Edge has been striving ever since the possibility of electing Wilson President loomed up on the horizon. After a strenuous fight last winter he succeeded in landing the place of majority leader by defeating Senator Harry D. Leavitt, of Mercer. The Mercer man will probably acquiesce to having Edge get the Presidency this year, if at the same time he himself is made majority leader.

On the Democratic side, Senator James F. Fielder, of Hudson county,

AGED BOROUGH MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Christian Debele Expired of Apoplexy at His Apartment During the Night.

Christian Debele, for many years a trustee of St. Peter's Lutheran church, was found dead in his bed in the Debele and Stahl's place at 113 Somerset street, yesterday. On examination it was found that he had been dead several hours and that his sudden end was caused by apoplexy. Mr. Debele was eighty-four years old, and had been a resident of Plainfield for three years. He had a habit of sleeping in the barn.

When he did not come to the breakfast table yesterday morning the family thought he had gone to the farm and therefore did not worry over his absence. It was not till later in the day that a neighbor said she saw Mr. Debele laying on his bed in his apartment and that he did not move for some time. He had died sometime during the night.

Surviving Mr. Debele are a daughter, Miss Caroline J. Debele, of Philadelphia, and two sons, Charles F. Debele, of Pine Grove farm on Rock avenue, and William G. Debele, of Somerset street. The funeral services will be held at St. Peter's Lutheran church, Grove street and Mercer avenue, tomorrow morning at 10:30. Rev. Conrad Blanche, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be made at Cedar Hill cemetery in Philadelphia.

DISTURBED THE PEACE OF STAID NEW MARKET

Claude Penrose, of New Market, was given a hearing before Jusice vonMinden, of that place, last night, on a charge of violating the "peace and good order" ordinance of the village in assaulting Oscar Kratzel, also of that place, on July 2. S. S. Swackhamer represented the complainant, and after hearing the testimony, Justice vonMinden found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $10.

Both the complainant and defendant are young men and the case aroused considerable interest. The hearing attracted a large crowd of people, all of whom were unable to get in the town hall, where it was held. According to the testimony the trouble between the young men started on the night of July 1, when it was said Kratzel directed the remark of "runner" to Penrose as he passed him on the street.

The next day, Penrose met Kratzel and gave him a beating, causing his nose to bleed.

The Home is in want of baby carriages, several babies being ill and they need this means of getting the air. Such gifts would be a great blessing to the babies and Miss Curry, the matron, if friends lend their aid in this direction. The Home is always open to the public and visitors are welcome. Services are held every evening with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday which are devoted to entertainments which are provided for the children. To these and all services, all are invited.

FALL FROM TREE MAY BE FATAL

Little Dan Sullivan Dropped From Tree and Fence Picket Pierced Lung.

LITTLE HOPE FOR HIM

Eight Year Old Boy In Critical Condition—Son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, of Monroe Avenue—Removed to Parents' Home.

Daniel Sullivan, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, Sr., of 225 Monroe avenue, was probably fatally injured this morning when he fell out of a cherry tree at the home of Mrs. William Tanner at 1041 South Second street.

The little fellow in company with some other boys were climbing the tree to get some cherries, when young Sullivan missed his footing and fell a distance of about fifteen feet. He landed on a picket fence and one of the prongs entered the breast puncturing the lung. Thoroughly frightened the victim's playmates ran to Mrs. Tanner's home and told her what had happened. She telehponed for Dr. Albert Pittis. The little fellow was unconscious when the physician arrived. He made an examination and finding that the lung was injured gave out little hope for recover.

Later in the morning the victim was removed to the home of his parents.

PARENTS SEARCH FOR MISSING CHILD HERE

Believing that their sixteen-year-old daughter had come here from the home in New York where she had been living, a Polish couple who live on Long Island, appeared here yesterday afternoon in search of the girl. The parents could talk but few words in English and it was impossible to learn their names.

After much difficulty, it was found that the girl had been working for a Dr. Miles in New York since she was eleven years old, but recently the parents had heard that she was not getting along very well. As they were planning to return to their home in Poland they decided to take her with them but when they called at the home of Dr. Miles the girl was not there.

Through some friends the parents were led to believe that their daughter was at the home of William Miles on Somerset street and they came here yesterday afternoon to locate her. In company with Chief Marshal George Weiss they went to the Miles home, but found no one there. The couple was then directed to the law offices of S. S. Swackhamer, who after hearing the story advised them to get out a habeas corpus in the United States Courts, asserting that by doing so they would be able to get possession of the child.

LET DOG RUN LOOSE.

In the city court this morning, George Golison, of West Third street, was arraigned on a charge of allowing a vicious dog to run about the neighboring street. George Fisher, Sr., appeared against Golison and claimed that the canine had for a long time been a general menace to the people in that section. Through an interpreter Judge DeMeza warned Golison to keep his dog tied up in the future and upon this promise he was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

A check for $25 to be credited to In His Name Circle, of the King's Daughters, and to be devoted to the Baby Camp conducted by the City Union of the King's Daughters was received this morning by the Daily Press. The contributor does not desire his name known.

AUTO SPEEDERS WANTED.

A. B. Walsh, of Short Hills, and J. M. Bensch, of Newark, failed to appear before Justice Gano in the borough court this morning, to answer a charge of automobile speeding on June 29 and 30. Chief Weiss will take steps to insure their appearance next week.

FELL FROM BUILDING; IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Lather at Work On Library Structure Probably Internally Hurt by Drop.

John Cunningham, aged 48 years, of 2257 Third avenue, New York, who has been employed as a lather on the construction work of the new Public Library building on College place, was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital this morning suffering from general lacerations and bruises of the body and possible internal injuries, the result of a fall from the structure.

Cunningham was standing on a box while engaged in his work of lathing when the box upset causing him to fall a dissance of about fifteen feet. He landed in a pile of debris and lay there in a helpless condition. Fellow-workmen rushed to the man's assistance and as quickly as possible he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital in the ambulance.

An examination disclosed the general lacerations and bruises, and this afternoon an X-ray examination will be made to ascertain whether any bones are broken or there are other internal injuries.

Cunningham is married and has been employed on the library building work for several weeks.

STATE PROGRESSIVES DEFER ADOPTING TITLE

Await National Convention's Decree—Plans for New Jersey Convention, July 23.

At a meeting of the Progressive Republican League of New Jersey in Newark last night, a resolution was passed providing that the organization change its name to whatever name be adopted at the Roosevelt Third Party convention in Chicago on Aug. 5. Edmund B. Osborn, of Montclair, presided, and the question up for settlement was whether the organization should go over to the Third Party.

Former State Senator Everett Colby precipitated action by introducing a resolution providing for the elimination of the word "Republican" from the title of the organization, and that its members cease their affiliation with the Republican Party. This was withdrawn and a substitute offered providing that the change of name be deferred until after the National Committee of the Progressives authorized the change.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Roosevelt League of New Jersey was held in the Newark offices of former Gov. Fort in the afternoon, and July 23 was decided upon as the date of the mass convention to be held in the New Auditorium in Asbury Park to elect delegates at large from New Jersey to the Chicago convention. Mr. Fort will preside at the convention.

Special trains for those who desire to attend will be run on that day from Camden and from Jersey City, making all stops to Asbury Park.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Red Bank, July 13.—The schoolhouse at Tinton Falls was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday when it was struck by lightning. The Eatontown and Westside fire companies found the fire had gained such headway that efforts to extinguish the blaze were fruitless. The schoolhouse was a two-story structure. The Tinton Fall church, which adjoins the school, was saved by the firemen. The damage amounted to about $5,000.

A FAREWELL SERVICE FOR CAPT. AND MRS. HEWITT

They will be succeeded by Adjutant and Mrs. H. Wall, now of Elizabeth, and their welcome meeting will be held on Wednesday evening.

SOME FRESH AIR CAMPS CONDUCTED IN UNION CO.

Union county possesses many desirable spots for children's homes, fresh air camps and outing places. The possibilities it affords the youngsters for healthful recreation under the guidance of men and women who give their time and care to such work are invaluable.

Away from the bustle and turmoil of the hot city streets, the little ones are privileged to enjoy the diversions and pastimes afforded them in the wide and open country. The sickly children who are taken there to regain their health find refreshed strength and renewed childhood vigor. The mothers, too, who find it difficult to take a vacation because of lack of means or their desire not to be separated from their children, find in these fresh air camps a place to rest and refresh themselves from the toil and anxieties surrounding their lives in the crowded cities.

At Summit there is established a fresh air home where some Elizabeth mothers and children are sent by the Charity Organization Society. At Mountainside, near Plainfield, there is a children's country home where crippled children are taken care of.

Boys between the ages of 11 and 16 from different parts of Union county are taken to Scotch Plains at the top of the Watchung Mountains, under the auspices of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union. This is an especially popular place for the boys.

Another fresh air camp is situated near Plainfield and the Watchung Mountains and is conducted by the King's Daughters of Plainfield.

Probably the fresh air camp best known is at Netherwood. Children and mothers from the crowded tenements of New York City are sent there. The camp is a large one and is the oldest of its kind in Union county, this year being its fifteenth season. Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Little Missionary's Day Nursery, of New York city, is in charge.

BETHEL CHAPEL BOYS LEFT FOR CAMP TODAY

The first section of Bethel Chapel boys to spend their vacation at the church camp on Staten Island left this morning on the 9:15 train in charge of Charles E. Van Horn. They will enjoy the tent life for the coming two weeks and everything possible has been arranged for their comfort by Mr. Van Horn and his assistant, Albert Shipley, Sr. Those who left Plainfield this morning were: Ivan Shipley, William Jeter, Jr., Jessie Smith, Edward Harvey, Russel Johnson, Albert Kates, John Kates, Foster Kline, Larence Somerset and Albert Shipley and family, who will remain near the camping site at the home of friends.

Mr. Shipley will return home next Friday and bring the second section of campers to the island. This group will consist of Jackson Smith, Earl Williams, Calvan Tildon, Albert Limbert, Clifford Tildon, Harry Somerset, Daniel Dillon and Martin Johnson. Mr. Van Horn will leave Sunday for Asbury Park where he will spend the rest of his vacation. The campers, made up largely of choir boys, will give a concert at the church on Staten Island for the benefit of the camp fund.

MUST SUPPORT CHILDREN.

William Rayne, of West Third street, was brought before Judge DeMeza in police court this morning, charged by his mother-in-law with non-support of his three children. Rayne's wife has left him and is living in New York and his three children are being taken care of by the mother-in-law. The court sentenced the accused to pay $2 a week to Overseer-of-the-Poor DeForest to aid in the support of the children, and upon this condition he was allowed to go.

EMPLOYE KILLED IN A LOCAL SHOP

W. H. P. Miner Met Death at Manganese Plant, Where Wheel Burst.

ONE OF THE FOREMEN

Machinist Came Here From Providence Twelve Years Ago—Wife, Son and Daughter Survive Him—Was 49 Years Old.

W. H. P. Miner aged forty-nine years, of 41 Mariners place, a foreman at the Manganese Steel Safe Works, died this morning in the ambulance while being removed from the works to Muhlenberg Hospital to be treated for injuries received only a short time before. Mr. Miner had been engaged in grinding a piece of metal on a large emery wheel, when the wheel split in two and one half of it struck him in the breast with such terrific force as to knock him down.

Fellow-workmen who had heard the noise when the emery wheel broke, rushed to Mr. Miner's assistance. They found him unconscious. Efforts were made at once to get a physician, but considerable time elapsed before one could be found. Finally, one was secured at the hospital and he arrived in time to give the injured man "first aid" before being placed in the ambulance to be taken to the hospital. The ambulance had gone but a short distance when the victim passed away without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Miner was born at Providence, R. I., and during the twelve years he has resided here has been employed practically the entire time as a foreman for the Manganese Steel Safe Works. He was an expert machinist and a valued employe of the local works.

Nathan Bender, of 668 West Fourth street, stumbled and fell over some trolley rails in the street in front of his home this morning inflicting a deep gash in the head. He was assisted to his home and Dr. Albert Pittis was summoned. It required several stitches to close the wound.

UTILITY BOARD'S BAN ON BIG 'PHONE BOND ISSUE

Trenton, July 13.—The Board of Public Utility Commissioners has refused permission to the Interstate Telephone and Telegraph Company to issue $1,525,000 worth of five per cent. thirty-year first and refunding mortgage gold bonds.

In making this decision the board handed down a memorandum in which it held there was no reasonable warrant for the expectation that the company from its earnings can pay the annual interest which the new issue of bond would require.

In commenting upon this the board said:

"If the sole effect of the issue were to squeeze the water out of the company's securities, the purpose would be laudable. But this proposed issue, aside from other defects, would create new securities in which too much water still persists to render probable the payment of interests thereon."

Dr. O. B. Whitford, who was operated upon at the hospital for appendicitis, is almost well and will return home soon.

MISSES GRAB AT PLATFORM

Two Cars Pass Over His Legs and His Right Hand Is Severed—Train Brought to Sudden Stop Before Other Cars Reach Prostrate Form.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 13.—The Rev. Dr. S. Ross McClements, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, went to James De Forest's gymnasium in West Allenhurst for his usual exercise. When he departed from the gymnasium he saw a train for Asbury Park standing in the station and ran to catch it.

Two cars had gone by when Dr. McClements reached out for the platform rail and attempted to swing himself aboard the third car of the train. His feet slipped, and he fell to the ground. His body rolled under the wheels, and two cars passed over his legs and severed his right hand at the wrist. Timothy McQuimby, chauffeur for F. D. Stoutenberg, who stood at the south end of the station platform and saw Dr. McClements fall, called to the engineer to put on the brakes. The train was stopped in time to save Dr. McClements from further injury.

Say He Cannot Live.

De Forest was one of the first to reach the injured pastor. He helped lift him to a northbound freight train and accompanied him to the Long Branch hospital. The minister regained consciousness while on the way and requested Dr. H. W. Bennett of Allenhurst, who also accompanied him, to the hospital, to destroy his library and sermons if he died. Hospital physicians said the pastor could not live.

Dr. McClements is forty-five years old and came to the Presbyterian church here from Rutherford two years ago. He is an Irishman, and his parents live in the north of Ireland. He is a graduate of Dublin university and Princeton seminary. His wife died some years ago.

3 HURT AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Occupants Pinned Under Big Machine at Egg Harbor.

Egg Harbor, N. J., July 13.—Two women and a man were injured here when a large six cylinder touring car skidded on a sharp curve, turned over and pinned the occupants between the machine and a large pile of railroad ties. The accident occurred on the Mays Landing boulevard, and those in the party were homeward bound for Clarksburg, W. Va., after a week's stay at the seashore.

Mrs. W. J. Reed was hurried to a Philadelphia hospital, where it is said she is seriously injured. Mrs. Clara Finley received an ugly cut across the temple and A. J. Fordyce escaped with a lacerated ear.

GEORGE ARNOLD IS DEAD.

Wealthy Worsted Manufacturer Passes Away In Munich, Germany.

Passaic, N. J., July 13.—George Arnold, owner of the Botany Worsted mills, of this city, died in Munich, Germany, according to a cablegram received by his widow at the family home here.

Mr. Arnold had been in ill health for some time and was traveling through Germany in an effort to recover. He was accompanied by his son. The body will be buried in Munich. Mrs. Arnold has suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of her husband's death.

WIFE SLAYER DIES.

Trenton Man Passes Away In Insane Asylum.

Trenton, N. J., July 13.—Joseph Ponessa, Jr., of this city, who shot and killed his young wife at Long Branch on June 25, and then shot himself, died in the New Jersey State Hospital For the Insane.

Death was due to a brain abscess caused by the bullet. Relatives here declared the tragedy was the result of Ponessa's idea that his wife intended to remarry as soon as he died.

HAS NEW AUTO FIRE ENGINE.

Apparatus on the Job to Save Church at Red Bank.

Red Bank, N. J., July 13.—Lightning struck the public school building at Tinton Falls. The schoolhouse was destroyed, but the Methodist church adjoining was saved by the West Side fire company, which went to the fire in its new auto fire engine.

The Eatontown chemical hook and ladder company also did efficient work.

Insulted His Legs.

Apropos of knee breeches a correspondent of the London Express quotes an anecdote from Captain Gronow's "Recollections" which puts the whole case in a nutshell. The bailie de ferrette was always dressed in knee breeches with a cocked hat and a court sword, the slender proportions of which greatly resembled those of his legs. "Do tell me, my dear bailie," said Montrond one day, "have you got three legs or three swords?" Soon after which, we should imagine, the bailie went home.

LORIMER BITTER IN FINAL EFFORT

Vocal Batteries Are Trained on Taft and Kern.

MOVES TILLMAN TO TEARS

Several Other Senators Are Plainly Affected by Statements of Accused Colleague That He Is Victim of Persecution—Vote Expected Today.

Washington, July 13.—William Lorimer continued his remarkable defense of his title to a seat in the senate in a five hour speech. He thundered up and down the center aisle of the senate chamber, denouncing his enemies, challenging others and all the time giving an example of self possession and courage which commanded respect, however the merits of the case were viewed. His effort was more dramatic even than his speech the day before.

Lorimer ended the day again exhausted from his effort, and a recess was taken until today to allow him to conclude. Then the vote will be had.

The senator began a denunciation of President Taft and closed with a savage attack on Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, who wrote the minority report declaring that Lorimer's title to his seat was obtained through corrupt methods and practices.

The senator declared that President Taft had planned an attack on him in the dark. He quoted President Taft's letter to Colonel Roosevelt and called attention to the fact that on the date when the letter was written and the president expressed the hope that the fight against Lorimer might be won he could not have read the record of testimony taken in the case, for the printed copies were not delivered to the senate dock room until the day after the letter was written.

Lorimer In Wild Rage.

Quoting from the president's letter to Colonel Roosevelt the words "I want to win so do you," the Illinois senator stormed up the senate aisle, repeating them again and again and finally fairly hissing: "Win, win! What? Win a contest? If so what kind of a contest? Was it in the open, with a free field, a fair fight and no favor? Did the president hand to Lorimer a sword and a shield, with a warning that Lorimer should defend himself? No, no!" he shouted. "They were to sneak behind him like a thief in the dark of the night and strike him on the back of the head with a club and dash out his brains."

Senator Lorimer added that President Taft had fallen among the conspirators. Among these conspirators he named William J. Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt and certain Chicago newspaper publishers, who, he said, were the most corrupt set of newspaper publishers in the country, capable of conspiring to commit any act to aid in the destruction of the man they had set out to destroy, "even to the extent of taking life."

He referred to Herman H. Kohlsaat, a Chicago publisher, as a "holier-than-thou pharisee" and said that the sole purpose in reopening his case was not because they expected to produce any new evidence, but because the personnel of the senate had changed and the case would be tried by new judges. Senator Lorimer charged that Governor Deneen, in replying to telegrams that had been sent to him by senators, had deliberately tried to mislead the senate and had "acted a lie."

"I learned at my mother's knee that it was just as bad to act a lie as it was to tell a lie, and Governor Deneen acted a lie!" shouted the senator.

Savage Attack on Kern.

Toward the close of his speech Senator Lorimer turned savagely in the direction of the seat usually occupied by Senator Kern and denounced that senator for a "willful and deliberate attempt to misrepresent the record in the Lorimer case in statements made in the minority report."

Senator Kern was absent from the chamber, but was sent for and came in toward the close of Senator Lorimer's speech. He appeared very much disturbed and it is expected will reply.

Declaring that Kern had said that he (Lorimer) had been "guilty of political wrongdoing" and that he had sought to convey the impression that the accused senator had been guilty of "subornation of perjury," Lorimer challenged the senator from Indiana to prove his charges, saying that if he did so he (Lorimer) would retire at once.

"Come on, Senator Kern!" yelled Lorimer in concluding his attack upon Kern, "you who have slimed this record. Come here and make good, and I will keep my word."

One startling feature of Senator Lorimer's speech was a notice that he served on his colleagues that the case would not be ended if the senate voted to oust him.

"While I live and am given the strength, regardless of the action of the senate, the fight will go on," yelled Lorimer, "and on and on until all the people of the world will come to know of this case as the five senators who sat and heard every line of the testimony have reported it."

Several of the senators by this time were deeply affected by Lorimer's speech, and Senator Tillman had been weeping.

—Faint praise ne'er won fair lady.

—Sillicus—"Oh, all women are the same." Cynicus—"Nonsense! Even one woman isn't the same for any length of time."

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JULY 13, 1912.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. Herbert E. Parker, General Secretary of the Plainfield Young Men's Christian Association, is the contributing editor for today.

THE SCOURGE OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.

We know a young man in this city who was robbed of his chance to succeed before he was born. He began life disinherited. He has a weak body, a mind incapable of sustained effort and apparently a very limited capacity for moral development, although everything that love, intelligence and money can do has been tried in the hope of stimulating his development along all these lines. And we are told that there are thousands of young men and women thus disabled, sickly, weak-minded, degenerate, because the little cells where their lives began were invaded by a thief who stole their vigor from them.

We know of a valuable farm stolen from its owner by the same thief who also stole the money needed for the education of the children in the home, robbed the mother of her pride and happiness and filched from the father his health, self-respect and influence. This was a characteristic performance for this particular thief.

We know of an instance where almost priceless information was stolen from its possessor by this thief. This information was so valuable that, if kept secret, it would have added millions of dollars to the property of a railroad company. But this cunning thief stole the bridle from the man's tongue, and he babbled the secret in the hearing of some of his competitors one of whom quickly turned the knowledge to his own account Robbing a man of his sense of responsibility is one of his favorite employments.

It is not possible to overstate the meanness of this thief, whose operations cause much of the world's preventable misery and to whom nothing is inviolable. The wages of workingmen, the food, clothing and toys of little children, the lustre of women's eyes, the strength, ambitions, enthusiasms, often the reason of strong men are to be found in his loot.

This thief is also a murderer, killing helpless babes, defenseless women, mighty men. War is not the great murderer of history, for, while it is true that in the wars of the world, back to 500 B. C., over 700,000 men were killed in battle, this murderer kills that number of Americans every year. In other words, he kills as many Americans in one year as all the wars of the world have killed in battle in 2,300 years. This murderer is killing 3,500,000 white men every year, five times as many as have fallen in battle in 2,300 years. Mathematically, therefore, this murderer exhibits ten thousand times the destructiveness of war.

This meanest of thieves, this most monstrous of assassins is alcoholic drink. There is nothing to be said for it. Even as medicine, its use is now almost negligible. It has always been a destroyer. It never gives but always takes. It knows but two mathematical operations, subtraction and division. It never adds and never multiplies. It is today the greatest material cause of human suffering.

The reason for the awful destructiveness of alcohol is found in the fact that it is a poison. The international conference on alcoholism, held in London in 1909, defined the nature of alcohol in these words: "Exact laboratory, clinical, and pathological research has demonstrated that alcohol is a dehydrating, protoplasmic poison and its use as a beverage is destructive and degenerating to the human organism. Its effects upon the cells and tissues of the body are depressive, narcotic and anaesthetic. Therefore, therapeutically, its use should be limited and restricted in the same way as the use of other poisonous drugs." In other words, alcohol is not, as popularly supposed, a stimulant, but a depressant. Its first effect, no matter how small the dose, is to paralyze the nervous centers of control, reducing the user's capacity for either physical or mental effort.

The use of alcohol, even moderately, is absolutely fatal to top-notch performance in any department of human activity. It is so serious a hindrance to muscular power that the managers and promoters of great athletic organizations are forbidding their men any indulgence whatever in any kind of alcoholic beverage. The effect of such an order, rigidly enforced, is strikingly shown by the experience of the Washington American League baseball team. This team has always been regarded as one of the weaker teams of that league. This year, baseball prophets predicted that it could not rise out of the second division, where it has finished for years. It was supposed that a new manager and many new, unseasoned players would keep it there. But today the Washington team is in second place and a contender for the pennant. It recently achieved the unparalleled distinction of winning fifteen successive games away from home. One of the principal reasons for such a remarkable showing is to be found in the order of Manager Clark Griffith, issued before the season began, forbidding drinking, cigarette-smoking and late hours. Incidentally, it might be suggested that if all employers were to issue a similar order a tremendous increase in physicial efficiency would be likely to follow.

Alcohol also impairs mental efficiency. Alcoholic brilliancy has paste-diamond quality. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley recently wrote "It is doubtful whether a single brilliant thought or poetic or elegant expression has owed its origin to alcohol in any form. It is true that alcohol seems to take the bridle off the tongue and to give free rein to conversation but this effect is by a paralyzing influence on the sense of responsibility rather than by a stimulating influence on the flow of ideas." Careful tests have shown that memory, judgment, making comparisons, and other every-day mental operations are rendered much more difficult by alcohol.

The tremendous mortality among drinking men is due to the fact that even a single drink of alcoholic beverage makes the user liable to disease. It is literally true that every time a man takes a drink of liquor he puts his life in peril. We depend upon the white corpuscles of our blood to attack and destroy the disease germs which enter the system. If the white corpusles succeed in overcoming the invaders, we continue well, if the white corpuscles are beaten we become sick. Now alcohol paralyzes the white blood corpuscles and robs them of their power to resist the disease germ. Repeated drinking will permanently injure this power. In view of these facts, it is not surprisingly to learn that the total abstainer at the age of twenty has a prospect of life of 44 years while the expectation of the moderate drinker at that age is but 31 years and that of the heavy drinker but 15 years.

Because it breaks down body and mind, alcohol keeps men down. The leaders of large labor organizations testify that drink stands in the way of keeping up the active interest of workingmen in the measures that would work to their advantage. The drink habit is also one of the greatest hindrances to advancement. But, above all, it keeps a man down by cutting down a man's earning ability in proportion as it eats up his earnings. The double loss makes him less able to provide proper food, clothing and home and the want of these still further depletes his earning power. Everything thus tends to pull the habitual drinker further down.

The extent of social waste caused by alcohol is simply staggering. Twenty to twenty-five per cent. of insanity, twenty per cent. of epilepsy, twenty-five to forty per cent. of pauperism, fifty per cent. of crime are due to it. The cost of bearing this fearful burden is $2,000,000,000 per year. Society has invited this loss by permitting alcohol, the meanest of thieves, the most montrous of murderers, the most dangerous of poisons, to be freely sold for beverage purposes. This fearful social waste must be stopped.

At a recent meeting of the Friendly Visitors' Committee of the Charity Organization Society, Dr. Frederick J. Hughes spoke to the visitors on the subject of "Tuberculosis." Dr. Hughes is the local authority on this subject and a resume of his talk will be of interest to the hundreds of people in Plainfield who have pledged themselves to wipe out the White Plague here.

Dr. Hughes' first point was that Tuberculosis need not be dreaded by those who come into casual contact with the disease, for although tuberculosis is infectious and communicable it is not contagious. It is carried through some person or thing but not through the air. Infection, therefore, follows only from long contact. Germs on the sidewalk and street are soon destroyed by the sun and relatively harmless. Moreover a favorable soil is required if the germs are to live. It is the natural tendency of the body to throw off disease, and if the nutrition of the body is kept up, disease germs will not thrive in it. Of course grippe, pneumonia, measles, overwork and worry weaken the body and pave the way for tuberculosis. Enlarged tonsils and adenoids incapacitate the nose for its chief functions as filter and warmer of the air which is taken into the lungs. If the body is kept free from these lesser diseases, tuberculosis has little chance even if the germs are often casually encountered.

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, recognized tuberculosis as one of the great enemies of mankind and ascribed its cause to some poison in the air. Other early authorities gave hint of later treatment in assigning buildings, chimneys, and even the smoke from candles as causes of consumption. It was early recognized as a house disease, at all events, and today the first mandate of the physician to the patient is "Keep out of doors." The same advice is given to all who would avoid tuberculosis.

In this connection, Dr. Hughes said nothing could be more important in this or any community than an open air school where anaemic children may receive, along with their education, nourishment and fresh air to build up their bodies and prevent tuberculosis. Children who have already acquired tuberculosis should of course be removed from classes where healthy children are taught but tubercular children should also be taught and the only humane education for them is that which builds up body as well as mind. An open air school is therefore imperative for tubercular children, very much needed for anaemic children and desirable, perhaps, for all children.

One Bed for Ten.

Nearly 4,000 additional hospital beds for consumptives in 29 States were provided during the year ending June 1st according to a statement issued today from the records of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. This makes a total of over 30,000 beds, but only about one for every ten indigent tuberculosis patients in this country.

In the last five years, the hospital provision for consumptives has increased from 14,428 in 1907 to over 30,000 in 1912, or over 100 per cent. New York State leads in the number of beds, having 8,350 on June first. Massachusetts comes next with 2,800, and Pennsylvania, a close third with 2,700. Alabama showed the greatest percentage of increase in the last year by adding 57 beds to its 42 of a year ago. Georgia comes next with 109 beds added to 240 of a year ago. New York has the greatest numerical increase, having provided over 1,800 additional beds in the year.

"Only four states, Mississippi, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming, have no beds whatever in special hospitals or wards for consumptives. Eight years ago, when the National Association was organized, there were twenty-six states in which no hospital or sanatorium provision for consumptives existed, and the entire number of beds in the United States was only 10,000.

"While these figures would indicate a remarkable growth in anti-tuberculosis activity," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National Association, commenting on this subject, "there are still practically ten indigent consumptives for every one of the 30,000 beds, including those for pay patients. In other words, we have from 250,000 to 300,000 consumptives in this country too poor to provide hospital care for themselves. If tuberculosis is ever going to be stamped out in the United States, more hospital provision for these foci of infection must be provided."

Cost of Sanatorium Treatment.

According to figures contained in the annual report of Dr. H. L. Barnes, superintendent of the Rhode Island State Sanatorium, the earnings of the ex-patients of that institution during the year 1911 would amount to over $266,000. This is a sum three times as large as that spent each year for maintenance of the institution, including four per cent. interest and depreciation charges.

The actual earnings in 1911 of 170 ex-patients were obtained by Dr. Barnes. These ranged from $2.00 to $31.00 per week, the total earnings for the year amounting to $102,752. On this basis, Dr. Barnes computes the figures above given. He says, however, "while institutions for the cure of tuberculosis are good investments, there is good reason for thinking that institutions for the isolation of far-advanced cases would be still better investments."

Out of a total of 46,450 hospital days' treatment given, 39,147, or eighty-four per cent. were free, the treatment costing the State on an average of $200 per patient. Out of 188 free cases investigated, fifty-six had no families and no income on admission to the sanatorium. Out of 132 patients having homes, the number in the family averaged 5.2 and the average family earnings were $5.46. In fifty-nine cases the families had no income, and in only five cases were there any savings, none of which amounted to as much as $100.

MOVE TO BLOCK SMALL BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS

Trenton, July 13.—As chairman of an advisory committee, Director Horace G. Hough, of the Mercer County Board of Freeholders, has called a meeting of Republicans and Democrats to be held next Tuesday, to consider means to prevent the Strong act, providing for small boards of freeholders, from becoming operative in this county.

The act was adopted by the voters last fall, but was amended last winter by providing for a board of five instead of seven members. This has raised legal questions of which the freeholders hope to avail themselves to prolong the present system.

Plainfield People Receiving the Full Benefit.

There have been many cases like the following in Plainfield. Everyone relates the experience of people we know. These plain, straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D., No. 1, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble. A neighbor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me and on her suggestion, I used them. They gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic suffered to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventative of any serious recurrence of my former trouble. You may publish this account of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SUMMER SQUASHES.

THE crook neck is a favorite summer squash. The best kinds are light yellow with a shell that may be depressed with the nail.

The best way of cooking is in a steamer or in a strainer placed over boiling water. About thirty minutes is the time required.

Before boiling wash, pare and cut into pieces. The seeds must also be taken out. If placed directly in the water cook for twenty minutes. Strain dry, dress with cream, pepper and butter and reheat before serving.

Substantial Dishes.

Fried Squash.—Take three or four small and tender summer squashes. Remove the seeds and the skin. Cut into slices half an inch thick. Boil until tender in salted water. When done dip into egg and cracker crumbs and fry in butter till golden brown. Serve hot on a dish dressed with sprigs of parsley.

Squash Pie. — Persons who like squash pronounce this delicious. To make it cover a baking dish with puff paste and add a filling made by combining one and a half cupfuls of squash, two cupfuls of warm milk, a tablespoonful of flour mixed with the squash, two eggs well beaten, a little salt, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar a dash of nutmeg and a pinch of cinnamon. Bake for about an hour.

Novel Methods.

Stuffed Summer Squash.—Take several summer squashes. Wash and cut the top off these. Scoop out the seeds, fill the centers with sweet corn and steam until tender. Season with salt, pepper and cream, sprinkle thickly with buttered crumbs and set in a quick oven to brown slightly. Garnish with bits of parsley and slices of hard boiled egg. Serve hot with cream sauce.

Squash Timbales.—To a half pint of cooked squash which has been pressed through a sieve add two beaten eggs, three tablespoonfuls of milk, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of black pepper. Mix and turn into buttered molds fitted with rounds of paper. Bake in a pan of hot water in the oven until the centers are firm. Serve turned from the molds.

FADS AND FACTS.

Bridal Footwear For the Chic Summer Bride.

The bride must be as particular about the last little details of her costume as she is about her gown and her veil, else she will lack in daintiness or modishness, for bridal modes in general remain about the same from year to year, while the up to date touches appear in such small items as gloves and shoes.

In the wedding slippers, for instance, while plain satin is permissible now as every year, the really modish bride will prefer the dainty affairs of brocade run with silver threads. If she has a handsome brocade gown these brocade slippers are imperative. White kid is used to such an extent for ordinary wear that it is almost banished from the realm of bridal outfits, except for boots or low shoes to be worn in the afternoons on the honeymoon, just as they might be worn by any girl who is not married.

Little black taffeta coats appear with gowns of contrasting color.

The dress that is closed right down the front and worn with bloomers to match is one of the most practical ever devised for the kiddies. This one is smart for both boys and girls.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY.

Now that telephones have become as much a part of household furnishings as the dining room table the mistress of the home is interested in the telephone directories, which from time to time appear in the shops.

Here is the latest convenience of this kind, and very good looking it is to hang above the instrument for reference when one wants to call up a number.

JUST A HINT.

Secret of Success For the Up to Date Business Woman.

A woman who has made a notable success of business thus advises other business women:

Don't complain.

Don't demand sympathy.

Don't say you are unlucky. You are as lucky as you think you are, and opportunity is always at your door.

Be alert mentally and clean physically.

Work as if you had no idea of ever marrying and as if business were your sole interest in life.

Don't think you would succeed better somewhere else than where you live.

Don't waste time on self pity.

Don't be persuaded that you must be absolutely healthy before you start to work. You may find health in your work.

Don't stay in an employment which really is a detriment to your health. If you are brave enough to try you will find something better suited to your needs, says the Woman's National Daily.

Study conditions around you and find out what requirements are most urgent. Learn to meet these requirements or the demands of the market near you.

Work with a goal before you. Don't be satisfied with your own degree of efficiency or knowledge. You can always acquire more.

Kitchenettes.

Stains may be removed from the collar of an overcoat by rubbing it with a cloth dipped in ammonia.

By immersing an ink stained handkerchief in milk immediately after it has been stained and allowing it to soak the ink will generally disappear.

Mosquito netting doubled or quadrupled makes excellent dishcloths. It is thin enough to go easily into pitchers and small cups; it is pleasant to handle; it is scalded and dried easily and quickly, and it is so cheap there is no temptation to keep it after it begins to grow dingy. It is large—say 12 by 24 inches.

When mending small holes in lace curtains darn them before the curtain is washed. But when there is a hole that requires a patch wash the curtain first, stretch and dry. Then cut a piece off the top with which to make the patch, trim off all frayed edges around the hole and dip the patch in raw starch and press it over the hole. This will stay securely and will be much neater than sewing.

Good Soap Made at Home.

Take one-fourth pound castile soap and slice into a porcelain vessel and pour over it two quarts of deodorized grain alcohol. Put the vessel into a kettle of water at such a heat as to cause the spirits to boil, when the soap will soon dissolve.

Then put the jar, closely covered, in a warm place until the liquid is clarified, taking off any scum that may appear on the surface and pour it carefully from the dregs.

Then put it into the jar again and set into a vessel of hot water, distilling all the spirits that may arise. Dry the remaining mass in the air a few days, when it will become a white transparent soap free from all alkaline impurities, without odor. This soap will soften and beautify the complexion.

AIRSHIPS WILL TAKE PART IN MIMIC WAR

Aerial Corps Gets First Real Military Orders.

Washington, July 13.—The army aviation corps received its first assignment to real military duty in orders issued from the war department for the dispatch of two aeroplanes and operators to Bridgeport, Conn., to take part in the joint maneuvers to be held near New York next month. These maneuvers, in which 15,000 militiamen and about 3,500 regulars are to participate, will take the form of an attack upon and defense of New York city.

Captain Charles D. Chandler, in command of the army aviation school at College Park, Md., will have charge of the aviation detachment ordered to Bridgeport. Lieutenants Kirkland, Milling and Arnold, all qualified aviators, will accompany him. Two aeroplanes will be sent, together with auto trucks and all necessary equipment.

It is now planned that one of the aeroplanes and two of the officer aviators will be assigned to the attacking force and the other machine, with the two other aviators, to the defending force. The aviator will be expected, according to present plans, to take the air daily and perform scouting duty.

This will be the first time aeroplanes will have been called into service in an army war game in this country.

GOVERNOR BLEASE ACCUSED.

Charges of Graft For Pardons and For Letting "Blind Tigers" Run.

August, Ga., July 13.—The feature of the hearing by the investigating committee from South Carolina proved to be the submission of evidence taken by the dictagraph to the effect that Governor Cole Blease of South Carolina had received various sums of money for pardoning criminals. This evidence was gathered by dictagraph and in personal conversation by William J. Burns' detectives.

It was charged that Governor Blease got $500 for blocking railroad legislation, $200 for killing the first attempted dispensary legislation, $3,000 for pardoning Rudolph Rabon of Charleston, and that he obtained a share of the protection money from blind tigers in Charleston.

TAGGART WON'T RETIRE.

Consents to Withdraw His Resignation From National Committee.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—Thomas Taggart, national Democratic committeeman from Indiana, will remain on the national committee and continue active political work. The Democratic state central committee, called in session to act on Mr. Taggart's formal resignation, unanimously refused to accept it.

State Chairman Bernard Korbly telephoned to French Lick, and Mr. Taggart answered that as the action was unanimous he would reconsider his resignation and continue to represent Indiana Democrats on the national committee.

ROUND-UP TWENTY-ONE ATLANTIC CITY VOTERS

Atlantic City, July 13.—Charged with illegal voting at the commission election Tuesday, twenty-one men were arraigned Thursday afternoon before Magistrate Jagmettey and held under $1,000 bail each to await the action of the grand jury. All waived hearings.

Dr. Jesse B. Thompson, who was elected a commissioner Tuesday, went bail for seventeen of the accused, and Councilman Henry Dougherty furnished bonds for the other four.

Police Chief Woodruff caused the arrest Thursday of Joseph Retzbach, one of Mayor Bacharach's latest appointments to the police force, and George Schofield, who are charged with technical election offenses. They were released on bail.

There is much speculation as to what will be the state of the new commission government. Thursday night it was declared that it would be as follows: Mayor, William Riddle; director of revenue and finance, Dr. Thompson; streets and public improvements, Albert Beyer; public safety, William H. Bartlett; property, Harry Bacharach.

It was explained that Bacharach had been put down intentionally for the poorest portfolio. Riddle is "Boss" Kuehnle's candidate. A story was circulated that Riddle, Beyer and Bartlett might combine and expel Thompson and Bacharach from the new commission under a section of the Walsh act, which, provides that the board may reduce its numbers to three. This cannot be done, however, without a referendum vote of the people.

MONUMENT DEALERS CONVENE.

Asbury Park, July 13.—The annual convention of the New Jersey Retail Monument Dealers' Association was held in the Grand Avenue Hotel here yesterday afternoon. About thirty-five members were in attendance. Freight rates which play an important part in the monument business, were discussed following a talk on the subject by W. F. Manning, of Plainfield. Other speakers were: President H. H. Jardine, of Plainfield; F. R. Stewart, of Detroit, president of the national association; P. G. Lamson, of Cambridge, Mass.; O. J. Hammel, of Atlantic City, and T. J. Powers, of Newark. Among the Essex county men at the convention were E. J. Kissling and William Palford, of Newark, and K. D. Williams, of Orange. Yesterday morning the delegates enjoyed a dip in the surf.

The boy went beyond the safety ropes, although he could not swim. The body was recovered soon after it went down, but efforts to revive the lad failed.

WESTFIELD MAN A BANKRUPT.

Trenton, July 13.—With debt of $84,227 and only nominal assets, Fernando C. Candee, Jr., of Westfield, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday. His heaviest liability is represented by a judgment for $33,000 obtained by creditors in New ork.

WATER RIGHTS ARE PUT AT $50,000

Morristown, July 13.—An option given by David Hunter McAlpin, of Littleton, to the Brooklawn Farms Water Company, has been left for record at the county clerk's office. The option is for a consideration of $100 and runs to August 31.

Dr. McAlpin agrees to transfer to the water company for $50,000 all the springs of water now existing on his premises at Littleton, with land within a radius of ten feet of the springs, and all the streams of water flowing through the estate with the land under the bed of the streams at low water mark. The right to drill wells to gather subterranean water is granted and also right of way to the highways for pipe lines. The option stipulates that in addition to the $50,000 Dr. McAlpin is to have the use absolutely free of such water as he needs on his place.

The Brooklawn Farms Water Company has been granted permission to lay water pipes under the public roads at Littleton. It has not as yet filed papers of incorporation in this county, but the incorporators are David Hunter McAlpin, Ernest Underhill, Charles S. Tunis, Albert Segerstrom, John Lawler, John Downing and James Call. All are residents of the neighborhood and the object of the company is said to be to supply the village of Littleton with water.

A year or so ago Dr. McAlpin began to supply some of his neighbors with water from his springs, the pipes crossing the public road at several places. This spring the township committee intimated that it was necessary to obtain the franchise right to cross the roads and the application was made. The matter will be taken to the State Potable Water Commission and the Public Utility Commission.

Dr. McAlpin already has a steam pump lifting the water from one spring to a water tower near his house, and a motor connected with his gasoline driven electric power plant pumping at another spring.

William Titus, of Watchung, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital, is improving rapidly and expects to go home within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Roberts and family, of Kensington avenue, left in their automobile at 4 o'clock this morning for Tolland, Mass., where they will spend the summer at the Tunxis Club. They expect to reach Tolland tonight.

Rev. G. W. Bailey, of the Calvary Baptist church, left today for Boston to visit his brother, Rev. R. H. Bailey, who is pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, that city. While away Mr. Bailey will visit friends at King Queen county, Virginia.

The Sunday-school sessions at Grace M. E. church are held at 9:45 o'clock Sunday morning during the summer months. The morning preaching service is at 11 o'clock and the evening at 7:45 o'clock.

OUSTED BAYONNE TRIO TO SUE FOR BACK PAY

Bayonne, July 13.—On the strength of a recent decision of the Supreme Court holding that their ouster from office was illegal, Amos Harker, formerly of the city water department; John Roth, who was in the office of the collector of revenues, and former Assistant Building Inspector Thomas J. McGrath have directed their counsel, James Benny, to begin suit for back salary.

The three men demand pay from January 1, when they were ousted by the administration of Mayor Matthew T. Cronin. McGrath and Roth were members of the old volunteer fire department, and Harker is a Spanish-American War veteran.

City Counsel Daniel Murry has been instructed to appeal from the ruling of the Supreme Court to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

ODD REBURIALS ARE GIVEN FOUR BODIES

Metuchen, July 13.—Amid long rolls of thunder, while the sky was alternately black and then illuminated by flashes of lightning and rain was pouring down in torrents, there took place Thursday afternoon in the cemetery of the First Presbyterian church here probably the most remarkable burial ceremony in the annals of this section of the State.

Into four graves side by side were lowered coffins containing the body of a mother and the disarticulated skeletons of her three children. For each this was the third burial.

Before their formal commitment to the earth by an ordained minister in the presence of eight members of the family, it was necessary to exhume the skeletons, which, it is declared, had been thrown together promiscuously in a drygoods box, and to sort the bones, so that those of each should be buried separately.

The husband and father, Rev. Ezra F. Mundy, was not present. He is eighty-two years old and has for a long time lived in Kansas.

About a month ago Mr. Mundy came to Metuchen, ostensibly to renew old acquaintances. While here the old preacher, unknown to the cemetery officials, entered into a contract with a local grave-digger for the removal of his entire family from one part of the graveyard to another. Accordingly the four graves were opened. It is said this was done secretly. At any rate the church and cemetery officials disclaim all knowledge of the proceeding.

The coffin of Mrs. Mundy, who died about a year ago, was found in good condition, but when the graves of the three children were opened, all that remained was their bones. Mrs. Mundy's coffin was buried secretly in another part of the cemetery, and the bones of the three children, enclosed in a drygoods box, were placed in the same grave. No sooner was this done than the aged preacher sold the burial lot in which the four members of his family had previously reposed and returned to Kansas.

It was some time before the other members of the Mundy family heard of what had been done, but when they did they acted promptly. They informed the cemetery authorities, who have tried vainly to locate the aged minister, as it was a violation of rules to move any body without a permit.

The relatives bought a new lot, obtained permission to move the bodies, and commissioned a local undertaker to open four new graves and procure four new coffins. This was done, but before the burial could take place Noah Brown, the cemetery grave digger, was obliged upon opening the drygoods box to sort out the homes of the three children, who had died in 1859, 1874 and 1888 respectively, and place those of each child in a separate coffin. As the children had been of widely varying ages, it was possible to make the selection accurately.

This done, the members of the family and their minister gathered at the graves in the midst of the downpour, and after a brief service, but one made doubly impressive by the harrowing circumstances and the raging storm, the recommitment to the ground was made.

OCEAN BOULEVARD BOARD WILL MEET NEXT FRIDAY

T. Frank Appleby, president of the Ocean boulevard committee of New Jersey, issued a call this morning for the annual meeting of the committee, which will be held on Friday, July 19, at the New Montery Hotel, Asbury Park.

This committee was organized during Governor Fort's administration and thru its efforts thousands of dollars have been secured for the improvement of the great ocean highway which when completed will extend from Atlantic Highlands to Cape May, a distance of 127 miles. Among the prominent men who are members of the committee are Samuel Hellner, of Spring Lake; Jefferson Seligmann, of Deal, Thomas F. Somers, of Bradley Beach, and Henry Terhune, of Long Branch. J. A. Githens, Jr., of Asbury Park, is secretary.

Among those who are expected to attend the meeting and dine at the annual banquet which will be held at the Monterey are Governor Wilson, former Governor Fort, State Road Commissioner Stevens, State Engineer R. A. Meeker and others.

An effort will be made to secure additional State appropriations for the improvement of the boulevard at Allenhurst, Loch Arbour, Belmar and Avon.

This money is to be used for the purpose of rehabilitating the various lines of railroad of the company.

YANKEES ADD TO THEIR FINE SCORE

They Now Lead Combined Nations by Ten Points.

FINN WINS DISCUS THROW

A. T. Gutterson, In Running Broad Jump, Beats Olympic Record and Comes Within Three-fourths of Inch of World's Record—Clean Sweep In Hurdle Event.

Stockholm, July 13.—The American athletes in the Olympic games won two and took two second and two third places in the three track and field events, giving the United States a total of 61 points to 51 for other nations. Finland is second, England third, Sweden fourth, Canada fifth and Greece sixth.

America's wins were scored in the running broad jump and the 110 meter hurdle race, and although in the latter event another clean sweep was added to the many previously to the credit of the United States, the real feature of the day's performances was the marvelous winning jump of A. T. Gutterson, the Vermont university man, who competes under the Boston Athletic association. Gutterson only took one jump, and in this he cleared the astounding distance of 24 feet 11 inches, beating the previous Olympic record by 4½ inches and coming within three-fourths of an inch of the world's record held by O'Connor of Ireland.

Fred Kelly to Rescue.

With five of the six contestans in the final of the hurdle race wearing the United States shield a clean sweep was expected, but there was a surprise in the race just the same, for the favorite in the race, John R. Nicholson of Missouri, fell at the ninth hurdle. His associates were equal to the occasion, and Fred W. Kelly of the Los Angeles Athletic club breasted the tape first, closely followed by Wendell of the New York Athletic club and Martin W. Hawkins of the Multnomah Athletic club of Portland, Ore. Kelly's time of 15 1-10 seconds was only a fraction slower than the world's record made by Smithson at the Olympic in 1908.

In the discus throwing Finland, that sturdy competitor of the United States, again provided the winner in A. R. Taipale. The Finn broke the Olympic record of 134 feet 2 inches, made by Martin Sheridan, but fell short of the figures of 156 feet 1 inch to the credit of Jim Duncan. Taipale's winning throw measured 148 feet 1½ inches. R. L. Boyd of Adrian college, Michigan, was second with 138 feet 9⅝ inches, and Duncan of New York third with 138 feet 8⅝ inches.

Row Over Disqualification.

Remarkable time was made by the Yankee runners in qualifying for the 400 meter race, and in the five semi-final heats America supplied winners in four. That they did not win the fifth was the subject of general disappointment to the Americans, and in some instances led to unpleasant comments on the justice of the ruling that disqualified Donald B. Young of the Boston Athletic association in the fifth heat. The circumstances were somewhat similar to those that started the hullabaloo in the Olympics in London when Carpenter of America was disqualified for fouling Lieutenant Halswelle of England. This time the mix-up occurred with the crack German runner, Hans Braun. He and Young were in close company, and after the Bostonian finished in front Braun protested that he had been interfered with by the American runner. The judges took the side of the German and disqualified Young, which put Braun in first place and allows him to go into the final with four Americans.

The American officials were outspoken in denouncing the action of the judges and stated that there was no reason for disqualifying the Bostonian.

HAND WITH RARITAN.

Frank "Nigs" Hand, the popular backstop of the Scotch Plains baseball team, signed a contract with the Raritan nine for the Bound Brook game this afternoon. Since Hand severed his connections with the United States League he has been catching Saturday ball at different intervals for a number of semi-professional aggregations of this section but has landed no permanent berth until now. He plays Sunday ball at the 'Plains and has been doing Saturday work for them when they had contests scheduled. Hand is a consistent hitter and one of the best catchers in this section and he will prove a valuable addition to the Raritan lineup.

THROW OUT PROTEST ON MINISTER'S PLEA

Rev. Mr. Allen Convinces S. League Board, Park Ave.'s Kick Is Worthless.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Sunday-school baseball league held last night the chief business considered was the protest of the Park Avenue baseball nine in regard to their game with the South Plainfield Baptist team played at the latter place last Saturday afternoon. The protest was filed by George Gage, of the Park Avenue combination, and the village church was also represented by Rev. J. J. Allen, who is also captain of the baseball team. In placing the details of his protest before the executive body of the league, Gage claimed that four of the South Plainfield players, Elmer Terry, Monroe Terry, Walton Smith and John Sofield, had not attended Sunday-school the number of times required of every player before he is allowed to play in a league game. Gage related a visit he had made to the home of the secretary of the village Sunday-school last week when he obtained the information on which he based his claim. Mr. Allen, however, gave a strong and clean cut argument in favor of his aggregation and it so happened that Mr. Gage's source of information was unauthenic and the village captain presented his books showing the school attendance, and when they were audited by the members of the committee they were found to uphold the claim of the South Plainfielders.

A motion was made by Mr. Conger to throw the protest out and the vote was unanimous.

The South Plainfield Baptist Sunday-school baseball team has been subjected to a great deal of needless criticism in regard to the Park Avenue charge and the governing board decided that it would be better for the team managers to find sufficient grounds for an argument hereafter before they circulate reports in regard to it. South Plainfield has formed a crackerjack ball nine out of an array of the most discouraging kind of material and Mr. Allen said that he was endeavoring to prevent just such an occurence as this and had lost two contests for the reason that he would not put four of his best players in the game when they were not eligible.

—After all, it may be cowardice that prompts a man to declare he would never marry again.

R. G. E. SCHEDULES GAME.

The R. G. E. baseball team, which at present is monopolizing first place in the Manufacturers' Baseball League, will journey to Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon and try conclusions with the representative nine of that place. The Plainfield combination and their supporters will leave the local trolley stand on the 1:45 car. Montross and Compton will be in the points for the local ball chasers with their regular lineup to back them up.

E. L. CONVENTION CHANGES ITS NAME

Madison, July 13.—The biennial convention of the Second General Conference District Epworth League, is session here, has changed its name to Biennial Conference of Leaders. This and the creation of a board of control to replace the cabinet, which formerly was in charge of the affairs of the district and managed the annual institute, constituted the principal features of a new constitution adopted by the leaders.

The first change was made to bring the business meeting, which is held only once in two years, closer to the institute, in connection with which it is always held, with all members of the institute having a voice and vote.

The following officers have been elected to form the board of control for the next two years: President, A. C. Monagle, Brooklyn; first vice president, Chester A. Smith, New York; second vice president, Dr. George W. Fowles, New York; third vice president, Harry B. Conover, Trenton; fourth vice president, Rev. Charles W. Flint, Middletown, Conn.; secretary, Professor Wallace B. Fleming, Madison; treasurer, Dr. George M. Whitfield, Newark; junior superintendent, Rev. Fred B. Harris, Trenton; honorary members, former President William O. Gantz, New York, and former President Clarence A. Titus, of Roselle Park.

Mr. Titus has been manager of the institute the last two years. In his report he told of the success of these two gatherings, due in a measure to the fine environment offered by the commodious grounds and buildings of Drew Theological Seminary, and the chance for the delegates to become better acquainted with each other here than at a seaside resort, which in 1910 was not so practical for spiritual results, he said, because of the many outside diversions.

The board of control will meet soon after the institute ends in order to close up the affairs of the season's work, and at that time is expected to decide to return here again in 1914.

The "family council" today will bring the school of practical methods to an end, although social and religious features will continue until tomorrow night, and meals will be served until Monday morning.

Much interest has been aroused in the social service opportunities offered the Epworth League members through a class organized by Miss Bertha Fowler. At yesterday's session Miss Fowler showed the helpful possibilities in establishing reading rooms, sewing schools and other means of extension work where conditions justify them. The third meeting of the social class will be held today.

Rain prevented the matches scheduled in the tennis singles tournament and the mixed doubles Thursday, but two exciting basketball games were played in the gymnasium, after which the delegates took a plunge in the swimming pool. In the game played by the girls a team of which Miss Ella Monks, of Paterson, was captain, defeated the young women led by Miss Mollie Reutemann, of Maspeth, Long Island, by the score of 3 to 0.

William McNichols, of Troy, N. Y., was captain of the victorious boys' team, defeating Captain John M. Versteeg, of Paterson, and his players by the score of 16 to 14.

The institute baseball team and the Drew Seminary students will this afternoon replay the ball game that ended in the fifth inning Wednesday on account of rain with the institute ahead, 5 to 2.

Rev. Dr. Thomas Nicholson, secretary of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal church, lectured to the delegates Thursday night in Drew chapel on "Studies in Christian Experience," upon which he has written much. His career has included services as teacher, preacher and college president, and he had a fund of interesting data, which he presented. Last night's lecturer was Dr. James R. Joy, assistant editor of The Christian Advocate, of Plainfield, who spoke on the recent general conference of the church, held in Minneapolis, Minn.

PROTESTING JURORS IN CONFAB WITH JUDGES

Jersey City, July 13.—Six members of the minority of eight Hudson county grand jurors, who addressed a letter to Justice Swayze and Judges Carey and Blair, asking to be relieved from further service, conferred with the three judges Thursday.

It became known that the jurors had been summoned to appear. The jurors who attended were the following: Foreman Charles Fall, Rudolph Schroeder, Thomas Murray, Walter M. Dear, Marmaduke Tilden and Hugo A. Weissenborn. Anthony J. Volk and Adolph Walter were said to be out of town.

Justice Swayze said no information will be given as to what occurred. "In case any court action is taken there may be something to be said," Justice Swayze added.

There was much speculation as to whether the judges lectured the jurors for asking to be excused or whether the judges will comply with the request that the grand jury evidence be examined to determine if indictments against some public officials ought to have been found.

SAYS OFFER OF POSITION WAS COVER TO SWINDLE

Freehold, July 13.—Opposing a motion for postponing the trial of the suit of Miss May McCarthy, of New York, to recover $778.80 from Charles A. Quintard, of 206 Tenth avenue, Belmar, Miss McCarthy's attorney declared he would bring Quintard's case to the county prosecutor's attention. Miss McCarthy alleges she was persuaded to give the money to Quintard as security for her faithful performance of the duties of a position he was to secure for her.

The papers in the suit, according to Miss McCarthy's attorney, Harry R. Cooper, of Belmar, allege that Miss McCarthy answered an advertisement inserted by Quintard in a New York newspaper for a young woman as secretary to an actress on a tour. Upon applying for the position, it is charged that Quintard insisted upon Miss McCarthy's depositing $1,000 with him as security, with the understanding that the money would be returned to her at any time that she felt dissatified with the position and desired to leave.

Miss McCarthy, it is alleged, made a three-year contract, depositing $778.80, all the money that she had, with Mr. Quintard, whereupon she was established in the latter's home at Belmar. Though Miss McCarthy is a stenographer, she was given household duties to attend to, and after a few weeks of this life she demanded the return of her money. This being denied her, as she alleges, she brought suit for its recovery, causing Mr. Quintard's arrest in May, when he furnished $1,000 bail.

When the case came up for trial yesterday, Charles Harvey, a Belmar attorney, presented an affidavit to the court, setting forth that the defendant could not go to trial because of the absence of a material witness, now in New Hampshire. Mr. Cooper, representing Miss McCarthy, declared that he could show that Quintard had practised like methods before, and he promised to bring the subject to the attention of the county prosecutor, and also to the attention of the postal authorities. Trial of the cause was postponed to September 12.

is regarded as the man who is in the lead for the Presidency. Senator Kitzer and Senator Gebhardt will not be in the Senate, or they might prove serious contenders for the claim. But as matters now stand Fielder seems to be the only Democrat whose length of service makes him eligible for the Presidency. Senator Johnson, of Bergen; Senator Slocum, of Monmouth, and Senator Davis, of Salem, are all regarded as capable of undertaking the responsibilities of floor leader for the party.

The choice of floor leader in the Senate is also of importance, in view of the likelihood that the duties of President of the Senate would in all probability, be delegated to the floor leader in case the Senate President became Governor.

Odds are swinging rapidly toward the Democrats at the present time with reference to the United States Senatorship. Two causes contribute to this condition. In the first place, Democracy in New Jersey has risen to a new dignity under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson. This has been especially true since the Governor's nomination for the Presidency. The second cause is the G. O. P. split. The third party has taken on such serious proportions in New Jersey that few political forecasters see anything but defeat in store for the Republicans.

On the Democratic side there are as yet no avowed candidates for the Senatorship. State Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, may enter the race. Frank S. Katzenbach is being urged by his friends to try his luck at the primaries. Former Judge John W. Westcott, of Camden, who nominated Wilson at Baltimore, and former Senator John Hincheliffe, of Passaic, are also looked on as possibilities. At any rate it may be stated as a fact that the Democratic candidate will have no such walkover as did James E. Martine two years ago.

Former Senator James Smith, Jr., has not announced yet whether he will try to accomplish this year his ambition to return to the Senate.

Whatever else may be said about the approaching Senatorial contest, no one in either party is planning to try to land the toga except through the direct primary plan. The Smith-Martine battle appears to have settled once for all any question about the binding force of the law allowing a direct vote on the Senatorship.

On the Republican side the chief contenders will be United States Senator Briggs and former Governor Edward C. Stokes. Just how spirited a campaign they will make in view of the disaster which has come to their party, remains to be seen. Stokes said several months ago with a degree of seriousness that if Wilson was nominated for the Presidency, he would retire from the Senatorial contest, because a ticket with Wilson at the head would sweep the State. He has not retired from the contest yet, however, and may make the fight. His friends believe it would be wise for him to try conclusions with Senator Briggs if for no other reason than to try to attach another defeat to the string of disasters which has marked the Briggs leadership of the Republican party for the past two years.

TESTIMONY CONCLUDED IN EARL DIVORCE CASE

Trenton, July 13.—Testimony was completed Thursday in the divorce suit of Mrs. Irma Leigh Earl against Binney Woodward Earl, of Edgewater Park, before Vice-Chancellor Lewis. Counsel for Mrs. Earl said he would try to get the deposition of Alexander Goulard, of New York, who was mentioned, as a guest of the Earls, to the discredit of Mrs. Earl. A date for the summing up will be set later.

Among the witnesses Thursday were the husband, who filed a cross suit for divorce; his mother, the plaintiff and her mother, father and brothers; Mark Whitfield, cook, and chauffeur at the Earl home, who was named as co-respondent, and William Wright, also a chauffeur, who testified against Mrs. Earl and Whitfield.

This is the case in which Mrs. Earl, the plaintiff, said her mother-in-law objected to her son's working because she regarded her family above work.

Mrs. Earl denied all charges made against her. She was subjected to sharp questioning on cross-examination as to her conduct, but adhered to her original version.

LIEUT. HORT HONORED

1,400 New Jersey Troops Pitched Tents Today—Men Sleep On the Ground, Not On Cots, and Are Under U. S. Government Regulations.

Company K, Second Infantry, Second Brigade, N. G. N. J., marched from its armory in heavy marching order under command of Capt. Peterson to the North Avenue station at 7:50 this morning, where the men boarded a special train containing the two Elizabeth companies and Major Martin and staff to Mount Gretna, Pa., for a "tour of instructions," under U. S. officers. The camp will be known officially as "Camp of Instructions, Mt. Gretna, Pa." Company M, of Somerville, had its car attached to the train upon reaching that place. They were due to arrive at Mt. Gretna about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Co. K, 55 men strong, made a fine appearance and showed plainly the careful drilling of Captain Peterson and Lieutenants Hort and Phillips. The company's armory here presented a busy scene during last week, Especially on Saturday evening and Sunday, as all the men were thoroughly examined by the Company surgeon as to their physical condition, as great care is now taken that no one not in condition or with any contagious disease is taken to camp. The men were fitted out with their new regulation Russet shoes, which must not fit them too tight nor be to large, thereby preventing sore and swollen feet.

To many of the men of Co. K the first few nights may come as a hardship as Uncle Sam does not provide cots nor board floorings for the tents, but instead furnishes each man with a tick made of gunny sack which is filled with hay or straw and the men sleep on the ground.

In accordance with the plan worked out this year the Jersey guardsmen took with them the rations of a single day. This is a new scheme and conforms with the plan in vogue in the movement of regulars. The ration issued to each man this morning was sufficient to last him until tomorrow morning. Captain Peterson and lLeuts. Hort and Phillips also Bat. Adj. Littell have been working hard night and day to complete every little detail to aid to the comfort and health of the men of their company.

The following is the daily routine of the companies while in camp:

Reveille (under arms)—First call 5:15 a. m., reveille 5:25 a. m., assembly 5:30 a. m., breakfast 5:45 a. m., sick 6:15 a. m., fatigue (police) 6:25 a. m.; drill, except Sunday, first call 6:50 a. m., assembly 7 a. m., 1st Sargeants 11:30 a. m., mess 12 m. Drill—First call 1:30 p. m., assembly 1:40 p. m. Guard mounting—First call 4:50 p. m., assembly 5 p. m., mess (supper) 5:30 p. m. Retreat (under arms)—First call 6:15 p. m., assembly 6:25 p. m., retreat 6:30 p. m., tattoo 9 p. m., taps 10 p. m.

Lieutenant Nathaniel H. Hort has been appointed Aid-de-Camp to the commanding officer while in camp, an honor much sought after by the different officers. It came as a surprise to himself and the entire company and speaks highly of his qualifications as an officer at headquarters. In consequence of his appointment which he received notification on Saturday, he spent the greater part of Sunday in the saddle learning the mysteries of riding a steed.

The Daily Press will have a special correspondent at the Camp of Instructions (not an enlisted man) and the readers of this paper will be furnished all the news, especially the doings of Company K, of this city, and M. of Somerville.

The Jerseymen will take the field with full equipment and the cooking will be done by the company cooks. Conditions will be as nearly akin to those of actual warfare as the government experts can make them and with theoretical and actual field maneuvrs, the umpires from the war college will try out the officers and men with a view of ascertaining how much of the military knowledge imparted during the winter "sank in."

In addition to regular infantry, artillery, cavalry and signal corps, there will be guard troops from Maryland, and possibly one or two other States, and with this force divided into two armies, one of which will be under the command of General Collins, there will be a number of pitched battles and any number of forced marches for the establishment of positions.

Mt. Gretna is of a sandy character, spotted with clumps of pine trees, and has many good roads built by

DR. HERRING PREACHES AT THE UNION SERVICE

"The Revelation Of Silence" His Theme Before Four Congregations.

The union service of the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed and First M. E. churches, held last night at the First M. E. church, was well attended. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the home church, was in charge. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, offered prayer and Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, read the Scripture lesson for the evening.

The quartet choir of the church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist, rendered parts of the cantata, "Penitence, Pardon and Peace," the solo work being performed by Mrs. Helen B. Downer, contralto; Edgar A. Cole, baritone, and Alex McGowan. Mrs. Downer also sang a solo number.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the preacher. He took for his theme, "The Revelation of Silence." Among those referred to in the discourse were the silences of thoughtfulness and quiet preparation for better Christian living. The speaker called attention to the many silences of the Lord, adding that where there was any doubt in the minds of Christians as to certain interpretations by the Lord if they were not true the Lord would have said so as indicated in His Word. The discourse was closed with some timely suggestions as to heaven based on the Scriptural references to be found in the Bible.

Next Sunday night the union service will be held at the First Baptist church and Rev. J. Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed church, will be the preacher.

REV. DR. STRONG SPOKE AT FRESH AIR HOME

The weekly vesper service held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, yesterday afternoon, was largely attended by mothers and children as well as friends of the Home in this city and vicinity. During the service there was special music under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist of the First M. E. church, who has charge of the music at the Home. The quartet choir of the First M. E. church sang two selections and Mrs. Helen B. Downer, contralto, rendered a pleasing solo. In addition the children's choir sang.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, made the address. In response to his request all the children gave him a smile before he began talking. He then took for his subject the word "Come," using each letter in the word as a subdivided text as follows: "C—come to Christ; O—only believing; M—making no delay; E—everlasting life." Dr. Strong emphasized the importance of each one following the injunction in each of the above sentences and the talk impressed all those present.

JOHN CUNNINGHAM IMPROVING.

John Cunningham, of New York, who was engaged as a lather on the construction work of the new public library, and who received severe injuries through a fall at the building on Saturday, is improving at Muhlenberg Hospital. At first it was thought that he might have received internal injuries or broken some bones, but an Xray examination did not show this. The man is suffering from general lacerations, cuts and bruises, but will be able to leave the hospital within a short time. As soon as he is able he will return to his home in New York.

A DAY AT THE SHORE.

The annual excursion of the Congregational, First Presbyterian and Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-schools to Asbury Park on Thursday, July 18, promises to be one of the most successful of the season. This combination of Sunday-schools has always attracted a large number of patrons. The committee in charge assures all who intend going that every comfort and convenience will be provided for the trip. The train which will leave Plainfield at 8:15 o'clock will stop at Clinton and Grant avenues and Dunellen both ways.

FIRST BAPTIST SUPPLIES.

Rev. Dr. Everitt T. Tomlinson, of Elizabeth, will be the preacher at the First Baptist church the first Sunday in August. Rev. Dr. John T. Snape, of Utica, N. Y., will preach the second Sunday and Rev. Dr. Charles Gallup, of Providence, R. I., the third Sunday. The preacher for the fourth Sunday will be announced later. These ministers will supply during the month's absence of Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, who takes his vacation at that time.

TRINITY'S PEOPLE HEAR DR. ZWEMER

Noted Missionary Describes the Work in Arabia and Tells of Doctor's Efforts.

MAKES A STRONG PLEA

Praises Trinity's Representative in Foreign Field—Sketch of the Career of Dr. Zwemer, Who Has Accepted Call to Cairo.

"God's Love for Mosem," was the subject of a discourse delivered by Rev. Dr. Samuel Zwemer at Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning. He is perhaps one of the best known missionaries in this country and he has been making a special study of conditions in Arabia, where the Reformed church in America is sending many of its missionaries at present. The fact that Trinity church is represented in that field by Dr. Paul W. Harrison served to increase the interest in Dr. Zwemer's presence here and he was greeted by a large congregation.

The speaker developed his theme by comparing it with the parable of the prodigal son, who was far away from his home and father. Dr. Zwemer said that Moslem was far from God, physically, socially, intellectually and morally, and if the people were to be redeemed and brought to Christ the gospel must be taken to them by consecrated christian missionaries. He indicated that the task was a heroic one and the call for workers was urgent. He made a strong plea for the support of this work.

During the course of his sermon, Dr. Zwemer took occasion to speak of Dr. Harrison in the highest terms. He said that he was the best missionary in the Arabian field physically,

TABLET IN MEMORY OF FRED C. HEWITT

Unveiled In Honor of Benefactor of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

A bronze tablet has been unveiled in the new auditorium at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home in memory of Fred C. Hewitt, whose benefactions through his will made possible the erection of the building and other improvements. The tablet has been placed in a prominent position in the building which has been named "The Hewitt House." The following inscription appears on the tablet: "In Grateful Memory of Mr. Fred C. Hewitt, a Kind Benefactor of the Little Mssionary Day Nursery."

Several members of the Board of Trustees of the Home, as well as the New York nursery, were present at the unveiling, taking part in the exercises which were of a simple character. Through the will of Mr. Hewitt both the Home and the New York nursery received substantial bequests to carry on the work under the direction of Miss Sara Curry, the matron.

WESTFIELD DEMOCRATS PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

The Baltimore convention was well described by Congressman W. E. Tuttle, Jr., at the meeting of the Westfield Democratic Club in Arcanum Hall in that place last Saturday night. His talk was exceptionally interesting and was thoroughly enjoyed. The club unanimously endorsed the party's National ticket. All the members pledged themselves to work faithfully and to wage a heavy campaign.

The following ward committees were appointed for the campaign: First ward—George Rieley, Charles Clark, H. G. Mooney and H. O. Arnes; Second ward—R. F. Hohenstein, R. W. Stickle, Dr. J. B. Harrison and Ray Mayhew; Third ward—A. D. Tuttle, W. C. Bachmann, C. M. Anderson and John Corbury; Fourth ward—Linus Hetfield, L. H. Phelps, Dr. H. H. Butler and Edward Fogarty. L. H. Phelps, Dr. H. H. Butler and Robert F. Hohenstein were appointed as a finance committee to secure permanent headquarters and to purchase campaign banners.

GIFT OF COMMUNION SERVICE.

General and Mrs. S. K. Swenck, who were the founders of Marconnier chapel at Oak Tree, which has since become Marconnier Reformed church, have presented to the congregation a handsome silver individual communion service.

FOSTER MILLIKEN ASKS $4,500,000

Former Plainfielder Brings Suit to Recover Large Amount From Committee.

A BANKRUPTCY SEQUEL

Alleges Defendants Preferred Certain Banks In Making Settlement and Have Otherwise Damaged His Company.

Foster Milliken, who was a resident of this city for many years, and who is former president of Milliken Brothers, engaged in the manufacture of structural steel and iron and contractors for steel construction work, has started a suit in the Supreme Court of New York against Gates W. McGarrah, Gilbert G. Thorne, Robert C. Lewis, Edward C. Wallace, the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, the National Park Bank, the Guardian Trust Company and the International Bank, of New York, to collect $4,500,000. The action is a sequel to the operation of the company's business under a reorganization plan following bankruptcy proceedings.

Mr. Milliken sets forth that banks to which the company owed $950,000 at the time it went into bankruptcy have received preferential treatment by the defendants, who were acting as a committee. He also alleges that the defendants have damaged the business of the corporation by wasting its earnings, authorizing the payment of exorbitant salaries to members of the stockholders' committee and allowing unnecessary counsel fees.

The concern has carried out many structural steel contracts in New York, notably the construction of the Pensylvania Railroad terminal and the Singer Building. The business was founded in the '50s by the late Samuel Milliken, of this city, who retired in 1883. He has been dead a number of years. His sons, Foster Milliken and Edward F. Milliken, organized the firm of Milliken Brothers in the following year and conducted an iron commission business until 1890, when they began contracting. They had offices in Pittsburg, SanFrancisco, Cuba, Mexico, Hawaii and South Africa. The concern went into bankruptcy in 1907 on the application of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company and other concerns. The liabilities were then estimated at $6,500,000 and the assets at $8,000,000.

REV. MR. SCHNEEGAS TO JOIN PRESBYTERIANS

Borough Pastor to Leave Reformed Church—Accepts Call In N. Y. State.

The Classis of Newark will meet in special session in the North Reformed church, Newark, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of dismissing Rev. C. Hall Schneegas, the present pastor of the German Reformed church of the borough. He has been pastor of the borough church for several years, succeeding Rev. George Hauser, and intends uniting with the Presbyterian church. He has received a call to the pastorate of a church of that denomination near Saratoga, N. Y., which he proposes to accept.

Mr. Schneegas and his family left the borough a few weeks ago for Saratoga, where they planned to spend the summer. Before going away, he resigned as pastor of the local church and then communicated with the Classis of Newark informing that body that he desired to be dismissed. Since his departure the pulpit has been occupied by supplies. Rev. Mr. Hauser having preached several Sundays.

The church hopes to secure a successor to Mr. Schneegas within a short time.

LEMONADE IS SERVED AT PRAYER MEETING

In the weekly announcement for the mid-week prayer meeting at the Congregational church, Wednesday night, the church bulletin states that "ice-cold lemonade will be served. You will be the cooler and can endure the heat better if you come to this meeting." The introduction of refreshment at this mid-week meeting, it is said, has had a tendency to increase the attendance.

CAMP FOR BABES IS OPENED TODAY

Eight Little Ones and Four Poor Mothers Are Guests of Institution.

MISS GODFREY NURSE

Funds Are Needed and The Daily Press, Following Its Annual Custom, Will Receive Contributions For Camp.

The King's Daughters' Baby Camp located on Johnston's Drive, on the slope of the Watchung Mountain, was opened today by the officers of The City Union of The King's Daughters, and during the day eight babies and four mothers were taken to the camp in an automobile.

During the past two weeks the members of the organization have been busy getting the camp in readiness for the opening. The building and grounds have been thoroughly cleaned and the quarters supplied with such things as will be necessary to carry on the work. Miss Grace Godfrey, a nurse residing here, has been engaged for the summer to look after the babies' welfare.

For the purpose of carrying on this work in a satisfactory manner considerable money will be needed. The King's Daughters depend on the people of Plainfield and vicinity to support the camp and they hope that they will be generous in their contributions. Money can be sent to the Plainfield Daily Press, where it will be acknowledged and forwarded at once to the proper authorities. Several contributions have already been received and others no matter how small will be greatly appreciated. The King's Daughters have decided to keep the Day Nursery open until August 1.

STROKE OF APOPLEXY FATAL TO R. D. BROWN

Photographer Succumbs At Home of His Son After Two Days' Illness.

Robert D. Brown, aged about 55 years, died suddenly last night at the home of his son, Robin C. Brown, 4 Verdon street, following a stroke of apoplexy on Friday. Prior to that time he had been in fairly good health with the exception of an occasional attack of rheumatism. Owing to this fact he was obliged to give up business several years ago.

During the four years that he resided here he devoted part of his time to photography, being engaged to do private work. In this he was successful. Mr. Brown was born in Scotland. He came to this country when a boy and lived the great part of his life in New York, removing here four years ago. In early life he was connected with the Baptist church, but during the past few years became interested in the Presbyterian church. He was a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., and Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans. He is survived by one son, Robin C. Brown.

The funeral service will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the late home. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, of the First Baptist church, will officiate. The burial will be at Kensico, N. Y., on Wednesday.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

The funeral service of William H. P. Miner, whose death occurred Saturday shortly after receiving injuries at the Manganese Steel Safe Works, where he was employed as a foreman, will be held at the late residence, 41 Mariners place, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Miner was engaged in grinding a piece of metal on an emery wheel when the wheel split in two, one half of it striking him in the breast, inflicting fatal injuries. He died while being removed in the ambulance to the hospital.

CALVARY PULPIT DECLARED VACANT

Trustees of Colored Baptist Church Give Their Pastor $150 to Resign.

The officials of the Calvary Baptist church have declared the pulpit vacant and Rev. G. W. Bailey, who was pastor for about six years, is no longer connected with the church. He left on Saturday for Boston to visit his brother, who is pastor of Ebenezer Baptist church, that city, and later he will go south.

The action severing Mr. Bailey's relations as pastor of the church, was taken on Wednesday night of last week, following a meeting of the officials the previous Monday. Mr. Bailey was waited on by trustees and deacons and he accepted their offer of $150, three months' salary in advance and agreed to relinquish the pastorate. Yesterday the pulpit was occupied by out of town preachers.

According to one of the leading officials of the church, there has been a lack of harmony on the part of pastor and people for several years, largely, he alleges, because he "took sides" and did not preach sound Baptist doctrine. The same official declared that Mr. Bailey sought to be not only the pastor, but ursurped all the powers of the trustees and deacons, called meetings at his own pleasure and otherwise acted in an arbitrary manner.

The trustees and deacons, it is alleged, desired to carry out certain projects, but every time the pastor would thwart their purpose and defeat every proposition that did not suit him. For this reason, it is declared, the members got together and decided that for the best interest of the church it was better to sever the pastoral relations.

FAREWELL SERVICE FOR CAPTAIN AND MRS. HEWITT

Captain and Mrs. S. A. Hewitt held a farewell service at the Salvation Army barracks on East Second street last night. They concluded their services here yesterday, but for the present will remain at their bungalow at Wayside Park, Dunellen. There was a large attendance of people at the meeting last night and all expressed their regret that the captain and his wife were to leave.

Both the captain and his wife made short addresses last night, in which they thanked the people for the united support given in the past and they expressed the hope that they would be loyal to the new officers, Adjutant and Mrs. Wall, who will take charge of the work here on Wednesday.

Among the other speakers were: Miss Mair, treasurer of the local corps; Adjutant Jackson, of the Industrial Home; Captain Margaret Gallagher, secretary of the Young Peoples Society; Robert Love, of the West End Tabernacle, and William Demaris, of the Plainfield Rescue Mission.

J. F. Parker, of North Plainfield, will conduct the religious service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tonight, and tomorrow night John McClymont, of the Congregational church, will be in charge. On Wednesday night, William R. Townsend will assist in providing an entertainment for the mothers and children with his phonograph. Mrs. Royal T. Phillips, of West Front street, who has consented to look after the Wednesday night entertainments at the Home, will have a fine program. She is drilling the children for various entertainments to be given from time to time. Joseph W. Gavett will have charge of the religious service Thursday night and G. M. Rittenhouse will speak at the Friday night meeting.

DUG UP REMAINS OF WOMAN'S BODY

Human Bones Found When Workmen Excavate Beneath Vincent Chapel.

CANNOT BE IDENTIFIED

Many Years Ago Spot Was a Site of Burial Ground Says John Corey—County Physician and Police Are Notified By Contractor.

While engaged today in excavating in the cellar beneath Vincent chapel of the Frst M. E. church, where two furnaces are to be installed, William Rutledge and William Peel unearthed a decayed wooden box in which they found the remains of a woman's body. There was practically nothing left but the bones, although there was a full head of auburn hair and a good set of teeth with some gold filings. There was nothing to indicate who the person might have been as there was no name plate on the box; in fact the box was of the ordinary sort and not the kind that it is customary to be used for a burial.

The workmen were startled at the find of the remains and at once informed Captain Willitm Smith, the contractor for the work. He notified the police department and Patrolman Arthur McGinley was put on the case. In the meantime Dr. F. W. Westcott, the county physician, was notified. He gave instructions to have Undertaker George Cole care for the body until he could come to Plainfield this afternoon.

Although the police do not believe it to be a case of murder, there is evidence that the woman's skull was fractured. The box was far too small for a person of such a size and it looked as though the body had been jammed into it, while the cover was put on rather carelessly.

John Corey, one of the trustees of the First M. E. church, who was around when the body was discovered, recalled the fact that many years ago there was a burying ground in that vicinity. Mr. Corey is of the opinion that when the bodies were removed to make room for improvements, this body may have been placed in another box and reburied. The box was found about six feet underground, the customary depth.

Captain Smith has the contract to install two new furnaces in the basement of Vincent chapel to take the place of two that are worn out and it was found necessary to make a deep excavation for the foundation.

After County Physician Westcott gives a burial permit Mr. Cole will probably rebury the body in one of the local cemeteries.

YOUTH BADLY BURNED; GUNPOWDER EXPLODES

Allen Griggs May Lose Sight of Eye By a Mishap at Dunellen Today.

Allen Griggs, of this city, while visiting his grandfather, Peter C. Staats, at Dunellen, was severely burned about the face and hands today, by the explosion of a quantity of gunpowder, which he was pouring out of a bottle on to a bonfire which he had started in the yard. The bottle containing the gunpowder also exploded and a piece of the glass struck the lad in the left eye.

The boy's screams attracted the attention of his grandfather and the latter rushed to the aid of the victim, who was frantic with pain. As quickly as possible the lad was taken to the office of Dr. Thomas H. Platt, nearby, and he was promptly treated. He was greatly concerned about the injury to the boy's eye and it will be several days before he will be able to tell whether the sight can be saved. Mrs. Griggs, the victim's mother, had been visiting at the Staats home, but she came to Plainfield on an errand and it was during that time that her son met with the accident.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE.

A special music program was the feature of the evening services at the Netherwood Reformed church yesterday when the Men's Club attended in a body. The church was crowded to the doors in spite of the disagreeable weather. A male quartet consisting of F. B. Wills, first tenor; M. Ralph, second tenor; G. Thornton Longbothum, M. D., first bass, and H. J. Martin, second bass, sang several different selections. Solos were sung by Mr. Wills and R. Martin and H. J. Martin and son sang a duet.

HELD ON CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Long Branch, July 15—Henry Munroe, of New York, was Friday held without bail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of forgery.

Munroe, it is alleged, attempted to pass a forged check for $10 on the Citizens' National Bank. He had signed the name of Fred Luther, of the Germania hotel, where he was employed as a handy man. Mr. Luther declared that his signature had been forged, although at the hearing Munroe claimed he had never seen it before. Munroe also tried to cash the check at a grocery store. He succeeded in cashing a check for $5 bearing the name of Joseph Finn, a local contractor.

PERTH AMBOY MOVES TO KEEP OUT PLAGUE

Perth Amboy, July 15.—The Board of Aldermen has voted a special appropriation of $250 to be used by the health authorities in warding off the bubonic plague. The action followed the request of Dr. C. W. Naulty, federal health officer of the port, who appealed to the local health authorities for aid.

Dr. John L. Lund, inspector of the Board of Health, made the appeal when Dr. Naulty's request was indorsed by Dr. G. W. Fithian, State health officer of the port. An attempt will be made to kill off all dock rats at once. The local, State and federal inspectors have formulated a number of restrictions, to which all vessel masters must agree, so long as there is danger of contagion, or there will be no permits to land issued.

All steamers must be anchored at least six feet from the wharves, with freshly tarred hawsers, each one of which must be provided with a satisfactory device to prevent rats reaching the shore. Gangplanks are to be allowed between steamer and wharf only when necessary, and no loading or unloading is to be permitted after dark.

Copies of these restrictions have been given local plants having steamship connection with Cuban and other ports in the infected zone, and they will be rigidly enforced.

Middle of the Map.

Mention of the highest point in the city of London recalls a famous discussion as to the middle point of England. Geographers and mathematicians combined their knowledge and indulged in elaborate calculations without satisfactory result until one ingenious problem solver "found a way" like Mr. Barrie's Tommy. He cut out a map of England, mounted it on cardboard, and the spot at which the map would balance on the point of a pin was obviously the middle.—London Spectator.

Beat Him to It.

In one of the "dry" states a law evading boniface said to a thirsty guest:

"I don't sell spirits, but I will give you a glass of prime whisky, and then if you want a biscuit I will sell it to you for 25 cents."

The man was given a stiff glass, drank it with evident appreciation of its quality, and the landlord then offered him a biscuit.

"Well, no, I think not," said the guest, "you sell them too dear. I can get one at any baker's shop for a cent," and he walked away.

Many of the Handsome Gifts are Unclaimed

Of the 80 valuable presents we offered during the Fifth Anniversary Sale there are quite a number that have not found pleased recipients, and as

and there were also many of our patrons and friends who did not receive a numbered Circular, we have thought out the following plan whereby everybody will have an opportunity to secure one.

Tomorrow-Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday

We will give away a numbered card to any adult who visits our store and asks for one. Then on Friday we will place around the store all remaining gifts, with a number on it and if you have the same number on your card you can claim the gift free.

Mr. Fort will again draw the numbers and cards will only be given to adults—not to children—and one to each household.

Reduced Prices Continued on All Anniversary Specials

As a further inducement for you to visit the store this week, in addition to securing your card we will continue the reduced prices on all the remaining quantities from the Anniversary Sale and there are still many mighty big bargains.

NEW MAPS OF JERSEY FOR TOURING AUTOISTS

The touring department of the Automobile Club of America, at New York, has announced a new edition of road maps covering Central and Northern New Jersey, the Hudson River, south and north, taking in the New York to Saratoga routes, and also a new map of Connecticut.

Domestic touring is very much heavier than usual this season. The touring department reports that more than twenty subscribers and members of the club are now on their way to Nova Scotia, where they will take in the thirteen-day tour of "The Land of Evangeline." This tour has been compiled very carefully, and with full running directions. The hotels and roads are improving rapidly and the country retains most of its quaint and picturesque features, making it very different from any of our American touring grounds.

Fully 95 per cent. of the Hudson Valley trunk line road, from New York to Albany, above Peekskill Landing, is now in excellent shape. The latest report announces that the detour which has been long necessary in the neighborhood of Hyde Park has been done away with entirely, giving practically a clear main road from Peekskill to Albany.

Both the north and south roads between West Hampton and South Hampton, through the Shinnecock Hills section of Long Island, are in an atrocious condition. This is most unfortunate at this particular time, because many motorists wish to tour this way to the Shinnecock and the new national golf courses.

DIVORCE RECOMMENDED FOR E. J. ALEXANDER

Trenton, July 15.—Finding that Mrs. Frank J. Alexander, formerly of Newark and Hoboken, had been guilty of improper conduct, a divorce has been recommended for the husband. Evidence obtained by Mr. Alexander, with the aid of a detective figured in the case.

At the time of their marriage in New York city in 1901, Mr. Alexander had barely attained his majority and his wife was only eighteen. Because of their youth they did not try to establish a home immediately, the bridegroom returning to the home of his parents in Hoboken, while Mrs. Alexander went to live with her parents in Mt. Prospect avenue, Newark. Later they lived in Hoboken.

It was something more than three years ago that Mrs. Alexander told her husband she was tired of associating with the "codfish aristocracy" of New Jersey and wanted to make her home elsewhere. She indicated her dislike for housekeeping, expressed dissatisfaction with the amount of her husband's earnings and suggested that she go elsewhere to live and take her baby with her. When Mr. Alexander refused to listen to this suggestion, his wife departed. Efforts at a reconciliation failed.

CARRIED NEEDLE IN HER FOOT THIRTY-TWO YEARS

Branchville, July 15.—A needle that lodged in the foot of Mrs. Daniel H. Hornbeck, of Pike county, Pa., across the Delaware River from Sussex county, and broke off thirty-two years ago, has worked out of Mrs. Hornbeck's foot near the great toe.

When a little miss ten years old, Mrs. Hornbeck, whose maiden name was Alice Whittaker, was playing in her stocking feet at her home in Dingmans Ferry, when a shriek of pain alarmed the household. Investigation showed that she had run a needle in the foot. A small piece was removed.

From time to time Mrs. Hornbeck has been troubled with pains in the foot near the great toe. She consulted a physician some years ago and was informed that a bunion was causing the trouble.

This summer the toe caused a great deal of trouble and a doctor advised "drawing" to relieve the swelling. Several days ago when she removed the bandage out popped part of a rusty needle more than an inch long.

DENIES ADVANCE VIEW OF CORPORATION BOOKS

Trenton, July 15.—For several reasons set forth in a memorandum filed in the Court of Chancery, Vice Chancellor Emery has refused to allow an order for a preliminary inspection of the books of the Youngstown-Sharon Railway and Light Company.

The application was made on behalf of E. Clarence Young, who is suing the Youngstown-Sharon Company and the Mahoning and Shenango Railway and Light Company to compel a distribution of assets in the form of dividends.

Jones owns 1,500 shares of the stock of the Youngstown-Sharon Company, the remainder of which, exceeding 20,000 shares, are owned by the Mahoning Company. The Youngstown Company is merely a holding company, and Mr. Jones alleges that the Mahoning Company, through its majority stock ownership, has wrongfully refused to declare dividends, but has been diverting the assets of the Youngstown Company for the benefit of its subsidiary corporations.

ABSENCE OF RED BANK MAN REMAINS A MYSTERY

Red Bank, July 15—Nothing has yet been learned of the whereabouts of George Weiderholt, who disappeared last Monday night. According to a statement made by Mrs. Weiderholt, her husband left his home on Sunset avenue here to attend a meeting of the local Odd Fellows' lodge. He was not present at the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Weiderholt were married about a year ago. As far as can be learned they always lived happily together. Mrs. Weiderholt says she cannot understand why her husband went away.

Mr. Weiderholt, at the time of his disappearance, was employed in the Eisner government uniform factory here. He is also an expert bread baker, having at one time been employed in that capacity for a local baking firm.

AS TO STATE CONVENTIONS.

Trenton, July 15.—In a letter written to Chairman Harry Reeves, of the Camden Republican County Committee, Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill reiterates the advice given by his office last year that Section 262 of the election laws, relating to the holding of State conventions, has been superseded by Section 427, the latter being a part of the Geran law of last year. It was Mr. Gaskill's opinion that, in view of the evident conflict between the two sections, the later enactment is an implied repealer of the earlier. He pointed out also that the legislation of last winter seemed to indicate clearly the intention that Section 427 should govern the holding of State conventions. This simply means that the State conventions next fall will be the same as those last year, with the added provisions that obtain in a Presidential year when electors are to be chosen.

WILL HEAD NORMAL SCHOOL.

Hackensack, July 15—Dr. Julius M. Winslow, who held the position of supervising principal of the public schools of Ridgefield Park, near here, for three years and resigned when the Board of Education would not increase his salary, has been informed of his appointment as principal of the Teachers' Normal and Training School of the city of Elizabeth. This position has been filled for the last thirty years by Dr. William F. Robinson, who retires to move to Southern California.

MAY IMPEACH SHANK.

Indianapolis Mayor's Stand on Vice Arouses Religious Element.

TALK OF IMPEACHING SHANK.

Indianapolis Mayor Stirs Up Fuss by Attitude on Vice.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 15.—Mayor Lew Shank is in imminent danger of impeachment through dissatisfaction with his course in respect to disorderly houses.

Soon after the meetings of the Men and Religion Forward Movement a committee on vice conditions was formed and several consultations were held with the mayor. At first he seemed to be in sympathy with the desire to close the places, but later announced himself in favor of segregation. Several attempts have been made to force him to fix a day for the closing of all such places, but he has refused to do so.

The mayor has refused to let the police be used in any way in the campaign against vice, and the impeachment proceedings if brought will be based on alleged violation of the law.

HUNDREDS REPORTED DEAD IN CLOUDBURST

Said That Two Cities in Mexico Are Wiped Out.

City of Mexico, July 15.—Details of cloudbursts and floods which again destroyed several thriving cities and exacted a toll of hundreds of lives in the state of Guanajuato were received in this city.

The advices declare that the cities of Salamanca and Celaya have been wiped off the map and that the number of victims cannot possibly be foretold until the waters have subsided.

The first of the series of cloudbursts and floods which have stricken the wealthy state of Guanajuato occurred several weeks ago, when a large part of the capital was washed away, together with several hundred unfortunate peons.

HUGHES OUT FOR SENATE.

New Jersey Congressman, Wilson Supporter, Wants to Succeed Briggs.

Washington, July 15.—Representative William Hughes of New Jersey has confided to friends that he will be a candidate for the senate to succeed Senator Frank Briggs. Mr. Hughes is at his home in Paterson preparing for the formal launching of his boom. He is serving his fourth term in the house.

Mr. Hughes is one of Governor Wilson's right hand men and expects to come to the senate if Governor Wilson goes to the White House.

Senator Briggs was elected in 1907 to succeed former Senator John F. Dryden. He was one of the five senators who voted for Senator Lorimer last year and switched over and voted against the "Blonde Boss" Saturday. His term expires next March.

DESPERATE LUNATIC ESCAPES

Captured Several Hours Later After Spreading Terror For Miles.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 15.—Prying apart the bars of the window in his cell on the second floor of the main building of the Hudson River State hospital, Nicolo di Gregario, forty years old, an inmate of the hospital and one of the most dangerous men there, slid to the ground, fifty feet below, by means of bed sheets tied together and escaped.

He was captured several hours later after he had spread terror among the residents for miles around.

BABY BORN IN MOVING VAN.

It Serves as an Emergency Ambulance, Stork Beats It to Bellevue.

New York, July 15.—Mary Weidenfeller was born in a moving van, and so she is to be christened Mary Van Weidenfeller.

The van was summoned as an emergency ambulance by Patrolman Presley, who found Mrs. Weidenfeller in a state of collapse on the sidewalk. Driver Comiskey drove the van team as fast as he could, but the stork was a winner in the race to Bellevue hospital.

SIXTEEN DEAD IN RAILROAD WRECK

Forty Hurt In C., B. and Q. Rear End Collision.

FAST MAIL HITS LIMITED.

Dense Fog Hampers Work of Rescuers. Not a Passenger In End Car Escapes Death or Injury—Believed That Many of Those Hurt Will Die.

Chicago, July 15.—Sixteen persons were killed and two score or more hurt at Western Springs when a heavy mail train on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad collided with the Oriental limited train of the same road.

Both of the trains were eastbound at the time of the accident. The passenger train had come to stop outside Western Springs, which is seventeen miles out of Chicago, to enable the train crew to attend to a "hot box" on one of the rear Pullman coaches. In stopping the passenger train had cleared a block at the next town west, Hinsdale, and the fast mail train, bowling along at sixty miles an hour, only nine minutes behind, crashed into the rear coach of the passenger and literally plowed a path through it. Every man, woman and child in the rear coach was either killed or hurt.

Harrowing Scenes.

The rear cars of the Overland were crushed, and debris was scattered along the track for many yards. The injured, many of whom are thought to be fatally hurt, were taken care of as fast as they were removed from the wrecks by residents of Hinsdale.

Scenes of a harrowing nature accompanied the collision. Moans of the dying and shrieks of the injured filled the air. The dense fog prevented the rescuers from locating the sufferers at once, and it was with difficulty that the victims could be removed from the tangled mass of wood and steel.

The injured ones were carried to improvised hospitals, while the dead were removed to various morgues in the village.

The train is one of the best in the service of the railroad.

TO CUT EXPRESS RATES.

Commerce Board Wants Reduction of Approximately 15 Per Cent.

Washington, July 15.—Sweeping reductions in express rates averaging in general approximately 15 per cent, drastic reforms in regulations and practices and comprehensive changes in the methods of operation are prescribed in a report made public by the interstate commerce commission of its investigation into the business of the thirteen great express companies of the United States.

Dealing with the identity of interest between the various companies, the report finds that, while these companies are separate legal entities, "it is of interest to regard this fact that by stock ownership and otherwise they are so interlaced, interwined and interlocked that it is with difficulty we can trace any one of the greater companies as either wholly independent in its management or the agency of a single railroad system. So that while these companies operate separately and compete with each other for traffic the express business may be said to be almost a family affair."

SUFFRAGETTE A FIREBUG.

Admits She Tried to Ruin Home of Lord Harcourt.

London, July 15.—A sensational incident occurred at Nuneham Park, the historic residence of Lewis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies.

Two well dressed women were found in the grounds by the night watchmen. One of them had a quantity of methylated spirits and some tow in her possession. She was arrested, but the other escaped in the darkness.

At the police court the arrested woman gave her name as Helen Craggs. She is a daughter of Sir John Craggs and the same militant suffragette who caused the unpleasant incident when the king and queen visited Llandaff cathedral.

The charge made against Miss Craggs was intent to commit a felony by setting fire to Nuneham house.

Weather Forecast.

A WISE DECISION.

Justice Garrison has handed down a decision of unusual importance to the medical world for it establishes the principle in New Jersey that a competent physician may use his own judgment, in an operation where a patient is under an anaesthetic and cannot direct the surgeon, and may extend the operation without instructions. The precedent, which is sure to be followed in other States, is based on common sense and is wise decision-made law. The old common law principle that a surgeon must first obtain the consent of his patient before he operates is not upset by the Jersey jurist's opinion as the latter only holds when the person operated upon is in an unconscious condition and therefore cannot direct the surgeon.

The case in point was that of Harris Bennan, of Essex county, against Dr. Victor Parsonnet. Benpan sued Parsonnet for assault and battery and recovered a verdict of $1,000 because the doctor performed a more extensive operation than he had agreed to perform. The plaintiff applied for an operation, which two years before had been unsuccessful, and the doctor, learning that the patient was a poor man, agreed to operate free. When the plaintiff was placed under the anaesthetic it was found that his condition was more serious than had been supposed, and that if not operated upon at once he would likely die. Instead of operating as at first intended, therefore, the surgeon operated more extensively. The man recovered from the operation and is well.

It is refreshing to learn that neither Governor Woodrow Wilson nor President William Howard Taft will turn the campaign for the Presidency into a continuous performance by "swinging around the circle" making speeches from the rear end of a railroad train. The Democratic nominee will confine his speech-making to a few addresses in the larger cities of the country while the Republican candidate will confine himself to some front porch addresses. In these days when the means of communication are so speedy and satisfactory, there is really no necessity for an aspirant for the highest office in the land to undergo the physical and mental tortures of stumping the country. The old and dignified method is much better from every standpoint. Let any Presidential candidate make a speech from the steps of his summer home and it will be flashed to every city, town and village in the land and by the power of printer's ink placed before the voters without any loss of time.

The Daily Press acknowledges the receipt of $2, the gift of "Ruth and Elizabeth" to the poor little babies who are being cared for at the Camp on the mountain conducted by the City Union of the King's Daughters. For some reason, the contributions have not been coming in as rapidly this season as in recent years and as the worthy institution was formally opened today in anticipation of the good people of Plainfield voluntarily providing the cost of maintenance, money is urgently needed. Contributions sent to this office will be promptly acknowledged and transmitted at once to the King's Daughters special committee.

It may be that he was suffering from the heat, but the conduct of Champ Clark when questioned by newspapermen following his conference with Governor Wilson at Sea Girt on Saturday seemed to convince those trained sizers-up of politicians that the man from Missouri is not as enthusiastic for Democratic success as he might be.

Representative William Hughes has decided that the Senatorial toga worn by Frank O. Briggs would look like a "made to measure" if placed on his shoulders. We could name a goodly number who somehow or other think that they could pose before the looking glass in that very self-same toga.

New Jersey won fame in the running of the Marathon, the classic of the Olympic games at Stockholm yesterday, Gaston Storbino, of South Paterson, upholding the athletic honor of the United States by finishing in third place.

A prominent resident, who always looks upon the cheerful side when discussing any important subject, will be the contributing editor for next Saturday's issue.

No, constant reader, we guess you're right when you say that Plainfield is not the ideal summer resort. In fact, we know you're right.

The political pot has not begun to boil in Plainfield. There's nothing doing but lots brewing.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The thermometer at the State Trust Company today showed these figures: 9 a. m., 75 degress; 11 a. m., 82 degrees; 1 p. m., 85 degrees.

MONDAY MORNING IN THE POLICE COURT

Three Offenders Arraigned Before Judge W. G. DeMeza, Who Deals Leniently.

Thomas Ryan was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the City Court this morning on a charge of non-appearance in court early in March. Ryan was arrested for reckless driving and allowed to go on the condition that he would appear in court the following morning, but failed to do so. He was given the option of paying a fine of $8 or of spending forty days in the county jail. Ryan paid the fine.

Irving Berlowitz, a peddler of East Third street, was brought into the court on a charge preferred against him by Richard Burke, of East Sixth street. The complainant claimed that Berlowitz distributed refuse about the public streets and paid no attention to repeated warnings on the part of Burke. Judge DeMeza reprimanded the defendant and allowed him to go on a suspended sentence.

Sheridan Jones, of Grove street, was arraigned for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He pleaded for another chance, promising to leave town; and as this was the first time he has been up before Judge DeMeza he was allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

HER ARM WAS BROKEN IN AUTOMOBILE MISHAP

Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of East Second street, is detained at her home with a broken arm, the result of an automobile accident Saturday afternoon. In company with Mr. Woodruff, her daughter, Mrs. Harry S. Potter, of El Paso, Texas, and Miss Helen Dunham, of Dunellen, she was taking an auto ride in the vicinity of the Plainfield Country Club. While passing the club's grounds the car struck a sandy stretch in the road. Mr. Woodruff, who was driving, put on a little more power and as he did so the car partially turned on its side. Mrs. Woodruff was thrown over against the side of the machine and the weight of Mrs. Potter and Miss Dunham, who were thrown against her, resulted in the injury to her arm.

Several golfers playing on the links nearby assisted the party by righting the machine. Mrs. Woodruff was brought home and a physician was summoned to set the broken bones. She is now getting along nicely.

Mrs. Frank C. Krewson, of Summit avenue, has returned after spending the week end with her mother, Mrs. Anna Marr, of Brooklyn.

GRAHAME-WHITE AND BRIDE.

Part of Their Honeymoon Trip Was Made in an Aeroplane.

Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator, and his bride, who was Miss Dorothy Taylor of New York, made a part of the honeymoon trip in an aeroplane. Indeed, the aeroplane played quite a part in the wedding affair.

It had been intended to fly to the Widford church, in Chelmsford, Essex, where they were married, but Miss

Taylor had a premonition of danger, and this much of the program was abandoned.

Several of the bridegroom's aviator friends, including Tom Sopwith, Gustave Hamel, Robert Loraine and others, flew from Hendon. Pierre Verrier carried a woman passenger, Miss Christich.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Grahame-White cruised the south coast of England aboard a steam yacht and wound up their trip in France, whence they flew home over the channel.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Taylor of New York and a niece of the late Governor Roswell P. Flower.

THOMAS TAGGART.

He Has Resigned From the Democratic National Committee.

Thomas Taggart of Indiana, who has resigned as Democratic national committeeman from that state, entered politics in 1886, when he was nominated by the Democrats for county auditor. He was then manager of the restaurant in the Union station in Indianapolis and wonderfully popular. In the following election he was elected with a majority of his Democratic colleagues for office.

It was the first Democratic victory in years, and Taggart got the credit of pulling the ticket through, as he ran far ahead of all the other candidates. After that his rise was rapid. Two years later he was chairman of the county committee and began to build up a political machine that showed its worth in after years. Taggart was elected auditor for a second term.

Finally, in 1895, he received his party nomination for mayor of Indianapolis. He swept the city and was re-elected in 1897 and again in 1899. Taggart's regime as mayor of Indianapolis brought the city its first designation as a "wide open town."

In 1903 he lost control temporarily of the city machine when James L. Keach was elected chairman over his candidate. It was one of the anomalies of politics that the next year, when Judge Alton B. Parker was nominated as Democratic candidate for the presidency, Taggart was chosen chairman of the national committee to run the campaign, although at that time he had failed to elect his candidate as chairman in the city of which he had been three times mayor.

He had been appointed on the national committee in 1886 as a Bryan supporter. After the 1904 campaign Taggart dropped out of politics for a time.

He came to the front again in the 1908 campaign, and later he and Governor Marshall were at loggerheads. However, Taggart appeared at the Baltimore convention as a stanch supporter of Marshall.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

LIMA BEANS.

WHEN boiling lima beans they will keep their fresh green color longer if boiled quickly and uncovered.

Beans are the seeds of a leguminous plant and contain nourishment in a very concentrated form. They are more easily digested in the form of purees.

As a Thick Soup.

Puree of Lima Beans.—Take about a pound of the fresh lima beans and put on the fire in two quarts of boiling water. Add a tablespoonful of finely cut onion and boil until you can mash the vegetables. Then strain into a double boiler and season with salt and pepper. Stir in a tablespoonful of butter into which has been rubbed a tablespoonful of flour. Boil the soup until it thickens. Flavor with parsley and serve with croutons.

Browned Lima Beans.—Beans which are somewhat old may be cooked this way or cold ones may be thus warmed over. After the lima beans have been cooked until soft mash them and add a little salt and pepper and butter. Put into buttered molds and set in the oven until the top is nicely browned.

With Rich Sauce.

Lima Beans In White Sauce.—Shell the beans and let them stand in cold water for an hour, then boil for half an hour in salted water. Drain and dress with butter, pepper and salt and put back into the saucepan with a good white sauce flavored with chopped parsley. Simmer for a few minutes and serve.

Lima Beans and Corn.—Boil a pint of lima beans till tender, then add a pint of sweet corn. Let these cook together for half an hour, then season with salt and pepper and dress with butter and milk.

Easy to Digest.

Stewed Lima Beans.—Put a quart of the shelled lima beans in boiling water. Boil quickly, then let them simmer until done. When tender pour off a part of the water. Season with a teaspoonful of salt and two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter. Or drain the water from the beans and put the butter in a saucepan with one tablespoonful of flour. Stir over the fire until smooth and frothy, then add the beans and let stay on the fire for five minutes. Add half a pint of water, meat stock or milk. Simmer ten minutes. A teaspoonful of seasoning herbs may be added a few minutes before serving.

WIDOW'S WEEDS.

Gracefully Draped Veil For First Mourning.

WHEN THE VEIL IS THROWN BACK.

After the first six months the widow's veil may be thrown back, and a graceful arrangement is pictured here. The veil is doubled and pinned over the flat toque, the ends falling naturally at one side.

FOLLIES OF FASHION.

Why Women Wear Ribbons in Their Hair.

Observe the young lady with the ribbon about her hair. Do you know why she wears it? No? Neither does she.

The reason is that in the year 1680 the Duchess de Fontanges' hat blew off.

The duchess, then the favorite of Louis XIV., was out hunting on the royal preserves. Unfortunately her hat blew off. What was she to do? The duchess was equal to the occasion. Taking off her crimson garter ribbon, she bound it about her disheveled coiffure with the rosette to the front.

"Charming!" exclaimed the gentlemen of the party who had gallantly lowered their eyes during the change.

Being the favorite of the king, everything she did started a fad among the sheeplike ladies of the court. Immediately ribbons about the carefully disordered hair became the rage. Later rats, false curls, lace and other foreign matter were added to the Fontanges style. The modern hair ribbon is a recurrence.

False hair, however, is of much older origin. In the British museum is a toupee that covered the bald spot of an unknown Babylonian, defunct these several thousand years. Every wisp of hair has retained its original curl.

Girl's Summer Frock.

No summer fabric is so easy to handle as embroidery flouncing, and the costume is half made before it is begun. Inexpensive flouncing was used most effectively for this little girl's frock, bands of forchon insertion being introduced here and there as entre deux.

Divided on Suffrage.

English society women are divided on the suffrage question. It is the fashion to have strong views for or against and very old fashioned to be indifferent on the subject.

Meetings on one side or the other must be fitted into the day's round of social duties. Sometimes they are sandwiched in between luncheons and teas and in other cases between dinners and dances.

TO SHADE MILADY'S LOVELY FACE PARASOLS ARE QUAINTLY PRETTY.

THIS season manufacturers of parasols achieve their novelties by means of variations in the shapes of the sunshades. They are dome shaped, bell shaped, elliptical and in many other novel forms. Sometimes two or three sets of ribs are used in attaining the desired outlines, and then the fitting of the cover is a work that taxes the skill of even expert parasol makers. Daring combinations of color are seen on many new sunshades, and striped effects are popular. Ruchings and embroideries seem to be the modish decorations for the lingerie parasol. Those of linen embroidered by hand, while expensive, are a safe investment, as their popularity does not wane from season to season, and they can so easily and effectively be cleaned when they become soiled. Parasols of pongee are also useful. One of these in natural color is shown here finished with a narrow white border. The other sunshade illustrated is of white linen embroidered with clover leaves.

PARASOLS OF LINEN AND PONGEE

Charlotte Russe.

Line a fancy bowl or glass dish with stale sponge cakes or lady fingers which have been split. Soak two teaspoonfuls of granulated gelatin in two tablespoonfuls of cold milk for ten minutes. Heat two tablespoonfuls of milk and add to the gelatin. Set the dish containing the gelatin in hot water until the gelatin is dissolved. Then let it cool, but not harden. Whip a pint of cream and add to it two tablespoonfuls of pulverized sugar, the cooled gelatin and vanilla to flavor. Set in a pan of cold water on the stove and beat till it thickens. Pour into the dish with the cakes. Garnish with maraschino cherries.

Savory Mutton Stew.

In order to make this cut a pound and a half of any cheap part of mutton in small pieces. Put a tablespoonful and a half of butter in a stewpan on the fire and as it melts add a tablespoonful and a half of sifted flour. When it is a rich brown add a pint of water and let it simmer. Now put a tablespoonful and a half of butter in the frying pan and melt. Into this butter stir half of a turnip cut into small cubes, half a chopped onion and half a teaspoonful of flour. When it is a golden brown add the meat. Season with salt, pepper and herbs and simmer for an hour and a half. Serve very hot.

DESIGNS FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS' PLAY GARMENTS ARE CHARMING

PLAY clothes for children are as pretty as those for full dress occasions. Linen, chambray and piqué ginghams and other heavy wash fabrics are used in making up these garments. For the very little tots there are play aprons with fanciful decorations like the one in the sketch. This one has deep pockets for the playthings. They are bound with bands of plain contrasting material of a darker shade. A flock of geese in outline stitch ornaments the lower part of the apron. The little suit with the Russian blouse is of galatea. The square neck, the belt and the sleeves are trimmed with bands of embroidery. A suit of this sort may be worn by either a tiny girl or boy and is just the thing for romping in the sand at the seashore or for a morning at the sand pile.

PEOPLE HEAR DR. ZWEMER

mentally and spiritually; adding that every member of Trinity Reformed church had reason to feel proud of their representative in the foreign mission field. At the service there was distributed a small book entitled "Inland Oman," written by Dr. Harrison, which describes his journey inland in Arabia. These books are to have a world-wide circulation and Trinity church received the first copies. During the service a soprano solo, "Ninety and Nine," was sung by Miss S. Etta Raybert.

Dr. Zwemer also made a brief address to the Bible school prior to the regular morning service. Saturday night he was the speaker at the open-air meeting at Madison avenue and West Front street, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. At that time he addressed a large crowd of people on the theme, "The Love of God," referring to the breadth, length, height and depth of God's love. For nearly a half-hour the speaker held the close attention of everyone. He was introduced by Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

After twenty-two years of active missionary service in Arabia, Dr. Zwemer recently accepted a call to engage in a larger work for all Mohammedans. He is in America for two months, preparing to go to Cairo, his new headquarters, where he will conduct a mission for Moslems, spending several months a year in similar work in other places. He will also have charge of English preaching services in Cairo, will teach in the Theological Seminary of the American Mission and will give a large share of his time to preparing literature for use in Moslem missions.

Dr. Zwemer was born in Vriesland, Mich., April 12, 1867. He was graduated from Hope College when twenty years old and subsequently received his D. D. at the New Brunswick Theological Seminary and his A. M. from his alma mater. He was ordained a clergyman of the Reformed church in 1890 and began his missionary work in foreign lands at that time.

Dr. Zwemer's first post was at Bagdad, Arabia, being afterward stationed at Buhrein and other Eastern cities. He traveled extensively in connection with his ministry and organized the Mohammedan Missionary Conference at Cairo in 1906. Many of his books have to do with the life and manners of the people whom he studied during his missionary work.

He Ate the Stalks.

Asparagus was a great dish with Dean Swift. Dining with him one day George Faulkener, the Dublin publisher, asked for a second helping of his favorite vegetable, but Swift pointed to the stalks on his guest's plate and said, "Sir, first finish what is before you." "What!" exclaimed Faulkener, "eat my stalks?" "Aye, sir," bellowed the imperious dean; "eat your stalks or you will get no more. King William III. always ate his stalks."

Asked once, when he was telling the story, whether he really did eat his stalks, Faulkener replied, "Yes, certainly; and if you had dined with Dean Swift you would have been obliged to eat your stalks too."

"GIRL FROM WYOMING" TOOK 8,100 MILE RIDE.

Miss Claire Ended Long Horseback Trip In New York.

Miss Alberta Claire, known throughout the United States as "the girl from Wyoming," arrived recently in New York, thus completing a horseback trip of more than 8,100 miles. Miss Claire is only four feet eleven inches in height and weighs just 100 pounds. She started from Sheridan, Wyo., rode to Portland, Ore., and thence to Los Angeles. Then she began the long trip across the continent to Buffalo. From Buffalo she rode to Philadelphia and from there to New York.

To prove that Miss Claire has actually ridden all the way her press agent offers signed statements of the railroad station agents in every town through which she has passed and has also certificates from the mayors of various municipalities. The entire trip was made on one horse, and Miss Claire has thousands of photographs taken in towns and hamlets along the route to verify this statement as well.

The young woman has been accompanied on the trip by a large dog, an Alaskan "husky," half wolf and half Newfoundland, of the type used for drawing sledges in the arctic regions. The dog is accustomed to making long journeys and was with his mistress throughout the ride, except for that part of the trip which lay across southern California and Arizona, through the Mohave desert and Death valley. In traversing the deserts Miss Claire was compelled to carry water for herself and her horse and did not feel that her horse could carry an additional supply for the dog, so he was shipped ahead by railroad over this part of the journey.

Miss Claire's longest ride in a single day was from Youngstown, O., to Pittsburgh, a distance of seventy-three miles, which she accomplished in nine hours and fifteen minutes.

HOT DAYS OF HISTORY.

July, 1734, Unlike Any Month Before or Since.

According to a Philadelphia historian, the eighteenth century still holds the record for summer heat in that city. It was long before men consulted the weather bureau to know what sort of day to expect. They likewise were denied the delights of comparing the various temperatures of the cities of the country.

This memorable summer was some years before Americans decided to set up in business as a nation. According to some musty records unearthed recently, the month of July, 1734, was unlike anything before or since in that city in the matter of solar heat. It is recorded that many persons fell in the streets of that city because of the high temperature and that eight of these persons died.

The quaint record goes on to say that many men in the harvest fields were prostrated, that a number of deaths occurred and that scores of birds died. Cattle also succumbed to the torrid rays of the sun.

Four years prior to this—1730—a number of deaths from heat also occurred in Philadelphia. The chronicler of this weather of colonial days writes that 1724 was known as "the hot summer year."

UNCLE SAM'S GARDENER.

Late W. R. Smith Was One of Washington's Picturesque Figures.

William R. Smith, the venerable superintendent of the national botanical gardens, who died recently, had for nearly sixty years been the superintendent of the botanical gardens and was one of the most picturesque figures in Washington. Scotch to the core, as ardent in his love for the heather and the highland of his native land as he was for his plants and flowers, he asked no prouder title than to be called "gardener."

Mr. Smith possessed what is believed to be the greatest collection of Robert Burns' works in the world. He was a warm personal friend of Andrew Carnegie, and 200 volumes of his Burns collection were given to him by the laird of Skibo.

Under Mr. Smith's direction the botanical gardens have been developed and expanded to their present proportions. The gardens fell far short of his ambitions, and he was often impatient with the apathy and indifference of congress. Now that he is dead they may be abolished altogether.

MAMMOTH CAVE HAS RIVAL.

Wonderful Hole In the Ground Discovered In Southern Arizona.

One of the most wonderful caves in the world has been found in southern Arizona. Unnamed, unexplored and almost unknown is the vast cavern. Only a few persons have dared to enter to view its grandeur and study the wondrous work of nature. This cave lies in the foothills of the Huachuca mountains, about forty miles northeast of Nogales, Santa Cruz county.

Exploring parties have entered and spent days inside, but none has ever discovered the end. They report passageways, rooms and chambers innumerable. One room has a level and smooth floor, and they call it the dance hall, and there are unfathomed pits and chasms.

Trinity's Communicants.

Trinity parish, New York, contains 8,610 communicants. There are only twenty-nine dioceses in the whole American church having a larger communicant list.

—"A man and his wife are one," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, sometimes one too many," added the Simple Mug.

Utilizing the Mirror.

A dentist was filling a lady patron's back teeth. When he had finished with the first tooth he handed the lady a hand mirror that she might see the result for herself. Then he went on with his task, repeating his performance with the mirror after each tooth was filled. Finally, when the job was completed and she had handed back the mirror with thanks, he said:

"Well, madam, how do they look to you?"

"How do what look to me?" she returned.

"The teeth I just filled."

"Oh, I forgot about the teeth," she exclaimed, reaching for the hand glass.

"What did you look at each time I gave you the mirror?"

"My hair."—Pittsburgh Press.

The Art of Living.

To touch the cup with eager lips and taste,
Not drain it;
To woo and tempt and court a bliss and
Not attain it;

To fondle and caress a joy, yet hold it
Lightly
Lest it become a necessity and cling too
Tightly;

To smother care with joy and grief with Laughter;
To hold the present close, not questioning
Hereafter;

To see the sun sink in the west without Regretting;
To hail his advent in the east, the night
Forgetting;

To have enough to spare to know the joy
Of giving;
To thrill response to every sweet of life—
That's living.

Rudely Jarred.

They looked like newly married folks, but were not on their honeymoon, as the observer learned by deduction. The woman laid down a newspaper she had been reading and said to her husband:

"Do you know, I wish I had one of these affinities. Oh, I think it would be just gr-a-n-d to sit on a rock with somebody and have him rave about the incomparable golden color of my hair and tell me that my eyes were the most beautiful in the whole world, and"—

"Uh, huh!" said the husband, yawning.

"And that the delicate pink of my cheeks had been painted there by the angels and that he couldn't live without me. O-oh, I think an affinity like that would be"—

"'Tisn't an affinity you want," interrupted her husband. "What you seem to want is a plain, old fashioned liar."—Exchange.

Rough on the Bishop.

Bishop Blomfield discovered one day as he entered the pulpit that he had forgotten the manuscript of his sermon. It was impossible to do as the Scottish minister did in similar circumstances, send for the sermon from his home while the congregation sang Psalm 119. No, he must preach extempore, and did so, taking for his theme the existence of God. Very well satisfied he felt with his effort. As he walked home he overtook one of his congregation, whose opinion of the sermon he invited. "Well, it were a very good sermon," was the reply, "but I don't agree wi' it. I believe there is a God."

In a Quandary.

An old darky, with an old gray mule hitched to a ramshackle wagon, stood on the incline of Capitol hill, in Washington, during one of the worst sleet storms in January.

The old man huddled in his rabbit skin cap, shivering. The mule was trembling with the cold. Two congressmen waiting for a belated car were attracted by the strange outfit and wondered as time went on and the darky made no effort to depart what ailed the old fellow.

One of the congressmen walked over and said, "Why don't you move on, uncle?"

The old darky pointed a trembling finger at his "team" and replied, "'Cause dis yere mule won't go 'les' I whistle at him, and it's so cold I cyan't whistle!"—Everybody's.

Distributing the Honors.

During the Spanish-American war the navy department by way of a graceful compliment to the great universities renamed two converted cruisers Havard and Yale. Not long after Commodore Dewey was asked what new names should be conferred upon two little Spanish gunboats that had been captured in Philippine waters. "Oh," said the commodore, "we'll just call one The Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the other The Pennsylvania College For Physicians and Surgeons."

LONG BRANCH HAS A 'CLOSED' SUNDAY

"Blue Laws" Enforced In New Jersey Coast Resort.

GROCERY STORES ARE SHUT

Police Official Says, "Only Place One Can Get a Drink Is at Water Faucet or In the Ocean"—Even Fruit Stands Are Barred Up.

Long Branch, N. J., July 15.—Excursionists bent on having a giddy Sunday here were doomed to disappointment. The "lid" was clapped on early in the day. Chief of Police Walling, backed by the societies which have been waging war against the sale of liquor and other things on Sunday, ruled with an iron hand. The only way to appease a thirst was to keep a bottle in the pocket.

But not only those who wanted beverages suffered. Even the small boy and the farmer lad from an inland town accompanying his best girl on a Sunday outing suffered. Grocery stores and fruit stands were given the order to put up the bars at 10 o'clock in the morning, and they did.

"Never was a "blue law" more strictly enforced. Men went about searching every nook and corner for a beverage parlor, but their efforts were fruitless. The Sunday law was being obeyed.

"Everything is as tight as a drum here," said the lieutenant in charge of the police station here. "The only place you can get a drink is at a water faucet or in the ocean. The law is being obeyed in true Jersey style. We all feel sorry for some of those city folks who came here thinking they could purchase all the drinks they wanted. But the law is the law, and the police of Long Branch never falter when the law is to be enforced."

AUTOIST STOPS RUNAWAY.

Fair Heir Drives Motor After Frightened Horse and Catches It.

Caldwell, N. J., July 15.—In an exciting race between an automobile and a runaway horse the auto won. It was driven by Frank Leonard of this town, who was one of the heirs of Mrs. Fair, who, with her husband, was killed in an automobile accident in France several years ago. By winning the race Leonard saved from injury George E. De Camp, president of the Caldwell National bank, who was in the carriage drawn by the runaway horse.

Mr. De Camp had attended a meeting of the directors of the bank and was driving to his home when the horse took fright and got beyond his control. As the carriage dashed by Mr. Leonard's home he was just getting out of his automobile. He jumped into the motor again and started in pursuit of the horse and carriage. Near the Essex Fells line Leonard, driving at a terrific speed, overtook the runaway and, steering close to the horse, seized the bridle. Mr. De Camp had held on to the reins, and the combined strength of the two men soon stopped the animal.

DESTROY IMPURE LIQUOR.

Government to Sue Dealers Using Wood Alcohol.

Trenton, N. J., July 15.—More than 300 gallons of liquor containing wood alcohol was poured into the sewers of this city by government agents following the investigation of a report made to the government by the Italian consul at New York. As a result of the investigation ten suits against Italian liquor dealers who have been selling adulterated liquor will be started by the government.

Cases of blindness and illness reported by the Italian consul were traced to liquor sold by the Lucca Produce Wine company, having an office in Leroy street, New York. This concern sold goods in Jersey City, Newark, Hoboken, Orange and other places. The suits to be instituted are against dealers in Jersey City and Newark.

DIVORCE FOR F. J. ALEXANDER

Recommended by New Jersey Court of Chancery.

Trenton, N. J., July 15.—On the ground that his wife toured the world with Robert Heitemeyer, a New York business man, and lived with him at his apartments in New York the court of chancery has recommended a divorce for Frank J. Alexander of Hoboken.

After their marriage in 1901 the Alexanders, because of their youth did not attempt to establish a home of their own. Later they took a house in Hoboken, and some time afterward Mrs. Alexander informed her husband that she wanted to move elsewhere. He refused to move away, and when his wife left detectives were engaged to watch her. Heitemeyer is a leather manufacturer.

Germany Ready For Canal.

Berlin, July 15.—The German minister of marine is having new charts of the gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean sea prepared so that they shall be available before the opening of the Panama canal.

—There isn't a great deal of difference between love at first sight and getting stuck on the spur of the moment.

APARTMENT HOUSE IN LIGHTNING'S PATH

Knocks Razor From Man's Hand; Wrecks Flat.

New York, July 15.—Lightning which accompanied the severe storm which swept over the Bronx played many queer pranks at Le Roy hall, an apartment house, at Valentine avenue and Fordham road.

Mrs. Theresa Phelps occupies the apartment on the sixth floor. Her daughter, Miss Lillian, was standing at the window watching the storm when a bolt of lightning struck one of the turrets of the house. A sheet of flame swept by her and into the room in which she was standing. It knocked pictures from the wall, broke pieces of cut glass and china and overturned the furniture.

It next visited the apartment of Police Lieutenant Charles Place. He was standing in the bathroom shaving. His razor was knocked from his hand.

John Clarendon was sitting on his porch. He was sipping a glass of lemonade. The glass was knocked from his hand and a small splinter of wood, torn from the porch railing, struck him on the head, inflicting a slight injury.

SEEKING SWARTZ IN CONNORS GIRL CASE

Neighboring Cities Searched For Suspected Slayer of Child.

New York, July 15.—Search by the police for some one who can tell just who killed little Julia Connors in the Bronx a week ago has centered in an effort to locate Nathan Swartz, the young dentist's assistant and boxer who lived next door to the building in which is located the flat where the crime is believed to have been committed.

Swartz has disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed him, while his family, respected residents of the Bronx, have been driven from pillar to post by swarms of curious persons who first gathered at their home and then followed them to their retreat at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Orenstein, East New York. The police now absolutely refuse to disclose their present hiding place.

Nathan Swartz is a young man with a record. His mother says if he is guilty she will not raise a hand to save him. His sisters and other relatives say the same thing. They add they would be willing to tell the police where he is, but are as ignorant as any one on that particular subject.

TO SENTENCE MITCHELL.

Labor Leader Is Wanted In Federal Court Today.

Washington, July 15.—If John Mitchell, adjudged guilty of contempt of court with Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, does not appear in court here or waive his right to be present when sentence is passed a bench warrant will be issued for his arrest. It is expected that if he does not appear his counsel will present a written waiver.

When Justice Wright after a retrial of the three men on the charge of violating a court injunction in the noted Bucks Stove and Range boycott case recently sentenced Gompers and Morrison to a year and nine months in jail respectively he withheld sentence upon Mitchell, then in the west. The court preferred not to sentence a man who was absent.

Mitchell's sentence under a former conviction overturned by the supreme court was six months.

MAY CANCEL BRYAN'S DATE.

People In Clark's Home District Don't Want to Hear Lecture.

Montgomery, Mo., July 15.—Indignation arose among the Democrats here when the announcement came from the Iowa Chautauqua bureau that Colonel William J. Bryan would be sent here during the Chautauqua in August instead of Henry W. Hardy.

Some of the prominent Democrats declare most emphatically that it would not be safe for Bryan to invade this part of Clark's home district after his action in the Baltimore convention against the speaker. Effort will be made to cancel the date.

A MIGHTY WARRIOR

General Dumas Was a Colossus In Size and In Heroism.

HIS AMAZING FEATS OF ARMS.

The Herculean Father of the Famous Novelist Had the Strength of Samson and the Valor of Horatius—His Son Was a Chip of the Old Block.

General Alexandre Dumas, the father of the celebrated French novelist, was a mulatto of herculean build, who was renowned as a tremendous fighter and as a man of marvelous bodily strength.

It is generally believed that he was the model from which his son drew the character of Porthos in the "Three Guardsmen"—the sometimes vainglorious, sometimes heroic, but always lovable Porthos.

Of the recklessness and daring of General Dumas there can be no doubt, and evidently fear to him was an absolutely unknown quantity. "I had long thought the feats of arms ascribed to him in La Vendee, Italy, and Egypt rather apocryphal, too good to be true," writes M. Jules Claretie in a French paper. "They seemed to combine in one the tours de force of Porthos and the escapades of Chicot. But one day when I had promised to write a short life of the man his grandson put into my hands all the papers relating to the soldier's career, and I then saw that I had before me a real epic, describing a sequence of glorious actions of undoubted authenticity.

"It was, for example, established by official documents that General Dumas, standing, a solitary colossus, at the end of the bridge of Brixen, in the Tyrol, did, like Horatius of old, dispute the passage of it with a cloud of Austrians, whom he sabered and shot one after the other until he had broken his sword and used his last cartridge, and that he then did convert the body of an enemy into a battering ram.

"Again, at the theater one day he was in a box with a lady who had won his affections when a gentleman of the court, pointing at him, remarked to the lady, 'So, marchioness, you have got your negro here.' At which the mulatto, without a word, seized the man by his collar, lifted him from his seat and threw him across the footlights on to the stage.

"His son inherited the father's muscles. Traveling one year in the south of France for the sake of collecting some amusing 'impressions,' he came to Avignon by diligence with the intention of enjoying the well known view of the silhouette of the papal palace. The diligence, on stopping, was surrounded by porters, who tried to clutch the traveler's luggage. Dumas insisted on carrying his own valise, and this provoked some insolent remarks from the porters.

"'Look,' said one, 'at the big lout who won't let a poor fellow earn a living!'

"'What's so astonishing in that? replied another. 'He's a nigger. Nature intended him for a drudge.'

"The son did not hesitate to imitate his father's example. He put down his valise, seized one of the porters, took him by the waist, carried him to the parapet of the bridge and held him out over the river, saying:

"'Give me your word that you are not the assassin of Marshal Brune!'

"Marshal Brune was assassinated at Avignon, in the white terror, 1815.

"'I? But, monsieur'—

"'Swear, I tell you, that you did not assassinate Marshal Brune or I will throw you into the Rhone!'

"The man's face became as white as a sheet, and he gasped out:

"'I will swear, monsieur, by all the saints, I did not assassinate him.'

"'All right,' said Dumas, and he threw the wretched man on to the bridge, took up his valise and went on his way, smiling, leaving the porters gasping with wonder.

"To return to the old general, he was coming back from Egypt when his ship was surrounded by some English vessels.

"'Fight to the last,' was the order, 'and when shot and shell are exhausted blow up the ship sky high.'

"All very well, but he could swim and others couldn't. To equalize matters Dumas got two cannon balls, put them into his pockets and said with a laugh:

"'Now I shall go all the quicker to the bottom.'

"But it was not to be. He was taken prisoner and thrown into a foul dungeon at Naples, from which he only emerged with his health shattered and his magnificent strength dwindled to the vanishing point."

Eating With the Knife.

It is strange that the Italian should have been the first to use the fork of civilization, for he is now the foremost of all men to suppress it in favor of the knife. In the restaurants of no other nation do men eat so horribly with their knives as in the Italian. In fact, it is only in England that the thrilling action is never seen. In Germany you may still watch an old gentleman cutting his portion up diligently with his knife and fork before beginning to eat. Having done so, he puts one of these implements away and falls to, and the one he puts away is the fork. But for the general use of the knife there is nothing like a first class restaurant in Venice.—London Chronicle.

If we do not reason we are bigots; if we cannot we are fools; if we dare not we are slaves.

—Some of us never talk about other people because we are too busy talking about ourselves.

Advertising Pulls—It Doesn't Jerk

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You wouldn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. JAMES EDWARD MEREDITH.

American Hero of the Olympic Games Has Had Quick Rise to Fame.

James Edward Meredith, who won the 800 meter run at the Olympic games in world's record time, is only nineteen years of age, and his home is in Media, Pa., where his father is a contractor. Ted, as he is known by the athletes, spent a couple of terms at the Williamson trade school learning bricklaying and in the meantime ran some races for the Aquinas Catholic club of Philadelphia.

Then he went to Mercersburg academy. Since entering that institution Meredith has improved wonderfully until he defeated the world's best.

week in March, the Mercersburg academy team engaged in a scholastic meet, and Meredith always ran the 440 and 880 yards and every now and then took a flier at the 220 yards. Even at that, little attention was paid to him until the sensational performance he contributed in the last quarter mile of the scholastic relay championship at Franklin field when running for Mercersburg. He made the two furlongs over a track heavy with water in 49 4-5 seconds and gave Mercersburg a new record for the race.

At the Princeton scholastic games he ran 440 yards in 49 1-5 seconds, three-fifths of a second faster than ever before run by an American schoolboy. Twenty-five minutes later he came out and ran 880 yards, and the slowest of four watches gave him 1 minute 55 4-5 seconds, which was only three seconds slower than Lunghi's world's record.

At Cornell Meredith ran the half mile in 1 minute 57 seconds after covering the first quarter in 52 seconds. He got so far ahead that he slowed up 220 yards from home.

Later he ran a quarter of a mile in the middle states championship games in 48 4-5 seconds, the same time that John B. Taylor made on the track, and came back with 1 minute 56 seconds for the half mile.

Down and Up and Out.

Senator John W. Kern of Indiana tells a story of a friend of his in Indianapolis who liked a drink as well as the next man. He was equipped with a six cylinder drinking capacity, but was not so well fitted out with legs, one being about three inches shorter than the other. Ordinarily the man stood on his long leg, but in his quest for the bottoms of glasses he played no favorites and stood on either foot.

ORDERED A COCKTAIL

The senator walked into the Denison hotel bar in Indianapolis one day with his friend with the zigzag legs. They called for drinks, and the senator's friend ordered a cocktail while standing on his short leg. While the bartender mixed the drink the man shifted legs and stood on the long leg. The bartender placed the drinks on the bar and looked puzzled. He picked up the cocktail and looked around the barroom.

THE MAN SHIFTED LEGS.

"What's become of that little runt with the jag that ordered this cocktail?" he asked.

The senator's friend got on the water wagon right there.—New York World.

Doing Your Part.

If the song I spun of my sadness
Has lightened another's pain,
Then the hours that I spent in grieving
Shall not have been wholly vain.

If the song I spun of my gladness
Has quickened another's mirth,
Then the hours that I spent in laughter
Shall have had their bit of worth.

If either my joy or my sorrow
Has nourished another's heart,
Then I in life's clamorous workshop
Shall have done my little part.

DUNELLEN DEFEAT THE ROYAL GIANTS

Colored Team Much Padded But It Was Vanquished By Home Nine.

The Royal Colored Giants team went to Dunellen Saturday afternoon with a nine padded up with the best colored material in this section. Although they were ahead at one stage of the contest and threw a scare into the camp of the Dunellenites on many other occasions the colored lads could not stand the fast pace and yielded five scores in the seventh and eighth. The rivalry between the two contestants was at a high pitch throughout, the whole nine rounds and several misplays were the result of the kidding one player or another received at the hands of the rooters. Coyle was particularly effected by this taunting and made misplays out of easy rollers that netted the Giants their four tallies.

Dixon was the star at the bat for the home team, and out of five times at the bat he pounded out four hits, one of them a three-bagger. Britt Martin also did some good stickwork for the locals and also played a star game around the second bag.

When the Dusky ball chasers forged ahead to a one run lead in the fourth inning the enthusiasm reigned high and the visitors hopes were lifted for a win. The Dunellenites, however, came back in the seventh and pounded Dawson to the four corners of the lot, and then repeated the trick in the eighth.

Determined to win from the Dunellen crowd, Manager Pete Simons, of the Giants, spared neither time nor money to put a winning aggregation of ball tossers on the field. He had only two of his regular lineup in the field and had engaged men from some of the best colored nines in the State. The shortstop and third baseman worked together with clock-like precision and pulled off some of the speediest playing seen on the Dunellen field this year.

FEW SCORES POSTED AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

The weekly competition for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club brought out a large field Saturday, although only less than a dozen scores were posted. The course is now in the best of condition and the improvement of the players is marked. A. M. Morrell distinguished himself when he made the second hole in one. There was more or less luck attached to the drive, but Mr. Morrell will probably hold the record for the season on that particular hole. William P. Taylor is at present the only scratch man. He returned a score of 86 on Saturday. J. V. Beckman won first honors with a score of 79 net. These scores were returned:

J. V. Beckman, 104, 25-79; H. H. Woodland, 100, 16-84; Peter C. Sweeny, 90, 6-84; W. P. Taylor, 86, 0-86; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 99, 13-86; H. L. Moodey, 101, 14-87; J. H. Greene, Jr., 102, 13-89; Charles B. Morse, 102, 13-89; A. M. Morrell, 104, 10-94; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 100, 3-97.

As to Humor.

"Yes," said the lecturer, "humor is a difficult thing to define. I remember appearing in Boston once with a humorous lecture, and I labored for two hours with that audience, and not one of them cracked a smile; but, by Jove, as I started to leave the platform I tripped on a rug and fell flat on my face, and, would you believe it, the house was convulsed?"

"Yes," said Dobson, with a grin, "humor is a very funny thing."—Pittsburgh Press.

THREE NINES TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

Hope Chapel, First Baptist and Monroe Ave. M. E. Lead In S. S. League.

The week-end contests in the Sunday-school baseball league resulted in a triple tie for first place, a situation seldom occurring in an amateur organization of this nature. By losing to the First Baptist aggregation, the South Plainfielders threw up their second place berth and descended to the near cellar position. The First Baptist's victory put that nine on an equal footing with Hope chapel, for first place, after the latter had dropped their contest with Park Avenue. Monroe's easy win over Temple Baptist gave her a third of the first place stock and that nine now has a splendid chance of repeating her last season's championship record. Park Avenue secured a clear title to second place while South Plainfield went from second to third in the actual standing. Temple Baptist still has its first contest to win and it is beginning to look as though they will never accomplish the feat.

Results of Saturday's games:

Park Avenue, 9; Hope Chapel, 0.

First Baptist, 15; South Plainfield, 5.

Monroe Avenue, 18; Temple Baptist, 8.

HOBSON PITCHES A ONE-HIT GAME

Park Avenue's Twirler Lets Only One Man Get As Far As Second.

SCORE, NINE - NOTHING

Thomas Guttenberg Heron a Life-Saver For Hope Chapel By Bringing Up a Solitary Hit—The Game In Detail.

The Hope Chapel baseball team was compelled to divide first place honors in the Sunday-school League standing Saturday, when the Park Avenue nine pounded out a 9 to 0 verdict against them. Hope was never in it after the third inning and Hobson had the opposing batters at his mercy, striking out ten and allowing but one hit. Schott, the Hope twirler, allowed but two singles but was given wretched support by his backers, who chalked up ten misplays behind him. The fact that Park Avenue scored nine runs on two hits is explained by the large number of stolen bases credited to the winners. When the Parks had men on bases it was practically easy to get them around to the registering station through a fielder's error or a slow throw from behind the bat.

The third, fourth and seventh were the big stanzas for the victors and during these periods they encircled the bases at will. T. Guttenberg Heron, Clark and Mills were the only three of the eighteen players able to touch either pitcher up for a clean hit and they garnered one apiece.

This game places Park Avenue on a par with Monroe Avenue and Hope Chapel for top rung honors.

VILLAGERS LOSE BY MANY ERRORS

Result of So. Plainfield and 1st Baptist Not In Doubt After 1st Inning.

SCORE, FIFTEEN - FIVE

South Plainfield Gets But Five Hits—Sofield In Rare Form But Is Given Rank Support—Smith Fans Eleven.

The First Baptist Sunday-school leaguers gained a little of their lost ground Saturday afternoon by pounding out a 15 to 5 victory over the South Plainfielders. Smith and Stein, the one-time North Plainfield High School battery, were in the points for the winners and held the game well in their favor at all times. Smith caused eleven batters to whiff and kept his five singles well scattered. Sofield, of the villagers, was in rare form Saturday and twirled the article of ball that would ordinarily have won a game, but his support waivered and as a result the winner's scores came in bunches.

The losers presented the local nine with a majority of their runs through ragged fielding and listless playing. They were never in the fray after the first round and First Baptist annexed points at will.

HARD LUCK KEEPS UP WITH TEMPLE

Dropped Seventh Straight In Contest With the Monroe Avenue M. E. Team.

STEWART IS HIT HARD

Both Pitchers Are Given Poor Support—Score 18 to 8—The Winners Gain Runs Almost At Will.

The Monroe Avenue baseball team completed the triple tie for first place honors in the Sunday-school league by pulling off an 18 to 8 win over the winless Temple Baptist nine. As in most of their previous games the winners were enabled to hold the enemy at bay through the pitching of their veteran twirler, Hess. He was in fine form Saturday, striking out thirteen and keeping his fourteen hits well scattered. Steward, on the other hand, kept up to his usual high standard, but his support always gave way with men on the bases and his fourteen were all eventually transformed into runs.

Steward is at present one of the best twirlers in the league, and with a team of near ball players behind him would be hovering around the top rung. He has been up against hard luck in nearly every contest and in a five-inning struggle recently, he disposed of every man that faced him by the strike out route, with the exception of two, and then his backers lost the game. This support would be enough to phase any ordinary moundsman, but Steward goes along just the same week after week.

Hess, of the winners, has a team of natural ball players behind him and they pull him out of many tight places.

By virtue of their win over the Temple team, Monroe ascends into first place and they stand a fair chance of repeating their last season's record and taking the pennant.

NO CHANGES MADE IN MFG. STANDING

Saurers Keep R. G. E. Hustling to Win—Spicers Win in the Ninth.

The Manufacturers' Baseball League teams refused to be shaken up in the league standing this week and all the six entrants seem perfectly contented to finish the season in just this order. There has been no actual change of position in the past two weeks and the followers of this organization are beginning to think that the cup question is practically settled. The Commercial team are setting a fast pace and are taking one game after another, but the R. G. E. combination refuse to pass up a game, so no loophole can be found by the Clerks, who are trying hard to slip back into first place.

The Public Service, Banks and Spicers are by no means out of the race and a couple of defeats handed to the two leading teams would place them very near the top rung. The only organization with a doubtful cup possibility at present, is the Saurer bunch. They will have to win all their remaining games in order to be in it when the final bell sounds on August 17.

The R. G. E. nine met a worthy opponent in the Saurer aggregation who put up a stiff fight over the popularly conceded winners. The Commercials put it over the Bankers' newly organized ball team to the time of 8 to 2, but in doing so lost five percentage points in their gap to overcome first place. In what was perhaps the best of the week-end struggles the Spicer ball heavers nosed out a 9 to 8 win over the Public Service nine. The joint makers seem to have struck their winning stride now and are apt to cause trouble for the more popular aggregations.

DIES IN MOTHER'S ARMS.

Paterson, July 15—As Mrs. Anton Feuerstein was bidding her six-year-old son goodby on Ellis Island Saturday the child died in her arms. Mrs. Feuerstein arrived in this country from Germany a few days ago, and the child was detained by the authorities, it being alleged that he was weak mentally. The boy, however, had previously been examined by the ship's doctors and pronounced by them to be in good health.

The mother and the rest of the family came to this city, and Friday Mrs. Feuerstein went to the Island to see how her son was getting along. She had taken him in her arms and was saying goodby when the boy gave a gasp and died.

In what was the closest and best played game in the Manufacturers' Baseball League on Saturday afternoon the Spicer ball players triumphed over the Public Service crowd by the score of 9 to 8. The losers obtained an early lead but were gradually overtaken and the jointmakers sewed up the contest with a trio of runs in the ninth. Dolan twirled a steady game for the winners and after the fourth round was invincible. Garretson, who is fast becoming known as the best backstop in this league, had a great day behind the bat, handling thirteen of his team's putouts. He also pounded out three lusty hits which were eventually turned into runs.

O'Loughlin was the whole show for the Fourth street nine, chalking up three runs, five hits, three putouts, three assists and four stolen bases. Spicer's winning runs were brought in with a two-base hit by Reick.

SAUERS SURPRISE THE WINNING R.G.E

Tail-Enders Put Up Good Fight But the Pace Is Too Fast For Them.

HARD FIGHT TO FINISH

Wilson Pitches Better But Support Is Somewhat Ragged—R. G. E. Compelled to Put Another Man in the Box—The Score Is 8 to 7.

The stiff fight put up by the Saurer aggregation, of the Manufacturers' Baseball League, was a decided surprise to the R. G. E. followers, who had expected a walkover. Although the tailenders got the worst of an 8 to 7 score, they threw a scare into the enemy's camp in the seventh, when they came within one point of sewing up the contest. The game was one of the closest yet played in the league and the exalted R. G. E. combination were compelled to resort to stategy in order to pull off a win. The score see-sawed back and forth and neither nine was at any time sure of a victory.

Flemley and J. Montross, the R. G. E. team's star twirlers, were in the game as usual but were not so effective as they have been in previous contests. They were touched up for a total of ten healthy wallops and fanned but seven. As far as twirling was concerned, however, the game belongs to Wilson. He was the sole occupant of the box for the losers and throughout the nine rounds he allowed but thirteen scattered safties and struck out nine. He was pitching against a team of hitters that had battered the delivery of every other twirler in the league. The score:

CLERKS HOLD ON TO SECOND PLACE

The Commercials Bat Out a Victory In Game With the Banks' Nine.

SOME FAST FIELDING

Conover, Randolph and Conshay Good With the Stick—Conover Allows Only Four Hits—Vail Makes His Debut.

The Commercial team of the Manufacturers' Baseball League kept their hold on second place in the official league standing Saturday afternoon by walloping the Bankers to the tune of 8 to 2. With "Rops" Van Zant doing the receiving and "Hub" Conover hurling the pill over the pan, the Clerks have a battery that is hard to beat. Conover was stingy with hits and allowed but four, which were distributed throughout as many rounds.

Vail, the Bankers new acquisition in the pitcher's box, was found for fourteen lusty clouts, and these coupled with the quintet of errors made behind him told the tale. The Banks revised lineup, which promised to be so effective, failed to stir up the Commercials in the least. Dunning, the old North Plainfield High School first sacker, played a brilliant game around that station for the Banks and also chalked up one of his followers four hits. Besides his work in the box, Conover also carried away the batting laurels, getting a quartet of healthy swats out of five trips to the plate. Randolph and Conshay were also handy with the willow, getting a trio each. Both nines were about even up in their fielding and if anyone had a shade the better of the work in the field, it was the losers.

...ockholm, July 15.—K. K. McArthur ...f. W. Gitshaw, the only South Af... entered, finished first and second ...ctively in the classic Marathon.

...Though the glory of the occasion ...ed with the British colony, there ...s honor for America in the result of ...race, for little Gaston Strobino, the ...ath Paterson boy, who was sent here ...y the subscription of his felow citi...s, finished in third place, less than ...minute behind Gitshaw. Sockalexis, ...e Indian, from Oldtown, Me., was ...orth, and other sturdy runners from ...e United States supplied eight men ...the first fifteen to finish the gruel...g contest in front of the royal box in ...e stadium.

The distance of the race was about ...enty-five miles, considerably shorter ...n the other Olympic Marathons, ...here an effort was made to retain the ...stance over which the Greek soldier ...aveled to deliver the news at Athens ...f the battle of Marathon. Thus it was ...at the winner easily broke the Olym...c record, finishing in 2 hours 36 min...es 50 seconds against the 2 hours 51 ...inutes 23 3-5 seconds made by Sher...g of Canada, who won at Athens in ...00. Gitshaw's time was 2 hours 37 ...inutes 52 seconds, while Strobino ...mpleted the distance in 2 hours 38 ...inutes 48 seconds.

Splendid Exhibition of Pluck.

...ostrun at the start, the Paterson ...th gave a fine exhibition of pluck ...d endurance toward the finish, when ...more fancied Americans had given ...under the terrific strain. Run...g in the ruck for the first half of ...e journey, Strobino first became no...ced as a possible contender when he ...shed into ninth place nine miles ...from home.

His running from that point was re...rkable, and, passing man after man, ...he had only the two South Africans in ...front of him a little over three miles ...from the stadium. These two were ...ghting out between them the honor of ...taking the prize to their country, and, ...though he finished fresher than either ...of the men that led him home, the Pat...erson boy had not sufficient time to ...wear them down.

Winner Collapses.

McArthur was out to the last ounce when he reached the royal box after running once around the stadium and collapsed as soon as he crossed the line. Gitshaw, the second man, fin...ished stronger, but it remained for Strobino to set the crowd yelling with enthusiasm as he sprinted down the stretch apparently none the worse for his strenuous exertions.

There were more than sixty com...petitors, representing eighteen nations, and hundreds of spectators were stretched around the course, while the stadium was crowded with an anxious throng. A broiling sun, beating down on the men who were striving for the crowning glory of this greatest of Olympic meets, made the journey over the rough and hilly roads even more severe than had been anticipated. All wore head coverings except the South Africans, and many attributed their creditable showing to the heat, which is about the temperature they are accustomed to in their native land.

King Gustav of Sweden occupied the royal box with a party of visitors and was much concerned when Mc...Arthur came staggering around the track at the finish, walking at times and at others breaking into a feeble run. A few moments on the ground revived the winner so that he smiled bravely when his frantic supporters hoisted him to their shoulders and car...ried him in triumph around the sta...dium.

Americans Show Superiority.

With only one country showing su...periority in the Marathon, America again outclassed the world in the other events which contributed to the gala occasion. Matthew McGrath of the New York police force was as far ahead of the other competitors in the supreme test for strength as the South Africans were in the contest which tried the hearts and lungs of the fleet footed runners to the utmost. He threw the sixteen pound hammer a distance of 180 feet 5 inches, eclipsing the previous Olympic record made by the mighty John Flanagan by more than ten feet. Gillis, a Canadian, was second, but G. C. Childs of the New York A. C. added another point to America's large total by finishing third. The point for Strobino's gal...lant run made a total of 5 for Amer...ica for the day out of the 12 allotted, so that the stars and stripes still lead the rest of the world.

Further conquests are outlined as James Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian, leads the competitors in the Decath...lon, a contest that calls for all around proficiency in many branches of athletics. That Thorpe is a man of many parts he proved when he cleared six feet one-half inch in the high jump...ing portion of the Decathlon.

The South Paterson Athletic club had faith in Strobino's prowess, and they determined he should go to Stockholm. By passing the hat around the club they had raised enough to send Strobino to the tryouts. Many of the wealthy members of the club were away, and for some days it was not known whether enough for the trip could be raised for Strobino. The money finally was obtained.

BEERS IS LOCAL TENNIS 'CHAMP'

Plays Tires Out Collens In Final Round of P. C. C. Annual Series.

LOSER HAD A BAD FALL

Excellent Tactics Displayed By Both Contestants—Collens Takes First Two Set, Beers Playing a Waiting Game—The Scores.

In a match that went the full five sets and was desperately fought from start to finish, Albert D. Beers won the Plainfield open lawn tennis championship at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, defeating Arthur M. Collens. Both men belong to the Plainfield Country Club, and the honors in this annual tournament therefore rest with that organization.

Beers had reached the final round bracket on the previous Saturday. The other half of the draw was not so far advanced, but on Thursday, July 11, Ludlow Vandeventer won from Charles E. Lipscomb in a very close three-set match; and Collens then defeated Vandeventer, this match also being very close. The latter is a young player of great promise, and he defeated Lipscomb by his aggressiveness and his persistant attack on the net. In the Vandeventer-Collens match the youngster won the first set and forced the third to an 8-6 score before he was obliged to acknowledge defeat. Had he played more to Collens' back hand, especially in the last set, the result might very well have been different.

The final round between Beers and Collens was begun at 4 o'clock on one of the lower tier courts, which Groundsman J. H. Mowen had given a special course of preparation, with the result that it was almost absolutely perfect. The rain of a few days before helped a great deal in bringing it to this condition, and it stood the strenuous play without appreciable wear. The afternoon was warm, and both men, but especially Collens (who is much the heavier) suffered from the unusual humidity.

The match was marked by the display of excellent tactics on the part of both players. Collens had all the best of it in the first 2 sets, both of which he won. He took the net at every opportunity, and by the deadly precision and severity of his overhead shots scored ace after ace from that position. He was excellent also at driving from the back of the court, his shots being hard and with good depth. He displayed rare judgment in going up, and during these two sets was rarely passed. Beers contented himself with playing a waiting game, trusting to time to take the edge off Collens' fierce attack. The wisdom of this plan was shown in the third set, as Collens was plainly tired, and his play fell off greatly. Beers got a lead of 3-0, and Collens thereafter made little effort, preferring to save himself for the final struggle.

The customary seven minutes rest was taken after the third set, which Beers won at 6-0, and the match was then resumed. Although the sting of Collens' shots was greatly lessened he was still able to fight on equal terms in the first part of the set; but Beers finally drew away and by winning the set made the score 2 sets all. Shortly after beginning the fifth set Collens stumbled and fell heavily, getting a bad shaking up. He pulled himself together, however, and fought on. He still went to the net at every opportunity, but as he was slower in getting up Beers passed him oftener. Both men were feeling the effects of this long struggle, and each strove desparately for the point, it being plain that it would take very little to incline victory either way. Beers had taken much less out of himself, however, and he was better able to repel Collens' attacks and, on occasion, to take the offensive himself.

The match had lasted nearly two and a half hours and was one of the most gruelling contests ever held at the country club. The scores of the matches played on Thursday and Saturday follow:

Second round—Ludlow Vandeventer defeated C. E. Lipscomb, 6-3, 4-6.

Semi-final round—Arthur M. Collens defeated Ludlow Vandeventer, 5-7, 6-1, 8-6.

Final round—Albert D. Beers defeated Arthur M. Collens, 2-6, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1, 6-3.

THE GAME WAS A PITCHERS' BATTLE

Frederickson Received Better Support in the Plainfield-Westfield Contest.

WHITEWASH IS APPLIED

Plainfield 4, Westfield 0, Score of Recreation Park Game—Home Team Misses Many Chances—Story By Innings.

The Plainfield baseball team journeyed over to Recreation Park, Saturday afternoon and once again returned with a Westfield scalp. The game resulted in a 4 to 0 decision for the visitors. Manager Flynn, of the home nine, sent Ortlieb in to twirl at the last moment, which came as somewhat of a surprise to the fans. He pitched a good article of ball but was given ragged support at critical moments and Plainfield's timely bingles won the contest for them. Germany fanned nine of the opposing batters and did not allow a single free ticket.

Frederickson, on the other hand, was in great form, and held the mound city bunch in check at all times. He allowed but five scattered bingles and caused seven batters to whiff. Freddy was equally as selfish with his passes and the Westfielders were compelled to hit the ball in order to get on the bases. He was given excellent support, the only misplay being charged up against Dalton in the eighth. The local guardian of the difficult station could easily have prevented this error but he was determined to pull a laugh from the unenthusiastic rooters and booted the slow grounder just for pleasure.

Plainfield's first score came in the first round when Eddie Stallings got on first through an error by Ulrich, stole second and came home on Harter's single. The visitors again drew blood in the third inning when Cosgrove led off with a hit over second and came home on Stallings' scorching liner. The local bunch finished up its scoring in the fourth when Driscoll got a safety and counted on Emery's in the same place. The latter also came across the rubber on Nelson's liner to short left.

From this point on goose-eggs were on Ortlieb's bill of fare but Freddy held the Westfield bunch at his finger's tips, although they had players on the bases several times with one down.

The home nine made a game effort to score in every round but were checked by a sensational play of some Plainfielder. The Westfield nine started off in brilliant style when Cosgrove placed one in back of first which was taken by Ortlieb, who was running full speed over first base. The runner and batter met almost simultaneously at the initial bag and the verdict was awarded to Ortlieb.

OUR HOMEBREDS ARE GOLFING SOME NOW

The lesson taught in the Metropolitan Golf Association open championship at Apawamis last week was that the time is unquestionably at hand when native born talent will have to be reckoned with. Jack McDermott broke down precedent last year when he won the national open, and now Tom McNamara accomplishes a feat almost equally praiseworthy. It requires no great stretch of memory to recall the days when the efforts of the homebreds were almost the subject of ridicule on the part of the Scots and Britons. How different now.

In comparing the native-born with the foreign importations it may be said that the only advantage those who learned the game on the other side over the Americans is greater experience. McDermott, McNamara and young Jack Dowling, for that matter, have the shots that count. Not a few of Dowling's friends expressed surprise at his indifferent start in the championship at Apawamis but the boy's temporary unsteadiness was only what others have done who have been playing the game before he was born. Dowling proved his class when he reeled off a 70 in the afternoon of the first day, establishing a competitive record which was destined to fall the next day when Frank Peebles, a Scot from Stockbridge, got 'round in 69. Yet this golfer promptly supplemented his brilliant performance with a score of 79, an even ten strokes more.

Then there was Robert Andrew, the erstwhile Prestwick amateur. When Andrew set forth on his last round he was tied with McNamara for the lead, yet he came back with an 83, quite a falling off from his morning effort of 72. Such are the vagaries of the game that visit the young and old with almost equal impartiality.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

The game scheduled to be played at Scotch Plains yesterday afternoon between the nine of that place and the Stroudsburg team of Pennsylvania was postponed until later in the season because of rain. The Scotch Plains baseball fans were given something to gossip over, however, when Raritan put it over Bound Brook Saturday afternoon. The game was a scoreless tie up to the tenth inning when "Nibs" Hand, the Scotch Plains backstop, who was making his debut in a Raritan uniform, came to the bat and pounded out the hit which brought the needed run across the plate. The contest was a pitchers' battle waged between Slocum and Kraft and it was no disgrace for the Plainfield lad, who was twirling for Bound Brook, to lose out on a contest of this kind. Hand, it is needless to say, made himself solid with the Raritan fans Saturday afternoon, both by his stickwork and the way in which he held up Kraft.

EVANS WON FIRST HONORS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The events at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday was a golf sweepstakes, 18 holes, medal play, handicap, in which there were some excellent scores. J. R. Evans won first honors with a net score of 71, while S. H. Patterson, L. H. Van Buren and H. S. Brown were tied for second place with a net score of 74. These cards were returned:

J. R. Evans, 97, 26-71; S. H. Patterson, 90, 16-74; L. H. VanBuren, 98, 24-74; H. S. Brown, 94, 20-74; C. C. Rigs, 91, 16-75; W. C. Cooke, 103, 22-81.

regular troops. Much of the territory in the vicinity is owned by the government, and the only drawback is the scarcity of pure water and the menace of typhoid fever in what there is.

This, however, has but little terror for the New Jersey troops, for the great majority of the officers and men have taken the anti-typhoid serum treatment adopted by the army.

There will be a field hospital at the camp, and all the wells in the vicinity will be tested and posted if they are impure. Ironbound rules will govern the camp, the same as in actual warfare, and there will be nothing but work— and no canteen for the regulars or guardsmen.

Town leave will be under strict supervision, for the disgraceful actions of some of the Southern troops in Gettysburg two years ago have given the government a lesson, and there will be a strong provost guard and summary punishment meted out to any man in uniform creating a disturbance in town or camp.

SAYS COAL CONSUMERS DON'T GET FULL WEIGHT

Trenton, July 15.—That municipalities and schools of the State, as well as individual consumers of coal are being robbed by short weight, rather than by a combination in restraint of trade, as alleged by the State School board, is the charge made by B. C. Kuser, head of the Trenton Coal Dealers' Association.

Mr. Kuser thinks that the situation demands the attention of the State sealer of weights and measures. He says he would like to see a crusade started for the purpose of compelling the dishonest dealers either to give honest measure or quit business. To this end he declares that the Trenton Coal Dealers' Association stands ready to aid the State sealer in every way possible, even to the extent of paying the expenses of an assistant of the sealer's own choosing.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, and Mrs. Stout, left today for Westlo, N. Y., where they will spend six weeks' vacation.

WELL-TO-DO RECLUSE ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Madison, July 15—Arthur Searing, fifty-five years old, a recluse and considered well-to-do, commited suicide by hanging from a skylight in his home in Prospect street sometime Wednesday or Thursday. His body was discovered by neighbors Friday night. He is not known to have been despondent, and he had no particular cause for worry. It is believed that his mind had become temporarily affected, perhaps by the heat of the last few days.

Neighbors had seen nothing of Mr. Searing since Wednesday morning, when he surprised several by saying he wanted to sell his house

When all day Friday passed without a sign of life in the house where Mr. Searing had lived alone for several years, caring for the property and even cooking his own meals, Borough Treasurer F. Irving Morrow, who lives across the street, became suspicious. He entered the house and after calling to Mr. Searing and searching the lower floor, he felt assured something was wrong. He called James Connors, who also occupies a house across the street, and the two resolved upon a thorough search.

It was only when the two reached the top of the house that the body was discovered. Mr. Searing had procured a rope, climbed the skylight ladder, placed a board over the opening, attached the rope to it and to his own neck and then jumped from the ladder. The body was cold, and Mr. Searing had evidently been dead for many hours.

Coroner Frank N. Banta, of Boonton, viewed the body, pronounced the case suicide, and deemed no inquest necessary.

Mr. Searing was a son of the late Alfred W. Searing, who died about twelve years ago, and his mother died about seven years ago. Since her death he had lived all alone in the house. He rarely went out of his own yard, save to purchase the food that he cooked for himself. He was unusually taciturn, and could with difficulty be drawn into conversation. He was a native of Madison.

Two sisters, Mrs. S. G. Willetts, wife of the borough clerk, and Mrs. Samuel Corey, survive him. The funeral, which will be strictly private, will be held today.

Philip A. Vroom's Sunday-school class of Trinity Reformed church will hold a lawn social at the home of Mrs. A. K. Willett, on Craig place, tomorrow night.

An electric fan was installed in Trinity Reformed church by the women of the congregation and was used at the morning service yesterday for the first time. It is placed near the pulpit platform, where the minister will get the benefit of it.

CO. K BOYS DON'T MIND THE HEAT

Their Tents Are Well Located On the Mt. Gretna Camp Grounds.

COMPANY M IS NEARBY

Shower and Wind Storm Last Night Drove Men to Cover—Boys Enjoy First Day's Work at the School of Instruction.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 16.—Refreshed after a good night's rest, following the strenuous day and trip up here yesterday, the members of Co. K, Second regiment, N. G. N. J., of Plainfield, turned out this morning prepared to go through their lessons in the school of the soldier. The day is hot, but the boys have had so much of that kind of weather at home lately that they did not mind the beating rays of the sun.

The trip up yesterday was without incident, except for the witnessing of an accident just before reaching Allentown. On one of the bridges spanning the railroad near that city, an electric car struck an Italian laborer and cut him in two. Part of his body fell on the track in front of the train bearing the New Jersey troops, and the train was flagged and had to wait until the corpse was removed. On the train one meal was served to the guardsmen, consisting of sandwiches, beans and coffee, which all seemed to enjoy, following the early breakfast before starting.

The guardsmen arrived here about 1:30 yesterday afternoon. Company K's members found that their camp was laid out on a flat portion of the camp ground, where they get every bit of breeze that is stirring. But a short distance away is Company M, of Somerville, and the boys have many mutual friends, so that there was considerable visiting last night when an opportunity afforded. Everything indicates that this is to be a good, healthy encampment. Orders were issued soon after arrival expelling all fakirs and peddlers from the reservation, so that the members of the guard will find it hard to purchase things to eat and drink which might be bad for them, and which are not approved by the regular army officers in charge.

The camp has been established for several weeks, and until yesterday the fakirs were allowed to do business. Now no one but photographers are allowed on the grounds. As a result it looks like a real camp of instruction, and the men are not looking forward to any picnic, but plenty of hard work. After the camp had been pitched last night a heavy thunder shower came up, and the boys had a pretty lively time of it getting under cover, and keeping their tents from blowing down. Then they turned in. There were some who had not had to work so hard in years, and the sound of taps was a most welcome one.

Beside the Second and Third New Jersey regiments there are located here Battery E, Field Artillery, U. S. A.; Twenty-ninth U. S. Infantry, and the First and Fourth Maryland Infantry regiments. A detail of the United States Engineers Corps, under Sergeant Franklin, has charge of all engineer's work in the camp.

From Company K, the following men served in the various details for laying out the camp: Privates John Clark, Bird, under Corporal Milwater, Breeze and Dunham reported to Lieutenant Pearsall to handle baggage; Private Perry reported to Quartermaster-Sergeant Cox to select company tents; Private Hartshorne and Miles, reported to Battalion Adjutant Littell to erect the battalion tents; Private VanArsdale reported to regimental headquarters to assist Captain Peterson erect headquarters' tents, and Private Steve Milwater reported to the brigade quartermaster to assist in erecting tents there.

HURT BY A FALL.

George Gottlick, the 10-year-old son of Charles Gottlick, of Prospect street, Westfield, was badly cut about the head yesterday when he fell from his bicycle on the trolley tracks at Broad and Prospect streets, in that town. He was riding down Prospect street and when he crossed the tracks at Broad street his wheel caught and threw him down on the sharp rails. Policeman Rosencrans took him to Casey's drug store, where "first aid" treatment was given until the arrival of a physician. It was found that he was bruised and severely cut about the head.

VIOLATED ORDINANCE.

Samuel Smelson and Leo Moskowitz were arrested by Patrolman Craig, who brought them into court on a charge of shooting air rifles at targets placed on telegraph poles. The youths were allowed to go with a reprimand by Judge DeMeza this morning.

DOLLIVER GETS ANOTHER OFFICE

Young Lawyer Is Appointed Clerk to the Borough Board of Education.

NO BIDS ON THE BONDS

To Advertise Again For $18,000 Issue at Higher Interest Rate—Architect Presents Plans For High School Building Improvement.

Charles M. Dolliver, clerk of the North Plainfield Council, was elected clerk of the Borough Board of Education at a special meeting last night. He succeeds Albert Steiner, who served creditably for about seven years. There were several applications for the position, but Mr. Dolliver was considered best qualified for the place, especially as he is a stenographer and has had experience in similar work. He was elected without a dissenting vote. Mr. Dolliver, a lawyer, was borough recorder under the administration of Newton B. Smalley. Councilman Edmund Rushmore, a former member of the board, was the temporary clerk last night.

The meeting was called for the purpose of receiving bids for the $18,000 bonds to install a modern heating plant in the High School building, but no bids were received. This fact was explained by one of the members who said that it would be impossible to get any bidders for 4 per cent. bonds as specified in the board's advertisement.

It was then decided by resolution to re-advertise for bids and specify 4½ per cent. bonds. Bids will be received at a special meeting to be held Monday night, July 29.

A. L. C. Marsh, the architect engaged to draft plans for the proposed changes at the High School building on Somerset street to conform with the new State law which requires so much light per pupil was presented and tabled for the present. The law requires 18 square feet of floor space. This improvement would cost about $10,000, but the board has decided to do nothing with the matter for the present. The board will, however, plan to go ahead with the installation of a new heating plant which will cost about $18,000.

MORE BOYS LEAVE FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Second Delegation In Charge of F. A. Martin Start For Wawayanda.

The second section of Y. M. C. A. boys left this morning on the 6:27 train for the State camp at Lake Wawayanda where the youths are booked to spend the two coming weeks. The party consisted of Franklin Newell, Richard Pennock, Clarence Krausse, Irving Manley, James T. Pierson, William Wheelan, Edward Ryder, John Hammond, LeRoy Adams and Gibson Fairman. A large number of parents and friends of the campers gathered at the station to see them off.

The Plainfield delegation, in charge of Frederick A. Martin, of North Plainfield, went direct to the Erie station in New York, where they were met by other delegations from all over the State. They arrived in camp this afternoon about 2 o'clock, after a long and tiresome journey, made partly on foot, partly in motor launches and partly on wagons. The seventeen youths with the first section will all remain in the camp for another two weeks and some of them will stay throughout the whole four sections or eight weeks.

Plainfield already has a good supply of points piled up in the race for the silver loving cup offered for first place in the all around athletic competition. All of her scores thus far obtained have been secured through two athletes, Esty Foster and Walter Bell, and with the large delegation of additional fellows in camp they should walk away with the trophy.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. James Peacock, of 1224 West Seventh street, announce the engagement of their son, Jack Peacock, to Miss Bradley, of Rochester, who was formerly a teacher in the Borough Schools. Mr. Peacock is a graduate of Princeton University in the class of 1909, and is engaged in civil engineering in Newark. He took a prominent part in all branches of college athletics and was a pitcher on the varsity baseball team. After leaving college and during the summer months he was a member of the local Y. M. C. A. baseball team and was well known as a twirler. Both Mr. Peacock and his fiancee are popular with a large circle of friends in this city.

THEY PAID VISIT TO WAWAYANDA

W. D. Murray and Herbert E. Parker Are Enthusiastic Over Y. M. C. A. Camp.

MR. BINGEMAN ACTIVE

Twenty-five Plainfield Boys Are There—Three Rules In Force and One Forbids Smoking—The Daily Routine.

Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., in company with William D. Murray, of this city, has just returned from a week-end visit to the Y. M. C. A. State Boys' Camp at Lake Wawayanda. Mr. Murray was one of the first to join the Wawayanda tent colony and he pays a yearly visit to the scene of his boyhood joys. In speaking of the visit this morning, Mr. Parker was highly enthusiastic over his initial trip and says he was surprised to find the way in which the 125 boys are handled. He reports the Plainfield boys as leaders in every branch of camp endeavor and says that they are all in the best of health and perfectly contented with their surroundings.

A physician is in constant attendance at the hospital tent but no cases of illness or accidents have occurred so far this season, which speaks well for the sanitary arrangements in the camp. Plainfield at present has about tweny-five boys registered in the camp colony, which is about one-fifth of the total enrollment. The other associations represented are Orange, Ridgewod, Montclair, Paterson, Passaic and Elizabeth. A number of the local campers will remain for another two weeks which begins today, while some of them will return to this city tonight.

C. William Bingeman, boys' secretary of the local association, is the assistant camp director and in this responsible position he is without doubt the leading figure in the camp. In recent years Mr. Bingeman has done much to improve the camp property and is thought a great deal of by all the camp fellows.

A new feature introduced this year is the summer school which is being conducted for backward boys who are thus enabled to make their grades in the fall. Most of the leaders in the camp are college men and two of them are student volunteers who will take up mission work upon the completion of their college course. All are verile Christian men and are well able to take charge of a bunch of fellows. Mr. Parker says that every one feels his own personal responsibility for the maintainance of order and therefore every boy is his own policeman. There are only three printed rules and one of these prohibits smoking in the camp, another forbids firearms to be kept there and the third forbids any fellow from going in for a swim unless accompanied by a leader or some authorized person.

The spirit of the camp is one of genuine loyalty and men who attended it in their youth return on visitors day to pay their annual visit and renew the scenes of their boyhood. Mr. Murray is one of these and he is well-known by most of the campers. At the Northfield Echo Meeting held Sunday morning at Lee's chapel, Mr. Murray was the speaker and took as his subject, "Jesus, the Great Guide." At the campfire meeting Saturday evening Mr. Parker spoke on "The Story of the Thief."

The daily routine of tent life which Messrs. Parker and Murray were forced to live up to while making their short visit is outlined as follows: 6:45, revelle; 7, flag raising, calisthenic drill; 7:10, dip in the lake; 7:40, breakfast; 8:15, Bible study; 9 to 12, morning activities, including athletics, tennis, baseball, fishing, boating, quoiting, nature study and shop work; 12, tent inspection; 12:10, noon swim; 1, dinner; 1:30, rest in tents; 2 to 5:45, afternoon activities, similar to those of the morning; 5:45, colors, supper; 7:30, campfire or evening entertainment, vespers; 9:30, taps, lights out.

TO HOLD LAWN FESTIVAL.

Under the auspices of the Official Board of Grace M. E. church, a lawn festival and entertainment will be held on the church lawn Friday night. There will be music in one of the tents which are to decorate the lawn at Somerset street and Park place. There will be on sale peaches and cream, melons and ice cream, punch and other seasonable dainties will be provided. E. D. Young will furnish the music, cornet, French horn, violin and piano. The grounds will be brilliantly illuminated.

EIGHT RESCUED BY LOCAL BOYS

They Brought Ashore Passengers of Stranded Motor Boat At Princess Bay.

YOUTHS RISKED LIVES

Foster Bowlby and Waldorf Ulrich, the Heroes, Are Guests of Matthew C. Stewart at His Summer Camp On Staten Island.

Foster Bowlby and Waldorf Ulrich, young men residing in this city, who are at present camping with some friends at Annandale, Staten Island, proved themselves to be real heroes Sunday afternoon, when a gale swept over Princess Bay. A motor boat named Odile, containing eight men, women and children from Rahway, was driven on the rocks near the shore, opposite the camp of C. M. Stewart, of South avenue, this city, where the young men are stopping. The boat struck a rock several hundred feet from shore and was beginning to fill rapdily when Bowlby and Ulrich realized that unless help was given the whole party would be drowned.

Impelled to quick action by the cries of the terrified people, the young men, at the risk of their own lives, put out in the camp boat and after a hard struggle succeeded in getting the frightened people ashore, where they were sheltered at the camp until the storm was over. They could not thank the young men enough for their heroic deed. The Odile now lies on the beach battered by the rocks.

HANDCUFFED BURGLAR ESCAPES FROM POLICE

While One Patrolman Is Using 'Phone, Prisoner Gets Away From Other.

Captain Frederickson at police headquarters received a telephone message from the Metuchen police at 2:35 o'clock this morning, asking the local police to be on the lookout for a burglar who had escaped while being taken to the lockup at Metuchen. According to the police of that place, the burglar was arrested after entering three Metuchen homes. Two policemen were on the way with the prisoner to the lockup, when one of them stopped at a private residence to use a telephone. When he returned he was quietly informed by the other officer that the prisoner had escaped.

The burglar was handcuffed, and it was the opinion of the police that under those conditions he would have considerable trouble in going very far without being caught, unless he should seek a place of hiding in the woods or swamps. The policeman with whom the stranger was left while the other one went to the telephone, claims to have shot the fleeing man in the leg, but this, he declares, did not stop the burglar in his flight.

The Metuchen police, who allege to know the burglar, assert that he has given them no end of trouble for a long time and in consequence his arrest was considered an important one. The Plainfield police are cooperating with the Metuchen department in an effort to recapture the man.

DUTCH ARMS ELECTS.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year at the regular meeting of the Dutch Arms of Netherwood Reformed church last night, held at the home of J. C. Hansen, on Jackson avenue. G. P. Wahlig was chosen president; Horace J. Martin, vice president; Edward Tilton, secretary, and Carl Henry Hansen, financial secretary. Horace Adams was elected a member of the club. A "Harvest Home Fair," to be conducted in cooperation with the women of the church, was proposed for the early part of September. Further plans will be made for this fair at the next meeting to be held in the first week of September.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL.

The members of Clan Mackenzie, No. 204, Order Scottish Clans, will meet at the office of Robert Murray, 326 West Fourth street, at 7:30 o'clock this evening, to attend the funeral service of their late brother, Robert D. Brown, to be held at his late home, 4 Verdon street, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong of the First Baptist church, will officiate, and the burial will be at Kensico, N. Y. This is the first member that Clan Mackenzie has lost by death since the organization was formed.

FOWLER EVASIVE AS TO 3RD PARTY

Congressman Banished By Republican Constituents May Try to Get Job Back.

MAY GET IN THE RACE

Elizabethan Reticent As to With Whom He Will Cast His Lot—He May Watch Which Way the Cat Jumps.

Firmly declining to be interviewed on his political plans, former Congressman Charles N. Fowler would not discuss the rumors yesterday concerning his supposed disinclination to leave the Republican party in favor of the proposed Bull Moose organization. He admitted after refusing to answer a number of other questions, that he would attend the meeting called for Asbury Park on July 23, when the Roosevelt supporters will consider plans for their State campaign, but quickly averred that there was nothing significant in that fact.

"No one can say what will be accomplished there," he said, and he seemed really to believe that it remained for the assemblage itself to outline a program. Mr. Fowler declared that he had outlined in his own mind his course of action, and that it would be disclosed at the proper moment. "These are formative moments," he asserted, "and plans must be carefully worked out."

That explanation of Mr. Fowler's reticence to give his opinions on the situation is due to his desire to procure an accurate idea of the chances of the third party meeting with success is generally thought. It is further becoming evident that Mr. Fowler is sizing up the Senatorship and Fifth Congressional fields with the purpose of ascertaining which is the better one for him to enter this year.

If Mr. Fowler decides that he will again aspire to the United States Senate, it would not be surprising if he should pursue a course similar to that of former Governor Edward C. Stokes and announce that he would continue the progressive fight within the ranks of the Republican party. It is figured that the Bull Moose men have only a slight chance of controlling a majority in the next Legislature. With the Republicans and a few Bull Moose legislators outnumbering the Democrats, however, it is believed that a Progressive who is still in the Republican party would have a better opportunity of being chosen than would a pronounced third party man who has burned his Republican bridges behind him.

The September primaries must be reckoned with, of course. If Mr. Fowler should obtain the Republican endorsement then, some of his friends think that the support of any Bull Moose enthusiasts who might get into the Legislature would go to him rather than to other Republicans who have been mentioned. They charge that a candidate who secures a strictly third party endorsement at the September primaries will not be a dangerous candidate before the Legislature.

A strong ticket promises to be entered for the Senatorial honors, and there is also the fear that Governor Wilson might carry the Democrats to another victory on their Legislative tickets. For these reasons several Fowler supporters are confident that if he will lay aside his Senatorial ambitions and run for Congressman again in the Fifth district, he would be more likely to return to Washington.

INJURIES FATAL TO FREEHOLDER

Robert Zergiebel, Dragged Across Field By a Cow, Dies In Muhlenberg Hospital.

A SUCCESSFUL FARMER

Prominent In Democratic Party In Somerset County and Held Two Offices—Had Suffered Many Mishaps—Aged 52 Years.

Freeholder Robert Zergiebel, of Mt. Bethel, died suddenly at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning following injuries received on Monday, July 8, when a cow which he was leading home ran away and dragged him across a field. He was thought to be improving when there was a sudden change for the worse and he died soon afterward. About a year ago Mr. Zergiebel was kicked in the stomach by a horse which caused hernia and since then he had a fall, breaking his leg. His experience of a week ago is believed to have aggravated other troubles, causing his death.

Mr. Zergiebel was born in New York and was 52 years of age. When a young man he located in Warren township. He owned two large farms in the township and for many years was sucessful as a farmer. During his residence in Somerset county he took an active part in politic. He was a Democrat and had served two or three terms as a member of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders. His present term would have expired this fall, having been elected three years ago. He was also serving a three-year term as a member of the Township Committee of Warren township.

Being successful in farming and other business ventures, Mr. Zergiebel is said to have made a fortune. One of his farms located along what is known as the Dead river, is considered one of the finest in Somerset county. Surviving besides a wife, who is a sister of Henry Williams, are two daughters and one son; also one sister, Mrs. Rudolph Sach, who lives at Mt. Bethel and one brother, Edward Zieglebel, of New York.

WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS IS STRONG FOR WILSON

If He Could Be of Service to Party Standard Bearer He Would Answer Call.

When former Mayor William Lawrence Saunders, of North Plainfield, was asked today as to a boom started for him by Somerset county friends for the United States Senatorship, he confessed that he was in ignorance of the movement. As the story goes, friends of the boroughite desire that his name be presented when the Legislature decides upon the success of the present incumbent, Frank O. Briggs, of Trenton, a Republican, whose chances are admittedly nil.

Dr. Saunders is a staunch Democrat and is a great admirer of Governor Wilson. As president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, of New York, and as a director of the International Harvester Company and a score of other big corporations, he has little time to spare but his friends say that he would accept the Senatorship were it tendered him as the unanimous choice of his party.

"I do not seek public office," said Dr. Saunders today, "but I will do anything to aid Governor Wilson. If I could be of any service to him in any capacity I would gladly sacrifice my own personal interests for I consider the Governor an uncommon and a grand man. If I could help uphold his hands as President, in the event of his election, by going to either branch of Congress, should our party want me there, I would not hesitate to do so."

Dr. Saunders made it plain that he is not a candidate for either branch of Congress or for any other office but that he is a staunch friend of Governor Wilson.

Last Sunday there was a banquet and in the afternoon following a successful fishing trip, a camp fire was held. About twenty-five weak fish and flake were caught which provided a fine meal for the club. The camp will be maintained until September 1.

MOY WOULD NOT DECLINE TO RUN

Likely That He Will Be a Candidate for Re-election to the Mayoralty.

NOT HUNGRY FOR OFFICE

But His Friends Want Him to Go Before the People Again For the Place Where He Has Made Good—Not Out For Congress.

The question as to whether Mayor George W. V. Moy would be a candidate for re-election has been more or less of an open one until today, when in an informal way his honor declared himself to the extent that in all probability he will consent to be a candidate again for the office. While the Mayor's views as to political parties are well known here, there is every reason to believe that he will not identify himself with either of the big parties in seeking another term.

Mr. Moy's independent views are well known by those who have been associated with him or who have watched his course in the conduct of his office, and as he sought the independent field during his first campaign for the office it is said that he is likely to do the same thing in the coming campaign. It is said that Mr. Moy is constantly being importuned to seek another term and assurances of plenty of support have been given him, it is declared.

When questioned about the matter today, Mr. Moy said that a number of his friends had been trying to persuade him to become a candidate for Congress to succeed W. E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, but he had absolutely declined to consider the proposal. He added that if he could be of any service he preferred to give that service in his home town.

While Mr. Moy did not declare outright that he would be a candidate this fall for the mayoralty on an independent ticket, his remarks led one to believe that that would be his attitude in the fall campaign.

Woodruff, of Elizabeth, who was pastor of the Methodist church six years ago, will officiate at the services.

POLICEMAN PREVENTS FIRE.

Quick action on the part of Patrolman Craig prevented a serious fire in the home of Joseph Manhattan, of 343 East Second street, last night. A small kerosene lamp was overturned, setting fire to a tablecloth and other material in the room. Craig was attracted to the scene of the fire by confused shouts and calls of "fire" from the Manhattan family and he entered the house and threw the burning mass out of the window. It was about 1 o'clock this morning when Craig was passing the house.

MADISON BAND CONCERT.

Madison, July 16.—The second band concert in the summer program of free public music was given last night, instead of Wednesday evening, on account of the opening of the Mt. Carmel Society's annual Italian celebration and its attendant musical program on the latter night. The advancement of the date has left the committee with little time to secure a soloist for the second of the week's concerts, but the necessary arrangements were made in time to bring a singer here from New York. Voss' First Regiment Band, of Newark, played.

VOLUME ON CORPORATION ACT.

Trenton, July 16.—Secretary of State David S. Crater has for distribution an edition of the new compilation of the general corporation act of New Jersey, prepared by J. B. R. Smith, until recently assistant secretary of State. Mr. Smith has arranged a volume of corporate rights and liabilities under the general corporation act. The language is so simple as to be easily understood by the lay mind. In the first chapter the author gives expression to some original ideas relative to the origin and function of corporations.

Many of the Handsome Gifts are Unclaimed

Of the 80 valuable presents we offered during the Fifth Anniversary Sale there are quite a number that have not found pleased recipients, and as

We Want You to Have These Gifts

and there were also many of our patrons and friends who did not receive a numbered Circular, we have thought out the following plan whereby everybody will have an opportunity to secure one.

Today, Wednesday and Thursday

We will give away a numbered card to any adult who visits our store and asks for one. Then on Friday we will place around the store all remaining gifts, with a number on it and if you have the same number on your card you can claim the gift free.

Mr. Fort will again draw the numbers and cards will only be given to adults—not to children—and one to each household.

Reduced Prices Continued on All Anniversary Specials

As a further inducement for you to visit the store this week, in addition to securing your card we will continue the reduced prices on all the remaining quantities from the Anniversary Sale and there are still many mighty big bargains.

EPWORTHIANS CLOSE SESSION AT MADISON

Madison, July 16.—The exercises of the ninth anual Epworth League institute of the Second General Conference District, which had been in session at Drew Theological Seminary for eight days, with forty instructors and 200 delegates, closed Sunday with religious services.

The classwork and studies of the institute were concluded Saturday, and yesterday morning was given over to packing up and making farewells. The institute was the largest of any held in this district. It is expected that the institute will be held here again next year.

The program of events Sunday began with a morning "watch," conducted in the Drew Seminary chapel by Clarence A. Titus, the retiring president. At 10:30 o'clock the delegates attended services in Christ Methodist Episcopal church, at which Rev. Thomas Nicholson, of New York, secretary of the Methodist Board of Education, preached. At 3 o'clock Rev. Lynn Harold Hough, of Baltimore, led an institute sacramental service at the seminary grounds, and at 5 o'clock Rev. Ralph Welles Keeler, of New York, assistant editor of the Methodist Sunday-school publication, addressed an open-air meeting on Green Village road, in which the Protestant churches of Madison united. The closing meeting was a testimonial service at 7:45 o'clock at the seminary, in which short talks were given by members of the faculty and delegates.

The last of the evening lectures was given Saturday by Rev. Millard L. Robinson, pastor of the Seventeenth Street Methodist Episcopal church, New York. He spoke on "Temperance," combining a sermon and practical instruction in his remarks, which showed the avenues open to the Epworth League in fighting the liquor evil.

After Saturday morning's final classwork a family council of all the delegates and teachers was held at noon. The meeting was conducted by President Titus. The closing social Saturday evening was entered into by the eleven conference districts into which the institute had been divided, each group contributing to the program. There was a mock trial at which some of the members of the faculty were arraigned on amusing fanciful charges. Other features were costume drills, songs, recitations and tableaux. These groups, with the leaders of each, were as follows:

New York East Conference—Brooklyn North District, J. D. Godfrey; Brooklyn South District, F. H. Taft; New York District, Ralph G. Bedient; New Haven District, A. P. Hickcox. New York Conference, including New York and other districts, Robert W. McNicholl. Newark Conference—Newark District, Miss Edna N. Dunn; Jersey City District, E. J. Brookins; Elizabeth District, E. J. Fink; Paterson District, John M. Versteeg. Drew Seminary students, Rev. J. A. Hill.

WANT SUNDAY MAIL RESTORED.

Metuchen, July 16.—Vexation has been aroused here because of a proposition to cut off the mail service at the local postoffice Sunday. Already all outgoing Sunday mails have been discontinued and Metuchen has no mail communication with the outside world between 6:45 Saturday night and 8 o'clock Monday morning. The only way to get letters out of Metuchen on Sunday is to have them sent to Elizabeth, Newark, New York, Plainfield, New Brunswick or some other neighboring town, and this is being done in many cases since the mails were discontinued three Sundays ago. Such an inconvenience is the absence of Sunday outgoing mails that several people have taken the matter up with the first assistant postmaster-general at Washington. A petition for the restoration of the service is being prepared by the business men. The Postoffice department rules require a specified quantity of letters to justify a despatch. It is declared that the quantity of letters for despatch Sunday night is about six or seven times the required quantity.

HANGING NEW BELL AT SHORE.

Bradley Beach, July 16.—Following the consecration services for the new bell for the Church of the Ascension Sunday, artisans were busy yesterday hanging the massive weight in the church belfry. The bell will be rung for the first time next Sunday. The church was well filled when Monsignor Fox, of Trenton, blessed the bell, with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grace, of this borough, the donators, standing nearby. Father Gilbert, of St. Mary's Abbey, Newark, preached the sermon. Other priests in attendance were Rev. J. J. O'Hara, rector; Rev. S. M. Lyons, Spring Lake; Rev. John Early, New York; Father Anthony, Newark, and Father Hubert, Trenton.

INVESTIGATING TRENTON MILK.

Trenton, July 16.—George W. McGuire, chief of the division of creameries and dairies of the State Board of Health, at the request of the Trenton City Commission, is investigating the 400 sources of milk supply for this city with a view to stopping the sale of bad and unwholesome milk and of punishing the offenders. Mr. McGuire declares that a great quantity of the below standard milk is sent to Trenton because those dealing in it know that this city has no system of milk inspection like those of other municipalities.

T. R. SAYS THERE'LL BE NO COMPROMISE

Progressive Movement No Part of Republican Party.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 16.—In expressing his emphatic disapproval again of the plan by which in some states Republican and progressive presidential electors identical upon both tickets shall be pledged to support the candidate of the ticket upon which he receives the most votes Colonel Roosevelt made clearer than ever before his determination that the progressive movement should be bound by no ties to the Republican party.

"I will acquiesce," he said, "in no compromise whatever."

Colonel Roosevelt's position is that his strength is to be exerted for the progressives and for them only. He is unwilling that there should be anything resembling compromise between his forces and those which he claims represent "successful dishonesty." As a secondary consideration, he declares, he is averse to the scheme, because in doing up with the Republican party he would alienate the independent and Democratic progressive vote for which he bids.

ROCKEFELLER PUPIL KILLED.

Ran Over by Stone Boat on Estate Near Summer School.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 16.—Clara Hanley, six years old, was crushed to death by a big stoneboat on the John D. Rockefeller estate. She was one of about twenty pupils who attended the Rockefeller Summer school, and her sister, who was the teacher, had just dismissed the morning session when the children ran down the road for a ride on a loaded stoneboat. The driver, Wheeler Turner, did not see them, but Mrs. Rutledge, who was waiting for her own children, saw little Clara fall and the heavy wheel pass over her body.

Mrs. Rutledge ran out to pick up the little girl. She carried her into the schoolhouse and placed her on a bench and covered her with an American flag. Death had been instantaneous.

Woodruff Back on the Job.

New York, July 16.—Timothy L. Woodruff got back from the Adiron dacks to the Roosevelt headquarters in Brooklyn today. He at once took up the organization of the committee of sixty-five, which is to have charge of the campaign in Kings county. The committee is to be appointed at a meeting July 23, and it is expected that Woodruff will be at its head.

SOCIALIST'S SPITE FENCE DESTROYED

Mayor and Chief of Police In Attacking Party.

REBUILDING IS STARTED.

As Soon as Fence Had Been Removed Alger Was More Defiant Than Ever. Circulates In Big Crowd Selling Postal Cards and Denouncing Monmouth Courts.

Seabright, N. J., July 16.—James M. Alger, the eccentric Socialistic preacher, who has defied the courts for years by erecting several spite fences around his ice cream parlor, located at the entrance of the famous Rumson road, and who has served a term in jail for being disorderly, is again in trouble.

A party of seven men, including former Mayor P. Hall Packer of Seabright and J. Frank Patterson, chief of police of Red Bank, razed his recently constructed spite fence to the ground while several hundred people looked on.

While the fence was being removed Alger circulated through the crowd selling postal cards and shouting that the "courts of Monmouth county were rotten and needed adjustment."

Orders Fence Torn Down.

An order addressed to P. Hall Packer and J. Frank Patterson to remove the fence was received from the trustee of the Alger property, which read: "I do hereby authorize and empower you or either of you, with such assistance as may be necessary for the purpose, to take down and level to the ground the board fence and standing posts now on property, the title of which stands in my name and which is known commonly as the Alger property, situated on the south side of the Rumson road, near the Seabright bridge. This work must be done at your own proper costs and charges and without devolving any claim or liability whatsoever on me. This shall be your sufficient warrant. Dated July 12, 1912. Signed, William J. McFadden, trustee."

As soon as the fence had been removed Alger was more defiant than ever and immediately started its reconstruction, declaring that "the fence will be rebuilt as soon as physical strength will allow, with some of the old inscriptions and others more damaging to the judiciary and the rotten courts of Monmouth county than ever before, and I, James M. Alger, will be selling Socialistic souvenir postal cards and doing business at the same old stand."

LABORERS STRIKE IN ORANGE

Demand Increased Pay They Say Was Promised Last Year.

Orange, N. J., July 16.—Two hundred laborers, mostly employed in the building trades, are on strike and are now inducing others to join them. The men say that a year ago they were promised 22½ cents an hour if they would wait until this year to ask for an increase from the 20 cents they were getting.

The boss builders signed an agreement which the men assert, binds them to grant the increase July 1. It was not granted, and the bosses are said to have told the men that the times did not warrant any increase.

The men say they will tie up all laboring work within a couple of days unless their demands are granted.

SURGEON MAY CUT AT WILL

Trenton Judge Rules Doctor May Change Orders.

Trenton, N. J., July 16.—That a surgeon instructed to perform a certain operation upon a patient may exceed his instructions while the patient is under ether and operate more extensively than directed if he finds it necessary is the gist of an opinion rendered by Justice Garrison of the supreme court. The jurist was formerly a surgeon of note.

Harris Beisman sued Dr. Victor Parsonnet and got a verdict of $1,000 because the surgeon who started to operate found a more serious condition, which threatened the man's life. Dr. Parsonnet operated free of charge and was sued for assault and battery. The verdict is set aside.

The new hypochloride plant installed at the pumping station at Seventh, N. J. has been placed in commission. The authorities are awaiting the report of the board of health on the analysis of the water and milk.

THE STOKES PLAN.

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes says that, although he was a Roosevelt man prior to the primaries last May, he cannot now see his way clear to leave the Republican party. He intimated, in a statement given out yesterday, that he would like to see Roosevelt given the electoral vote of the State at the coming election, provided of course, that the Democrats do not carry New Jersey, which they will probably do. The former Governor went into great detail to explain his plan for giving the Republicans a chance to decide whom they want, and it embraces a method by which the Republican voters, when they vote next November can cast their ballots for either Taft or Roosevelt men.

Mr. Stokes' plan is to nominate the same set of electors twice, one by the State convention, and one by petition. Bracketed opposite the names of each set on the ballot will be placed the names of Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, and they are to be called upon to bind themselves to vote for the man having the highest vote at the election. In other words if at the close of the polls the Roosevelt ticket receives more votes than the Taft ticket, the electors will cast their ballots for the former President in the electoral college, and vice versa in case Mr. Taft has the larger vote of the members of the party.

The former Governor sees in this a fair and equal method for determining the matter. He does not, however, take into consideration the fact that there are thousands of Republicans who would vote for Mr. Roosevelt, and would not cast a ballot which might aid in the election of Mr. Taft, but would rather vote for Governor Wilson instead. Those who voted for Roosevelt, in case he did not get the majority in the State, would be casting a ballot for President Taft, and perhaps aiding in his election, when Roosevelt would be their first choice and Governor Wilson their second. Says the former Governor about the matter "it permits every man to vote his preference and principle." Does he mean that the man who votes for Roosevelt, and indirectly aids Mr. Taft in case the latter should be successful, is carrying out his "principle and preference?" If he does then the Progressives would be aiding in carrying out the principle that they condone the fraud by which President Taft received the title of Republican candidate.

If the Progressives are really serious, and every move they have made up to the present time indicates that they mean business, the only method open for them is to go ahead with the Third party movement, and try out its strength. The Stokes plan is impractical. We doubt whether the Rooseveltites have any hope of winning the Presidency, but they do expect to defeat President Taft in every State, and at the same time give those who do not care to vote for Taft, a chance to vote without voting the Democratic ticket.

During these trying days, you may be finding comfort at some mountain or seashore resort and if you are the genuine type of man or woman you will consider the unhappy lot of the poor little babe who must suffer the tortures of the heated season in your home town. To help these tots, the City Union of the King's Daughters maintains a camp on the slope of the Watchung mountain, where everything possible is done for the little guests. It takes money to conduct this worthy institution. In fact over $600 is now needed for that purpose. Your mite will be received gratefully. Send it to the Daily Press and it will be acknowledged promptly and as speedily transmitted to the camp committee.

Few men have done more for Muhlenberg Hospital and other local institutions than has our next contributing editor. He's one who is always bent on doing good and he sings the gospel of contentment at all times. Read what he will have to say on Saturday. We don't know what it will be but we feel sure that the trend of his discussion will not be pessimistic.

To he who craves publicity for his cause through the medium of public print—never say that you have read a certain article. Just begin your communication by asserting that "my attention has been called to" etc. Little men never have time to read the papers themselves; they always have others to perform that task for them.

One A. B. Walsh, of Short Hills, was fined $25 in the North Plainfield court today when arraigned for speeding his automobile. If the municipalities of New Jersey could exact and collect penalties of like amount in each case where an automobilist violates the law, taxes on real estate could well be abolished.

When Richard Harding Davis wed for the second time a few days since, he took the money which would have been spent on an elaborate ceremony and on a honeymoon and with it gave a large number of the poor an enjoyable day's outing. Yes, "there is something good in the worst of us."

As the Daily Press has a reporter specially assigned to "cover" the New Jersey encampment at Mt. Gretna, readers of this paper interested in Company K, of Plainfield, and Company M, of Somerville, will be sure to get the best and the latest news from there.

Hard times, eh? Well common laborers are getting $3 a day picking berries in New Jersey and Pennsylvania has a kick to make because it cannot get men at $1.75 a day. Thus, the high cost of labor keeps pace with the high cost of living.

It's not the heat that is keeping some office-holders awake nights. It is the worry as to whether they are going to be returned to their jobs when the people vote next November. Of course we don't infer this to be purely local.

As Governor Wilson is picking men of sound business integrity and clean political and personal character for his Presidential campaign managers, it seems to us that he could find a faithful and capable aid in William L. Saunders.

In one respect at least it will be warmer in Plainfield on a certain day in November than it is on this day of July.

Ed Stokes should have been an inventor.

THE TEMPERATURE.

Following is the temperature as shown by the State Trust Company thermometer today: 9 a. m., 81 degree; 11 a. m., 89 degrees; 1 p. m., 94 degrees.

WESTFIELD COUNCIL NO SUMMER RESORT AGENCY

A. E. Goldberg, of New York city, sprung a "new one" on the Westfield Common Council last night when he endeavored to use the council as a summer resort agency and as a result the town treasury is increased by the sum of two cents. Goldberg is desirous of sending his wife and babies to the country for a few weeks, and so he wrote to the town clerk asking if the council would refer him to a clean, cheap, inexpensive place to which he could send his family. He was very thoughtful and enclosed a 2-cent stamp, either for a reply or re-imbursement for the information.

On motion of Councilman Affleck it was unanimously decided to deposit the two cents in the town treasury. Mayor Dennis referred the matter to Councilman Oswald as head of the financial committee to see if it would be a good investment.

ENLIVENED THE DINNER.

An English Royal Banquet With an Oriental Variation.

When Muzzaffar-ed-Din, shah of Persia, paid his first visit to England he was the guest of King Edward VII., then prince of Wales. On the evening of his arrival a banquet was held at the palace, and on the menu was asparagus.

As it happened the shah had never heard of, much less tasted, asparagus till that evening. When the dish was brought on he helped himself to half of it, picked each stalk up in his fingers, nibbled gingerly at the head and then threw the stalk over his shoulder on to the carpet. To have let it remain on his plate would have been a breach of Persian etiquette.

All eyes were turned to the Prince of Wales. What was he going to do?

THE AIR WAS THICK WITH FLYING STALKS.

The prince, tactful as ever, glanced at those about him, then at his plate, then he picked up stalk after stalk, ate what he wanted and threw the balance on the carpet behind his chair.

A moment later thirty people in that room were eating asparagus in Persian fashion. The air was thick with flying stalks, and the attendants, trained to look more serious than ever on such occasions, never batted an eyelash nor moved a muscle.

An Appropriate Hymn.

A certain professor of divinity who was spending the summer in the Scottish highlands was invited to baptize the infant son of the local minister.

When the time for the ceremony arrived the guest gave out for congregational singing a paraphrase much favored on such occasions. "Let us," said he, "sing from the fifth paraphrase, beginning at the second verse, 'As sparks in close succession rise.'"

To his consternation, the congregation giggled audibly. Afterward, asking the clerk what he had done wrong, that functionary replied, "You must know, professor, the minister's name is Sparks, and yonder is his tenth bairn."

A Parting Kick.

The physicians in a certain town had agreed that during their Chautauqua assembly they would employ a call boy, and each was to pay his share of the expense. This boy was to call any doctor who was wanted without disturbing the speaker, as it was embarrassing to him and looked as if they were doing it to advertise without expense. So it all went well until the afternoon, when Strickland W. Gilliland spoke. As he was talking away a certain doctor had a call from the platform, and he walked out rather ostentatiously. Some of the people who knew of the arrangement laughed or snickered, and the speaker got it. He said: "Don't laugh, folks. That is the way my brother got his start." And everybody roared.

A Musical Recommendation.

Herman Perlet, the musical director and composer, was recruiting a philharmonic orchestra and had enlisted the services of an Italian acquaintance. Among the instrumentalists he procured was a very old man with an antiquated flute from which he was able to get a wheezy tone now and then. "Take him away!" ordered Perlet after the first rehearsal. "He can't play the flute." "What! Thata man can't playa da flute?" gasped the sponsor. "Not in this orchestra. Take him away!" "Maledetta!" He rolled his eyes heavenward. "Thata man can't playa da flute!" And he beat his breast in indignation. "Why, thata man he fighta with Garibaldi!"

Blackie and the Magician.

Many years ago Anderson, "the wizard of the north," gave some performances in Edinburgh, and Professor Blackie was one of the crowd who went to see them. As he was making his way in he felt something at his coattail, and, putting his hand into his pocket, he found an egg. This he took out and most adroitly transferred it to the pocket of a young man just in front of him, a person as unlike himself as can well be imagined. Arrived in the hall, he remarked where this young man placed himself and chose his own seat in a corner as remote as possible. When the time came for "Wizard" Anderson to "trouble" him for the egg he arose and explained that he had nothing of the sort in his pocket, but that he believed "that gentleman" could produce it, pointing to the astonished young man, whose surprise, however, by no means equaled that of the wizard.

—Too bad that the self-made man so seldom succeeds in making himself agreeable.

A. E. PEARSALL DEPARTS FOR CANADA IN WAGON

Westfield, July 16.—Alfred E. Pearsall, of Pot Luck, closed and locked the doors of his mountain home on Saturday and started on his long talked of gipsy trip to Nova Scotia.

"Uncle Alfred," as he is generally known, has been talking of playing gipsy for several years past and has tried his best to get several of his newspapermen friends to accompany him. On Saturday he drove into town with his team of browns hitched to a wagon which he had built especially for the voyage over land.

The wagon resembles a milk wagon with a cut-in section in the middle. At one side is a large double bed and at the other is a place for a cooking stove and provisions. The wagon has oiled curtains to protect its rider from the elements. The wagon also carried a sort of tent under which the horses can have shelter.

Before leaving town Mr. Pearsall told his friends that they could laugh if they liked but he intended having a vacation after his own ideas, whether he reached Nova Scotia or not.

BENNETT WOMEN MEET T. M. GIBBS IN NEWARK

Metuchen, July 16.—The police were informed Saturday that Mrs. William H. Bennett and her daughter, Miss Delapine Courtland Bennett, had gone to Newark, where they met Tyler M. Gibbs, accused bigamist, who married Miss Bennett in June, and that the three had taken the Atlantic City express on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mr. Bennett on returning home Saturday afternoon found this note left by his wife:

"I have gone to Newark with Delaphine. We will be there a few days."

A search revealed to him that much of his wife's clothing and all of his daughter's was gone, and that they had departed with several suitcases. He said he had thought his wife shared with him his hostility to Gibbs.

About the time that Mr. Bennett discovered the note the police were receiving a telephone message from Jesse C. Wenger, lieutenant of police of this place, that he had seen the meeting of the two women with Gibbs and their departure on the express.

The story was allowed currency here last week that Miss Bennett, on discovering that Gibbs was under charge as a bigamist, was prostrated by grief and humiliation. Gibbs is out on bond of $2,500.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years. I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

GREEN CORN.

Do not cook corn in salted water. It wrinkles and hardens it. Do not overcook this vegetable, for it makes it very indigestible. Ten minutes is ordinarily long enough for it to stay in boiling water.

In cutting corn from the cob slant the knife so that the kernel will be cut in two. It will then be much easier to digest.

Left over corn may be served as fritters, scalloped corn, croquettes and in soup.

Here are some recipes for green corn that are worth trying:

Corn on the Cob.

Boiled Corn.—Take off the husk and put the cobs into a saucepan of boiling unsalted water and cover. If the corn is young and tender it will take ten minutes to boil, but if it is beginning to harden a little longer may be necessary. When tender drain, sprinkle with salt and serve with melted butter.

The boiled corn may be sliced from the cob with a sharp knife and reheated with a little butter, milk, pepper and salt.

Scalloped Corn.—Take some ears of cold boiled corn and cut the kernels from the cob. To five cupfuls of corn take one and a half cupfuls of bread crumbs, one egg and one-half cupful sweet milk, with salt and pepper to taste, and a pinch of red pepper. Mix the corn, egg and milk. Put in a baking dish a half inch of corn and sprinkle a thin layer of crumbs over it. Continue until materials are used up. Pour over all half a cupful of cream and put in a moderate oven till it browns.

Uses For Cold Corn.

Corn Fritters.—Cut the kernels from half a dozen ears of cold boiled corn. Take two eggs well beaten and thickened with crackers until you are able to form it into little cakes. Add salt and pepper. Fry in hot butter.

Green Corn Gems.—Take one part grated green corn and two parts water. Thicken with graham flour a little thicker than for soft biscuit.

Spanish Corn.—Take six large ears fresh green corn and press out the pulp with the back of a knife. Put one tablespoonful of olive oil in a frying pan, heat and in it cook together till soft one large chopped sweet green pepper and a small chopped onion. Add the corn, cover and cook about ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Then add two or three ripe tomatoes, also chopped; half a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of red pepper and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cook a few minutes longer and serve hot.

THE SUMMER GIRL.

Elaborate Bathing Suits Will Rule This Season.

BATHING SUIT OF RED FOULARD.

Such a bathing suit as this would hardly stand a daily dip in salt water and keep its festive appearance all summer, but every woman who spends the summer at the seashore likes to own one attractive suit, keeping a simpler model of mohair for ordinary occasions.

The pretty suit illustrated is made of satin foulard in a pattern of brilliant red shades, and the tucked bodice gives length to the waist, while the sleeves protect the upper arm from tan, freckles and other blemishes caused by sun and wind.

The model is a good one to carry out in less expensive materials.

CONVENIENT DARNING BAG.

All Its Contents Can Be Exposed to View at Once.

To banish the necessity for turning out everything that was in her stocking bag when she wanted to find an especial pair in a hurry an ingenious woman contrived for her "herself" a bag which was not really a bag at all, but which proved so thoroughly fitted for its useful purpose that it is being copied by friends and relatives in all sorts of materials and for many differing uses.

It was simply a large square of pretty chintz, lined with plain white. "One can find things far more quickly on that than against a figured or colored stuff," says the ingenious one, and with a large white ivory ring sewed securely at each corner. To the lining, before it was finally joined to the outside, were stitched pockets, their top edges toward the corner points. These were to hold needlebook, darning cotton and other necessities. Moreover, along the inner edge of each side was provided a tiny but strong ball and socket fastener, so that the open sides could be closed when the bag was especially full and thereby the falling out of odd articles could be prevented. The four rings can be brought together when the bag is to be hung up, and when it is wanted at hand it can be opened out flat and laid in the lap or on any convenient place. Being entirely washable and with nothing fastened to it other than the pockets and rings and fasteners, it can be "rubbed" with the utmost ease, the rings alone needing to be ripped off for convenience in laundering.

For Spring Fatigue.

To conquer "that tired feeling," of which many of us are complaining with the return of spring, these very simple items of advice may be found valuable.

Squeeze into a tumbler of water the juice of two oranges and drink it before breakfast every morning. Better still would be the juice from one large grapefruit.

At this time of the year, when a little other fresh fruit is available, the juice of orange or grapefruit has potent virtues and helps to tone up the system.

For the circulation of the nerves system an alternate application of hot and cold water is one of the most powerful tonics at our disposal.

For an ideal tonic bath try an ordinary hot shower for one minute, followed by a cold shower for three minutes. Specially bracing for the nerves is a douche over the back of the neck. A nerve specialist says that, in his opinion, a douche over the nape of the neck from a can of hot water, followed by one of cold and a salt rub—that is a bath towel dipped in sea or salted water and allowed to get dry and used as a dry rub—is worth untold gold.

The Man Who Knows.

"The trouble with your women's bazaars and money making devices," said the man who knows, "is that you do things in too much of a hurry. It is slapbang. 'We're so busy with our social duties that we have no time to spare save the middle of next month. If we hurry we can rush it through.'

"The result usually is tableaux which are all very well, of course, but they are just successful enough to satisfy the managers and to blind them to the fact that they might have made thousands of dollars more by a well organized fair."

NEW AND ORIGINAL DESIGNS IN FANCY SPRING BLOUSES

Three Very Pretty Peplum Blouses

THE peplum blouse seems to predominate at the fashion openings, and for dressy occasions there is no doubt it will have the preference. Three typical specimens of the peplum blouses are shown here. The lower one is of net and lace. It is really made in three sections for black chiffon tells ecru net, while over the chiffon a lace scarf is arranged in apron fashion. The first blouse is a pinafore effect in net lace and eme broidery. The other garment is of tucked fillet net with motifs of eyelet embroidery. The peplum is particularly becoming to tall, slender figures.

SHOE ECONOMY.

Renewing Soiled White Boots For Evening Wear.

Here are several hints for the girl whose dress money has to go a long way:

White kid shoes which are too soiled to wear and which are still of a good shape may be renewed for evening wear by painting them with gold paint. If this is done carefully and smoothly the shoes will look like new.

In some cases even soiled satin slippers may be successfully treated in this way.

White kid shoes may also be dyed a fast black by applying the following mixture to them: Five cents' worth of gallic acid and 5 cents' worth of sulphate of iron.

Put the sulphate of iron in just as much water as is required to dissolve it, no more, and apply this to the shoes. Let it dry, then dissolve the gallic acid in a very little water and apply this. When dry the shoes should be a good black color.

Great care must be taken in using these chemicals, and after they have been used the surplus quantity should be thrown away.

Dainty Custards.

Custards baked in the tiny individual baking cups or dishes may be served at the table directly from the oven.

Custards are garnished with glace cherries or candied fruit.

THE HOUSEHOLD PROGRAM.

System Will Serve to Make the Day's Work Lighter.

To simplify the routine of the day's work the extension department of the Kansas Agricultural college suggests the following ordering of the day's tasks:

Rise and dress.
Open beds and windows.
Start breakfast.
Put kitchen in order for day.
Prepare dining room and table.
Serve breakfast.
Clear away breakfast dishes.
Preparation for next meal.
Straighten living room.
Straighten bedrooms and make beds.

Walks In the Open.

There is nothing that will better invigorate the body and promote a good circulation than long walks out in the open. This may be regarded as old advice, but it is nevertheless true. The mistake should not be made, however, of walking too fast or too far at one time. Throw back the shoulders, strike a set pace and keep it up. The result will be good health as well as a good figure.

GAY GLOVES FOR WEAR WITH SMART NEW TOILETS

The New Embroidered and Bracelet Gloves

GLOVES are elaborately embroidered this season, the new long silk glove for summer being an exquisite lacy affair, overlaid with all manner of dainty handwork. The bracelet glove, as its name indicates, is to be worn with a bracelet, and the glovemaker has obligingly provided the bracelet with the glove. Inexpensive stones are mounted in these glove bracelets, which are merely half a bracelet applied to the top of the kid glove.

MRS. CHARLOTTE MARSHALL PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. Charlotte Jane Marshall, passed away very suddenly last evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Norman D Stringham, 1141 West Seventh street. She was sixty-nine years old and had been in failing health for several months.

Mrs. Marshall had gone upstairs to open the blinds of the house and had a shock which caused a rupture of a blood vessel in the head. She died shortly afterwards.

Surviving her are her husband, Albert E. Marshall; two sons, Clarence Marshall, of Brooklyn, and Albert E. Marshall, Jr., of Clinton avenue, and a daughter, Mrs. Norman D Stringham, of West Seventh street. Funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. D. Stringham, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be made Thursday at Amawalk, N. Y. She was a member of the Society of Friends.

WELCOME MEETING.

A welcome meeting will be held in the Salvation Army Hall on East Second street tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wall. Mr. Wall will take up his duties as Captain Hewitt's successor at that time, and this will give those actively engaged in the Army work in this city, an opportunity to meet the new officers.

SLIGHTLY IMPROVED.

Daniel Sullivan, Jr., the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, of Monroe avenue, who is in Muhlenberg Hospital under treatment for injuries received in a fall out of a cherry tree on Saturday, is reported today as being slightly improved with an even chance for recovery.

GIANTS VICTIMS OF THE PIRATES

Denny Pitches Good Game But Errors Cost His Team the Game.

In a close and well played game on Parker Field this morning the Pirates nosed out a victory over the Giants with a 3 to 2 score. The game was well fought and exciting from start to finish and the original five inning contest had to be drawn out to six in order to break the tie.

Denny, who twirled for the Giants, held his opponents hitless, but they managed to squeeze the three runs across the rubber on a spasm of errors committed at a costly time. Harper, on the other hand kept his hits well scattered but was also given better support by his fielders who made but two misplays.

This morning's game was the second on the league schedule and the movement thus far has proved very popular with the juvenile ball tosers.

MR. AND MRS. FORGERSON NOW ON THEIR HONEYMOON

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Isabella Larison, formerly of Hamburg, this State, and John E. Forgerson, of Summit avenue, the borough. The couple were married Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey at his home on Grandview avenue. Mr. and Mrs. George L. Forgerson, also of the borough, were the witnesses.

The couple are enjoying a honey*moon trip and upon their return will* reside on Summit avenue, the borough. The bridegroom is engaged in business as a blacksmith on Lincoln place.

AUTO SKIDDED; DAMAGED.

Howard Colby's automobile, driven by his chauffeur, Harold Willard, and containing Mrs. Colby, her daughter, and two friends, skidded on the wet pavement on Watchung avenue, near Second street. This morning. Before Willard was able to stop the car it turned completely around and one of the rear wheels crashed into the curb, being badly smashed. None of the occupants of the car was injured or thrown out, and after they had proceeded home in another vehicle, the damaged auto was towed to a garage.

YOUTH CRITICALLY ILL.

Roger Whitford, the six-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Whitford, who was operated upon for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital on Saturday, is in a critical condition, causing his parents much anxiety. Dr. Whitford himself was operated upon for appendicitis at the hospital only a short time before his son was admitted, and the boy's illness and operation has had a tendency to retard the improvement of the doctor because of constant worry.

IN BOROUGH COURT.

Theodore Smith, 11 years old, and George Carey, a 13 year old colored boy, of Westervelt avenue, were reprimanded by Judge Gano in the Borough Court for shooting a revolver yesterday. The lads had a 22 calibre pistol and bullets and were firing it in the back yards. The judge took the gun from the boys and told them that it was dangerous and against the law to shoot a gun within the borough limits.

Pagliuca and George Ball.

SHERIDAN JONES AGAIN OFF THE WATER WAGON

After receiving a suspended sentence from Judge DeMeza in the city court yesterday morning, Sheridan Jones who was arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct Saturday night, went over into the borough and again imbibed too freely in the cup that cheers. He was picked up helplessly drunk last night and will be given a hearing in court tomorrow morning.

Jones is an old offender and Judge DeMeza allowed him to go on the condition that he leave town yesterday morning. He left Plainfield, but did not get far enough away from the city to leave his police record behind and he will probably be dealt with by Recorder Gano in the borough court tomorrow.

VICTIM RECOVERING.

John Cunningham, of New York, the father who fell on Saturday while working on the new public library building, was removed from Muhlenberg Hospital to his home in New York, yesterday, at his own request and that of the family. The injured man is improving and barring complications will recover within a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Henderson, of San Francisco, Cal., and Earl Henderson, of Alfred Centre, New York, were the guests yesterday of Chief Marshall and Mrs. George Weiss, of Duer street. Earl Henderson toured here on a motorcycle.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

AMERICANS LEAD AS OLYMPIC ENDS

Indian Thorpe Makes Fine Showing on Closing Day.

ROYALTY HONORS VICTORS

Yankee Boys Step Proudly Up to King Gustav of Sweden—Curtain Rung Down on Most Successful Games Since Festival Was Revived.

Stockholm, July 16.—Proud American boys stepped up to King Gustav of Sweden at the close of the Olympic games and received medals for their splendid victories in the world's athletic festival just concluded.

Most richly endowed was James Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian, who captured both of the all around events, adding a brilliant victory in the decathlon to the conquest in the pentathlon earlier in the meet, for the victory in the pentathlon earned the right to hold until the next Olympic meet the challenge cup presented by the king of Sweden, and by winning the decathlon he is entitled to the custody of the challenge cup presented by the emperor of Russia.

For most of the ten days that these competitions have held the spectators enthralled the United States has led the rest of the world combined, but a rousing finish by Sweden and scattering points gathered in by other countries brought the total scored by all other countries up to 94 when the curtain fell on the most successful set of Olympic games since the festival was revived in 1895. Against this the United States rolled up 85, or only a majority of 9. Besides the United States only three nations earned a score than ran into double figures. Finland, mainly through the efforts of the great distance runner Kolehmainen, finished second, with 29 points. The Swedes landed in third place, with 24, and of this number the final rush accounted for 15. Sweden's rush placed Great Britain fourth, with 13, while the other countries scored as follows: Canada, 7; South Africa, 5; Germany and France, 4 each; Norway, 2; Hungary, 1, and Italy, 1.

In scoring these points 3 are given for first place, 2 for second and 1 for third. The tug of war, besides being obsolete and likely to be dropped from future Olympics, does not allow of a third place being counted. It has not been reckoned in the totals, but if included would give three more to Sweden and two to Great Britain.

Thorpe's Splendid Showing.

When the 1,500 meter run ended the trying decathlon, which consisted of ten events that put the strength, skill and agility of the competitors to a severe test, Thorpe had scored a total of 8,412 points out of a possible 10,000. This landed the Indian far ahead of his nearest competitor, H. Weislander of Sweden, who had 7,724 points to his credit. Another Swede, Clemberg, was third, with 7,412.

Previous to the victory that distinguished Thorpe as the greatest all around athlete in the world, the United States team had galloped away from France and England in the 1,600 meter relay race. The men who wore the stars and stripes successfully in this event were M. W. Sheppard, Irish-American Athletic club; Edward Lindberg, Chicago Athletic club; James Meredith, Mercersburg academy, and C. D. Reidpath, Syracuse university.

In the remaining events in the day's track and field program the United States was shut out.

Royalty Greets Americans.

There was a great throng in the stadium when the ceremonies of awarding the prizes began. In the royal box with King Gustav were several members of the royal family, including the crown prince, who has taken a tremendous interest in the games throughout. By virtue of their overwhelming victory the Americans were first in line as the athletes marched solemnly up to the royal box. Ralph C. Craig, the Detroit boy, was the first of the Americans to receive the medals which his supreme speed had earned for him. The king handed him two laurel wreaths and two gold medals to commemorate his victories in the 100 meter and 200 meter races. Then the crown prince presented the second prize in the 100 to A. T. Meyer of the Irish-American Athletic club, while Donald F. Lippincott, the third American in the race, received his prize from Prince Charles. This routine was followed throughout, the king shaking the hand of each victor as he came forward.

Every American athlete was cheered almost as generously as the local favorites, and there was a great demonstration when the picturesque Indian, Jim Thorpe, was loaded down with two challenge cups that were so large that he had to get assistance before he could remove them. The greatest demonstration of all was reserved for K. K. McArthur, the South African policeman, when he received the prize given by the crown prince of Greece to the winner of the Marathon. None joined in the cheers with greater fervor than the Americans, including Johnny Hayes, who had held the trophy for four years following his victory in London.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

Somebody is responsible for the statement that it is never too hot for baseball.

The big league question at present seems to be whether or not Rube Marquard can lose nineteen straight.

This reverse record would be rather easier to overcome as the Rube has a team behind him at present that looks as though it might have been dragged out of the river.

There is little danger, however, that he will lose nineteen straight, and he is likely to swing into his winning stride right away.

Plainfield's third amateur league started operations on Parker Field yesterday morning. Baseball seems to be flourishing in this city just at present and the trio of baseball organizations are all well founded.

Manager Bogardus, of the Dunellen baseball team, says he is looking forward to a big celebration in the event that his charges trim the local bunch next Saturday. The suburban team is confident of a victory and say they will have little trouble disposing of the local bunch.

A triple tie in an amateur baseball league is a rare thing. Yet this is what the Sunday-school organization displays in its official standing.

With the Manufacturers' Baseball League drawing to a close we are beginning to look forward to a post-season series between the pennant snatchers in the two leagues.

Martin was back in the game for the Yankees yesterday and incidentally they took a game and climbed out of the cellar. He secured one of his team's hits and took four perfect chances.

The Giants seem to have gone to pieces since the Rube blew up and have dropped six out of the eight games played to date on their western trip.

Since the habit of smearing the balls with a coating of strong liniment has been disclosed in the major leagues the managers have been trying to devise a way to prevent this trick and the Philadelphia Americans seem to have it solved. The liniment serves to do away with the spitball and in order to protect their wet ball artists the Athletics have a box buried to the right of the home plate in which balls for use during a game are kept, and when the umpire needs one, all he has to do is to lift the lid and help himself.

In their three games so far played with the Boston Braves the Giants have amassed a total of 34 bingles, seven of these were two-baggers.

Twelve in a row. Preparations are being made to plant the pole on the Polo grounds so that it will be big enough to fly the pennant in October.

Make it a world's championship pennant this trip.

JR. BALL LEAGUE SERIES IS BEGUN

Cubs Ate Up the Athletics Today On the Diamond at Parker Field.

The Parker Field Junior Baseball League series was opened yesterday morning, a game between the Cubs and Athletics being played and the Cubs came out a 9 to 2 victor. The captains of the respective nines, Benjamin Rosenson, of the Athletics, and Henderson, of the Cubs, were on the firing line and both were well supported by their "men" in the field. These two leaders also carried off the batting honors, each chalking up a trio of clean bingles, while Hebert, Dills and Stites came up in the rear with two each.

Although the score was one-sided and the outcome never in doubt after the third inning plenty of enthusiasm was displayed by the rival supporters. This game will give the Athletics the initial claim to first place in the league standing.

MARTIN BACK IN YANKEE'S LINEUP

Local Shortstop Replaces Dowd, Who Is Returned to the Minors.

Plainfield baseball followers who have been watching with interest the rapid strides taken by Jack Martin, the local youngster who is playing shortstop with the New York Yankees, will be glad to see his name back in the team's lineup. Martin has been warming the bench for the last week and a number of stories have become current as to the cause. Some claimed that he was not playing his usual snappy game since he was struck with a pitched ball by Walter Johnson, and others said that Dowd was fast becoming one of the best shortstops that ever played the game and would sooner or later replace Martin at this spot in the infield. Still others went so far as to say that the local favorite was destined to be returned to some minor league club.

Now Manager Harry Wolverton seems to have set all these rumors aside by sending Dowd back to the minors after his explosion last Saturday. Wolverton says that Dowd is a plucky youngster, but lacks seasoning and is entirely too over anxious. Furthermore he is weak at the bat. Martin, who has been handicapped by injuries, is nervy and lively, also a better fielder and better hitter than Dowd. This is the opinion of Wolverton who says that he will return Martin to the lineup as a permanent fixture.

FRANK BRUGGY MAKES GOOD AT PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Frank Bruggy, the Elizabeth boy who formerly did the backstop work for Bound Brook seems to be making a hit playing this position for the Pittsfield, Mass. team. One of the Pittsfield papers says the following about the local favorite:

"It was learned today that 'Billy' Hamilton, the Pittsfield National scout, who was at the ball park Saturday afternoon, made an offer to Bruggy of the local team to join Boston. The salary was not mentioned and Bruggy turned it down cold. Bruggy said today that he would like to play ball in the big league, but he wants money to play there and he doesn't intend to sign contracts and play for little more than board."

In a Sunday game which was a pitching duel over the Rosedale Giants, Bruggy and three hits off Pitcher Shipp, with Skip McCarthy on second. Bruggy came home in the third. Pass him!" chirped Home Run Johnson to Shipp, but the four twirler took a chance and grooved the ball, with the result that the Elizabeth boy slammed one to the fence, scoring the little backstop.

Bruggy and McCarthy are leaders in two divisions of Pittsfield. Francis is topping the club with the stick, heading an average of .351 without counting his work on Friday and Saturday, when he got three hits out of as many trips to the plate in each game. McCarthy is rapping the leather hard, but he is doing his best work on the bases, leading his teammates with seventeen pilfered sacks.

ENTER PATERSON MONASTERY.

Paterson, July 16.—Eight young men entered St. Bonaventure Monastery Saturday in order to complete their training for entrance into the Order of Friars Minor. Six of this number aspire to become priests, while the other two are desirous of becoming lay brothers. The formal reception will take place July 25. Of the eight students five are graduates of St. Joseph Seraphic College, Callicoon, N. Y. They are Charles Clifton Livingston, Minoa, N. Y.; Daniel Lanning, Philadelphia; John Dawson, Buffalo; James O'Hea, Boston, and Charles Hesey, Rockwell, Conn. The sixth postulant is Edward Moore. He is a graduate of Niagara University and comes from St. Mary's parish in Buffalo. The two students who are postulants for the lay brotherhood are Joseph Happe, of Westphalia, Germany, and Vincent Grotty, of Holy Innocents parish, of Buffalo. Mr. Happe, who just recently arrived from Germany, is a nephew of the Rev. Anthony Berghoff, assistant rector of St. Anthony's church, of Butler, and formerly rector of St. Bonaventure's parish, in this city.

LOSES BOAR HOG SUIT.

Newton, July 16.—A verdict of no cause was rendered by a six-man jury in Justice of the Peace John E. Whitney's court Saturday in the boar hog-suit of Warren E. Stickle, of Fredon, against Irving Kishpaugh, a shipper, of near town. The plaintiff alleged that on April 26, last, Kishpaugh, who travels over the country and buys calves and pigs for shipment, visited the home of David Swayze, in Fredon. Stickle had previously purchased a boar hog of Swayze, which was still on the latter's farm. Kishpaugh took a fancy to the hog, but was advised that it belonged to Sickle. April 30, Kishpaugh again visited the Swayze farm and took the Stickle porker, despite the protest of Mrs. Stickle, who was present.

PREVENTS A SUICIDE.

Newton, July 16.—Despondent over his finances, Milton B. Garrison, who conducts a restaurant and ice cream parlor in Main street, here, threatened suicide Saturday afternoon. Sheriff Maines, who found him in his bedroom with a strap about his neck, prevented the man from carrying out his intention. The sheriff confiscated the strap and a revolver he found close by and got Garrison's promise that he would not again seek death. The sheriff had been called by former Fire Chief Daniel E. Sutton, who lives next door to Garrison and who had heard Garrison's wife and children crying.

Not Enough Real Homes, Says Gov. Marshall

He Urges Taking Boys Off the Streets and Away From Temptation.

Commends Boys' Club Movement as Tending to Good Citizenship.

By THOMAS R. MARSHALL, Governor of Indiana.

THE home, if a proper one, is the place for the boy. There he can obtain mental and moral education, observe ideals and develop ideas. It rarely happens that a boy in a home deliberately goes wrong.

It is perhaps necessary, however, that I should define a home. The grade of its material surroundings, of cleanly, counts but little. If it is a place where the father returns to eat and drink and sleep and swear it is not a home, no difference what other advantages it may possess. If the mother is anxious to get rid of the duties and responsibilities of motherhood and stays only because of necessity and seeks every opportunity to shift her children on to the Sunday school or the day school or the neighbors and is more interested in the big chappies who watch her along the avenue than in the little chap who calls her mother, then the place she rules is not a home.

It may be humble in its character, rented from week to week, narrow in its quarters and poorly furnished, but if it is a place where one man and one woman believe the greatest happiness on earth to be, if they realize that there opportunity exists to train up in the tenets of our most holy faith a boy for useful citizenship, if it is a place where no sacrifice is too great, where hope smiles and love sweetens every duty, then that humble place is an American home.

Parents In Bondage.

Unfortunately for the good of the republic these homes are not numerically increasing in the land. The constant trend of population from the country to the city, the vast growth of manufacturing industries, the high cost of living and the cost of high living are putting the fathers and mothers of the land in bondage.

Deprived of time and opportunity to look after their boys, they must needs let them grow wild. Under such circumstances the boys turn to the streets and alleys and uninclosed commons of our great cities.

Theoretically speaking, the family and the home have a right to their own boys; theoretically speaking, the family and the home are responsible for the nurture and training of these boys, and, theoretically speaking, it is nobody's business whether they turn out well or ill, but here again conditions force our theories down.

Another unfortunate condition of our present day civilization, induced largely by the influx to the cities of our population and the ever widening chasm between the immensely rich and the unutterably poor, is the social life in many of our churches today. We cannot say with truth that we Christians love each other to the extent that our churches are units of Christian socialism and that the members, without regard to their social standing, their educational advantages or their material surroundings, meet upon a common level with a genuinely mutual feeling that all are the children of the selfsame God and that each is interested in the material, social and religious welfare of the other.

It may be stated that almost universally the Jew and the Roman Catholic do look after their own, and many churches in the various Protestant denominations do as well, but Protestant churches there are, and in numbers too great, where those of a certain grade in society merely meet and go through a religious service.

Her feeling may be wholly unfounded, but the woman in a calico dress does not feel at home in the same pew with the woman in silk, and the man with a business suit who walks to church shares not a fraternal feeling with the man wearing a Prince Albert and a silk hat.

There is either no time or no inclination to distribute Christian charity among the unfortunate of Christ's little flock, and the stricken lambs are taken to the township trustee for assistance.

Paternalism That Is Inimical.

The whole trend of modern civilization is toward the management of all penal and charitable work by the state. This inevitably tends to paternalism.

A paternalism which removes responsibility from the home and which lessens the zeal of the church is distinctly inimical to the best interests of a people.

We face the condition. We cannot let men go wrong because the home is not doing its duty. We cannot let people suffer because the church has not seized its opportunity.

The state, which is the common parent of us all, must assume all these burdens and responsibilities and must be answerable in sight of God and man for the attitude and conduct of oncoming generations. It behooves, therefore, all thoughtful citizens to ascertain whether some method may not be devised whereby measurably we can return to the original ideals and theories of the rearing and keeping of our citizenship.

It may not be needful, but it is certainly advisable that men interested in humanity at large and in the republic in particular should band themselves together and by formation of societies which are not a delegated authority of legislative power endeavor to correct these evils and both by precept and example impress upon the home and the church the inevitable necessity of a return to first principles.

Boy of Today Is Primeval.

As a starting point for the accomplishment of these purposes right minded men first turn their glances toward the boy and the boy's condition in the great centers of population.

The boy of today is as primeval as Cain and Abel. He is born not immoral, but unmoral. He is a cave man. He is the sole survivor of the stone age. Nothing is sacred to him. He is born without the pale of the law, and he has not heard of the gospel. He does not understand in his natural state why anything that is loose does not belong to him, and he does not appreciate grass except as something to walk upon. Very probably he lives under surroundings where there is either no time, no opportunity or no desire to teach him the great laws of life.

Now, the state is facing these conditions: The juvenile courts are crowded, the number of probation officers is constantly being increased, the reformatories and schools for incorrigible boys are being taxed beyond capacity, and petty offenses are growing more numerous all the while. It does no good for us to say that this is none of our business. It will not help matters the least for us to sit down and fold our hands and say that God will remedy these things. The thoughtful man must put aside his theories, his opinions and his prejudices in the face of actual conditions, and he is unworthy of his high heritage who will not by thought and word and deed render all possible assistance.

It was, I think, the theory of those who inaugurated the Boys' club movement in America that much as they regretted interfering with family relations they deemed it wise to begin interference before the state took a hand, thereby rendering it improbable that the state would ever be called upon to redress grievances, punish wrongs and take the doubtful chance of mending a broken character.

Highest Type of Citizenship.

The highest type of citizenship lives its life, does its work and leaves its impress upon this day and generation because it has been obedient to authority. Sooner or later all men realize that there must be obedience to law. Thrice happy are those parents who early begin to train their children to a knowledge of their responsibility to God and man and to hold a decent respect for constituted authority and to cheerfully obey the laws, human and divine.

The boys' club movement does not want to abolish the home. Its purposes are in strict accord with the highest ideals of home. It seeks by the formation of its clubs and the erection of its buildings to take the boys off the streets and away from the temptation of a great city; to instil into their minds right ideas and correct principles; to seal their eyes to the wrong and evil of the world until their judgment and conscience shall become so stable and fixed that they will prefer the right to the wrong, understand that the right not only pays, but is the only thing that pays, and that from the wrong they can never obtain any peace, satisfaction or profit; to give them an avenue whereby their boyish enthusiasm may find an outlet in all the simple and honest pleasures of life; to teach them courage and fortitude; to ascertain by experiment the things which they are fitted to do in life; to bring them together and have them associate under such conditions that they will be mutually regardful of each other's rights; to endeavor to keep their minds clean, their lips pure and their conduct above reproach; to help them to understand that they are to become the future citizens of the state; and in a reflex way and without hypocrisy and cant to assist fathers and mothers in taking an interest in the welfare of their boy.

—"It's a good plan to be prepared for the worst," remarked the Wise Guy. "And you'll generally get it," added the Simple Mug.

PASTOR TO BECOME BREWER.

Johnstown (Pa.) Preacher Resigns to Enter Business.

The Rev. Herman Kauffmann of Johnstown, Pa., has resigned to become a brewer. The minister comes from Germany, and before he came to America to study for the ministry and later to accept the rectorship of one of the largest churches in Johnstown he was identified with the brewery business in his home town of Ilsenburg, Germany.

He handed in his resignation to the trustees of St. Paul's German Lutheran church in Morrelliville, a fashionable suburb of Johnstown. It was accepted, and in giving his reason for leaving the pulpit Mr. Kauffmann said that he intended to leave the ministry to return to his home in Ilsenburg and enter the business of his family.

The family of the minister is the owner of a large brewery.

SHOT TO DEATH IN GAMBLING FEUD

Herman Rosenthal Murdered Near Broadway Hotel.

ASSASSINS MAKE GETAWAY

Drive Up to Curb In Touring Car and After Shooting Down Victim Escape Police, Who Pursued In Taxi—Rosenthal an Alleged "Squealer."

New York, July 16.—Herman Rosenthal, who had "squealed" on New York gamblers, was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Five shots in all were fired. The men who did the shooting drove up to the curb in a touring car. Accounts differ as to how many men were in the attacking party. Some say there were three, while others say there were five. Witnesses who were found by the police say that not a word was spoken by either the murdered man or any of those who murdered him.

There were several flashes as three revolvers pumped lead into Rosenthal. He died instantly. Immediately after the shooting the mysterious party jumped back into the car and started up Broadway at a furious rate. A lieutenant of police and a patrolman who had heard the shots came on the run. They impressed into service a taxicab and pursued the touring car to Fifty-ninth street and into Central park, where after several blocks the taxicab was soon distanced and the murderers made good their escape.

ARBITRATORS LISTEN TO ENGINEERS' SIDE

Demands Include Work When Electricity Supplants Steam.

New York, July 16.—The case of the locomotive engineers on fifty-two of the railroads whose territory is east of Chicago and north of the Norfolk and Western railway, who demand an increase of wage aggregating $7,500,000 a year, was resumed today before a board of arbitration which is conducting hearings at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan Beach. It is recognized that the task which the commission has undertaken is a colossal one, for the reason that upon its decision hinges not only the question at issue, but also whether the firemen on these same roads as well as other employees shall achieve their demands, which will be many times as great.

The engineers at first voted to strike when their demands were rejected, but finally agreed to arbitrate. Both sides agreed to accept the decision of the commission.

When the proceedings opened yesterday Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said that he and M. W. Cadle would present the demands of the men.

The first specific demand to be taken up was that of fixing the pay of engineers on passenger trains at $4.40 a day for engines with twenty inch cylinders and $4.60 on engines with cylinders of greater diameter. The next clause related to electric service, and here the engineers demand that whenever any part of the system is changed from steam to electric or other motive power the locomotive engineers shall be retained and that their pay shall be the same.

"We propose to operate the transportation engines of this country, whatever the motive power is," said Mr. Stone very emphatically, "and later on, when you change to airships, we intend to operate them."

In reply to questions, he said that he regarded the responsibilities, the requirements and the dangers of the electric engineer as equally as great as those of the locomotive engineer.

BOSTON LAWYER A SUICIDE.

George P. Sanger, Harvard Graduate and Clubman, Shoots Himself.

Boston, July 16.—The body of George P. Sanger, a wealthy State street attorney, was found this afternoon in the bathroom of his suit in the Hotel Ludlow, St. James avenue and Clarendon street, with two bullet wounds in the mouth. In his right hand Sanger clutched a revolver. The bathtub was half filled with water.

The lawyer was a member of the Union and Essex clubs. His wife was Miss Susan Jewell. He was graduated from Harvard college in 1874, and three years afterward received his degree at Harvard Law school.

PUBLIC APPROVAL

FOR WATERWAYS LEAGUE.

Perth Amboy, July 16.—The New Jersey Waterways League will meet in this city July 20 and 21, when the members will be the guests of the Raritan Yacht Club. Plans have been made for boat races, but these have been eliminated from the program, as it was feared a serious accident might occur with so many craft in the water. The league dinner, which was also to have been held, has also been cut from the program of entertainment. Oliver G. Simmons the aviator, who recently carried a bag of mail officially from South Amboy to this city, is expected to make several flights. On the first day of the meeting the league will hold a business meeting at the yacht clubhouse, at 4 o'clock. At night an open-air meeting will take place in City Hall park, when Acting Mayor Garretson will make an address of welcome. The second day's program will be made up of a parade of the fleet at 11 o'clock.

FOR A CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Whitehouse, July 16.—The Board of Education of Readington Township has called a meeting of the legal voters to be held in the public school building at Whitehouse Station, Saturday afternoon, July 27, for the purpose of voting on the proposition of a central school for this neighborhood. The board will ask the sanction of the voters to raise $25,000 for the erection of an eight-room schoolhouse in Whitehouse avenue, Whitehouse Station. The proposition calls for the purchase of a plot of four acres of ground, which is to cost $700. The polls will be open from 2 to 3 o'clock. If the election carries the schools at Whitehouse Station, Dreahook, Ridge, Potterstown and Whitehouse will be abandoned and the pupils from a distance will be transported.

CHURCH MERGER.

New Brunswick, July 16.—The congregation of the Magyar Evangelical last night voted to join the national church of the Hungarians here. The First Presbyterian church of this city helped start the Magyar church here. The Presbytery of New Brunswick is not altogether in favor of the proposed union, yet the officers of the Magyar church have voted to put it through. Their church building will be transferred to the new organization, which has become incorporated as the Hungarian Reformed church. The Reformed and Presbyterian branches have been at odds for some time.

ARRESTED THREE TIMES.

Glen Gardner, July 16.—Trouble visited Irvin Hoffman in serial form Saturday. He was arrested three times and fined twice. In the first instance he pleaded guilty to drunkenness and paid a fine of $2.50. As he left the office of Recorder John M. Shannon he was rearrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. His plea of guilty brought a fine of $20, which he also paid. Once again Hoffman sought freedom only to be arrested on a charge of assault and battery. To this he pleaded not guilty and gave bond to appear in the Hunterdon County Court at Flemington.

TO SEEK GOVERNOR'S AID.

Paterson, July 15—A committee has been named by the Socialist-Labor party to wait upon Governor Wilson at Sea Girt to ask for a review of the conviction of Rudolph Katz, head of the Industrial Workers of the World, who is in the county jail serving a six months' term for disorderly conduct. The committee consists of Arthur M. Reimer, of this city, Socialist-Labor candidate for President; Olice M. Johnson, of Oakland, Cal., organizer for the Industrial Workers of the World, and Daniel De Leon, editor of The Daily People of New York.

FEW PLACES OPEN SUNDAY.

Long Branch, July 16.—Of the fifty or more merchants ordered to close their stores Sunday, less than half a dozen were complained of before Recorder Arrowsmith yesterday. These received summonses yesterday and were asked to appear before a justice of the peace, as the city recorder is a member of the City Commission and unable to prosecute offenders. The Sunday closing was generally observed. It is believed that what is called the objectionable amusements in Ocean Park will be hit next, and that they will be closed.

WATER COMPANY ELECTS.

Red Bank, July 16.—Edward D. Adams, of New York, was re-elected president of the Rumson Improvement Company at its annual meeting here Saturday. Other officers chosen were: Secretary, Dr. Henry E. Owen; treasurer, F. W. Klepper; executive commtitee, Dr. Owen, Henry E. Mecker and Frederick W. Hope. The company was formed twenty years ago to supply water to residents along Rumson Boulevard. A high pressure system at Fair Haven pumps the water from artesian wells.

"GENTLEMAN" BURGLAR BUSY.

Atlantic City, July 16.—Chelsea's "gentleman" burglar, who a week ago robbed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Balfour, across Pacific avenue from the home of Rodman Wanamaker, is credited with a daring piece of work Saturday night in the home of Job Matthis, a contractor, 3003 Atlantic avenue. Jewelry valued at $500, which had been left upon a dressing table while the Matthis family was out, was taken. Two suspects are in custody.

CIGAR STRIKERS CAPITULATE.

New Brunswick, July 16.—The New Brunswick Cigar Company reopened its plant yesterday. The plant was closed two weeks ago, when a large number of the employes struck for higher wages. Their demands were rejected by the company and the plant was closed. The strikers were notified that when they were ready to return at the old rate the plant would be reopened.

IDENTIFIED AS FUGITIVE.

Passaic, July 16.—Awakening a man asleep on a vacant lot near Columbia avenue and Passaic street, Sunday night, Patrolman Andrew Nicholls recognized Thomas Adridge, who escaped from the Bergen county jail two weeks ago. He is held for return to Hackensack. The man was sentenced to ninety days for begging by Recorder Whitehead, of Garfield.

NAVY TESTS ALASKAN COAL.

Cruiser Maryland on Northern Cruise to Study Results.

The cruiser Maryland recently left Tacoma, Wash., under orders to ply Alaskan waters until September. Captain Ellicott is instructed to inspect the government coaling stations on Prince William sound and Resurrection bay, the Bering lake and Matanuska coal fields and oil fields at Oil bay and Cold bay.

The order is believed to have resulted from investigations made last winter, when intervention in Mexico was threatened. It was discovered that in the event of war chartered foreign ships taking coal to the Pacific would be subject to seizure for carrying contraband of war, leaving the Pacific fleet in a helpless condition.

It was pointed out that Alaska coal was 2,000 miles nearer the Philippines than the Mare Island coaling station and 12,000 miles nearer than the Virginia coal mines.

As early as four years ago Alaskan coal was tested by the government, giving returns of 2 per cent greater utility for naval purposes than Virginia coal, now brought around Cape Horn at great expense. The Maryland will further test the Alaskan coal. Recently she loaded at Tacoma 900 tons of Gale creek coal, mined near Tacoma, which has given the navy better results than any other Pacific coal. The lighthouse vessels on the Pacific are substituting it for Virginia coal.

NATION IS GROWING RICHER.

Has $3,640,407,621, and Most of it Is Safely Locked Up.

The American government and people began the new fiscal year with $3,640,407,621, of which all but $363,621,008 is in circulation. The balance is held in the treasury vaults as the assets of the federal government. This vast volume of real money breaks all records, so far as the treasury statements show, for the winding up of a fiscal year, and it beats a year ago by $84,500,000.

The treasury officials, estimating that the population has grown to 95,656,000 up to July 1, say that a pro rata distribution of this money would give each person $34.26, or 6 cents more than a year ago. The total volume of gold is $1,831,490,400. Of this amount $607,445,193 is in circulation, an increase of $13,500,000 during the year. The country has $732,163,173 in silver.

FAMOUS "MORY'S" CLOSED.

Yale Resort, Celebrated in Song and Story, Passes.

"Mory's," the New Haven (Conn.) chophouse and student meeting place, famous in Yale song and story, has closed its doors, and the little frame building will be torn down to make room for a business block.

Yale men have met at "Mory's" for more than half a century, and the place had grown to be almost a part of the university.

At "Mory's" during their college days gathered many students who have since become prominent, notably President Taft. The place was full of relics of priceless value to Yale men.

ROOT FOR DELAY IN CANAL MATTER.

Senator Says Hasty Action May Cause Great Loss.

Washington, July 16.—Consideration of the bill for the government and control of the Panama canal was begun in the senate. Senator Burton of Ohio and Senator Root of New York discussed the question with special reference to the preferential tolls which have been provided for American ships and which has developed international complications.

Both of them argued that under the terms of the treaty with Great Britain the United States has not the right to discriminate in favor of American ships in the matter of canal tolls. This view was combatted by Senators Bristow of Kansas, Crawford of South Dakota and Townsend of Michigan. Senator Cummins of Iowa declared that he favored preferential tolls, but had not fully determined whether they would be in violation of the treaty.

Senator Root sounded a note of warning when he declared that in the event of discrimination in favor of American ships the United States would lay itself liable to damage in the sum of untold millions from foreign countries.

VANIMAN'S BODY FOUND.

Other Airship Victim's Body Also Picked Up by Life Savers.

Atlantic City, July 16.—The bodies of Melvin Vaniman, commander of the ill fated dirigible Akron, which exploded while soaring a thousand feet over Absecon inlet on July 3, and Fred Almas were found along the beach of South Brigantine by members of the federal life saving crew stationed there. Both were badly mutilated from the force of the explosion, which must have killed them instantly, and the work of fish since they were hurled in the water.

The remains of Vaniman will be shipped to Virden, Ill., his home, where Mrs. Vaniman was compelled to go a week ago because of reduced circumstances. Public spirited citizens are arranging for a benefit to assist the widows of the five victims.

KILLS TEAM TO SAVE POOR MAN

Ambulance Driver's Horses Drop Dead, but Patient May Live.

Philadelphia, July 16.—Two of the finest ambulance horses in Philadelphia, valued at $1,500, dropped dead after making a desperate fifteen mile run in an effort to save the life of a laborer.

Physicians at the Hahneman hospital were notified that Pellignini Palladino was dying of tetanus at Clifton Heights. Ambulance Driver Gallagher kept the horses at top speed all the way to the patient. Dr. J. M. Hutchinson noticed that he was on the point of death. He told Gallagher to get the man to the hospital, even though he had to kill the team. Gallagher did. As they reached the entrance to the Hahnemann hospital both horses dropped.

The hospital physicians hope to save Palladino.

Two Children Drowned.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 16.—The finding of two little blouses, two pairs of knickerbockers and four shoes and stockings in a flat bottomed boat tied to a stake at a favorite swimming hole in the Niagara river off Squaw island led to police announcement that Frederick Schultz and Edmund Christ, seven and nine years old, had been drowned.

MANY SEEK POSITIONS ON THE SMALL BOARD

Republican and Democratic Aspirants For the $1,500 a Year Jobs.

It is now a certainty that candidates for the small board of freeholders in Union county will take the place of the present board of twenty members next year will be numerous this fall. The new body will have but seven members at a salary of $1,500 a year each. It will probably be necessary for the members to give more of their time to their positions than they now do, but nevertheless the size of the salaries promises to prove attractive to many would-be office holders.

When the old board goes out of office, the new body will have the appointments to several desirable county offices to make. Among these are county collector, county engineer, county attorney and county road inspector and auditor. Candidates for these offices have not yet appeared, as they will no doubt depend on the political complexion of the board.

Among the Republicans mentioned as candidates for freeholder are many of the present members of the board, including Director John N. Cady, of Summit; J. Hervey Doane, and S. P. T. Wilbur, of Plainfield; George G. Teller, of Cranford; Henry Krouse, of Linden, and Peter Meisel, of Springfield. There are four Democratic members of the existing board, all of whom are being considered for re-election. They are J. Logan Fay, Thomas J. Pierson, Dennis F. Hennessy and William Bourdon, all of Elizabeth. It is not probable that they will all be renominated, as it is expected that an effort will be made by the Democrats to scatter the nominations over the county.

Among other men who are in the field for freeholder, Councilman George H. Schlotterer, of the Seventh ward, is being mentioned by his friends for a Democratic nomination. It is understood that Health Commissioner John J. Heck, president of the Elizabeth Democratic Club, is also in a receptive mood.

VanWyck Lott and Peter J. Olde, Republicans of Elizabeth, have announced their candidacy for membership on the board. The former has had his petition in circulation for several weeks.

WHY TRUSTEES ASKED THE PASTOR TO RESIGN

Charges Against Rev. G. W. Bailey Contained in Calvary Baptist Resolutions.

The reasons for the severing of the pastoral relations of Rev. G. W. Bailey with the Calvary Baptist church have been made public through the resolutions adopted by eighty-five of the 125 members of the church, and which were signed by Deacons S. D. Whindleton, Lawrence F. Chapman and George Miller; Trustees T. R. Harvey, Jefferson Walker and Edward Taylor and Lewis Booker and Lee Booker, a committee of two appointed by the church.

The resolutions and accompanying notice declaring the pulpit to be vacant were signed by the above-named officials. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas, There is continual confusion among the members of the church as to the fitness of the pastor as a leader, and

"Whereas, As the pastor continues to make personal and unchristian-like attacks upon each member of the church who differs in thoughts and ideas with him, and

"Whereas, The pastor continues to disregard Baptist usages in that he shows partiality among his members and does not increase the spiritual nor financial influence of the church.

"Therefore, Resolved, that the pulpit be declared vacant from tonight, July 8, and that we give the pastor $150 as advance payment for three months and sever our relations from him at once."

Several charges were made against the former pastor, in which he was alleged to have called a member of the church unbecoming names and used improper language in the teachers' meeting of the Sunday school; preaching that there are too many members in Calvary for God, as indicated by her sermon on the topic of "Gideon's Army;" ordering a motion put and passed when there was a motion before the meeting to lay on the table, causing confusion; allowing a certain deacon to use improper language to a member of the church; allowing a deacon to cause the arrest of a member of the choir and making false charges and dismissing the choir because he lost the case in court.

SEAMAN GOES TO JAIL.

John Carvin, a seaman on the Steamship Atlanta, was arraigned in the City Court this morning on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Patrolman Nolan was compelled to bring considerable force into play making the arrest and the prisoner showed the effects of his gruelling in the court this morning. This was his second offense within a short time and Judge DeMeza fined him $8 with the option of forty days in jail. He took the days.

CO. K IS ENGAGED IN SHAM BATTLE

Defending Army Commanded By Gen. Collins Complimented By Col. of Regulars.

CAPT. PETERSON HAPPY

Some News Notes of Camp Life at Mt. Gretna Of Interest to Friends of Companies M, of Somerville, and K, of This City.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 17.—The 2nd and 3rd Battalions attempted to oust the 1st Battalion under the command of Major William B. Martin this morning from a position on South mountain, five miles west of camp. The Elizabeth and Somerville companies figured conspicuously in repelling the attack. The Infantry charged on the breastworks.

The 3rd Regiment marched against a theoretical enemy on the south shore of the Lake and the Jerseymen mastered the problem according to the umpire's decision.

Brigadier General Tasker M. Bliss, U. S. A., commanding the Eastern division of the U. S. Army, arrived in camp last night. He was entertained by Brig. Gen. Dennis F. Collins and Colonels Mather and Reading. As the entertainment was on, a heavy thunder shower came up and a bolt of lightning struck a tree within twenty-five feet of where Gen. Collins was standing. Another bolt struck a tree beneath which were standing Major Martin and other soldiers. Several of the men were knocked down.

Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 17.—Plainfield citizen soldiers of Company K, who are here for a ten days tour of duty under instruction of regular army officers, awoke this morning to find some relief from the terrific heat of yesterday, which made life almost unbearable during the first "battle" of the encampment. A good breeze was blowing over the camp ground this morning, and the humidity was not so high as that of the two preceding days, so that as soon as reveille had sounded the boys turned out, ready for the hearty breakfast which awaited them. The usual morning duties about the camp were performed, and then the war game was renewed with vigor, another mimic battle being in progress the best part of the day.

The members of Company K, of Plainfield, and Company M, of Somerville, are all in splendid physical condition, and are enjoying the work of the encampment as much as it is possible to enjoy it. With all of the other members of the Second and Third regiments they have been commended by the regular army officers on the splendid showing which they have already made. In fact the New Jersey troops have surprised the army officers by their proficiency. When they entered camp on Monday the practical and businesslike way in which they went about setting up the camp convinced the officers in charge that the New Jerseymen did not need any instructions in the minor details of camp life, and instead of giving them company and battalion drills yesterday, the umpires decided to hold the first "battle" of the encampment then.

With a theoretical enemy, the en-

CAPT. W. H. LUDLOW.

Captain William H. Ludlow, a former resident of Plainfield, died yesterday in Rahway where he had resided since he left here several years ago. He was eighty years old and had many friends in this city. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., the members of which will attend the funeral in a body. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home of his sister-in-law, 106 Union street. Interment will be made in the family plot at the Rahway cemetery.

TAX PROBE MEETING.

The special Legislative Tax Investigating Commission, of which Senator Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county, is chairman, has arranged for a number of hearings throughout the State. The dates for Union county and other points in Northern New Jersey will be announced later. The announced dates cover South Jersey. Complaints of citizens will be heard on any tax matters that they may wish to present and there will be a full inquiry as to general tax questions.

LEWIS JACKSON FINED.

Lewis Jackson was fined $2 in the Borough Court this morning by Mayor Robert Clark for maintaining a nuisance on the rear of his property on Greenbrook road and Grove street. Jackson has been keeping pigeons and chickens on the property without a license and has been dumping rubbish and garbage there for some time without removing it.

TAFT ENDORSED BY CO. COMMITTEE

Union's Republican Organization Pledges Support of Members to Party Nominee.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

Big Crowd Is Expected at the Annual Outing to Be Held Next Month—Advice to District Election Officers.

The renomination of President Taft and Vice President Sherman was unanimously ratified at a meeting of the Union County Republican Committee in its headquarters in the Woodruff building, Broad street, Elizabeth. The platform adopted at the Chicago Convention was likewise uaninmously approved, and plans were started for a vigorous campaign.

The meeting was considered a large one, as almost the complete membership of the committee was present. Committeemen from all sections of the county expressed opinions that further strengthened the resolve of the Taft forces to give the Chief Executive a substantial majority at the November election.

The resolutions, which may be considered the keynote for the Republican campaign in Union county, are given herewith:

For half a century this great country has prospered under the successive administrations of the Republican party; during these years the population has increased from 31,443,321 to 93,402,151; the conditions of life have wonderfully changed and there has been great and unequalled growth both in population and wealth; the increase in wage and the advancement in the comforts of domestic life are unparalleled in the history of any other country. It was only during the years 1893-7 when the Democratic party was in complete control and when the tariff for revenue only was in actual operation that the steady advancement in prosperity and happiness was retarded until governmental affairs were again instructed to the party favoring a tariff for protection. Labor was never so universally employed or at so liberal compensation as at the present time. The Republican party has steadfastly upheld the absolute independence of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial departments of our government and the individual rights of our citizens as guaranteed by the constitution. All these years of Republican administration have been milestones on the road to progress and prosperity.

Under the administration of President Taft the laws have been impartially enforced and the country has been at peace and prospered, and the rights of every citizen assured and protected.

Therefore, it is by the Union County Republican Committee, in regular meeting assembled, hereby resolved that we do heartily endorse the administration of our President, William H. Taft, and his renomination at the recent National Convention of the Republican party and we do hereby approve the platform adopted by said convention.

A report was received from the outing committee, showing that great success is attending the preparations for the annual excursion on August 10.

The attention of election officers was directed to the fact that those who are already on the Civil Service Commission register do not have to take another examination this year. They must make application to the commission for appointment again, however, and blanks for this purpose may be procured from Donald H. McLean at his office in the Kean building.

Several election officers who served last fall are not on the Civil Service list, as they were appointed to fill vacancies existing after the examinations were taken.

PASTOR SCRUGGS RESIGNS.

Rev. G. E. Scruggs, who has been pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church for the past three years, has resigned the charge. He says that he will remain in Plainfield until he gets a call to another church. Mr. Scruggs says that after exhausting his means and energy he is satisfied that the church cannot support a pastor. There was a time, he says, when the church had twenty members, but the present membership is not over ten. The congregation is now meeting in a hall on Richmond street, and the meetings are being conducted by Alfred Carter, a licentiate.

CAMPAIGN CLUB FOR DEMOCRATS

Call to Be Issued By a Committee, Some of Whose Members Will Be Independents.

WILL WORK FOR WILSON

Complete Local Ticket to Be Made—Resolution Presented By Brodhead at Club Meeting Last Night Unanimously Passed.

Plans for the coming campaign were discussed at a meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club, last night, when it was decided to form a new organization apart from the club to further the interests of the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for the Presidency and to aid in nominatingcomplete State, county and local tickets. The reasons given for this action was that there are many voters who would prefer to unite with a new organization and lend their support to the success of the Democratic ticket.

Resolutions drafted and presented by former Assemblyman Calvin E Brodhead were adopted unanimously. These resolutions provide for the issuing of a call for a meeting for organization purposes, that a committee be formed to issue the call and that the committee comprise five members of the Plainfield Democratic Club and five citizens not members of the club. This committee will be appointed within the next week. The fact that five members of the committee need not necessarily be Democrats would indicate that the organization will make a strong bid for the independent vote.

The Plainfield Democratic Club will be continued, it is declared today by members of that organization, but the other organization will be designed to cover a wider field. After the appointment of the committee of ten a public meeting will be held at which a name for the club will be chosen and plans for the campaign discussed. The following resolution was adopted last night:

Whereas, Democratic success in the fall election in the State, city and the nation is most promising, and

Whereas, The Plainfield Democratic Club desires to lend its aid to accomplish that result,

Therefore, Be it Resolved, That a call be issued to all Democrats and others who may be interested in the success of the Democratic cause to attend a meeting to be held at the earliest time that may be practicable to the end that a strong and representative organization may be formed to aid in the conduct of the coming campaign. And to accomplish this,

Be it further Resolved, That a committee of ten be formed to issue this call and to arrange for the time and place of such meeting. This committee to consist of five members of the Democratic Club and five citizens not members of the club.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR WILLIAM H. P. MINER

The funeral services of William H. P. Miner, whose death followed injuries received at the Manganese Steel Safe Works, where he was employed, was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the late home on Mariners place. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends, and a large delegation from Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., and Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., of which Mr. Miner was a member, while there were about fifty employes of the Manganese Steel Safe Works present. The service was conducted by Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Rahway, formerly pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a wreath from the company by whom Mr. Miner was employed, a pillow from the employes, a wreath from the Masonic bodies and tributes from relatives and neighbors. At the grave in Hillside cemetery Worshipful Master Henry G. Klein, of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., was in charge of the Masonic service. The pall-bearers, all employes of the Safe Works, were David Gordon, Isaac Hulit, Alfred Jordan, Henry Ehrnstrom, Clark Bird and Ira VanArsdale.

MAY APPOINT HEALTH OFFICER.

The Plainfield Board of Health will hold a regular meeting Friday night, when it is possible that a health officer may be appointed to succeed John O'Brien, Jr., resigned. The board has received a number of applications for the job. Owing to the increased amount of work the board has found it necessary to meet twice a month, the first and third Fridays, instead of once a month as heretofore.

MRS. ELIZABETH DUNN GOES TO HER REWARD

Sudden Death of Venerable Woman — Mother of a Philadelphia Minister.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Dunn, wife of Solomen F. Dunn, expired suddenly at 10:20 this morning at her late home 320 Park avenue. She was stricken with an epileptic fit last night on returning from a visit at her daughter's and did not regain consciousness. Surviving her are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. John H. Manning, of East Sixth street, and a son, Rev. Charles E. Dunn, pastor of the Tioga Presbyterian church, Philadelphia.

The funeral arrangements have not been fully made. Rev. T. E. Zielie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment will be made at Hillside.

Mrs. Dunn was seventy-six years of age and had resided in Plainfield for forty-seven years, coming here in 1865 from Westfield. She was an active member of the Crescent Avenue church from the time of its organization to her death and was always an earnest worker in the foreign and home missionary societies, having been vice president of the latter for many years.

A BARREL OF VINEGAR FALLS ON HIS FOOT

And An Amputation May Be Necessary, Roscoe Magee, the Victim, Fears.

Roscoe Hagee, aged about 50 years, of Westfield, was admitted to Muhlenberg Hospital, last night for the treatment of a crushed foot and ankle. The injury is such a severe one that the physicians do not think it will be possible to save the foot, and it will probably be amputated. Magee, who was employed by Peter J. Windfeldt, the Westfield grocer, was assisting an expressman to put a barrel of vinegar, weighing 195 pounds, in the basement of the grocery last night, when he slipped and fell to the bottom of the stairs.

The expressman was unable to hold the barrel alone and it crashed down the stairs falling on Magee's foot and ankle. Drs. George S. Laird and Frederick A. Kinch were summoned and gave "first aid" until the injured man could be removed to the hospital. After an examination it was said that there was only one unbroken bone found in the foot and ankle. Magee resides on North avenue, Westfield, and has a wife and two children.

GUNPOWDER IN AN EYE; MAY LOSE HIS SIGHT

Allen Griggs, the 12-year-old grandson of Peter C. Staats, of Dunellen, who while visiting the latter, was terribly burned about the face and hands by an explosion of gunpowder while playing about a bonfire is now at Muhlenberg Hospital. At the time of the explosion a glass bottle, in which there was a quantity of gunpowder, burst and a piece of the glass struck the lad in the right eye severely lacerating the optic.

Owing to the fact that the eye is greatly swollen, the physician has not as yet been able to determine whether the sight can be saved. Otherwise the sight can be saved. Otherable for an early recovery. Young Griggs lives in the Bronx, and in company with his mother had been visiting his grandfather at Dunellen.

DR. FRANK C. ARD TALKS AT SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS

Dr. Frank C. Ard delivered a lecture yesterday afternoon before the students of the Teachers' Training Course, under the auspices of the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, at its school, Hebart Hall, Watchung Crest. His topic was "Recognition of Various Defects of Vision and Hearing."

Being a specialist in the treatment of ear and eye troubles, Dr. Ard is especially well fitted to discuss the topic and he gave an interesting and instructive talk telling some of his experiences in the treatment of defective vision and sight.

After the lecture there was a "round table" discussion of the subject.

SEWER PIPE LINE COURSE AGITATED

Dunellen Agrees With Plainfield On Joint System Route to Disposal Beds.

CONFERENCE TONIGHT

North Plainfield Suggested Another Line For Pipes But Offered to Waive All Minor Objections—Fuller's Report Ready This Week.

The Dunellen Sewage Commission at a meeting in Dunellen, last night informally put itself on record as being opposed to the trunk line sewer being laid on the north side of Green brook, as proposed by North Plainfield, but in favor of it being placed on the south side of the brook, as suggested by Plainfield. The meeting was held chiefly for the purpose of getting an expression of opinion so that the representatives attending the joint conference with Plainfield and North Plainfield tonight may have authority to act on that phase of the proposed plans.

North Plainfield suggested that the proposed trunk line cross Green brook and extend along the foot of the mountain and thence to the Darling farm or any other site chosen in Piscataway township. This plan would necessitate the building of two large siphons. Plainfield is opposed to the scheme, preferring that the trunk line should go direct from the city to the sewage disposal works. By the former plan, it is said, it would not be necessary to install a pump as the gravity would take care of the sewage, but by the other plan Plainfield would be able to save many thousands of dollars.

At last week's conference North Plainfield practically agreed to waive any minor points in the proposed plans of construction and it was generally understood that if it was thought best to have the trunk line laid direct all would agree to that plan. There is to be another conference of the representatives of the three municipalities in this city tonight to discuss further matters pertaining to the proposed sewer. It is possible that George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, may have his plans, etc., ready for presentation so that they can be sent to the State Board of Health this week.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ROBERT D. BROWN HELD

The funeral service of Robert D. Brown was held at the home of his son, Robin C. Brown, 4 Verdon street, North Plainfield, at 8 o'clock last night. In addition to the large attendance of friends there were present the members of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., and Clan Mackenzie, Order of Scottish Clans, with which Mr. Brown was identified.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducted the service, offering prayer and making a short address. There were many floral tributes, including those from Anchor Lodge and Clan Mackenzie. The remains were taken today to Kensico, N. Y., for burial.

FESTIVAL NETTED $45 FOR TRINITY REFORMED

A good time and a financial success were the features of the lawn festival held by class No. 2 of Trinity Reformed church Sabbath-school last night, on the lawn of Mrs. A. K. Willett on Craig place. It is estimated that $45 was realized. This is nearly half the sum pledged by the class for the church debt, which was increased $3,000 by the recent addition. Of this $750 has been pledged and $450 has been paid.

At least 300 people attended the festival. The lawn and tables were decorated with American flags and Japanese lanterns. Credit is due to Philip Vroom and Mrs. A. K. Willett for the success of the festival. The committee in charge were Mrs. A. K. Willett, chairman; Mrs. J. S. Miller and Mrs. J. W. Dean; ice cream, Mrs. William B. Shafer; home-made candy; Mrs. Spier, cake, and Mrs. Ed Weaver, fruit punch. Mr. Frank Willett had charge of the decorations.

"LIVE" WIRE INJURES BOY.

New Providence, July 17.—Seizing a guy wire that was charged with electricity, Ferdinand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Noungs, of Glenside avenue, was severely burned Monday afternoon. The boy had climbed a tree and taken hold of a wire which ran from an electric light pole, and which was fastened to the tree. The lad's screams brought assistance, but it was not until the wire had burned through the palm of his hand to the bone that he was released. His right side was also partly paralyzed.

Miss Lulu Harriet Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Fuller, of Arlington avenue, and Ralph Bentley Titsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis T. Titsworth, of West Fifth street, were married at 6:30 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, performed the ceremony. The Episcopal church service was used. Selections from Lohengrin were played on the piano by Miss Alice Morgan, an intimate friend of the bride. The bride and groom were unattended. Miss Fuller was gowned in silk marquisette draped over white messaline. She carried a bouquet of bride roses.

There were about sixty guests witnessing the ceremony and attending the reception which followed, when a supper was served. The home was attractively decorated for the affair, green and white being the prevailing colors.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Titsworth left for Temagami, Ontario, to spend a short honeymoon in camp on Obabika Lake. They will reside in Detroit, where Mr. Titsworth is employed as contract manager for the McClintock-Marshall Steel Construction Company.

The bride was a member of the class '06 at Mt. Holyoke College, and is a member of the Park Golf Club and the College Club, of this city. She has been one of the teachers at the Whittier School. Mr. Titsworth was graduated from Rutgers College, Class '01, and is a member of Chi Psi fraternity. He is active at the Park Golf Club.

ASSAULTED FOREMAN; A HEARING TOMORROW

In the City Court this morning, Morris Cullinane, of Liberty street, was arraigned on a charge of fighting and disorderly conduct, preferred against him by James Stewart, of Grant avenue. In the absence of Judge DeMeza, who is out of town, Mayor Moy held court and he put the case off until tomorrow morning when Stewart will be on hand to press the charge.

Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Stewart, who is assistant foreman at the Pond plant, was returning to work, he was attacked by Cullinane, who alleges that Stewart had him discharged from the shop last Saturday. It appears that the accused, who is an unusually small man, had been laying in wait for the foreman, who is a heavily built man. When the Stewart man made his way past where Cullinane was hidden in the bushes the latter pounced upon him and let go a series of terrifying shouts that aroused the whole neighborhood.

A woman attracted to her front yard by the disturbance claims to have heard Cullinane say something about a pistol and fearing that it would be brought into play she hurried to the home of Patrolman George Muir. Muir found the little Cullinane on top of Stewart who was too frightened to protect himself.

The bluecoat placed the aggressor of the fight under arrest and the trouble will be aired in court tomorrow morning.

TRANSPORTATION OF LIQUOR STOPS

Intra-State Shipment Stopped By U. S. Express Co. Following Court's Order.

WHEN RULING APPLIES

No Wet Goods to Be Carried Between Points Within State Unless Concern's Agent Is Satisfied Consignee Holds a License to Sell.

Following the recent decision of the courts which prohibits the intra-State delivery of beer and liquors of any kind, all agents of the United States Express Company in New Jersey have received instructions not to accept for delivery at any point in New Jersey a shipment of beer or liquor unless the shipper produces or can satisfy the agent that he holds a license to sell such goods at the point of destination.

The courts have decided that a liquor dealer in one municipality cannot sell or deliver liquor in another municipality in the State, but can only do business in the municipality where he holds a license. Under the provisions of the ruling dealers in North Plainfield cannot deliver in Plainfield and vice-versa.

It was only last week that Egmont Latsko, of North Plainfield, appeared before Judge Daly in the Middlesex County Court and entered a plea of non-vult to a charge of illegal selling of liquor in Middlesex county. Sentence was suspended, but Judge Daly warned Latsko that he must stop the practise and if he repeated the offense again he would impose the extreme penalty.

PLAINFIELD MOOSE ENJOY A BANQUET

John J. Carroll Acts As Toastmaster At Hotel Waldorf Event.

The second anniversary of Plainfield Lodge, No. 310, Loyal Order of Moose, was celebrated at the Hotel Waldorf, on East Front street, last evening. Covers were laid for 175 guests which included representatives from a number of the lodges from the northern part of the State. John J. Carroll acted as toastmaster and his unique introductions made a decided hit with the crowd. Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of this city, an Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., of North Plainfield, were unable to be present but the toasts were well taken care of by members of the order.

The principal speaker of the evening was Joseph J. Finn, supreme trustee. He outlined the attainments of the organization since its foundation some thirty years ago until the present time.

A number of local lodge members responded to toasts and told of the flourishing condition of the local order which now has a membership of 350.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Louis J. Feiring chairman, John J. Carroll, Charles E. Pagluica, George J. Egel, George Ball and George E. Biggs.

Henry F. Windham, the proprietor of the Waldorf Hotel, was heartily congratulated by the guests on the excellent menu which follows:

Olives, pickles, celery, Manhattan cocktail, clams on the half shell, tomato bisque, with rice; filet de sole, with Duchess pot; filet de beef, with mushrooms; Philadelphia capons, mashed potatoes, French peas, sliced tomatoes, ice cream and cake, roquefort cheese and crackers, demi tasse.

KILLED A GROUNDHOG AT MR. ANDREWS' HOME

James Kiely, a fireman employed at the pumping station of the Plainfield-Union Water Company, killed a big groundhog at the residence of Superintendent Amos Andrews, this morning. Where the animal came from is not known, but Mrs. Andrews discovered it on the front porch. She called Mr. Kiely and he promptly dispatched the animal before it had a chance to put up a fight.

It is believed that the groundhog got mixed in its dates and came out to see its shadow on St. Swithin's day, thinking it was February 2. If this was the case, the animal did not have an opportunity to see the shadow as it was cloudy at the time it made its appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Lanig, of Central avenue, left today for a stay at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

CAR FRANCHISES DEFEATED.

Elizabeth, July 17.—Two trolley franchise ordinances sought by the Public Service Railroad Company and pending for a year were defeated by the Board of Aldermen Monday night. One was to lay a double track on South Broad street, with a franchise of twenty years. The other aimed at an extension of the South Broad street line down Bayway to connect with the short line from Trenton. The objection to this measure mainly was that it called for a perpetual franchise. The vote was 10 to 10. The salary of William J. Bender, city sealer of weights and measures, was increased from $1,000 to $1,200. George Sayre, clerk to the Street Commission, applied for an advance of salary from $1,000 to $1,200. Action was put off to the next meeting. The aldermen voted $650 to pay for the weekly band concerts in the parks.

Many of the Handsome Gifts are Unclaimed

Of the 80 valuable presents we offered during the Fifth Anniversary Sale there are quite a number that have not found pleased recipients, and as

We Want You to Have These Gifts

and there were also many of our patrons and friends who did not receive a numbered Circular, we have thought out the following plan whereby everybody will have an opportunity to secure one.

Today, Wednesday and Thursday

We will give away a numbered card to any adult who visits our store and asks for one. Then on Friday we will place around the store all remaining gifts, with a number on it and if you have the same number on your card you can claim the gift free.

Head of Locomotive Engineers Who Are Seeking More Wages.

© 1912, by American Press Association.

WEAK ROADS FIGHT RAISE OF ENGINEERS

Say to Grant Demands Would Bankrupt Them.

New York, July 17.—The commission of arbitrators who are sitting at the Oriental hotel, Manhattan Beach, heard President A. B. Worthington of the Chicago and Alton tell how it would undoubtedly force many of the weaker roads to the wall if the demands of the locomotive engineers were granted. The great burden of the $7,000,000 increase would fall on the smaller lines, he explained, and not upon the richer ones, who are much better able to afford it.

The strong arguments of the railroads seem not to be leveled at the increase as much as against the standardization on the lines, which is one of the things that the engineers are seeking. Mr. Worthington frankly admitted that if the commission granted the increase to the engineers the roads would be forced without a fight to make similar concessions to all their other employees, and he estimated that this would mean $63,000,000 annually.

"The standardization of pay is a new proposition, and I think it is radically wrong," continued Mr. Worthington. "The present rates are adjusted to local conditions and weak roads, and the burden of this change would fall entirely upon the latter."

Glen Island Boat Disabled—Tug Tows It to Battery.

New York, July 17.—When passing through Hell Gate the Glen Island excursion steamboat Aurora threw a bucket from its paddle wheel through the floor of the cabin and disabled the boat, which had 2,200 passengers on board.

It drifted helplessly for a short time, when a tug threw it a line and towed it to the Battery. There was considerable excitement on board, but no one was injured.

Newspaper Man For Treasury.

Washington, July 17.—President Taft will appoint Sherman P. Allen, an assistant secretary at the White House offices, to be assistant secretary of the treasury, succeeding A. Piatt Andrew, who recently resigned after a row with Secretary MacVeagh. Mr. Allen was formerly a newspaper man here.

MRS. V. STADLER IS A BANKRUPT

Petition Is Filed by Owner of Hollywood Hotel.

LIABILITIES OF $228,513.

Nominal Assets Estimated at More Than $255,000—They Include Hollywood Hotel and Cottages Appraised at $197,000—Realty Is Mortgaged For $193,849.

Long Branch, N. J., July 17.—Muriel V. Spencer-Stadler, owner of the Hollywood hotel at West End, Long Branch, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $228,513 and nominal assets estimated at more than $255,000, mostly in real estate.

The assets consist of the Hollywood hotel and cottages, appraised at $197,000, and the estate of the late John Hoey, and several lots.

The realty is mortgaged for $193,849. There are eight mortgages on the Hollywood hotel. The furniture is worth more than $5,000, but there is a chattel mortgage on it and also a bill of sale to A. Lincoln Stadler to secure a debt of $10,657. Of the liabilities $204,526 are secured.

Mrs. Spencer-Stadler became the owner of the property in February, 1911. There were two mortgages on it then for $135,934, which she assumed, and since then the other six mortgages have been placed on it. She acquired the other property at West End in June, 1911, from William E. Olssen.

The petitioner married A. Lincoln Stadler last fall. All of her debts were incurred, it is said, before her marriage. Mrs. Stadler did not operate the hotel this year. She leased it for the season to Alberto Randegger, Jr.

BIG CAT ATTACKS CHILD.

Nine-year-old May Murphy Bitten, Is Rescued by Passerby.

Hoboken, N. J., July 17.—May Murphy, nine years old, will be brought to New York from Hoboken by her father, James Murphy, to take the Pasteur treatment. The child was attacked on the street by a big black cat and painfully bitten.

Mrs. Murphy sent May on an errand. As the child was passing Second street and Park avenue the cat leaped upon her, fastening its teeth in her hand. She shook the creature off, and it then leaped at her throat, biting and scratching her breast.

James Searles pulled the cat off the little girl, and the animal then attacked him, biting and scratching both his hands. Policeman Hilderman, who was a short distance away, ran up and went to Searles' rescue. He knocked the cat to the ground with his club, and then shot it.

BABY CARRIAGE UNENJOINED.

Court Won't Order It Kept Out of Apartment House Hallway.

Newark, N. J., July 17.—Vice Chancellor Howell denied the petition of Dr. F. F. Coleman of Asbury Park for an injunction to restrain Charles W. Stark from keeping a baby carriage in the ground floor hallway of the apartment house which they occupy. It was shown that the doctor keeps a bench in the same hallway, which caused the court to remark, "He who asks equity must do equity."

Coleman's counsel offered to have the bench removed from the hallway if its presence barred relief from the objectionable baby carriage. To this the court remarked that he would have to decide the case on record as it was before him.

PROBING ELECTION FRAUDS.

Violations of Law in Recent Atlantic City Voting Before Grand Jury.

May's Landing, N. J., July 17.—Investigation of violations of the election laws at the recent election of commissioners in Atlantic City has started.

Attorney General Wilson put the affair in the hands of Charles S. Moore, son-in-law of Senator Ben Tillman, and he is presenting the evidence to the grand jury. It is said that nearly 200 infractions of the laws were uncovered.

AUSTRALIA JOINS ON CANAL.

Panama Protest Echoed by Premier at the Antipodes.

Melbourne, Australia, July 17.—Premier Fisher announced that Australia had joined England in protesting against the terms under which it is proposed to open the Panama canal.

He said Australia would consider it a distinct discrimination in America's favor if tolls are rebated to American ships alone.

Speaking of Wills

the English courts recently handed down a memorandum which sets forth in plain language some undeniable facts. The Court said:

"In all ranks and conditions of life it has been found increasingly difficult to induce private persons to undertake the troublesome and arduous duties of executors and trustees. Many lack the knowledge necessary to enable them to discharge efficiently the duties incidental to such a position of trust, while others are unwilling to incur the responsibility entailed. Moreover, in recent years, owing to the incompetence, negligence or fraud of executors and trustees, there have been considerable losses of trust property, accompanied in not a few cases by very real distress. In addition to this, it must not be forgotten that the object of most settlors (testators) is to create machinery for controlling the disposition of the property settled for many years to come. Consequently, it rarely happens that the trustees originally selected continue as the trustees of the property during the existence of the trust; for, during this period the trustees may die, or they may go abroad, or they may retire owing to failing health. The appointment of new trustees thereupon becomes necessary, the cost of which, of course, falls upon the trust."

This is worth YOUR serious thought. It applies with equal force to conditions in New Jersey. Whether you have made your will or not, it will cost you nothing to come in and talk it over with the DRINKING CUPS.

When the Legislature recently passed a law forbidding the common drinking cup to be used in public places such as in hotels and on railroad trains, the free ice water fountains were abolished as a rule. The railroads were too poor to bear the expense of providing individual paper cups costing but a fraction of a cent and so generally the water cooler was abandoned. Some few roads, however, did not go to this extent and to take the place of the common drinking cup they provided the conductors and other trainmen with paper cups which the passenger could obtain on personal application. Few, however, want to drink from a receptacle which has been tucked away in another's coat and as a result there has been little demand for them.

Those roads, operating in New Jersey, that have done away with the drinking fountains altogether have now been cited to appear before the State Board of Public Utilities Commissioners to explain their action. The hearing will take place at Newark on next Monday morning and the railroad officials will be asked whether they are giving safe, adequate and proper service, within the meaning of the public utilities law, by their failure to equip their cars with drinking water. If the roads are so afraid that some of their patrons may be inclined to steal the paper cups, why would it not be a feasible and sensible plan to present each passenger with one of them when he purchases his ticket at the station?

LA MONTE FOR CONGRESS.

According to newspaper reports George M. LaMonte, of Somerset county, a former Assemblyman, and one of the ablest members of the Democratic party in this vicinity, will be one of that party's candidates at the September primaries for the Congressional nomination. Mr. LaMonte is a Progressive of the Wilson type, and enjoys the confidence of the New Jersey executive and of his former constituents. Who will oppose him if he gets the nomination, it is hard to tell. If a Roosevelt man seeks the nomination from the Republicans the chances are that Congressman Ira W. Wood will ask for a renomination, and judging from the result at the May primaries the Roosevelt man will probably win. Then there would be a battle royal for Mr. LaMonte, should he win on the Democratic side. If the Roosevelt ticket should be a third ticket, with three candidates for the Congressional seat, it would be hard to predict the outcome.

The New York Herald, an organ which parades as a newspaper, but which refuses to print the name of Mr. Roosevelt because it does not like him, just as it does the name of Mr. Hearst, because the latter was instrumental in compelling the Bennett sheet to cease printing indecent advertisements, has started making forecasts on the political situation. Judging from the inaccuracy of the forecasts it made prior to the primaries in the various states, held earlier in the year, the Herald would do well to divert the money now being used for the purpose into other channels.

August Belmont admitted that he gave $250,000 to the Democratic campaign fund in 1904. That seems like a lot of money, but the chances are that the amount was exceeded by Charles H. Taft, when he contributed toward the election of his brother in 1908. The general impression is that he has put up a whole lot this year, too.

It is with much pleasure that the Daily Press acknowledges $5 contributed by "M. M. M." towards the support of the Baby Camp conducted by the City Union of The King's Daughters. Contributions sent to this newspaper are promptly acknowledged and as quickly transmitted to the Camp authorities for immediate use.

It is worthy of note that the Rahway chief of police took particular pains to get his watch away from that burglar who escaped the other night, before the man was left alone. The chief's watch was stolen from his house a year ago, and he found it on the man when they captured him on Monday night.

Former Judge Wescott, who made the speech placing the name of Woodrow Wilson before the Baltimore convention, has declared himself a candidate for the United States Senatorship. The more, the merrier, but where's James Smith's petition?

While the Prohibitionist vote is steadily falling off in New Jersey, the Socialist vote is showing an even and rapid gain. In ten years the "Drys" total strength has been cut in half while that of the Socialists has considerably more than doubled.

THEY HAD TO KILL GAME.

So They Couldn't Waste Powder on a Man-Eating Crocodile.

In "Animal Life In Africa" is the following curious narrative, which shows the indifference of the natives of East Africa to the sacrifice of human life:

One morning I was standing on the banks of the Lujenda river, in Portuguese East Africa, watching, with my friend, Mr. Maugham, our stores crossing. We had just come to the conclusion that what we had fancied was the protruding nose of a crocodile was, in fact, only a piece of rock when a local native, who was standing near, said, "If you will come with me to the village I can show you a big crocodile." Mr. Maugham electing to stay and superintend the porters across the river, I went along with the "boy."

The village in question lay but some 300 yards distant and proved to be of considerable size and full of people, who at the moment were in a state of pleasurable and noisy excitement over the arrival of our large caravan. "But surely there can be no crocodile here with all this noise going on?" I remarked. "Oh, yes," nonchalantly replied the guide. "He lives here and does not mind the people."

Sure enough, on reaching the bank the first thing I saw was a huge crocodile basking at full length and with his mouth wide open on a rock not more than twenty yards away. He was not in the least disturbed by the chattering of the women and children, and there was no question of stalking him. It was only necessary to sit leisurely down on the bank and put a bullet through his shoulder, when, after shutting and opening his mouth a few times, he fell off the rock and sank like a stone.

The headman was quite pleased, saying that the animal took some one, usually a woman or child, at least once a month. "Why, then," I said in astonishment, having noticed that about every second man seemed to be provided with a firearm of some sort, "did you not shoot it?" "Ah, well, we have very little powder, and it is very expensive, and we are poor and require all we have to kill game," was the surprising though characteristic answer.

LEMONADE AT SERVICE.

At the regular Wednesday prayer meeting service in the Congregational church this evening the members of the Christian Endeavor Society will serve lemonade. This innovation will probably attract a large number of people who would otherwise remain away on account of the heat.

Women Lawyers Who Are Barred From Practice

In three states of the forty-eight comprising the Union women are not eligible to the practice of the law. The states are Georgia, Arkansas and Virginia, all in the south. The supreme court of the United States allows women to practice before it under a rule specially enacted in 1889.

In Georgia an effort is being made to have the legislature pass a bill conferring upon women lawyers the right to practice. The proposition was defeated last year, but is to be again brought up at the next session of the legislature and with what is claimed to be some prospect of passage.

Georgia has two women lawyers, Mrs. Georgie McIntire Weaver and Mrs. Minnie Anderson Hale, both graduates of the Atlanta law school. They got their diplomas and degrees in due course, but their applications for license to practice were denied, the law providing that only male citizens are eligible.

The Georgia Bar association is opposed to the proposed change in the law.

Hon. Hamilton Douglas, dean of the Atlanta Law school, is one of the leaders in the fight to obtain legal recognition for the women lawyers. He believes it unjust to women that they should spend several years in the study of a profession and then be denied the privilege of practicing it. He also has announced that the law school will not matriculate any more women until the statute has been amended.

Dr. George Brown will lead the fight for the women before the legislature.

Mrs. Weaver declares that the bill will be presented to the legislature each year until enacted into law. In an interview she said:

"I am determined to stay in this fight until this bill is enacted into law. In reaching this determination I have in mind the experience of a woman in Illinois who wanted to be a notary public at a time when women were not qualified to act as such. Her bill was defeated thirteen times before it finally became a law. I feel that I can persevere to that extent in this case."

FRANCE'S AIRSHIP FLEET.

Millions a Year Spent on It—Organized In Thirteen Squadrons.

The French government is spending $5,000,000 this year on its fleet of military airships and plans to spend $6,000,000 on it next year. It is to build five dirigible airships a year, but the unit in time of war will be the escadrille, or squadron, of avions, by which name the aeroplane is designated. Each escadrille consists of eight machines, divided into four pairs, one pair of monoplaces (one man), one of biplaces (two men), one of multiplaces (several men) and a reserve pair consisting of a monoplace and a biplace.

On March 1 there were thirteen of these escadrilles, eight in the field and five in reserve, representing a total of 104 avions, but the government considers this only half enough and is going to double the number as rapidly as possible.

Each escadrille is provided with nine automobiles. About thirty centers of aviation are being established, each of them a school for aeronauts and a point of centralization for its escadrille.

Training and Discipline That Prepare Them For the Navy.

The pay of a midshipman is $600 per year, and this begins on the day of his admission to the academy. He at once spends $220.64 for clothing, bedding and other equipments, some of which are as follows: A rug for 70 cents, a hair pillow for 75 cents, six pillowcases for 72 cents and six sheets for $4.20. So it can be seen that his apartments will not be luxurious. He must deposit $60 when he enters, and this will be credited on the books of the pay officer to be expended by the direction of the superintendent in the purchase of textbooks, etc.

When he has been fully entered as a midshipman it is the aim of the officers in charge to educate the young man to become a competent naval officer—to become a master of the art of maritime warfare, to be a gentleman as well as an officer and to hold honor and duty to country paramount to everything else. The neatness in dress of the officer of the United States navy is proverbial, and only those who come in close contact with him can appreciate the change four years at the Naval academy can make in the habits, dress and manners of a young man, to say nothing of the excellent education he receives.

The midshipman has few luxuries at the academy. His room is furnished in the simplest style. An iron bed, a bookcase, a cupboard, a washstand, a study table and a chair go to make up the furnishings. The walls are bare, and if he has a picture of "the girl he left behind" it can be tacked inside the door of his cupboard. Each midshipman occupies a room alone. These rooms are in suits for two men, with a shower bath to be used by both.—Mrs. C. R. Miller in Leslie's.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FRUIT PUDDINGS.

FRUIT puddings make a delicious finish for a summer meal. There are so many varieties of fruit at present on the market that a comparatively unlimited choice is afforded.

A fruit pudding may be made in a bowl, the inside of which is buttered and then lined with puff paste rolled to the thickness of about half an inch.

With Small Fruit.

If small fruit is used, such as berries, a pint of them will be sufficient. After they have been washed and picked lay half at the bottom of the basin and add an ounce and a half of sugar. Then drop in the other half pint of berries and add another ounce and a half of sugar.

Turn the puff paste which lines the sides of the basin over the fruit and secure it well on top. Draw a cloth around the pudding and tie it underneath the bowl. Boil the pudding for an hour in water, then turn out on a dish. Serve with cream and sugar or hard sauce.

Instead of boiling this dessert it may be baked in the oven. Some persons fill the pudding dish with alternate layers of berries, sugar and strips of paste. Ripe cherries, currants, raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, plums, huckleberries, elderberries or mulberries may be used in this way. Apples or peaches, if cut into very thin sections, are also available.

Fruit Batter Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of sifted flour and four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Rub in one-half cupful of butter. Mix with one-quarter cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk and two well beaten eggs. Butter six individual molds. Put one tablespoonful of butter in each cup, then half a peach or other fresh fruit, and drop another spoonful of batter on the top. Steam one-half hour and serve with orange sauce.

Baked Puddings.

Baked Apple Pudding.—Peel and core half a dozen large apples, add a little lemon peel, four cloves and sugar to taste. Stir till tender, then add two ounces of butter and set aside to cool. Grease a pie dish, sprinkle breadcrumbs over it, pour in the apple and a thick layer of breadcrumbs on the top. Scatter bits of butter and bake slowly for an hour. Serve hot, turned out of the dish.

Peach Pudding.—Take a quarter of a pound of fresh sweet butter, a half pound of sugar and beat to a cream. Add to these two well beaten eggs, a half pint of rich milk and a pint of flour which has been sifted with a pinch of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Into the batter stir fresh peaches which have been skinned, stoned and thinly sliced. Butter a mold and pour the batter and peaches into this. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

CONTRIBUTOR FOR TODAY

We, of today, can hardly realize what a ridiculous thing it used to be for women to want to vote—there was something laughable in the very idea, it went along with pantaloons and high hats; and yet a few women had the courage to stand up and say that they wanted to vote.

There are men who esteem it couragious to vote the Democratic ticket having always been Republicans, and others who though not agreeing with their party still vote with it for lack of courage to do otherwise. Can such men at all understand the spirit which burned and still burns in the hearts of women who will stand up and be the mark for jests and ridicule in the corner saloon?

It is a great and noble thing to stand for a principal and the effort expended in accomplishing a reform may require as great patriotism as that which animates the soldier who fights for his country or the statesman who serves it in time of peace.

Our modern women are well educated, self-reliant, and many of them self-supporting. Their education has shown them that the State needs their help; their self-reliance has made them willing to brave the jeers of the unthinking crowd and work for their political rights; and the fact that they are self-supporting has made them able to carry out their ideals without asking the permission of father, brother or husband.

Our schools are teaching our boys and girls what we need as well as what we have, but there is this important difference in the effect of that teaching on the boys and on the girls. The boys use their education to climb by, as a means of becoming rich or powerful. The girls on the other hand, knowing that they are handicapped in the race for fortune turn their education to the advantage of the schools, the settlements and the churches, and the brightest of them to politics. The poor girl—the girl who works in the factory, she too has gone into politics, not from sentiment like her better educated sister, but to secure better factory laws, shorter working days, more sanitary working conditions, and the like; so that the real strength of the suffrage movement is no longer among the so-called upper classes where it originated, but among the working people upon whose intelligence and education the nation must in the last analysis depend.

Women suffrage is but the next step in democracy, a step which we are only now ready to take, but a step which must now be taken if we are to grow politically as we have grown commercially and industrially.

The attitude of the presidential candidates proves that for the first time woman suffrage has become an issue in a national election.

The following letter was received by Rev. Anna H. Shaw, the National President: "Dear Madam—I am one of the organizers of the new party, which is to be headed by Theodore Roosevelt and will thank you to forward me a plank on woman suffrage for insertion into the platform. I shall, of course, do my best to have the plank adopted. Also, I should like to have the exact amendment to the Constitution which your organization desires. Sincerely, Victor Hugo Duras."

Mr. Bryan, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Taft and Mr. La Follette have all lined up in support of the idea. Mr. Wilson, being of a southern family finds it hard to overcome the tendency to place women in a glass case with the traditional chivalry of the south, but even he refuses to commit himself against suffrage, his political sagacity being at odds with his personal prejudices.

Now that women are at last showing that they can in some localities defeat any candidate opposed to their enfranchisement the question has become for the first time a matter of practical politics which is the last round in woman's great struggle for her political existence.

W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE.

Ocean Grove, July 17.—White ribboners by the score made their appearance here yesterday, and at 10:30 o'clock opened the annual summer institute of the New Jersey W. C. T. U. in the temple. Among those who addressed the institute were Misses Elinor Gebhardt and H. P. Strong on "How Our Laws Are Made" and "Well-balanced Temperance." Yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Mrs. J. H. Demarest, Miss Gertrude H. Smith and Mrs. May P. Sparks addressed the temperance fighters. "Equal Suffrage" was the subject of a dialogue in the afternoon by Mrs. T. C. Bodine and Mrs. Edythe Currie. Last night the lecture was the address by Mrs. S. E. Beauchamp, president of the Kentucky W. C. T. U., on "Our Country—Its Perils and Its Hope."

Mr. and Mrs. John Albert, of East Fourth street, are spending a week at Bridgeport, Conn.

Tablets of Mark Twain Made by Miss Church.

MISS ANGELINA SCHUYLER CHURCH.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hulan of Hannibal, Mo., recently presented to their home city the house built in 1844 by Mark Twain's father, in which the famous author first saw the light of day.

Miss Angelina Schuyler Church of New York city is the talented young artist who was commissioned to make the bronze tablets which have been placed on the outside of the house in commemoration of the occasion. People who are interested in the education that does not forget character building are enthusiastic over the legend that the inscription tablet presents. It reads: "Mark Twain's life teaches that poverty is an incentive rather than a bar and that any boy, however humble his birth and surroundings, may by honesty and industry accomplish great things."

Pedagogues who have seen the tablets are suggesting that they deserve a place in the public schools of the nation, not only because of their artistry, but because of the lesson conveyed, the comfort and stimulus in the suggestion which could hardly fail to be advantageous, linked with the fascination that Mark Twain exerts over vast numbers of young people.

Miss Church's portrait of the author in the tablet has been called the best yet made. Concerning it the Rev. Joseph H. Twitchell of Hartford, lifelong friend of Twain, says: "I could not have supposed there could have been made so living a likeness of the man in that form. Really, it brings my dear old friend to life again as no picture of him does."

Miss Church until recently has confined her art work to depicting animal life and her study of "The Runaway—An Episode of Central Park, New York City," has won particular favor from critics.

The artistic education of Miss Church has been radically different from the conventional methods that crystallize the ideals of the schools. The only use she has made of teachers has been for the purpose of acquiring technique. The New York School of Applied Design, Mucha of Paris, an authority on composition, and Beard, the animal painter, have been her instructors. Technique having been acquired, Miss Church turned to the teachers to whom she professes her greatest debt—horses and dogs. These she studied from life until she knew their every bone and muscle and their co-ordination.

Miss Church was recently invited by Uruguay to enter a competition for an equestrian statue of a South American hero especially dear to that nation.

Has Nursed For Forty-five Years.

In connection with the death of Lord Lister it is interesting to know that the nurse who assisted the famous surgeon with his first antiseptic preparations is still in the Glasgow Royal infirmary. Nurse Bell has many interesting stories of the old days when Professor Lister was in the infirmary and the crowd of students and dressers, many of them now chiefs, who attended the classes from 1861 to 1869.

Nurse Bell has been in the Royal infirmary for forty-five years. She is now sixty-nine years of age, and she enjoys good health, though not able to do much. When Lord Lister was presented with the freedom of the city of Glasgow four years ago it was his special desire that Nurse Bell should be present at the function in St. Andrew's hall. When the memorial service was held in the university chapel she had a special invitation to be present.

HEALTH BOARD STIRS TEMPER AT RED BANK

Red Bank, July 17.—Activity of the Board of Health in ridding the town of obnoxious accumulations has resulted in much personal hostility.

Following the publication of an item in a local newspaper telling how one person was fined started a personal investigation of the premises of Ernest A. Arend, president of the health board. William A. Sweeney, editor of the paper, was arrested. He was acquitted Monday night when tried before Recorder Henry C. Badeau on a charge of breaking the health ordinance by keeping rubbish in the rear of his office. The complaint was made by Mr. Arend and Archibald G. Rutherford, another member of the board.

Mr. Sweeney said the rubbish was carried away regularly. The recorder decided the health board had not made a case. Personalities were exchanged during the hearings, Mr. Rutherford saying at the close that the board had not yet finished with the editor.

FIND "MISSING" LAWYER AT HIS COUSIN'S HOME

New Brunswick, July 17.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of G. Willett Van Nest, the New York lawyer, for whom a search had been made for several days, was cleared Monday, when he was found at the home of his cousin, C. V. N. Baldwin, in this place. He was visited there yesterday by his brother, Dr. Rynier Van Nest, who had been seeking him since his disappearance last Friday.

It was said that Mr. Van Nest had been suffering severely from the heat, and added to this were worries over business transactions. On Friday he called on a lawyer in Summit and was advised to take a short rest at the seashore. He went to Atlantic City, but neglected to inform his brother of his whereabouts. The latter, uncertain about Mr. Van Nest's condition, became alarmed over the disappearance.

Last Sunday night Mr. Van Nest appeared at the Baldwin home here, saying he had come to spend the night. His relatives were notified immediately, and it is understood that he will be taken to Tuxedo or to some resort where he can rest undisturbed.

RECEIVER REPORTS TO LUMBER CO. CREDITORS

Jersey City, July 17.—A big meeting of the creditors of the Charles R. Partridge Lumber Company of this city, Newark and Brooklyn, was held before Referee in Bankruptcy George R. Beach and William R. Barricklo, of this place, the receiver, in Chancery chambers here yesterday. There were more than 100 creditors and their representatives in the courtroom to hear the report of the receiver.

Considerable comment was caused when Mr. Barricklo stated that that the books of the Brooklyn and Newark plants, and another plant beside the main yard here, had been turned over to him after he had used "some legal means and much diplomacy." There had been much uncertainty among the creditors as to the exact standing of the plants outside of that known as the "Charles R. Partridge Lumber Company," which is located at Van Horn and Grand streets. It was stated by the receiver that these were "storage plants" for the main concern. Following the reading of the report an election was held and George D. Hendrickson, of this city, was selected as trustee of the bankrupt.

Barricklo will continue as the receiver. He stated that while an appraisal of the company's property had been made, it was impossible to arrive at any conclusion as to the extent of the liquidation possible for the creditors. The liabilities of the company are $435,000 and the assets under appraisal are $269,121.29.

UPHOLDS $2,500 VERDICT.

Trenton, July 17.—Applying a legal rule established a few weeks ago by the Court of Errors and Appeals, the Supreme Court yesterday affirmed a verdict for $2,500 damages obtained by Joseph C. McGovern against the Joseph Dixon Crucible Company of Jersey City. McGovern, a youth of eighteen, was injured as a result of a defective cover on the machine on which he was working. Suit was brought under the employers' liability law of 1909, to which a common law count was subsequently added. Both counts, the Supreme Court said, were sustained by the testimony. The notice as to the accident served upon the employer was also held to be sufficient under the rule established by the Court of Errors in the recent case of Pappageib against the Hyde Asphalt Construction Company.

Mrs. Helen Hall, of Clinton avenue, is detained at home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Merklin and family, formerly of this city, but now of Brooklyn, have been visiting relatives here.

Mrs. L. H. VanBuren, of East Sixth street, has recovered from an attack of scarlet fever and is able to be out again.

CO. K IN SHAM BATTLE

tire brigade, led by General Dennis F. Collins formed a defending force. At the conclusion of the battle late yesterday afternoon, General Collins was congratulated upon the splendid showing made by the Jerseymen, the officer bestowing this praise being Colonel George Cecil, of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry.

In the battle Company K formed part of the main defending army, under the command of Colonel Horace M. Reading, the regimental commandant. They were located in an advantageous position, near Lake Conewago, on the Blue Ridge mountains, Company M, of Somerville, and the three Elizabeth companies, forming the first battalion, and under the command of Major William B. Martin, the great rifle shot, formed the advance guard. According to the umpires the position which the Second regiment took would have effectively blocked the enemy and held them until the arrival of the reserves. At the conclusion of the day's work Captain Charles Peterson expressed himself as well pleased with the military way in which the members of Company K had done their work.

Some Notes of the Camp.

General Collins and his staff have outlined plans for the week's work, which will not conform to the schedule issued by the camp adjutant general, because the New Jersey troops are much better than was expected of the militia. This is the frank avowal of the regulars.

There will be plenty of fighting and marching, with a few night attacks.

The camp is beautifully located, overlooking Lake Conewago, and almost in the shadow of the Blue Ridge mountains.

Major Evan M. Johnson will inspect the Second brigade headquarters. Captain Frank B. Watson, Third Infantry, U. S. A., will be inspector of the Second regiment, assisted by Lieutenant A. E. Ahrends, Twenty-ninth infantry; Lieutenant W. E. Gillmore, Twenty-eighth infantry, and Lieutenant C. H. Rice, Sixth infantry.

After making camp in the midst of a violent thunder shower Monday afternoon, the Second brigade with the First and Fourth Maryland regiments and the Twenty-ninth Regular infantry, two troops of the Fifteenth regular cavalry and two batteries of the Third Field artillery, had the "battle" yesterday and this was followed by a review by the staff of the War college, and then the actual field maneuver work and theoretical work for the officers began.

When the New Jersey troops arrived they took position in a manner that elicited praise from the regulars. In the midst of an electrical storm of great violence that followed the stifling heat the New Jersey regiments put up their tents, had camp made and preparation for mess completed long before the canvas of the Maryland outfits was up, although the southerners arrived in camp an hour earlier.

Both the Second and Third reported in camp with about 675 officers and men.

RUSSIA'S RED STAIRCASE.

Its Steps the Scene of Many Fateful and Historic Incidents.

The red staircase is very ancient and very memorable in the history of Russia. From the Church of the Assumption, where all the czars are crowned, it led to the old palace of the Kremlin, as now it leads to the new. This marble structure was built on the site of the former church by the Emperor Nicholas, but he left the historic staircase undisturbed.

It was on the red staircase that Ivan IV., known as "the Terrible," stood when he received the celebrated letter from Kurbski, his traitor general, who from a safe place of refuge sent a message of defiance by his servant. This haughty czar is said to have nailed the foot of the messenger to the red staircase with his famous iron staff while the letter was being read to him.

This same iron staff in the hands of the angry czar afterward killed his son and heir. Great and fierce was the sorrow of Ivan over this horrible tragedy, and as he stood on the red staircase one night mourning for his son he saw the comet which, he believed, foretold his own death.

Another historic scene on the red staircase began with the ringing of the 400 bells of Moscow, relates the New York Herald. Regiments of soldiers, numbering thousands, followed by a great crowd of people dragging cannon, were marching to the Kremlin. They had been roused into fury by a false report that a brother of Natalia, widow of the Czar Alexis, had seized the crown and that Ivan, the heir of the Russian throne, had been murdered.

Reaching the palace, they clamored for vengeance. Suddenly the tumult was quelled as Natalia appeared on the platform of the red staircase with her two children beside her—Ivan, her feeble, imbecile stepson, and Peter, her own bright, handsome boy.

Natalia trembled as she faced the angry crowd, who had placed ladders against the rails and climbed up to the platform, but the young prince, Peter, afterward Peter the Great, stood and looked at them without showing a sign of fear.

On July 6, 1682, the same young boys, Ivan and Peter, appeared on the red staircase surrounded by boyars and nobles, but under very different circumstances. Peter looked on the crowd with the same calm gaze as when he stood holding the trembling hand of his mother before a mob insane with rage. The people now greeted him with joy, and the great procession that preceded and followed the two brothers passed slowly down the red staircase on its way to the Cathedral of the Assumption, where, amid the pomp, magnificence and ceremonial of the Russian church, Ivan and Peter were crowned czars by the patriarch.

The steps of the red staircase have been ascended by conqueror and conquered. Napoleon ascended these steps when he took possession of Moscow, and perhaps he felt forebodings of his destiny when he passed over them for the last time.

A Similar Mistake.

In one building community was a mechanic who used to fiddle around the mail box to look over the letters. Of those that seemed interesting he opened some, and after having read them he would write on the envelope: "Opened by mistake."

This happened so many times that the rest of the shop force got on and became resentful.

The offender was in the habit of bringing a fine lunch with him, and this he had spread out when the conspiracy was planned. A phony call to the telephone took him away, and when he came back a piece of pie with a semicircular minus bore a card reading:

"Bitten by mistake."—Chicago Post.

Judged by Their Faces.

Burne-Jones held original ideas as to the administration of justice. After a visit to the Parnell commission he wrote: "Legal testimony doesn't affect me at all. I want people tried for their faces, so I spent the time in court settling things all my own way. I tried the judges first and acquitted one, so that he sits in court without a blemish on his character, and one I admitted to mercy, and of the other I postponed the trial for further evidence. Then I tried the counsel on both sides, and one of them, I am sorry to say, will have to be hanged for his face."

They Get an Appetite For Work.

In Denmark, as in other countries, they are troubled with men born tired, men who are "snow shovelers in summer and haymakers in winter." Denmark takes them firmly, but kindly, and puts them to bed. In bed it keeps them as long as may be necessary. Four days are, as a rule, sufficient for the most obdurate cases. At the end of that time the idler is found to be feverish for work.

Needless.

The good fairy called her assistant and showed her a golden box.

"Take this box," she said, "and lock it carefully in the safe. It contains good advice."

"My mistress," replied the assistant, "why should we lock up good advice? No one will ever take it."—Puck.

Sympathetic Jury.

"Here's a dispatch about a man who tried to choke his landlady to death and got off with a small fine."

"Must have been tried by a jury of boarders. Cut it down to seventy-five words and put a one line head over it."—Chicago Tribune.

Too many wish to be happy before becoming wise.—Necker.

UNION COUNTY SEALER IN HIS NEW QUARTERS

Description of Offices of Augustus Schwartz, Who Raids Dishonest Merchants.

The removal of the office of county superintendent of weights and measures from room 12 in the court house in Elizabeth to 25 Rahway avenue, that city, allows for more extensive work to be done by A. W. Schwartz. The new quarters are in a very comfortable building that was at one time a private residence, and are well suited to the work. The top floor is occupied by the Union County Mosquito Commission and Mr. Schwartz has the entire lower floor, consisting of three rooms and a front and rear porch.

These rooms are fixed in an artistic manner. The front room is the office, with a large roll-top desk and many pictures and curios. Here also are kept in glass cases the standard scales and measures as provided by the government. There are also the smaller scales which are taken with the inspectors when they are out on a "raid."

The second room is used exclusively as a souvenir room and here may be seen hundreds of different weights, measures, etc., that have been examined and found to be "short." They include strawberry boxes, milk cans with fake bottoms, ice cream boxes and meat scales with blood dried on them, showing the unsanitary condition that some of them are kept in. Then there are the fake scales that the mechanism has been played with and made "fast," and weights that have holes drilled through them so as to make them light. There are many tricks resorted to by these men, such as tying cold chisels on the bottoms of the "scoops" so that there will be a difference of several ounces in their favor.

Mr. Schwartz in his work takes a car and with his correct scales goes from store to store. If incorrect measures are confiscated; if correct they are sealed.

The rear room of the house is fixed up as a workroom where Mr. Schwartz works on the implements that are sent to him.

William A. Waldron, the State superintendent of the Bureau of Weights and Measures, has called a meeting of the various municipal officers of the department to be held at Atlantic City on Monday, July 22. It is expected that there will be a splendid attendance as there are many important things to be discussed.

There will be a conference in the afternoon and a banquet in the evening. It is expected that many changes will be made in the department work and a bill will be presented, it is said, to prevent the "graft" of the milk men who have "short" bottles. The conference will be over in the evening.

SAMMY IN A SHOW.

Sammy Brooks, of this city, who appeared last season with "The Country Kids," a vaudeville sketch produced by Gus. Edwards, left town today for Brooklyn to begin rehearsals at the Casino, Brooklyn, with the "Whirl of Mirth," a burlesque production to be offered next season by Edwards. The company will open August 5 at the Gran Opera House, Boston, and will then travel around the "Western Wheel" on the Empire Circuit. The engagement will last for forty weeks. On the return the company will appear at Miner's theatre in Newark. Beside having an important role in the "Whirl of Mirth," Sammy will appear with a partner in a comedy sketch entitled "Brooks & Short, and the Short End Of It."

PRAISES REV. BAILEY.

James Ross, assistant chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Calvary Baptist church, requests the Plainfield Daily Press to make the following statement: "Rev. G. W. Bailey, our former pastor, performed a good work during the six years he was with us. There are 125 members in good standing in the church and we thank him for his good work."

ROGER WHITFORD NO BETTER.

Roger Whitford, the eight-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Whitford, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the hospital on Saturday, was reported today as being very low with little hope for recovery. While the father is recovering from a similar operation, the son's condition worries him greatly.

SUFFRAGISTS' AUTOMOBILE TOUR OF NORTH JERSEY

Under the auspices of the Women's Political Union of Newark, plans are being made for holding a monster automobile parade to cover many of the principal cities in Northern New Jersey. The parade is scheduled for Thursday, August 15, and among the cities to be invaded will be Plainfield. The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, which is co-operating with the Newark organization, is now arranging to hold an open-air meeting of suffragists in this city upon the arrival of the party, at which there will be a prominent speaker.

The suffragists will also visit Elizabeth, Westfield, New Brunswick, Rahway, and other nearby places and will then touch several places in and around Essex county, including the Oranges, Montclair, Nutley and Bloomfield. The women will conclude their trip on Staten Island, from which point they will return to New Jersey.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

This is certainly fine weather for baseball but Parker Field and Crescent Oval would look better just at present transformed into a lake.

An appropriate sign in a Park avenue confectionery store: "Hot chocolate, five cents a cup."

Who was it that put the cracks in the cracked ice?

Now that America has finished displaying her athletic abilities at Stockholm, what is left to draw dope from? We would suggest a modern Olympian for this city with the following clubs as possible contenders: Young Men's Hebrew Association, Scottish Clans, Knights of Columbus, Turn Verein, Young Men's Christian Turn Verein, Young Men's Christian Association, Polish Society and Norall the nationalities of an up-to-date Olympic meet.

It was so long since the local boys had been away from Crescent Oval that they hardly knew how to behave before a strange crowd on the Westfield trip.

The delay in beginning Saturday's game made the fans a trifle peevish and two rooters of the respective rival nines who were sitting in the grandstand together (there was only one grandstand) got into a heated argument over the time for starting. The Westfield fan asked "What is the difference in time between Plainfield and Westfield?" Ben, the Plainfield fan, replied, "Oh, I don't know. You can have pretty much the same kind of a time in Westfield as you can in Plainfield if you know how to go about it."

The Plainfield baseball club did anyway.

Manager Pete Simmons and his Royal Giants baseball team invaded Dunellen Saturday but returned with but four runs against the eight they left in the suburb.

The Royals only had two of their regular men in the lineup and the other seven were made up of some of the best colored ball players in the country.

A great deal of minstrel stuff was pulled off by the visitors in Dunellen and the home players fell for it so readily that it threatened to spoil their chances of a victory.

Billy Coyle, the midget shortstop, was particularly effected by the taunts and made fissles out of three easy rollers that could have been handled by the smallest schoolboy.

One of the darktown supporters got a trifle excited when Bill was at bat and he edged too close to the plate. At this juncture, one of Dunellen's finest put in his annual appearance and ordered the sandy one away. The latter replied, "Verra weel, verra weel, I dinna want tae argue wi' ye."

GIANTS VS. WESTFIELD.

The Royal Colored Giants baseball team, of this city, will go to Westfield Saturday afternoon and cross bats with the nine of that place. The Giants are one of the strongest colored organizations in this section, and after their game at Dunellen last Saturday they have established a claim on the local semi-professional title. Manager Simons, of the Royals, has not as yet decided on his lineup, but will have either Brown or Dawson on the firing line, with Stewart at the receiving end.

YANKEES ARE WALLOPED BY THE ATHLETICS' NINE

In order to give all the junior ball players an opportunity to get into the game, another team has been added to the Parker Field Baseball League and will be known as the Yankees. They played their first contest this morning and met a stumbling block in the person of Capt. Benjamin Rosenson, of the Athletics.

Herman Rosenson, the Plainfield High School third sacker, was the star at the bat for the winners, getting two singles and a home run out of six trips to the rubber.

A great deal of interest is being displayed in this league of future greats and many of the players who are joining the league nines are seasoned ball players.

SCHEDULE 50 EVENTS FOR SCOTTISH MEET

Representatives of Clan Mackenzie, 204, of the Order of Scottish Clans, have about completed the final arrangements for the big Caledonian field and track meet to be held on Parker Field Saturday afternoon, August 17. Over fifty events will be contested and handsome prizes will be awarded to winners of first, second and third places in each event.

Several local clubs that make a specialty of promoting athletics have promised to put teams in the meet and are busy getting their men into shape.

Robert Murray, who is the head of the committee to arrange for the affair, says the event will be the biggest ever held in this vicinity and will rival the Caledonian Club meet held annually at Madison Square Garden.

A number of the events on the program will be closed to local Clansmen, thus affording them an opportunity to keep some of the trophies in this city. A game of Association football will be a feature of the affair and an out-of-town eleven will line up against the pick of local material.

THE DEATH ORCHID.

Its Lethal Odor Has the Effect of a Powerful Narcotic.

The death orchid of the Venezuelan Indians has been proved to be no mere campfire yarn.

Years ago an orchid hunter, Grayson, set out to find "El Lugar de los Flores Venemosos"—that is, "the place of the poisonous flowers"—which was said to be located in the dense and pathless wilderness occupying the vast stretches between the headwaters of the Orinoco and the Andes. Two weeks passed without any incident out of the ordinary. But one morning there was a perceptible smell of flowers in the air. When the orchid hunter and his Indians camped that night the jungle smells had been entirely lost in the cloying scent. Many of the band refused to go farther.

As Grayson and the others proceeded the rankly sweet and oppressive odor became stronger, attacking the senses like a narcotic. One after another the remaining Indians collapsed till only Grayson and the guide were left, pushing onward. The orchid hunter felt as if he was being attacked by the insidious power of opium, but retained enough consciousness to become aware that, gleaming through the trees ahead, he saw flowers of huge size and vivid colors, many hued clusters of them hanging in trails.

It was the death orchid!

When he recovered his senses he found himself being carried back to camp, where the rest of his porters had remained. Many of the band were severely sick and many half witted with the continued effect of the scent.—Suburban Life.

A Poet Successful and Lazy.

Aspirants to success who are discouraged by the very early rising of Coke and Kant should think of the successful poet Thomson and be comforted. for Thomson was one of the laziest men that ever lived and seldom rose before noon.

And yet in "The Seasons" he managed to give us one of our finest descriptions of a sunrise. It is said of him that he would eat the sunny side off the peaches in his garden with his hands in his pockets, but even such late rising and his castle of indolence did not prevent his becoming famous. —London Spectator.

The Route.

"Dashington seems to have finally made a conquest of that Scadmore girl. Wonder how it all came about."

"The first time she saw him she gave him her eye; the next time they met she gave him her arm. It wasn't long before he was holding both of her hands. Soon after that he won her heart, and she lost her head and gave herself to him completely."—Judge.

An Art Critic.

"What do you think of our new oil painting?" asked Mrs. Newrich.

"Well," answered Mr. Newrich, "it seems good enough from the front, but if you turn it round and look at the other side I must say the material seems kind o' cheap."

ONE MONTH'S WORK OF CHARITY ORGANIZATION

What the Secretaries Did During June For Those In Distress.

There were calls from 317 applicants at the office and 237 persons made inquiries or suggestions regarding help for those in trouble, the Charity Organization Society report for June shows. The secretaries made 423 calls and 561 letters were written in the office. There were eight committee meetings held during June with a small aggregate attendance of thirty. The society had to call upon a doctor in nineteen cases. There were, too, twenty-five tuberculosis patients on the books during the month, nine persons were placed in institutions and eight in private homes during June. Eight had to be taken before the court for non-support, etc. At the end of the month only fifty-eight families remained promising the need of assistance during July. This is a much smaller number than usual.

Material relief totalled $347.11, of which $285.30 was collected for special uses. This sum went for board, $155.50, rent $37, clothing $24.82, milk $37.62 and other smaller items. Druggists filled sixteen prescriptions for the society and there were twenty-seven contributions of clothing made.

Perhaps the most satisfactory accomplishment for the month was the outing given to 140 children through the kind offices of a number of local business men. These friends, provided twenty autos and when the party reached Boynton Beach there were generous refreshments, topped off by the delectable ice cream cone, to say nothing of rides on the merry-go-round, swings, and the like. Such was the enthusiasm of the children and hosts that another picnic has been promised for August.

The needs of June are intensified in July. Work for babies and the sick looms largest just at present. The King's Daughters Union opened its fresh air camp on Monday and the Charity Organization Society adds its plea for this camp.

HEALTH INSPECTOR MAKING STUDY OF WATERSHED

Dover, July 17.—F. E. Daniels, division chief of the State Board of Health, in company with Water Commissioners Isaac W. Searing and John Egbert, Superintendent Charles P. Cook and Health Inspector John G. Taylor and William G. Hummel, of the local Board of Health, visited the watershed of the Dover water system Monday.

The purpose of the visit was to determine, if possible, the source of the contamination of the town's water and to give the commissioners some suggestions by way of remedying the conditions. Additional samples were taken at the different springs for anaylsis.

Mr. Daniels' visit was in response to the request of the water commissioners. What the investigators found and what recommendations Mr. Daniels has to offer will be embodied in a report to the commissioners at a later date.

The well proposition is being strongly agitated by a good many influential citizens. It is contended that if additional wells are driven a good supply of pure and wholesome water in sufficient quantity can be obtained to furnish the inhabitants of Dover not only for the present, but for some time to come.

It is also stated that by purchasing additional lands an excellent supply can be had at a sufficient altitude to flow by a gravity system to the upper reservoir. The supply in the uplands is said to be practically inexhaustible. The question is being agitated why the commissioners do not develop the well proposition and ignore the springs. There can be no better way of getting rid of the contamination than by eliminating the springs from the town's water supply, say the advocates of the well system.

The Misses Dorothy and Leontine Huntsman, of East Front street, are spending a week at Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

BOROUGH YOUTHS START ON LONG CANOEING TRIP

Two North Plainfield High School boys, Carroll C. Taylor, of Fairview avenue, and Newton Spencer, of Lincoln place, left last night on a two weeks canoe trip. They were taken to a point on the Hackensack river between Newark and Jersey City in Mr. Spencer's automobile and camped at this place last night.

The fellows began their trip up the Hackensack river this morning and when they reach its source the two boys will hike it across country and paddle to the other side of the Hudson river. They will follow the Hudson to Poughkeepsie, and there they will visit the quarters of the intercollegiate crews contenders, who hold their annual regatta at that point. From there they will carry their canoe over the hilly country separating them from the Delaware. They will paddle down the stream that made George Washington famous as far as Trenton, where they will disembark and come to this city by automobile.

Taylor and Spencer took all the necessary camping equipment with them and will buy nothing on the trip. Their outfit includes a sixteen foot canoe which can be transformed into an excellent sleeping tent at night, a large store of provisions, cooking utensils and clothing. All this is packed away in the canoe and can be easily taken out when needed at night.

DROPS DEAD ON VACATION.

Whitehouse, July 17.—Berthold Widdie, sixteen years old, dropped dead Monday afternoon at the home of his uncle, Edward Hanel, at Dreahook, near Whitehouse Station. Heart disease was the cause. The boy was a son of Mrs. Wilhelmina Widdie, of 157 Webster avenue, Jersey City, and had arrived here the afternoon before to spend his vacation, hoping to benefit his health, which had been poor for some time. He went out in the excessive heat to the barn and there suffered an attack of leakage of the heart, from which he died before assistance arrived. Widdie was a student in Jersey City High School. The body will be sent to Jersey City today for funeral and burial.

HIS FALL IS HEAVY.

Sherdan Jones, of Greenbrook road, will spend sixty days in the Somerset county jail for not being able to "keep straight," having been sentenced by Mayor Clark in the Borough Court this morning. When arraigned Jones broke down and said it was too easy for him to fall from the water wagon. Mayor Clark said if he couldn't do it himself he would help him and if sixty days were not enough to assist him aboard again he would see that Jones would get more.

Miss Ethel Stillman, of Watchung avenue, is spending the summer at Delaware Water Gap, Pa.

SHAPIRO TELLS OF GAMBLER MURDER

Says Seven Men Were In Plot to Kill Rosenthal.

GRILLED, HE BREAKS DOWN

District Attorney Whitman Broadly Intimates That Police Are Concerned In Crime and Declares That Rosenthal's Death Will Not Halt Gambling Investigation.

New York, July 17.—The men who shot down Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, in front of the Hotel Metropole a few hours before he was to reveal secrets of alleged police graft to District Attorney Whitman are known to the police.

Police Commissioner Waldo, Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Hughes wrung a confession from Louis Libby and William Shapiro, who owned the touring car that was used in the murder raid on the Metropole. Shapiro, who drove the car, broke down after hours of grueling questions, told the police that seven men were in the plot to kill Rosenthal and that four were actually concerned in the killing.

The minute this confession had been extracted from Shapiro 150 plain clothes men were sent scurrying to every part of the city, and Deputy Commissioner Dougherty was saying confidently that within a few hours the assassins of Rosenthal would be jailed. Libby and Shapiro were charged with homicide, and John Clark, a gambler of several aliases, was held as a material witness.

The question that everybody asked was, "Who had so much to fear from Rosenthal that they took the desperate chance of slaying him almost in the presence of half a dozen policemen?"

Lieutenant Charles Becker of the "strong arm squad," accused by Rosenthal of grabbing 20 per cent of the profits of Rosenthal's gambling house and who was to be investigated by the district attorney because of this accusation, hastened to deny that he had any hand in the killing or that he had the slightest idea who killed his accuser. And Becker is held to be guiltless by his commissioner.

Whitman Makes a Charge.

But District Attorney Whitman, after hours of digging into the circumstances of the murder, put forward a plain suggestion that the elimination of Rosenthal was of so much advantage to what he termed the "police system" that death must be laid at the door of police terrorists. Mr. Whitman said that whether or not gamblers fired the shots that dropped Rosenthal in the doorway of the Metropole, he could not believe otherwise than that the responsibility lay elsewhere.

The killing of the main witness in the grand jury investigation to determine whether gambling in the Tenderloin has been allowed to exist because of a system of police partnership with the gamblers will not cause the investigation to be dropped, said Mr. Whitman. He had already obtained from Rosenthal the names of ten gamblers, and these will be examined under the Dowling law. And Mrs. Rosenthal, the district attorney says, stands ready to supply the grand jury with intimate details of her husband's business. She will appear before the grand jury with John J. Donohue, a clerk in the law office of J. Van Vechten Olcott, the J. Donohue whose name was used in the mortgage transaction that Rosenthal swore he had with Lieutenant Becker.

The police hunt for the murderers was taken up and carried forward with remarkable speed. An hour after Rosenthal had been lured from the Metropole restaurant by a whispered message that somebody wanted to see him outside and had been dropped with a bullet through his brain and four other wounds in the face the police had under arrest Louis Libby, who owned with William Shapiro a big gray Packard touring car that they kept for rent in front of the Cafe Boulevard at Second avenue and Tenth street. It was the number of Libby's car that showed clear and distinct in the bright light that was cast from the electrics of the Metropole while Rosenthal was being shot down.

Several people idling in front of the Metropole or near the Elks club, farther west in Forty-third street, or near the Cohan theater, across the street from the Considine cafe, noticed the number and had no trouble in recalling it when it became of importance. One of these was John Gallagher, a vaudeville singer, who lives at the Hotel Gerard. Another was Louis Conte, a clerk at the Elks club, and a third was Detective William File, who was off duty and who ran out of the Metropole after the first shot was fired.

Libby Arrested at Home.

The ownership of the car was immediately fixed from the police list, and Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Hughes went straight to Libby's home and arrested him. He admitted to District Attorney Whitman that the car had been hired by four men who appeared at the Cafe Boulevard about 1 a. m. and engaged Shapiro to drive them. He insisted that he didn't know where the car had been or who the men were. Shapiro returned home about 2:30 a. m., he said. Shapiro was arrested later in the morning and was pressed hard for the truth. He was grilled so hard that he became ill, and finally he told what he knew.

From him Commissioners Waldo and Dougherty and Inspector Hughes learned that four men, two of whom Shapiro knew, hired the touring car and ordered him to drive uptown. They went to Jack's restaurant first and paused there momentarily because one of the passengers was sick from too much to drink, Shapiro supposed. Then, at a sudden command, Shapiro wheeled the touring car eastward into Forty-third street, slowed in front of the Metropole and whirled it around to take up a position at the south curb in front of Acker Merrall's store, just west of the Cohan theater. Then, according to Shapiro's tale, he was ordered to wait right where he was until his passengers returned.

Three, leaving both tonneau doors wide open, crossed the street and stopped in front of the Metropole. Shapiro was uncertain as to the progress of matters across the street. He heard a shot fired and then several more in rapid succession, saw his passengers come running for the car and then, at their direction, put on power and went eastward at full speed. He knew shortly that the detectives were pursuing in automobiles, but he felt the cold muzzle of a revolver at the back of his neck, and he heard the sound of a voice in his ear—a threat that he was dead if he faltered. And so, after a few minutes turning and twisting to the northward, he sent the big gray car spinning downtown and came to the garage at 72 Washington place south, the garage where Montani, the taxi bandit, obtained the automobile that he and his confederates used in their raid in the financial district.

Police Withhold Facts.

Several deeply interesting points of Shapiro's revelations were withheld by the police because of their immense importance in the hunt for Rosenthal's murderers. They would not tell where Shapiro left the men whom he had been driving. They would not reveal other bits of information obtained as to the identity of the passengers. But they said positively that the two owners of the car had told them enough to lead them to Rosenthal's assassins. Dougherty indicated that the four were members of a gambling club that Rosenthal had caused to be raided on several occasions and that several of the killers were men who had suffered physically as well as financially from Rosenthal's enmity. He had two or three of them assaulted by hired toughs, the police said, and beaten until they were hardly recognizable. Such grudges are apt to be paid for bitterly among the sort of men that Rosenthal associated with.

Rosenthal Feared Death.

Rosenthal was afraid that he would be assassinated. He knew and said to District Attorney Whitman, Mrs. Rosenthal and his close friends that "they would try to get him." He didn't attempt to explain who he meant by "they." His hints covered police and gambler enemies alike. He told a reporter last Monday afternoon that he had been most all the night before answering telephone calls from people who warned him to get out of town. Mrs. Rosenthal told the district attorney that "Big Tim" Sullivan was one of those who called up. "Big Tim" and Rosenthal had been friends, and Mrs. Rosenthal thought that Sullivan was moved by the general belief that Rosenthal's life was in danger after his attempts not only to incriminate police officials, but to force gambling associates to join him in a "squeal."

Above, at the top, is shown Herman Rosenthal, who was assassinated in front of the Hotel Metropole, New York. In the center is the gray touring car used by the murderers. At the bottom is Louis Libby, who owns the car used by the murderers and who, the police say, has a guilty knowledge of the crime, if he didn't actually take part in the killing.

COUNCILMAN'S DEFI TO BOARD'S ACTION

New Brunswick, July 17.—Notwithstanding the adoption of a resolution by Common Council by a vote of 7 to 5 that Cornelius McCrellis be recognized as street commissioner of the city, Alderman-at-Large Edward Hart declared that, as chairman of the streets and roads committee, he would continue to recognize Abraham Jelin as such officer until Mr. McCrellis showed he was legally qualified to hold that position. He said McCrellis had never filed his bond with the county clerk.

Through a deal made the first of the year by Alderman Peter F. Kinney, elected in the Sixth Ward on the Democratic ticket, and the six Republican members of the board, Jelin was ousted and McCrellis elected to his place.

A protest was made against the proposed plan of the Borough of Milltown to establish a sewage disposal plant at the head of Weston's Mills, the source of the city water supply. The water commissioners, the Advisory Water Commission and the Water Purification and Filtration Commission filed protests with the Board of Aldermen and it adopted a resolution directing that a protest be made to the State Board of Health. A committee will also confer with the borough officials of Milltown.

ALGOR REBUILDING DEMOLISHED FENCE

Seabright, July 17—The high board fence completely covered with inscriptions around the property formerly owned by James Algor, of this place, which was demolished Monday by the order of Attorney William J. McFadden, of Newark, who is trustee of the place, is being replaced by Mr. Algor. Hardly had the demolishing been finished than Mr. Algor started to rebuild it.

Mr. Algor said yesterday that as soon as the work of erecting the fence is finished he will put more signs and reading matter on it. He added that he intended to, in this manner show some facts that are new in his case. Mr. Algor declared that his attorney had "sold him out into the hands of his enemies" and that he was being persecuted for the sins and the wrongdoings of others.

Mr. Algor is still selling socialistic literature and will continue to sell it, and says that he will continue to erect the fence as fast as it may be torn down by any one.

The residents of the borough and Rumson road are wrought up again over this matter.

JULIA CONNORS' MURDER SOLVED

Swartz Confessed to His Sister Details of Crime.

SHE TELLS POLICE STORY.

Dragged Child Into Vacant Rooms, and When She Cried He Jabbed Her With Knife Until Senses Left Her—Took Mutilated Body to Lot.

New York, July 17.—After the grand jury heard from Mrs. Francis Alexander, the married sister of Nathan Swartz, the details of a confession of the murder of Julia Connors which her brother had made to her last Tuesday in her home an indictment for murder against Swartz was quickly found.

This is the way she told the story of the murder, how it was committed and what happened after the killing of the little girl:

Saturday Nathan met the girl on the street near her home and asked her to take a pair of opera glasses which he had to the apartment occupied by his family across the airshaft from a vacant apartment. What inducements he made to the girl to do this for him Nathan did not tell.

He followed her a distance to the house, up the stairs and to the hallway outside the vacant flat. There he seized her and dragged her into the vacant rooms, shutting the door behind him.

Jabbed Her With Knife.

The girl cried out. He attempted to assault her, and she screamed once more. Then he took a penknife and began to jab her with it in the back.

Finally she fell fainting to the floor. Swartz stabbed her some more. Then, believing she was dying, he undressed her, got a box from his father's flat, a box which had been used as a packing case for some of his brother's books, and put the child's naked body in the box.

He lowered the box to the cellar in the dumbwaiter, went down to the cellar himself and hid the box containing the body in the cellar, also the girl's clothes.

There the body remained all of Saturday night. The next morning very early Swartz went to the cellar, brought the box from the hiding place and carried it and the clothes to the place in the vacant lot where the body was subsequently discovered.

Before the sister testified Samuel Swartz, father of Nathan, had broken down in the district attorney's office and blurted out that his son had confessed to the horrible killing of the twelve-year-old child on the day after the crime was discovered.

CORNING WRECK DUE TO CRIPPLED ENGINE

Engineer Schroeder Denies That He Was Drunk.

Corning, N. Y., July 17.—Positive confirmation of Engineer William H. Schroeder's denial that he was drunk when he took his train out on the fatal run which ended in the Lackawanna railway wreck of July 4, costing forty-one lives, was developed when the inquest was resumed here. William H. Brady, night foreman of the Lackawanna roundhouse at Elmira, swore positively that Schroeder was absolutely sober when he took his locomotive out.

Brady also admitted that the real cause of the wreck was that locomotive 393 was sent out on a freight run in a disabled condition. He said that he was short of both locomotives and men that morning and had to send 393 out on a freight run with forty-five cars behind her.

Schroeder was recalled and declared that he had twice been "on the carpet" for slowing down on his runs. The first time, he said, he had lost two minutes because he slacked up to see a signal during a dense fog, such as prevailed the morning of the wreck. It was because he knew that a third offence would result in his being "set down" that he had tried to fix the balky ejector of his locomotive so that it would work, and while doing so probably ran past both the cautionary signal and the flagman of the limited.

ALFONSO STOPS A RUNAWAY.

Jumps From Carriage and Catches Horse, Saving General's Life.

Pampalona, Spain, July 17.—King Alfonso prevented what might have been a fatal accident.

As the king was leaving the cathedral after a ceremony a general's horse bolted, throwing its rider and dragging him along the ground.

While the spectators hesitated as to what to do, the king, with great presence of mind, sprang from his carriage, caught the horse and extricated the fallen general.

His majesty was roundly cheered by the populace.

Weather Forecast.

Generally fair today and tomorrow; light to moderate northeast to southeast winds.

NO WATER FOR PATRONS; RAILROADS TO EXPLAIN

Trenton, July 17.—Seven railroads will be summoned to appear before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners at the courthouse in Newark next Monday to determine whether their failure to provide drinking water for passengers in some of their cars is not an infringement of the statutory requirement compelling them to furnish "safe, adequate and proper service."

The investigation was undertaken by the board upon its own initiative today after considering reports from its inspectors that a number of roads do not supply drinking water on all their cars. The omission has been particularly felt by patrons during the extreme hot weather of the past two weeks. The railroads, and some of them in particular, did not take kindly to the legislation abolishing the common drinking cup and requiring that only individual drinking utensils might be used in public places. This was construed to mean railroads.

The companies which will be cited to appear next Monday are the Pennsylvania, Lackawanna, Susquehanna, Erie, Northern of New Jersey, New Jersey and New York and the West Jersey and Seashore.

Miss Addie Dietrich, of Central avenue, has returned from a visit at Delmar, N. Y.

VERDICT FOR TROLLEY VICTIM IS SUSTAINED

Trenton, July 17—The Supreme Court yesterday sustained as not being excessive a verdict of $1,800 obtained in the Morris Circuit by Julius Trussell, administratrix of Richard F. Trussell, against the Morris County Traction Company.

While riding on a trolley car on the way from Dover to the ball grounds, between that city and Rockaway, Trussell was thrown from the car and killed. The accident happened while the car was rounding a sharp curve at a speed of about twenty miles an hour.

At the first trial a non-suit was granted upon the ground that because Trussell was riding on the step of the platform of the car he was guilty of contributory negligence and hence barred from recovery.

In setting aside this non-suit the Court of Errors and Appeals laid down the rules that it is not negligence in itself for a passenger to ride on the step of a car.

The Court held that a passenger who voluntary rides on the platform steps when there is room inside assumes the risk, but when the car is full, the Court said, a different situation is presented, and a question for the jury is properly presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Jones, of the borough, have returned from a sojourn at Asbury Park.

BUYS HISTORIC HOUSE AS HOME FOR NURSES

Elizabeth, July 17.—The authorities of St. Elizabeth's Hospital here have purchased as a home for the twenty-seven nurses employed in the institution, an old historic mansion on Pearl street here.

The mansion was the residence of Isaac Williamson, the last federalist Governor of New Jersey, who held the office from 1817 until 1829. It afterward passed into the hands of his son, Benjamin Williamson. The latter for many years was Democratic Chancellor of New Jersey and lived in the house until he erected a much larger and handsomer mansion on North Broad street.

When he died the old homestead of the family passed into the hands of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, his daughter-in-law, and one of New Jersey's most prominent society women. In it she mysteriously ended her life July 13, 1909.

Mrs. Morris A. Zook, of East Sixth street, is sojourning in Nova Scotia.

Miss Florence Dickerson, of East Second street, has been visiting at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Nelson, of Nutley, formerly of the borough, has returned after a visit with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Seaden and children, of Manning avenue, are spending a few days at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

MOSQUITO FIGHT IN UNION COUNTY

Commission's Inspectors Are Doing Effective Work In All Six Districts.

WHAT THEY HAVE TO DO

Twenty-six Varieties of the Pest Discovered and Classified—John J. O'Brien, of This City, the Chief Inspector.

After a month's work by the inspectors employed by the Union County Mosquito Extermination Commission, made possible by an adequate appropriation, it is evident that the war being waged on the singing, stinging pest is not without good results. Fewer of the insects are in existence than for many years past and the confines of screened porches are almost entirely free from their invasion.

When the commission, composed of Dr. F. C. Ard, of this city; Louis J. Richards, of Elizabeth; Dr. Frederick Sell, of Rahway; W. C. Hope, of Roselle, and John O'Brien, Jr., of this city, who were appointed by Justice James J. Bergen, undertook the campaign of extermination, they estimated that $28,000 would be required to carry on the work. According to the bill under which the commission was created, any amount up to $35,000 could be requested from the Board of Freeholders.

The county was divided into six districts. The first includes New Providence township and borough, and Summit. Whitfield J. Bell and Howard A. Jelic were the inspectors assigned to the territory. The second district comprises Plainfield, Fanwood borough and township. This is in charge of Russell Miller and Harold S. Sharkey.

Springfield, Mountainside and Westfield make up the third district and L. H. Opdyke and W. F. Smith are the inspectors. The fourth district takes in Rahway, Clark township, Linden borough and Linden township. Samuel Foster and Earl Reed Silvers have charge of the inspectors there. The fifth district includes Elizabeth, Lyons Farms and a part of Union township. This is under the supervision of Russell W. Cles and Charles Platz. The sixth district embraces Garwood, Cranford, Kenilworth, Roselle Park and Roselle borough. Robert S. Clever and Charles Conover are the inspectors.

Inspectors have the authority to visit private and public property in the search for breeding places of the mosquito. They are all equipped with badges and other credentials, and one bicycle has been purchased for each district to enable them to cover the territory. Since June 15 they have constantly been working on all pools, ponds, ditches and other places where water in quantities is collected and is likely to become stagnant. The plan is to get rid of the water when possible and treat it with oil when draining or filling is out of the question.

Oil has been distributed in each district for the handy use of the inspectors. This is stored on public property, but is also convenient to the private property in sections liable to provide breeding places. The number of abandoned wells and cisterns that have been found is astonishing and there are still a number of receptacles of stagnant water to be done away with. These include wet cellars, rain bargels and empty vessels which catch and hold water. These must continue to be objects of close inspection and frequent treatment with oil.

The two specimens of the mosquito most frequently met with are the Culex Cantator, or outdoor mosquito, and the Culex Pipien, which finds its breeding places indoors or in protected spots. The recent drought brought with it a hard test for the exterminators. This caused a number of the pools to almost dry up, so that their existence was hard to learn. When the rain filled them, all had to be gone over again and all of the pools either filled in or treated with oil.

The twelve inspectors are engaged to go over as nearly as possible every foot of ground in their districts. While to accomplish this is out of the question, the exterminators in their travels have discovered many unsuspected bodies of water. Not far from the centre of Lyons Farms was found a pool of goodly dimensions in which were uncounted millions of larvae of the most dangerous malarial carrying and spreading species. Along the Long Branch Railroad, where a switch had been installed, a pool was formed in the space between, which afforded a catch basin for a large quantity of water. The place was not large, but contained enough water to breed a sufficient number of mosquitoes to overrun the entire city. In all twenty-six varieties of the pest have been discovered and classified.

KEPT WEDDING SECRET FOR OVER ONE YEAR

Miss Helen Brennan and Charles Walpole Make Belated Announcement.

After having kept the fact a secret for more than a year, it became known today that Miss Helen Brennan, daughter of Thomas Brennan, of Webster place, and Charles Walpole, son of Lynus Walpole, of Scotch Plains, are married. According to the couple the ceremony was performed in New York City on June 15, 1911, and they decided to say nothing about the affair to anyone. Their reason for this is not given.

Since the wedding ceremony was performed Mrs. Walpole has been living with her parents, while Mr. Walpole has been residing at Scotch Plains. Both are well-known in this city and Scotch Plains. They say they will now go to housekeeping.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR MISS MYRTLE B. RANDALL

The funeral service of Miss Myrtle B. Randall was held at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. J. O'Donohue, Donny Brook Farm, on Tompkins avenue. Rev. John G. Currier, curate of Grace church, officiated and the burial was in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Randall was 35 years of age and the daughter of Frank Randall, formerly of New York, but now of St. Louis. Last September she went to California for an extended stay. She died of peritonitis in San Francisco on Sunday, July 7, following a short illness.

DR. C. N. KENDALL HERE TOMORROW AFTERNOON

Dr. Calvin N. Kendall, chief of the New Jersey State School Commission, of Trenton, and Dr. Otto Clogan, of New York city, will lecture before the students of the summer course for teachers given at Watchung Crest, tomorrow. Dr. Clogan will talk at 10:30 o'clock in the morning on "The Function of the Auditory and Upper Respiratory Apparatus in the Exceptional Child," and will offer suggestions to the students as to how to detect common defects of the ear, nose and throat. These defects are often the direct cause of exceptional development in childhood.

Commissioner Kendall will speak in the afternoon at 3 o'clock on "The Importance of the Individual Child," and will show that in spite of the complexity of school organization and mass instruction, the individual child must not be lost sight of, especially if that child is different from the average. Such a child has certain rights which society must respect.

CONFERENCE ON SEWERS POSTPONED UNTIL TONIGHT

Because some of the representatives of the different municipalities were unable to be in town last night, the sewer conference announced far that time was postponed until tonight. The meeting will be held in the city building on North avenue. Just now there is some delay owing to the fact that George W. Fuller, the sanitary engineer, has not completed his plans which are to be presented to the State Board of Health.

The committees from Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen are awaiting to get the plans so that they can approve them and send them to Trenton. It is hoped that the State Board of Health will act promptly on the proposition so that the interested municipalities may know what further action to take before spending any more money.

SMOKE NUISANCE CAUSE OF ACTION

Citizens Sign Petition Asking Council to Have Use of Soft Coal Stopped at Plants.

ORDINANCE IS WANTED

Railroad Locomotives Also Responsible For the Evil—Corporation Counsel Stillman Gives An Opinion—Petitions Being Circulated.

Prominent residents of the city are engaged in circulating a petition to be presented to the Common Council with a view to abating the soft-coal smoke nuisance. A large number of citizens have signed the petition which sets forth that the annoyance is caused by locomotives passing through the city on the New Jersey Central, as well as at manufacturing plants. The practise has been allowed to continue for some time notwithstanding vigorous protest on the part of many people.

The Board of Health took up the matter a month or so ago but no action has yet been taken by that body to suppress the evil.

Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman has been consulted and he has given an opinion, it is said, that it is within the power of the Common Council to enact an ordinance making the practise illegal. Several towns and cities along the Pennsylvania Railroad have adopted similar ordinances and heavy fines are imposed for violations. The petition which is addressed to the Mayor and members of the Common Council reads as follows:

"Gentlemen:—We residents and taxpayers of the City of Plainfield earnestly protest against the smoke nuisance caused by the burning of soft coal by locomotives passing through our city on the tracks of the New Jersey Central.

"We also earnestly and particularly protest against the same nuisance caused by certain manufacturing plants located in thickly populated residential sections of our city, whereby the smoke and soot emitted from the chimney-stacks both day and night comes into the houses in such quantity that certain private residences are untenantable at the season of the year when it is necessary to have the doors and windows open owing to the heat.

"The greatest nuisance is maintained by the Spicer Universal Joint Manufacturing Company.

"We most earnestly and respectfully petition your honorable body for prompt relief by the passing of an ordinance declaring such to be a legal nuisance, and to fix a penalty and punishment for the maintenance of the same.

"The attention of this matter has already been brought to the notice of the corporation counsel through the Board of Health. The corporation counsel has given a written opinion to the Board of Health in which he states that it is within the powers of the Common Council to enact an ordinance making these matters a legal nuisance."

JUMPS IN FRONT OF AUTO AND IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Bound Brook, July 18.—An Italian known among his fellow-countrymen as "Dan," who has been employed on the streets here, was knocked down and run over yesterday afternoon by an automobile owned and driven by William Haelig, Jr., of Chimney Rock. Mr. Haelig was turning from Mountain avenue into Main street, and seeing the Italian directly in the path of his machine shouted to him to get out of the way.

Becoming confused, the Italian jumped in front of the car. He was knocked down and the wheels of the machine passed over his body. Mr. Haelig put the man in his auto and drove to the office of Dr. Robinson. Later the victim was removed to Somerset Hospital at Somerville. It is believed that the Italian has internal injuries, but the extent of them could not be ascertained. The man also received cuts and bruises and lost considerable blood before reaching the hospital.

500 ON EXCURSION.

When the five hundred excursionists left Plainfield this morning on the annual outing of the First Presbyterian, Park Avenue and Congregational Sunday-schools to Asbury Park, the weather was threatening and there was every prospect of rain. A single section of fourteen cars started from the North Avenue station, but the last five cars were unoccupied. The committee in charge of the affair were F. O. Dunning, Sr., Charles Steiner, M. C. VanArsdale and Joseph Hawkins.

BONNIE BURN SUP'T COMING ON AUGUST 1

Dr. J. E. Runnels Expects Successful Work at Union Co. Sanatorium.

In making Dr. J. E. Runnells superintendent of Bonnie Burn Sanatorium the board of directors feel that they have secured the services of the best available man for the place and that his administration of the institution will make it all that it is intended to be in the fight on the "white plague."

Dr. Runnells will assume charge August 1. By that date the pavilions will be in readiness for the reception of patients and in a few weeks later the institution will be in full operation. All applications for admission have been referred to the new superintendent, who will also have the engaging of all necessary help.

In conversation with a reporter Freeholder J. Hervey Deane, chairman of the building committee, said that there would be no difficulty in accommodating all immediate applications received. When asked what method would be followed in securing patients in the event that none applied, he replied that the directors could proceed under the law covering contagous diseases. In the past this law has never been enforced in cases of tuberculosis, because municipalities and the county had no isolated place in which to give the patients proper care and treatment. He does not expect, however, that it will be necessary to resort to this method.

Dr. Runnells is a graduate of Boston University and Tuft's Medical College. On graduation he went to the State Sanatorium at Rutland, Mass., as physician, and was there three and a half years, making a special study of diseases of the chest, nose and throat.

Leaving the Rutland institution Dr. Runnells went to the Lakeville Sanatorium at Middleboro, Mass., as assistant superintendent, and remained there six months, when he left to take charge of the New Hampshire State Sanatorium at Warren Summit. He severs his connection there after two years to take charge of Bonnie Burn.

Dr. Runnells says that he looks forward to taking up the work in Union county with a great deal of pleasure and the hope that his administration of the affairs of Bonnie Burn will be as successful as he shall try to make it, and that the sanatorium will be of great assistance to the citizens of Union county in the cure and control of tuberculosis.

MAKING PLANS NOW FOR POULTRY SHOW

Union County Association to Hold Exhibition Here In October.

The Union County Poultry Association met at 109 Park avenue, last night, and discussed informally plans for a poultry show to be held in Sebring's Hall next October. There is already considerable interest in the exhibition and promises of a large number of entries have been received by the officers. This will be the first show of the kind held here since the days of the Union-Middlesex County Fair and as there are a great many people now interested in poultry raising it is expected that a fine lot of birds will be shown.

There are a number of poultry farms in Plainfield and vicinity and they will all be represented. Valuable prizes will be offered for the best birds and this fact is sure to bring out some thoroughbred stock from this entire section of the State.

The list of judges and other officials who will be in charge of the exhibition will be announced later.

BABCOCK OUT FOR RENOMINATION

Willing to Go Back to the Assembly If the Voters Want Him.

HIS RECORD A GOOD ONE

President of Chamber of Commerce and a Popular Business Man—Son of the Late George H. Babcock.

George L. Babcock, of this city, is willing to accept a renomination on the Republican ticket in Union county to be returned to the Assembly. He made known this fact when asked today what his plans were regarding political office. At the election last fall, the popular young Plainfielder received a flattering vote, particularly in his home city, and was elected by a large majority.

For a couple of years, Mr. Babcock has been president of the Chamber of Commerce. He is an officer of the Spicer Universal Joint Company and is largely interested in that plant. Like his father, the late George H. Babcock, he takes an active interest in the public schools. Mr. Babcock is also an officer of the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

There is no doubht as to his being renominated and none that can be seen at this time as to his election. His record in the last Legislature was a creditable one.

MRS. HANNAH CLARK DIES AT BOUND BROOK HOME

Bound Brook, July 18.—Mrs. Hannah Clark, wife of Benjamin T. Clark, aged 64 years, died suddenly at her home on East Second street, yesterday of heart trouble. She had been a resident of this place for many years and was greatly beloved. Beside her husband she is survived by two sons and two daughters; also two grandchildren. The sons are Daniel D. Clark, editor of the State Center Record, and Peter S. Clark, also of this place, who is employed in the job department of the Plainfield Daily Press. The daughters are Daily Press. The daughters are Mrs. John P. Vickery, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. James Taggert, of this place. The funeral service will be held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

CAPT. AND MRS. H. WALL WELCOMED BY CORPS

A cordial reception was given for Adjutant and Mrs. H. Wall at the welcome meeting held at the Army's building on East Second street, last night. In spite of the rain a large crowd attended and showed the new leaders the fine spirit of the local corps. Mrs. Wall led the meeting in the absence of her husband, who was unable to attend because of a sore throat.

In an address Mrs. Wall said that the reports of the good work done at this station made her anxious to start in as a leader. She added that she and her husband would do all in their power to help and promote the cause here. Mrs. Samuel Hewitt, wife of Captain Hewitt, made an address of welcome to the new leaders. She outlined what had been accomplished and told how generously the citizens of the city had supported the work. A welcome address was also made by John LeMatty, leader of the Rescue Mission. After all the soldiers of the local corps had greeted the new leaders, the regular service was held.

—Marjorie Still, a colored woman who claims Rahway as her home, was sentenced by Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., to 90 days in the county jail when arraigned in the borough court this morning on the charge of vagrancy.

AGENT OF THE S. P. C. A. OVERCOME BY THE HEAT

Mrs. S. G. VonHoesen Is Prostrated While Attending to Her Duties.

While attending a special meeting of the Plainfield branch of the S. P. C. A. at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon, Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, the agent, was overcome with the heat following a nervous attack. She managed to reach her office in the city building on North avenue where she collapsed. Partially recovering from the attack, she got to the street, but was again prostrated.

A passerby realizing Mrs. VanHoesen's condition, summoned a carriage and she was taken to her home in Fanwood, where she is now under the care of Dr. C. B. Lufburrow. She will probably be detained at home several days.

During the past few weeks Mrs. VanHoesen has been particularly active in her work and as a result suffered a nervous breakdown.

At yesterday's meeting the society decided to place fire buckets at each fountain in the city so that drivers of horses can water their animals or give them a shower bath. The buckets will have round bottoms so that water cannot be left standing in them and they will be lettered "S. P. C. A." The other business of the meeting was largely of a routine nature.

GREENHOUSES ARE REMOVED FROM WATCHUNG AVENUE

Peterson's greenhouses and residence which have stood for a great many years on Watchung avenue near North avenue, on property adjoining that of the Religious Society of Friends, have been removed to Leland avenue, to ultimately make room for the new Federal building which is to be erected on Watchung avenue.

The greenhouses which are included among the few remaining landmarks in the city, were located on Watchung avenue for a great many years. Several months ago Mr. Peterson received notice from a representative of the Government to take away the buildings by August 1, and he is now complying with that notice.

There is at present nothing to indicate that the Government will begin the erection of a Federal building in the near future. There is still another appropriation needed to cover the expense of the work and until Congress grants that the actual work of building will not be begun.

NEW INDICTMENT FOUND AGAINST "BROKER" FLAGG

The Federal Grany Jury has returned a new indictment against Jared Flagg and others associated with him in operating a "brokerage and investment" business at No. 105 West Fortieth street, New York, upon which the postoffice authorities made a raid last September. Among those arrested and accused with Flagg was Rev. James T. Schock, a retired minister, who at the time resided in this city.

Under the new indictment Messrs. Neely, Schiller, and Brown, who were also arrested at the time, are relieved from prosecution and Francis P. Hankey, of Detroit, and James Allen and Edward C. DeWolfe, of Chicago, are made new defendants.

When the indictment was returned before Judge Hand, in the United States District Court, Flagg and the other men re-indicted were present, having been out on bail since the original indictment. Claude A. Thompson, Assistant United States District Attorney, asked for bench warrants for the arrest of the new defendants.

RAIN ENDS DRILL OF SOLDIER BOYS

New Jersey Maneuvres Halted By Heavy Downpour At Mt. Gretna.

SUFFER FROM THE HEAT

Temperature 106 Degrees Yesterday Afternoon—Mud Ankle Deep This Morning—Two Governors Will Visit the Camp Tomorrow.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 18.—General Jupiter Pluvious took command of the camp of the New Jersey National Guardsmen, and of all the other military camps here today, and he gave the soldier boys such a wet time of it that their officers found it necessary to send them all back to their tents at 9 o'clock, where they spent the rest of the morning trying to dry out. The members of Company K, of Plainfield, along with all of the others in the Second and Third regiments, had a very damp time of it, and were glad to get the order to return to camp, although even under the canvas it was a case of being none too comfortable.

The citizen soldiers were marched out of camp at 5:30, with a hard rain pouring down, and they went through mud and water for five miles to the east where the Second regiment was formed into a defending army, and the Third regiment made the attack. The latter succeeded in flanking the boys of the Second, but when the defending army fell back and took up a new position, they more than held their own. By this time the men were marching in mud ankle deep, and the order was given to return to camp, which was reached about 9 o'clock.

Governor Philip H. Goldborough and Adjutant General Charles F. Mackin, of Maryland, will visit the troops from that State on Saturday, and they will be accompanied by Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania. They will remain on Sunday, according to a report about the camp this morning.

For the rest of this week there will be several minor maneuvres, with the possibility of a night attack, and next week the New Jersey troops, with part of the regulars, under command of General Dennis F. Collins, will form one army in the general maneuvres, while the Maryland troops, and the rest of the regulars, under command of Colonel Charles A. Little, of Maryland, will form the other army.

Yesterday was the hottest day thus far during the encampment, and at two o'clock in the afternoon the sweltering heat reached 106. The men had returned from the field of "battle," however, and were able to get all the comfort that was available while waiting for it to cool off. During the afternoon six men were overcome by the heat, but all will be able to return to duty tonight. None of these were from Company K.

In many ways the camp is admirable, but there is considerable complaint about the drinking water, which is piped into the camp lines hardly under ground. As a result it is very warm, although it is pure. On the other hand shower baths are provided so that it is no trouble to keep cooled off on the outside. The camp is kept scrupulously cleared, and is thoroughly "policed" as the cleaning up process is called, every day.

General Collins has been joshed a lot by his staff, as the "human lightning red." As reported he just missed being struck by lightning on Tuesday night. It is said that this is the third time such a thing has occurred in his case, as he narrowly missed being under a tree that was struck at Sea Girt last year, and in 1910 at Gettysburg he was only a few feet from a tree under which a boy was struck down and killed.

The members of Company K, of Plainfield, and Company M, of Somerville, did not have a very pleasant night of it last night, because of the heavy and continued rain. The ditches which the men had built around the tents were properly constructed to keep the camp dry under normal conditions, but the rain was so heavy that more or less of it worked under the canvas, and kept all hands busy trying to keep dry. They were, however, in fine spirits when they rose this morning, and after a hearty breakfast of beef, coffee, browned potatoes, bread and butter they were ready for work.

Yesterday, in the maneuvre which was described in the dispatches sent to the Daily Press at the time, Company K played an important part, and the boys did their work splendidly. After it was all over the First sergeants of the various companies marched the men back to camp, and the officers remained on the field of battle with the regular army officers. The latter made such criticism and comments as they thought necessary, but the large amount of praise for the work of the

SAY PASSAIC OFFICIAL IS EMBEZZLER

Passaic, July 18.—A warrant was issued by Police Judge Costello Tuesday night for the arrest of Dr. Nelson J. Elliot, chief sanitary inspector, who, it is alleged, is short in his accounts. The warrant charges him with embezzlement. Experts are now going over Elliot's books, and are expected to make a report today.

It is understood that Elliot's resignation as sanitary inspector was received through the mail by Mayor George N. Seger.

Mrs. Elliot says she does not know where her husband is. She declares that he left his home Monday afternoon, saying that he was going to his office. She has not seen him since.

Plumbing Inspector Frank Kievitt saw the missing official soon after the latter left his home Monday afternoon. Kievitt says Elliot told him he was going to Newark.

When Elliot did not appear at his office Tuesday, and it was learned that he was not at home, J. H. Osborn, director of revenue and finance for the city, and Health Commissioner Charles F. H. Johnson made a superficial examination of Elliot's books. They say they found evidence enough of wrongdoing to warrant them going to the police court and asking for a warrant for Elliot's arrest on a chare of embezzlement.

No one is prepared to give the amount of the alleged discrepancy. Some place the figue as high as $2,000, while others think it not more than half this sum.

Elliot's salary was $1,800 a year, and to all appearances, he lived within his means. He came from Syracuse, N. Y., two years ago, and was considered a faithful official.

It was part of Elliot's duties to collect license fees from plumbers and others, and it was money received from this source that is alleged to have been taken.

URGING KATZENBACH TO RUN FOR SENATOR

Trenton, July 18.—The formal announcement of the candidacy of former Judge John Westcott, of Camden, for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senatorship Tuesday, stirred the friends of Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., to renew their activities in his behalf. Mr. Katzenbach has not yet consented to make the race for the Senatorship, although importuned by many Democrats to do so.

HUNTERDON DAMAGED BY GALE AND LIGHTNING

Whitehouse, July 18.—Much damage was caused by a heavy thunder storm which passed over this section about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. There was but a slight fall of rain, but the shower was accompanied by a high gale, which blew over grain stacks and fences and did considerable damage to oat fields.

The large barn on the farm of Charles McMurtry, which is located on what is known as the Long Lane near Pottersville, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed, together with the other outbuildings. The live stock was out in the pasture fields, but all of Mr. McMurtry's machinery and crops so far gathered were in the buildings and were burned. The family was in Peapack when the fire started. The loss is about $3,500, which is partly covered by insurance.

WAR ON RATS URGED TO KEEP OUT PLAGUE

Trenton, July 18.—A systematic campaign against the bubonic plague at all seaports along the Jersey coast is urged by the State Board of Health in resolutions adopted Tuesday afternoon. The resolutions call upon local boards and governing bodies to co-operate in the work, which has already been inaugurated in the principal ports of the country, that killing is commended as the most potent measure.

In this State, Perth Amboy is the principal port of entry for vessels coming from infected districts, and the authorities of the city have already taken measures designed to prevent the plague gaining a foothold.

The resolutions call upon the business men, to whom cargoes are consigned, to see that ships are fumigated, if necessary, and to cause the vessels to be moored not less than six feet from the dock. All mooring lines should be coated with tar and provided with rat guards, it is urged. Port towns are asked to make special preparations, if needed, to provide for the killing of rats along the water front.

RAHWAY CITY ENGINEER IS ACCUSED OF LOAFING

Rahway, July 18.—City Engineer Franklin Marsh was twice under fire at the Common Council meeting Tuesday night, and he was ordered by the Council to proceed with his work without further delay.

A communication from the Public Service Corporation complained that it was unable to change the grade of the Main street tracks in accordance with the Council's wishes, because, although repeatedly asked to do so, City Engineer Marsh had not furnished the established grade of the street.

Mr. Marsh was also ordered to stop his dilatoriness and get to work at once on the sewer contracts, make out bills and inspect the same, so that this work, some of which has been hanging for months, can be got out of the way.

Lincoln Hook and Ladder Company No. 2 notified Council that the following members' names had been dropped from company's roll: Frank Ginfridda, Eden Shults, William Searderfield, Charles W. McNally, Albert Shults and Cornelius Vanderwende, and that the following had been elected new members: John Henry, Henry Mentz, John Brewer, Charles Leonard, Joseph Bader, Charles Brown, Frank Splane, Alfred Whittall and William R. Clark.

GRAND-DAUGHTER IS HIS HEIR.

Out of the cash in bank the testator's will provides that his daughter, Mrs. William Guerin, of New York, shall receive $3,000, the balance, with the testator's personal effects, being bequeathed to his grand-daughter. Mr. Lane, by the provisions of the will, which was made two years ago, is named as guardian of the testator's grand-daughter.

DEPOSED SULTAN ILL.

Abdul Hamid, Prisoner In His Villa, Has Heart Failure.

ABDUL HAMID ILL.

Closest Guard Is Maintained Over His Villa at Salonika.

Salonika, July 18.—Abdul Hamid, deposed sultan of Turkey, was reported in a serious condition from heart disease, with which he has been troubled for some time. The former sultan is practically a prisoner at his villa on the outskirts of the city, where he is under the close watch of guards.

It was only recently that a number of mutinous soldiers were caught in a plot to release the former sultan and replace him on the throne. It was reported that several of the guards were arrested, and warning was given that at the first attempt to rescue Abdul Hamid he would be put to death. The government has been sorely worried over the fidelity of the former sultan's guards.

T. R. ABANDONS HIS PRECONVENTION TRIP

So Decides After Conference With Dixon and Perkins.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 18.—Colonel Roosevelt is not going to make his projected western tour before the Chicago convention. It has been the colonel's plan to visit Iowa, Michigan and Kansas to do a little molding of public opinion before the delegates from those states to the progressive convention were selected. The date for his departure on this preconvention trip had not been definitely set, but it was practically settled that he would leave Oyster Bay some time between Monday and Friday of next week.

Now all this has been changed. Senator Dixon, George W. Perkins and O. K. Davis motored down to Oyster Bay and dined with the colonel at Sagamore Hill. Colonel Roosevelt had announced beforehand that the final decision about the trip to the three states of the middle west would be reached at this conference.

When the conference was over Mr. Davis, speaking for Colonel Roosevelt, announced that the trip had been given up because of the press of work for the colonel at his headquarters here in New York. Mr. Davis explained there were so many questions coming up continually at the Roosevelt headquarters in New York—questions that required Mr. Roosevelt's attention and which only the colonel could decide—that it was impossible for him to get away long enough to make the trip he had planned.

Mr. Roosevelt will remain at Sagamore Hill until he goes to the convention, which is to open in Chicago on Aug. 5. He is now working on the statement of his position on the various questions of interest at the present time, and it is expected that this statement will be ready for publication very soon.

ANOTHER CABINET OFFICE.

House Passes Sulzer Bill Creating Department of Labor.

Washington, July 18.—Without a dissenting vote the Sulzer bill creating a department of labor was passed by the house. Congressman Sulzer was given an ovation immediately after when he was called to take Speaker Clark's chair to preside over the house.

The measure, which adds a new member to the president's cabinet, was passed without a roll call.

The bill, which has been long pressed by organized labor, goes to the senate.

Schooner Wrecked.

Swans Island, Me., July 18.—The two masted schooner Ravola of St. John, N. B., bound from Boston for St. John light, was wrecked on Little Duck island and ledges in a dense fog and probably will be a total loss.

Weather Forecast.

Fair in northern, local showers in southern portion today; tomorrow probably fair; light to moderate southerly winds.

—The Optimist had been disappointed in love. "Oh, well," he mused, "I should probably have been disappointed in marriage, anyhow."

HOLDS CROWD AT BAY WITH RAZOR

Italian Defies Laborers For Half an Hour.

FINALLY HIT WITH SHOVEL

Scores of Frightened Passaic Residents Witness Fight—Tried to Collect Pay on Another Man's Slip—Removed to Hospital in Serious Condition.

Passaic, N. J., July 18.—With a razor as his only weapon and suffering with a bullet in his right hip Petro Eriori, an Italian laborer employed by the Brackett Asphalt company, held at bay half an hour thirty other laborers armed with picks and shovels and H. S. Lamberson, his foreman, who had a gun, before he was finally captured.

Eriori tried to collect pay on another man's slip. Refused, he menaced Lamberson with a razor. Lamberson drew a revolver and shot him once in the hip. Eriori tried to get away. Forty laborers surrounded him in a field, where he fought them, while scores of frightened residents looked on, until he was felled with a shovel. Eriori was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, Paterson, in a serious condition.

CAFE OWNERS JOLTED.

Several Indicted For Keeping Disorderly Houses at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 18.—Atlantic City's big beach front cafe owners received a jolt when they were called before Judge E. A. Higbee to answer to indictments returned by the grand jury for keeping disorderly houses and held under $1,000 bail each after pleading not guilty to the charge.

They were Bob Delaney, proprietor of the Dunlap hotel, on the boardwalk; William Hyman of the Hotel Islesworth, Walter Gladdney of the Hotel Wiltshire, J. M. Gormley of the Jackson cafe, Victor Freisinger of the Old Vienna, Max Weloff, corner Pennsylvania and Mediterranean avenues; William Malla, New York and Atlantic avenues; James Malla, Tennessee and Atlantic; Israel Sobotsky, 250 North Kentucky avenue, and Ben Allan of the Allan House.

FAVOR RESTRICTING MARRIAGE

Lutherans in Jersey Urge Physician's Certificate of Good Health.

Closter, N. J., July 18.—The members of the Lutheran synodical conference, New Jersey branch, went on record here as opposing the issuance of marriage licenses unless the applicants produce a doctor's certificate indicating they are both physically fit to marry.

The Rev. Walter Koenig of Paterson read a paper on "Eugenics," and following it the resolution was adopted.

It was stated in support of the resolution that at the present time there are 50,000 blind children in this country, 12,000 of whom lost their sight at birth in consequence of disease in the parents, and that many an innocent girl marrying a man in ignorance of his condition is doomed to ill health.

M'CARTY NEARLY DROWNS.

Heavyweight Pugilist's Strength Gives Way at Wildwood While Way Out.

Wildwood, N. J., July 18.—Luther McCarthy, the heavyweight pugilist, from Springfield, Mo., who is training here for bouts with Al Palzer and other "white hopes," had a narrow escape from drowning.

McCarty is a strong swimmer, and part of his daily training work includes a long session in the surf. The pugilist swam way out beyond the life lines, and, the water being rough, his strength was unequal to the return trip.

Life guards who saw his predicament went to the rescue, and McCarty was taken into the boat in a semiconscious condition.

HEALTH OFFICER ACCUSED.

Passaic Official Charged With Embezzling $1,300 From That City.

Passaic, N. J., July 18.—A charge of embezzling $1,300 from this city was made against J. Nelson Elliot, health officer of this municipality, by Charles F. H. Johnson, chairman of the finance committee of the Passaic board of health. Nelson has been missing since Monday, when he went to Newark ostensibly to attend a meeting of the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination league.

His wife is prostrated at her home. With her are her two children, a boy eleven years old and a girl nine years old. Elliot was formerly in the New York health department. His salary was $2,200.

Begin Work on Big Sewer.

Newark, N. J., July 18.—After thirteen years of planning work was begun in Newark on the Passaic trunk sewer, which is to cost $12,000,000. The work was started in Riverside avenue, between Grafton and Verona avenues.

Conscience Stricken.

The little page boy was not extra fond of his job. He imagined that he had too much work to do.

One day an old lady came to see the mistress. When she was going away she said to Buttons, "Well, my little lad, what do you do here?"

"I do a duffer out of a job, mum," was the reply.—London Tit-Bits.

BABCOCK'S RECORD.

Party custom in Union county would ordinarily insure George L. Babcock a renomination on the Republican Assembly ticket this fall. But in his case, there is no need to rest the claim on party usage or precedent for there is a reason much sounder than that. It is that the popular young Plainfield business man made a creditable record during his first term as a member of the Lower House at Trenton and has given ample proof that he is not only capable but is to be trusted to truly and faithfully represent the sentiment and best interests of his constituents.

An examination of his course during the Legislature's sessions reveals the fact that he was unusually active, and that he stood sponsor for several excellent measures, giving his hearty support and co-operation as well in the passing of many good bills. It is needless to refer to his efforts on the various proposed laws for the public schools administration or to his work for amendments and additions to the election laws. As to the latter, it will be recalled that he fathered the statute providing that the American flag be displayed at the polling places and the law changing the arrangement of the ballot, placing the squares in which the voter may indicate his choice at the left instead of at the right of the candidates' names.

Mr. Babcock is the type of young man needed in politics. He is honest, conscientious and efficient. He possesses, in fact, the right sort of qualities for a good public servant; never hasty, ever ready to listen to suggestion and advice and to be depended upon to form his judgment on the merits of a question, and not to be guided by narrow partisanship nor selfish or ulterior purposes.

Every now and then, for want of something else to argue about, men will insist on debating as to which of our several patriotic songs is recognized or is to be accepted as our National anthem. Just at present Senator Raynor, of Maryland, and Senator Hepburn, of Idaho, are trying to fight it out between themselves but according to cloak room gossip in the Senate chamber prospects of an early settlement are anything but bright. Hepburn disputes Raynor's claim that "The Star Spangled Banner" is the Nation's hymn but he does not go so far as to say that any other particular patriotic song has prior rights. He puts them all on an equal basis but if the choice were left to him, the Senator says that "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," would be his preference. It happens now and then that the Maryland Senator gets on the wrong side of the question but here is an instance where he has the best of the argument.

Warren chapel's Christian Endeavor Society today sent a check for $5 to be added to the Daily Press fund for the Baby Camp on the mountain conducted by the City Union of The King's Daughters. Its donation brings the total amount of the fund up to $60. As told in the news columns, the approximate cost of running the institution for one day is $12. It will readily be seen, therefore, that a more general response to the appeal for funds is imperative. Contributions sent to this office will be acknowledged promptly and transmitted to the Camp authorities.

The shooting down of Rosenthal in the very heart of the city, may not lead to the conclusion that a man's life is safer in a western mining camp than in New York but it does bring the conviction that Mayor Gaynor might spend his time more profitably than he does.

Saturday's contributed editorial will be a live one for it will be written by a wide-awake business man who does not mince words in expressing his opinions.

THE TEMPERATURE.

Following is the temperature today as recorded by the State Trust Company thermometer: 9 a. m., 73 degrees; 11 a. m., 79 degrees; 1 p. m., 83 degrees.

BABY CAMP NEEDS MORE MONEY TO KEEP OPEN

While many Plainfielders are away enjoying the cool breeze at the seashore or in the mountains it is hoped that the sick babies and poor mothers at the King's Daughters' Baby Camp will not be forgotten. An urgent appeal for the support of this work is made by the organization. Persons wishing to contribute may send either money or checks to the Plainfield Daily Press and the same will be acknowledged and forwarded to the treasurer of the organization.

Under contract it costs $2.50 for an automobile for one trip a week to take the babies and mothers to the camp; three dollars or less will keep a child at the camp for one week; ten dollars will care for an ailing mother and her children for one week.

The daily expense at the camp is from $10 to $12. There are on an average twenty-four children and mothers at the camp every day. Last season according to the daily count 1,200 children and mothers were cared for at the camp and this season these figures may be exceeded.

HERE AND THERE.

Friends here of Rev. C. H. Schneegas, former pastor of the German Reformed church, the borough, have received a letter from him from Chazy, N. Y., where he is now living, telling of a terrific electrical storm that passed over that place on Wednesday night, July 10. A bolt of lightning struck the Presbyterian church, with which Mr. Schneegas is now connected, wrecking the steeple and setting fire to the edifice. One of the young men, a member of the church, who was assisting to put out the fire, fell through the skylight and was killed. The church was damaged to such an extent that a large part of it will have to be rebuilt before services can be held there. The Classis of Newark of the Reformed church, will meet at Newark, Saturday, for the purpose of dismissing Mr. Schneegas so that he can be installed pastor of the Presbyterian church at Chazy to which church he has accepted a call.

WARRANT FOR CHIEF.

Atlantic City, July 18.—Warrants for the arrest of Chief of Police Malcolme B. Woodruff and Detective George Herbert were issued Tuesday night at the instance of Dr. Morris Williams, of the Hotel Dunlop, who charge that the two officials threatened him with arrest unless he "was right" during the recent election. Dr. Williams, who was an election officer, was taken to police headquarters by Detective Herbert, he states, and was given the "third degree" by the chief of police and the detective, who, he said, threatened to send him to jail unless he "was right." Dr. Williams refuses to divulge the details of the case.

MRS. DUNN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Anne Dunn, who died suddenly yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her late home 320 Park avenue. Rev. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

NURSES ON VACATION.

Three of the staff of nurses at Muhlenberg Hospital are now enjoying their vacations. Miss Cora Charlton is visiting her home in Canada, Miss Ella Schenck is sojourning at Asbury Park, while Miss Helen Dunn is visiting at Princeton. Miss Mary Atkinson, the night supervisor is stopping at Atlantic City.

CHARLES NIETZER TO PREACH.

Charles Nietzer, a student at the theological seminary, Bloomfield, will preach at the German Reformed church Sunday morning. He is one of several candidates to be heard as a successor to Rev. C. H. Schneegas, who resigned recently.

—Neuman Bros. will have a large assortment of fresh vegetables for tomorrow's trade, the best that the market affords.

Managers Of Taft's Campaign

CHARLES DEWEY HILLES and James Burton Reynolds are the new chairman and secretary, respectively, of the Republican national committee which is managing the current campaign.

Mr. Hilles has been secretary to President Taft for more than a year, and he was the president's personal representative in the campaign which resulted in Mr. Taft's renomination at the Chicago convention.

Mr. Hilles is forty-five years old and of rather limited political experience, yet he was unanimously elected national chairman at the president's request. The chairman of the national committee always is the personal selection of the nominee.

Mr. Hilles is a hard worker, has tact and capacity, gets along well with folks and is well liked by members of congress and public men generally. He is loyally attached to the president and is one of the Taft men who are willing to make almost any sort of sacrifice to see their chief re-elected. If Mr. Hilles does not prove himself a brilliant political strategist as head of the national committee it is certain that he will make an able fight and will bring hard work, energy and enthusiasm to bear on it.

Mr. Hilles is rated as a New Yorker politically, although he had been in that state such a short time when he was made an assistant secretary of the treasury that the politicians were inclined to resent the appointment charged off against the account which they thought was due New York in the way of federal patronage. His successful beginning was nonpolitical. It was as a teacher and leader of boys in Ohio that he started his work. His record there was such that he was called to take charge of a similar but larger institution in New York. Almost his whole life has been given to the uplift of the children of the tenements and slums.

Mrs. Hilles was Miss Dollie Bell Whiley, daughter of a Lancaster (O.) banker. They have been married sixteen years and have three children—Elizabeth Lee, fourteen years old; Fred Whiley, eleven years old, and Charles Dewey Hilles, Jr., seven. The boys are sturdy blond chaps bearing a strong resemblance to their father. Mrs. Hilles takes the greatest interest in her husband's career. She is handsome, vivacious and a woman of much personal magnetism.

Mr. Hilles is a Presbyterian, a Mason and a member of the Loyal Legion.

James Burton Reynolds is a member of President Taft's tariff board. His home is in Boston, and he was for years secretary of the Massachusetts Republican state committee.

Mr. Reynolds has described himself as "a newspaper man who has degenerated into an officeholder." After graduating from Dartmouth he joined the staff of a Boston newspaper, which sent him to Washington as its correspondent. In 1905 President Roosevelt appointed him assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs. He has long been regarded as one of the handsomest and best dressed men in Washington, and he is one of the most popular men in official life at the national capital. He is forty-two years old.

soldier boys overshadowed the criticism of the few faults found. Company K went out at 7 o'clock in the morning, and did not return to camp until after one, in the afternoon, and while all of the boys were pretty well fagged out, not one of them dropped out. They were good and hungry and tackled a hearty dinner, following which they were excused from duty for the afternoon. They had little chance to enjoy themselves, though, for it began to rain soon after they reached camp, and they were compelled to remain under cover.

All of the citizen soldiers seem to be trying to do their best to make a record for themselves, and too much praise cannot be given to First Sergeant Apgar for the way in which he controls his men, especially as he has extra work on account of the appointment of Lieutenant Hort as aide to the commanding officer.

The old reliables, Privates Hartpence and Niles, somewhat to the surprise of the bunch are acting like real soldiers, but are rather blue on account of the absence of Quartermaster Sergeant Dow; also as this is a Phobibition camp they are somewhat dry.

Private Anderson is somewhat worried because he does not receive any mail, although he is single. It looks bad.

There are in Company K, much to the regret of the "no coms" and members, a number of "Dope Friends" who are not satisfied in smoking their own "Coffin Nails" but they swipe "buts" of others. Private Toms is the chief offender and he is supposed to be executed at midnight.

Acting Quartermaster Sergeant Pierson seems to be affected by the heat and not only snores but talks in his sleep and is constantly talking or calling for his family, much to the discomfortute of other bunkers. Unless he stops he will wake up in the tent ditches.

Sergeant De Camp is one of the hard working men in camp.

Private Van Arsdale is somewhat worried. Sorry, but married men must obey orders.

Private Breese is thinking strongly of getting a hair cut, but he is afraid his wife wont recognize him when he returns.

Private Steve Milwater must have been against poisoned ivy as he is constantly picking dead skin from his arms. It is a surprise how he passed the surgeon.

TYPHOID IN WOODBURY.

Woodbury, July 18.—Two additional cases of typhoid fever, making sixteen in all, were reported to the Board of Health Tuesday. The victims are Miss Gladys, daughter of Judge A. H. Swackhamer, and Wesley B. Richmond. The city water is now coming through a temporary filtration plant installed last Sunday. Residents are taking no chances, however, and are boiling this water, as they did before. Most of the residents are also scalding their milk.

MOSQUITO FIGHT IN UNION CO.

Not only are the inspectors hired to hunt and destroy breeding places, but they must render explicit reports in regard to their territory. While the greater part of the work this year is directed toward reducing the number of fresh water insects, the meadows are by no means being neglected. Thousands of feet of ditches have been dug, and old ones dug years ago by direction of the Board of Health have been cleaned and oiled.

The work will continue until the ground freezes and will be resumed about March 1 next year. When the inspectors began their work it was with difficulty that a man was found to take charge of them. Finally John O'Brien, Jr. one of the commissioners, who has had five years mosquito work in Essex county, resigned his health board work in Plainfield and accepted the appointment of chief inspector. His office is located at 28 Rahway avenue, Elizabeth, and he will be glad to supply all requests for information. The offices are open from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. each day except Saturday, when they close at noon.

Roger Whitford, 8 years old, who is very low at Muhlenberg Hospital with an attack of peritonitis, following an operation on Saturday for appendicitis, remains in about the same condition.

Woman's World

Mrs. Isabella Goodwin, First Woman Detective.

MRS. ISABELLA GOODWIN.

For the first time in the history of New York's detective department a woman has been made a first grade officer. This honor was recently bestowed upon Mrs. Isabella Goodwin, who was raised from the rank of police matron to that of acting detective sergeant, with a salary of $2,500.

Mrs. Goodwin won her spurs through her clever work in running down the band of taxicab robbers in New York city, who recently obtained $25,000 from runners of a well known Gotham bank.

Mrs. Goodwin's husband, before he died sixteen years ago, was a roundsman. After his death she became police matron, at the same time doing odd detective jobs of work for various officials of the detective force.

About two years ago she became regularly attached to the staff. Mrs. Goodwin outranks her son, who is a second grade detective.

Woman's Leap Into Reality.

There is no doubt that the type of woman is changing beyond recognition and that any mid-Victorian who might arise again—with the exception of George Meredith and John Stuart Mill—would rub his eyes in amazement at the modern female whom he would find on platforms and in council rooms, in operating theaters and in city offices—wherever, in short, there is serious business on hand.

Just now we are celebrating the centenary of Charles Dickens, the creator of Dora Copperfield and Little Nell, of Miss Squeers and Kate Nickleby, runs an article in Lady's Pictorial. I wonder what he would have thought of the young person of 1912 who climbs the Matterhorn, pilots her own aeroplane, beats masculine champions at golf and travels alone through wild and desert places?

For, with her usual deliberateness her intuitive grasping of natural and fundamental laws, woman has instinctively set out to improve her physical type before she makes great demands upon her brain.

The result is that we see around us a race of young athletes, intent upon increasing their stature and specially apt at all games which demand muscle and skill. The new generation is not beautifully frail, but singularly self reliant and upstanding. Above all, it has banished the word sentiment from its vocabulary.

Charles Dickens' idea of a woman who worked or who took an interest in public affairs was a Mrs. Jellyby, a ludicrous and untidy person who neglected her home and filled the dusty house with pamphlets. This, however, was not the great novelist's fault. He was seeking for comic types and had not the larger vision of a Meredith, who, already in the sixties of the last century, was drawing a gallery of womenfolk unmatched save in Shakespeare's plays.

Moreover, all the Victorian novelists save Meredith had similar prejudices and convictions about women. Thackeray was in reality no better, though he wrote about society, while Dickens described those inimitable back parlors. To Thackeray a clever woman (if she were English, for his French ladies were allowed more latitude and more Gebildung) must, of necessity, be a woman of doubtful moral character.

Beatrix, Becky and Blanche Amory are all wheedling, alluring young things with brains, so they must needs all end badly, rather to the readers' indignation. This attitude toward the feminine sex was indeed a survival of the roast beef and port wine period, when John Bull was a very domineering person and suffered no pretensions on the part of his women folk. Indeed, did they show any signs of a mentality of their own he annihilated them socially by dubbing them "bluestockings."

A Voter at Least.

Aunt Spinsterly—I hope that your opinions uphold the dignity of our sex, Mamie, and that you believe that every woman should have a vote?

Mamie—I don't go quite so far as that, auntie, but I believe that every woman should have a voter.

A Dear Girl.

"My love for you is more," he said,
"Than any tongue could utter—
In fact, I may with candor say
You're worth your weight in butter."

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

USES FOR ELDERBERRIES.

WILD elderberries are so abundant in our woods that it is unfortunate they are not more generally esteemed. The elderberry is one of the fruits in which modern housewives take little interest, though our grandmothers used to believe that elderberries were sovereign remedies for many ills.

As a Medicine.

Elderberry Cordial.—Take a gallon of water to a gallon of the crushed and strained juice of the elderberries. Add three pounds of sugar for every gallon of liquid and place in an open earthen jar for it to ferment. As the water evaporates put in more water. In about eight months the fermenting will have ceased and the cordial may be drawn off from the lees. In old fashioned households a drink of the hot spiced cordial was served to ward off colds. It was also used for flavoring otherwise tasteless jellies or sauces.

Tarts and Jellies.

Elderberry Tarts.—When used for pies or tarts a little lemon juice is added to the fruit to bring out the flavor. It is also well spiced. Puff paste is laid on the bottom of the pan and strips of the paste are crossed over to form a latticework. Plenty of sugar is needed for the fruit.

Elderberry Jelly.—The juice of the elderberry combined with that of the apple, grape, currant or gooseberry makes an excellent jelly. The elderberry juice alone may be taken for the jelly, provided a little lemon juice is added to it; otherwise the jelly is made just like that of any other fruit.

A Nice Relish.

Elderberry Ketchup.—To a quart of elderberries use a quart of vinegar, pouring the latter boiling hot upon the fruit. Let it stand overnight on the back of the range and strain in the morning. Now pour into a saucepan or the preserving kettle. Pass the berries that have been strained off through a sieve and, together with a quarter of a teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves, grated nutmeg, a little salt and ginger and a blade of mace, add them to the vinegar. Boil for a quarter of an hour, then strain and bottle for use.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.
Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

The Literary Club, of Bound Brook, is following the lead of Mothers' Clubs and, instead of discontinuing all work during the summer, has turned its activities to caring for the sick babies who suffer through ignorance or neglect. A trained nurse employed has already made 126 visits. The members of the clubs also make friendly visits to the homes and give incidental help and advice. Through the confidence established by these friendly visits the help of the nurse comes only in time of real need. The contributors for July are: Mrs. F. H. Bent, Miss Emma Carr, Mrs. John Van Doren, Mrs. Edgar Granert, Miss A. T. Tappen, L. S. Bache, Mrs. G. M. LaMonte, C. F. Speare, Senator W. W. Smalley, Judge J. M. Wall.

The true story of a skye-terrier, "Greyfriars Bobby," by Eleanor Atkinson and published by Harpers, is attracting a great deal of attention. It is recommended to schools and homes for humane nature study as well as delightful reading.

Chicago proposes to keep a herd of cows in one of its public parks and sell pure milk at three cents a pint. Poor mothers may obtain it free by bringing the children to the park.

Fifty-two vacation schools have been opened by various charitable organizations in New York city. One school sends a Fifth avenue stage to a certain gathering place on Third avenue and the children are given a free ride to the school. No great amount of exertion is required of the tiny tots these hot days, the great object being to keep them off the streets. The girls are taught sewing and the boys equally quiet occupations. It cost about $350 to run a school for six weeks. Most of the teachers are college graduates.

A school for Mothercraft has been opened at No. 561 West End avenue, New York, which is receiving financial support from Mrs. E. H. Harriman and her daughter. Lectures make up a large part of the work at present but is supplemented in the case of the nursery-maid by actual experience gained by helping in the day nursery. Here instruction is provided in the physical care of infants, in cooking for them, in making and laundering their clothes in the home care of ill children and what to do in emergencies and in telling stories, games and songs.

All classes are trained at this School of Mothercraft, the supposedly ignorant mother, the mother who has much of this world's goods but little of moral fibre, the "lady-nurse" or mother's helper, the philanthropic young ladies who are anxious to help in day nurseries or settlements and the stupidest of nursery-maids. For the young mother who cannot attend the school, instruction is given before and after the birth in the home under the guidance of her own physician by visiting instructors.

A letter from Bulgaria to the National Congress of Mothers tells of free tables provided in the schools of Sophia for the children's mid-day meal. The day-nursery is called the "Manger" and is conducted along the same lines as those in America. Many of the Evangelical churches have mothers' meetings at which the literature provided by Mothers' Congress is used.

The American members of the National German-American Teachers' Association arrived in Bremen last Saturday. They were met at the station by a large reception committee and in the evening were given a reception by the Bremen Senate. An itinerary is arranged for travel through Germany, France, England, Switzerland and Italy, returning by way of the Mediterranean in September.

AWARD TUNNEL CONTRACT.

Morristown, July 18.—The sisters of charity who conduct the College of St. Elizabeth have let the contract to Shurgles Brothers, of this place, for the construction of more than 1,000 feet of tunnel at Convent. There will be a main tunnel 700 feet long, reaching from the powerhouse to the new recitation hall, now under construction, and a branch 350 feet long, leading to Santa Rita Hall. The tunnels will be four feet wide and five feet high, with arched roof, and will be thoroughly waterproofed. Construction will be by the cut-and-cover method. The tunnels will be used for running heating pipes from the power-house to the two buildings, and the boilers now in Santa Rita Hall will be taken out.

DEFEND ELIZABETH IN MATTER OF MORTALITY

Elizabeth, July 18.—The authorities here have taken exception to the statements made at the recent meeting of the Union County Medical Society by Dr. Julius Levy, of Newark, that Elizabeth compared unfavorably with other cities with respect to infant mortality. Dr. Levy further stated that a larger percentage of children die here yearly than in almost any other town in the State, and he blamed it on the milk supply.

After an investigation the authorities say that Dr. Levy overestimated the truth. The condition of the milk stations, it was declared, was equal to that of any other city.

Reports from other cities were read at the last meeting of the medical society, and these, according to the members, showed that Elizabeth might well be proud of its record.

The following infant mortality figures are from the records of the Public Welfare Committee of Essex county, compiled for the years 1902 to 1908: Fall River, Mass., 301.7; Salem, Mass., 247.7; Lawrence, Mass., 246; Lowell, Mass., 275; Augusta, Me., 219.4; Biddeford, Me., 311.6; Woonsocket, R. I., 233.8; Providence, R. I., 214; Laconia, N. H., 294.6; Newark, 160; Harrison, 160.3; Hoboken, 177.3; Jersey City, 175.6; Orange, 174; New Brunswick, 192.3; Elizabeth, 166.7; Plainfield, 137.4; Union, 108; Passaic, 195.3; Paterson, 170.2.

These death rates are based on 1,000 births.

Dr. Otto Wagner, chairman of the finance committee of the city Council, has defended the Council's course in not appropriating money for the establishment of a milk testing laboratory by declaring that such an outfit was bought six years ago and is not being used. The health authorities say that the equipment is antiquated and of no use.

PAYS FOR JOINT TRUNK SEWER.

Summit, July 18.—In an executive session here Tuesday night the local Common Council and representatives of the Millburn Township committee settled the accounts for the payment for the work on the Summit and Millburn joint trunk sewer, which has just been completed and accepted by both bodies. The sewer is 7,080 feet long, and the cost is $13,600. According to agreement, vouchers were issued Tuesday night by the Summit Mayor and Common Council for $6,800, Summit's share of the cost.

MAY NOT REOPEN CORN PLANT.

Edgewater, July 18.—E. T. Bedford, president of the Corn Products Refining Company, confirmed Tuesday the recent report that the shutdown of the company's plant at Edgewater, N. J., due to a strike which has been in progress for a number of weeks, would probably be permanent. The business will be continued at the company's plants in Argo, Waukegan and Pekin, Ills. and Davenport, Ia. The Edgewater plant had 1,000 employes, who sought an increase in wages and shorter hours.

ADVISES ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE ON "DARE"

Vice Chancellor Howell has filed a memorandum giving as his conclusion that John D. Smyser, Jr., son of John D. Symser, a retired naval officer, is entitled to an annulment of his marriage to Edna Anna Leader, a former chorus girl.

At a hearing in Jersey City, June 17, Smyser told that he married Miss Leader at 2 o'clock in the morning of August 10, 1906, in the home of Justice of the Peace Picott, in South Orange. The earlier hours of that night, according to Smyser, were given to a drinking bout, in the course of which the marriage was suggested. Miss Leader took the proposition as a dare.

Smyser was only nineteen years old at the time. He has since taken a course at the Baltimore Medical College. Mr. Smyser, who was represented in the annulment suit by John E. Hehn and Matthew J. Ready, lives in Newark with his father and mother.

TEN SHORE BONIFACES PLEAD TO INDICTMENTS

May's Landing, July 18.—There was consternation in the courtroom yesterday when ten prominent hotel men of Atlantic City, most of them proprietors of the finest cafes on the beach front, where hundreds of thousands of visitors are entertained, appeared before Judge E. A. Higbee to answer indictments charging them with "keeping disorderly houses." They were held in $1,000 bail each, after pleading not guilty and the cases were set down for the October term.

In the "march to the courthouse" yesterday morning there were J. H. Gormley, manager of the Jackson Cafe; Victor Freisinger, proprietor of the Old Vienna; "Bob" Delaney, of the Hotel Dunlop; William Hyman, of the Islesworth Cafe; Walter Gladney, manager of the Wiltshire Cafe; Max Weloff, who has a hotel at Pennsylvania and Mediterranean avenues; William Malia and James Malia, proprietors of Atlantic avenue hotels; Israel Sobotzky, who has a hotel on Kentucky avenue, and "Ben" Allen, proprietor of Allen's saloon, who was indicted for disorderly house and gambling. The offenses, it is said, are technical, and violations not as flagrant as the indictments would seem to indicate.

GOVERNOR EUGENE N. FOSS

Massachusetts Executive Says That He Will Seek Re-election.

CANAL BILL DELAY IS OPPOSED IN SENATE

Claimed United States Might Be Helpless In War.

Washington, July 18.—Senator O'Gorman of New York charged in the senate that railroad influence was behind Great Britain's protest against the Panama canal bill, and he joined Senator Lodge in declaring that the United States possessed full rights under the British treaty to give free passage to ships of American register.

Both Mr. Lodge and Mr. O'Gorman declared this nation was not bound by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to give foreign ships all the privileges granted American ships.

Senator Lodge declared that if the case went to The Hague court the United States would win.

Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. Cummins and others declared that if the United States had to construe the treaty literally in giving the ships of all nations equal treatment it would by other terms of the treaty be prevented from defending the canal in case of war.

"If a Japanese fleet appeared at the western end of the canal bent upon passing through to attack the city of New York," said Senator Reed, "the United States would have no right under such a construction of the treaty to take any steps against it."

SPANISH WAR VETERANS' COMMISSION ORGANIZES

Trenton, July 18.—The United Spanish War Veterans Association Commission recently appointed by Governor Wilson organized at the State House Tuesday afternoon by electing Walker Whiting Vick, of Rutherford, as chairman, and G. Fred Ege, of Jersey City, as secretary. Daniel A. Dugan, of Orange, is the third member.

The commission will have supervision over the expenditure of $10,000 appropriated by the Legislature for use in connection with the national encampment of the organization to be held at Atlantic City in September. The encampment proper will be from September 9 to 11 inclusive, but a program of events has been arranged for the period from September 7 to 13. It is expected that from 2,500 to 5,000 members of the association will be in attendance. They will virtually be the guests of the State.

The convention proper will be held on the Steel Pier, and Governor Wilson has consented to deliver an address. This will probably be during the evening of Tuesday, September 9. Commander-in-Chief Maurice Simmons, of New York, will establish headquarters with the national officers at the Hotel Rudolf. The commission, the department of New Jersey, and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the United States will have headquarters at the Chalfonte. A temporary office has been opened in the Bell-Riddle building. It is in charge of Robert A. Elwood, of Absecon, who is chaplain in chief of the national organization.

STATE DENTISTS MAY GET TOGETHER

Cape May, July 18.—When the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Dental Society began here yesterday there was a strong belief that the factional differences that have prevailed in the society since the election in Asbury Park a year ago would be adjusted in a harmonious way.

The differences grew out of the election of two ets of officers at the 1911 meeting, those members of the society known as the "insurgents" choosing a set headed by Dr. William I. Thompson, of Asbury Park, as president, and the other, or "old guard" members electing a ticket, with Dr. William W. Hawke, of Flemington, as president.

Since then each faction has claimed that their set of officers has been the legally elected set. The "insurgents" appealed to the Chancery Court, and the matter is still unsettled there. It was expected that some of the "insurgents" would meet Tuesday night and plan a course of procedure, but the meeting was not held. Some of the "insurgents" said that their strength would be shown when the election of officers takes place next Friday.

When the annual meeting opened yesterday about 250 members were present. It was called to order by Dr. Hawke, and Rev. George L. Dobbins, pastor of the local Methodist church, who will have served fifty years in the ministry next March, made the invocation.

Luther C. Ogden, president of the Cape May Board of Trade, welcomed the society to Cape May, after which Dr. Hawke delivered the president's address.

Dr. L. W. Stryker, of New York City, read a paper on "In the Laboratory."

Tuesday night the State Board of Examiners and Registry in Dentistry, canvassed the vote upon the papers of applicants at a recent examination to determine whether licenses to practise should be issued.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

Freddy held Westfield scoreless last Saturday and next week we might expect him to pull off the Rube Waddel stunt—call in the players and do the work himself.

To pitch a no hit game is something out of the ordinary, but when you hold the enemy hitless and lose the game that is extraordinary. That is what happened to Harper, the Pirate's captain and twirler, of the Parker Field Baseball League, in a game with the Giants yesterday.

Fifty events scheduled to be run off on an athletic program in one afternoon is going some and if the Scottish Clans wants to wind up its affair before Monday morning it will have to run off at least five events at a time.

And an association football game thrown in, which will make the field meet at least a half hour longer.

So we are going to see Dunellen in Plainfield next Saturday—if it doesn't rain.

Are the Giants just trying to make a closer race in the National League? Signs point that way.

The New York A. C. athletes landed the highest number of points at the Olympic games for the United States. The Irish-Americans were three less.

DUNELLEN TEAM'S RECORD IS GOOD

Plainfield Goes Up Against Strong Aggregation When It Meets Borough Nine.

DIXON'S FINE SHOWING

"Bob" Bogardus' Team Has Won Nine of the Twelve Games Played—The Batting and Fielding Averages.

Plainfield will have her work cut out when it goes up against the fast Dunellen aggregation on Crescent Oval next Saturday. The borough nine has won nine out of twelve games played, and has a decided victory over Bound Brook to its credit. The local team lost its first game to Bound Brook by a 5 to 1 score and a credited win was more or less the result of a fluke. The Dunellen aggregation, on the other hand, has a clean cut and undisputed victory over this nine to its credit and its series now stand one apiece. Dunellen also has a win over Westfield chalked up and it did it by about the same relative score as the Queen City boys accomplished the trick.

Lou Dixon, the Plainfield backstop, who is doing the receiving work for Dunellen, is leading the combination in both fielding and batting. He is clouting the ball at a .409 clip and fielding with a percentage of .977. His hitting is what has been keeping the team going for he is a natural long distance slugger and has an average of about two hits to a game. Adam Schott, Warry McLaughlin and Captain Britt Martin are all batting over the .300 mark, while the rest of the team with the exception of Coyl have an average over .250.

Of the nine regular players on the Dunellen team, six of them are Plainfielders and they will undoubtly have their backers to cheer them when they invade the oval next Saturday.

The season's record:

Dunellen, 1; Cranford, 0. (13 in.)
Dunellen, 7; Raritan, 2.
Dunellen, 2; Perth Amboy, 5.

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS ARE POPULAR WITH CHILDREN

The five public playgrounds in this city have become the centres of attraction for girls and boys. The juvenile recreation places are located in the yards of the Franklin, Irving, Bryant and St. Mary's schools, and the largest and best equipped is at Parker Field. Trained supervisors are in daily attendance and they not only encourage and teach every conceivable kind of outdoor games, adapted to playgrounds, but some of them have taken up sewing and dancing as additional features.

The main playground is situated at Parker Field and the large assortment of gymnastic apparatus and the two baseball diamonds make it the most popular. A Parker Field junior baseball league has been organized and a schedule of games have been drawn up to be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings of each week. This movement has become exceedingly popular. The apparatus on this field is without doubt the best and most complete of any public playground in this section of the State, with the possible exception of East Orange Oval, which has been in use for a number of years. This field is in charge of Charles R. Bostwick, who is assisted by a competent corps of associate directors.

The school yard grounds, while they have not the material and spacious area which Parker Field offers, have an overflowing daily attendance and are more easily reached by a large number of children who live in the central part of the city. These yards are distributed so as to have one in each section of the town and each is in charge of a trained leader. The equipment includes swings, trapese, circle swings and toboggan slides, and while not as complete as Parker Field, they provide ample means of entertainment for the average youth. The girls have regular hours in which they are taught sewing and dancing and these classes have proved exceedingly popular.

The Playground Commission has control of all the grounds and regular visits are made by the members of the commission to the different yards.

BURY COLORED WOMAN WHO REACHED CENTURY MARK

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Ann Evans, who died at her home in Scotch Plains early in the week, aged 100 years, was held yesterday afternoon at the Methodist church, that place. Rev. C. C. Woodruff, former pastor of the church, officiated. There was a large attendance of the village residents who had known the old woman for many years.

While some people have questioned the claim that Mrs. Evans was 100 years old, there are others who feel assured that she reached the century mark before her death. It is said that her mother, who died many years ago in Elizabeth, was 100 years old at the time of her death. The burial took place in the old Presbyterian cemetery, Westfield, and the pall-bearers were Edward Hand, William Guest, William Jimmerson, H. Wade, J. Wade and H. Denison.

PRISONERS DO COOKING WITH THERMOMETER 112

While the Jail Committee of the Union County Board of Freholders was making the weekly inspection of the institution on Tuesday, the temperature in the kitchen prevented them making any lengthy stay in that department. The mercury registered 112 degrees in a thermometer hung in a least exposed portion of the room.

The prisoners detailed to do the baking and cooking were clothed in the same manner as are gunners, a condition the committeemen were informed was not an exception, but had been the rule all during the warm weather and was convincing proof of the inadequacy of the kitchen equipment.

Sometime ago a movement was started to equip the culinary department with modern conveniences which would make the warm days more bearable to those who prepare the prisoners' food, but for some reason the matter has never been pushed to a successful completion. The sentiments expressed yesterday were in favor of reviving the proposition to install gas ranges, which would confine the heat within themselves and expedite the preparation of meals.

The committee sometime ago decided to authorize the installation of a power washing machine and other modern devices for doing house work on a large scale, but that plan, too, seems to have been tabled for lack of persistent interest.

The matter will in all probability be taken up at the next meeting of the board, now that actual existing conditions have been made apparent to the members in charge of the supervision of the jail.

STATE HEALTH BOARD SAYS TO BOIL WATER

Trenton, July 18.—The boiling of all drinking water as a safeguard against typhoid fever is being particularly urged upon the public at this time by the State Board of Health. Recent examinations, made in the State Laboratory, of public water supplies where there is no filteration or treatment of such waters, show that in many instances pollutting materials are present.

With the diminishing flow in surface streams during the dry season this condition is likely to occur, and with each heavy rain vegetable and animal matter is washed into such streams. The bacteriological examination of all public potable water of the State is systematically carried on by the State board, and where there is indication of increasing pollution of a public water supply notice is sent to the water company.

It is the view of the State board that whenever increasing pollution of a public water supply is apparent the only safe method to be adopted is to thoroughly boil all water before using it for potable purposes.

QUESTION LEGALITY OF MERCER CO. ELECTION

Trenton, July 18.—The opinion of the attorney-general will be sought to determine the legality of last year's election, which resulted in the adoption of the commission form of government for the county. This was decided Tuesday at a meeting of the freeholders.

Should the attorney-general reply indicate he believes the election of five commissioners this fall would be legal, the freeholders will take no further action. If, on the other hand, he thinks the question a debatable one, counsel will be retained and the freeholders will fight against being legislated out of office.

The law under which last year's election was held provided for seven commissioners, but its title was declared defective. In amending it the last Legislature reduced the number of commissioners to five. Meanwhile the Court of Errors and Appeals has declared the old law constitutional. The question raised is whether a commission of five members can be elected after the people voted for one of seven members?

TYLER GIBBS WILL REWED MISS BENNETT WHEN FREE

Metuchen, July 18.—Preparations for the remarriage of Delaphine C. Bennett and Tyler M. Gibbs, who was recently arrested for bigamy, are being made, according to the statement of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bennett, parents of the young woman, yesterday. The ceremony will be performed, they said, upon the granting of the final decree of divorce to Mrs. Edith Sammis Gibbs of White Plains. Mrs. Gibbs No. 1 received the interlocutory decree from Justice Moreschauser at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last Saturday.

According to Mrs. Bennett, this course has been decided upon as the best manner in which to "clear up an unpleasant affair, once and for all." Until the ceremony is performed, she said, her daughter will see very little of Gibbs until the latter is legally separated from his first wife.

Mrs. Bennett branded as false certain stories that have been published with relation to the movements of her daughter and herself. She denied positively that they had gone to Newark on Saturday to meet Gibbs or that her daughter was now in his company.

"It is true," she said, "that we went to Newark and met a gentleman at the station there, but he was an old family friend, who had offered his summer home as a place of seclusion for my daughter. My husband was aware of our intention to leave town, and, in fact, he helped us with our traps and escorted us to the station."

This statement was corroborated by Mr. Bennett. The latter denied emphatically that he had discovered the absence of Mrs. Bennett on his return home Saturday. With equal positiveness he denied that she had left any note telling of her determination to be absent for several days.

Admitting that while she and Mr. Bennett had felt prejudiced against Gibbs, following his indictment for bigamy by the Middlesex County Grand Jury, after marrying her daughter, Mrs. Bennett declared that this feeling had since changed. "We realize," she concluded, "that he believed the divorce he received from his first wife in Texas was legal at the time he married our daughter."

APPOINT THIRTEEN NEW FIREMEN IN ELIZABETH

Elizabeth, July 18.—Thirteen men were added to the city's fire fighting force by the Board of Fire Commissioners Tuesday night and two captaincies were created. The new captains are John Grouss and Bartholomew Kirk.

The fire commissioners passed a resolution subject, however, to the approval of the aldermen, increasing the salary of Chief Gerstung from $1,800 to $2,200 a year, and the salary of Assistant Fire Chief William J. Mahoney from $1,475 to $1,800. If the aldermen concur the increases will go into effect September 1.

J. S. Slocum, who has been temporary superintendent of fire alarms since February, was Tuesday night elected permanently and his salary fixed at $1,200. He will take full charge of the system August 1.

August G. Brown was elected assistant superintendent at a compensation of $960 a year. William H. Riley was appointed engineer of the new automobile engine. His yearly salary was fixed at $1,050.

The commissioners intend to put two additional engines and one fire truck into service and it was for this reason the force was increased. Two new engine houses are being erected, one of which will be fire headquarters.

When these buildings are completed there will be more changes in the department.

SAYS RAILROADS NEED MILLIONS

"Nation Would Feel Increases to Locomotive Engineers."

B. A. WORTHINGTON HEARD

Enormous Sums Required For Terminal Facilities, He Declares, and to Grant Demands at This Time Would Endanger Securities and Credit of the Roads.

New York, July 18.—B. A. Worthington, president of the Chicago and Alton Railroad company, told the arbitration board that is listening to the demands of the locomotive engineers for more pay that millions are needed by the railroads of the country for terminal improvements to provide adequately for shipping facilities and that if these are not made in the immediate future the entire nation is destined to suffer the consequences in another high cost of living advance.

The controversy which the board of seven arbitrators has undertaken to adjudicate sprang from the demands of the 29,000 engineers on the fifty-two railroads east of Chicago and north of the Norfolk and Western early this year.

The engineers threatened to strike unless their wages were increased and the working conditions improved. The matter was referred to the board of arbitration when differences reached a crisis, and the board began its arduous task here on Monday.

Need Millions For Roads.

Mr. Worthington, who has been selected to present the case of the railroads, continued his detailed answer to the claims advanced in behalf of the engineers by Grand Chief Warren S Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Mr. Worthington described the figures representing the total amount of money necessary to make the general improvements that railroads have been ordered to make as "astounding."

"And yet," he proceeded, "the railroads of America are in such a physical state that any unprecedented rush of business will swamp them. The reason is that our terminal facilities are at fault. Millions upon millions are needed to adequately take care of the shipping. The railroads need money. Operating expenses and taxes have increased. If they grant the demands of their engineers their securities and credit are liable to be jeopardized. If the terminal improvements cannot be made shipping is going to suffer and that means that the whole nation is going to suffer. That is the meat of the whole controversy."

Differential Wages Fair.

The differentiation in wages among engineers, Mr. Worthington thought, is fair. He asserted that if an engineer handles an engine which can haul twice as much freight as a lighter one, he shares in the additional profits accruing to the railroads.

In this connection Mr. Worthington touched upon the electrification of many roads, for which service an engineer is able to qualify for duty in five days. He said that while the initial cost of installing electricity is very great the principal obstacle to its application is found in the switching problem. But, the railroad president explained, it is now a question of only a short time until the suburban divisions of all lines will be operated exclusively by electricity.

HILLES OPENS TAFT FIGHT IN NEW YORK

He Confers With Barnes and Old Guard Leaders.

New York, July 18.—Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee, formally opened the Taft national campaign in New York. After numerous conferences at the Hotel Manhattan, beginning with William Barnes, Jr., and continuing down the line until most of the old guard stalwarts had paid their respects, the young manager of the president's cause authorized the opening of offices today and stated that permanent officers and committees of the national committee will be chosen Friday.

In an extended interview Mr. Hilles stated that the suggestion of Congressman Rees of Kansas looking to the withdrawal of President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt from the race had not gone very far.

"In fact," said Mr. Hilles humorously, "the colonel halted any serious consideration of the matter by stating there was a conspiracy on foot to retire him from public life."

Slays Wife and Tries Suicide.

Chicago, July 18.—Charles Eyse shot and killed his wife, Mary Eyse, at their home and then shot and seriously wounded himself. Jealousy is said to have caused the tragedy.

Morgan Sails For Home.

Southampton, July 18.—J. Pierpont Morgan sailed on board the Olympic for New York.

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You wouldn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. If you can't find the necessary time to devote to advertising your business properly phone us. We have an expert who will put up your "Copy" that will bring sure results.

SEEKING ROSE IN GAMBLER MURDER

Police Lieutenant Becker's Friend Hired Auto.

LIBBY AND SHAPIRO TALK

Graphically Relate How Car Was Hired and of Wild Ride In New York's Uptown Streets—Declare They Were Not Pursued by Police In Taxi.

New York, July 18.—That policemen instigated the assassination of Herman Rosenthal and that they are willing to help the district attorney to prove it was the declaration made by Louis Libby and William Shapiro, owners of the automobile that carried the murderers. Libby and Shapiro are now under arrest for the murder. They told their stories to Aaron J. Levy, their counsel.

While Commissioner Dougherty's detectives were searching the city for big Jack Rose of the Sam Paul association and a friend of Becker of the strong arm squad, and for a little gambler named Itzke, both of whom are wanted in connection with the killing, Libby and Shapiro were telling Lawyer Levy the story of how the raid on the Metropole was arranged and what took place after Rosenthal was shot to death.

The prisoners talked with apparent candor. They said to Levy that they will have no more dealings with the detectives and that they will tell what they know only to the district attorney.

Jack Rose Engages Car.

As Libby, spokesman for the pair, tells the story, he was waiting at the Cafe Boulevard last Monday afternoon for somebody to come along and rent the car that he and Shapiro had bought. Late in the afternoon Whitey, the starter at the Boulevard, got a phone call from Jack Rose. Rose wanted the automobile for that night and left orders to have it run up to Fourteenth street and be in waiting in front of Tom Sharkey's saloon.

Shapiro got to Sharkey's with the car about 11:30 and found Rose and two men waiting. One of these Shapiro knew only as Itzke. The other was a stranger. Itzke and the stranger piled in the auto and told Shapiro to drive uptown. The trip took them far up in the Bronx before Shapiro got the order to turn about and head for the Tenderloin.

Shapiro said he whisked the car from Sixth avenue into Forty-third street and halted it by the curb just a little east of the Colnan theater.

Here the Libby-Shapiro tale of adventure came to a standstill. Mr. Levy explained that neither Libby nor Shapiro will admit that they had anything to do with the killing and that they don't want to talk about the scene in West Forty-third street until they go before the district attorney. The owners of the gray car then took up their story again at the point where their patrons had leaped back into the car and were hustling for safety.

Shapiro shows a broken head as evidence that one of Rosenthal's murderers had pounded him with the butt of a revolver in an effort to make him drive faster.

Didn't See Policemen.

"I started the car while the men were climbing into it," said Shapiro. "Several of them were still on the running board when I turned loose and made my machine jump toward Sixth avenue. I was scared clear through. I didn't see any policemen. If there were any in our path they kept themselves well out of sight. I never saw a taxicab full of policemen after us.

"A yell from the man standing up in the car ordered me to turn from Forty-third street northward into Fifth avenue. We went like lightning up Fifth avenue, turned at Forty-sixth street into Madison avenue, kept up Madison to Forty-ninth and then shot over to Third avenue. There I was ordered to stop. My passengers, four men, climbed out, and I was told to beat it. I drove home to 35 Stuyvesant street as fast as possible and woke up Libby. I told him what had been going on and that there had been shooting and trouble."

The admission of Libby and Shapiro that Jack Rose hired the car for Monday night and was one of the passengers brought an acknowledgment by Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty that he was searching the town for Rose in connection with Rosenthal's murder.

SHOCKED TO DEATH.

Unusual Accident While Fire Is Fought in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 18.—Captain Edward Barnett, forty years old, head of the Central fire station, was killed; George Profatt, chief of the city electric bureau, was knocked unconscious, and a score of firemen were badly shocked here when a lantern in Barnett's hand completed a circuit and sent 5,700 volts from an arc light through his own body and into the metal trimmings of a wall 120 feet from the ground. The accident occurred during a fire in the city hall.

The fire fighters who had been following their leader up the steps into the narrow towers were hurled from their feet, escaping death only because the shock knocked them from the steps to a landing below.

The fire did little damage.

—"I feel like a fish out of water," remarked the old machelor when he realized that a summer girl had landed him.

THE FORUM.

COLORED CHURCH DISPUTE.

Editors Plainfield Daily Press:—

We, the officers and members of the Calvary Baptist church beg this opportunity to speak in defense of our pastor who has labored with us since 1906. We feel we would be doing ourselves an injustice to remain silent while so much is being said to lessen his influence in the city while he is absent. We are sure we speak the sentiments of the good thinking people of Plainfield when we say he is an orthodox gospel preacher. We have three deacons out of six and five trustees out of eight and nearly two hundred members corroborate this statement, beside the ministers of the city and the State that know him. To call or dismiss a pastor in a Baptist church due notice should be given of the same to all the members. A small minority got together on Monday evening, July 8, and declared the pulpit vacant.

We hold that no fifty or seventy-five people can do the work of 150 or 200. While the date was legal the procedure was illegal which makes the entire proceedings wrong. In our last regular meeting in April 167 voted for and 67 against the pastor. We are satisfied with the man that not only teaches us how to live but to be a doer of the Word. We find that in Rev. G. W. Bailey. Instead of preaching so much of the long white robe and golden street he teaches us to prepare for them down here. He teaches sobriety chastity and virtue. The time has come when men cannot endure sound doctrine. We have never had a more hospitable man. Our white friends seem to have thorough confidence in him. They always rallied to our support through him in our special rallies. There have been no rumors of the church being sold or changing the building loans.

COMPANY K BOYS DOING GUARD DUTY

Second Regiment Makes Infantry Attack, U. S. Cavalry Being the Defending Force.

DRILLED THIS MORNING

Quarters Inspected by United States Officers—Cooler Weather Cheers the Boys—Camden's Soldiers Are On the Sick List.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

U. S. Camp of Instruction, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 19.—Radical changes in the weather conditions brought the men of Company K, of Plainfield, and the other citizen-soldiery out of their quarters this morning feeling better prepared for a strenuous day's work than at any time since they arrived here on Monday afternoon. The dropping of the temperature made the night one during which lost sleep could be made up, and the soldier boys took full advantage of the opportunity.

This morning the regiment stuck to camp until 10 o'clock, when their quarters were inspected by the Regimental and United States army officers, and every thing was found to be in splendid shape. After that they were given extended order drills with shelter tents, the instructions being provided by regular army officers.

Nothing has pleased the men of Company K more than the great success which has thus far attended their tour of duty on guard, which began last night at 5 o'clock and lasts until tonight at the same time. The guard was mounted under the supervision of the regular army officers, and at the conclusion it was declared by all that it was the best guard mount thus far since the encampment opened, the Plainfield boys being highly complimented on the showing they had made. Captain Peterson is the officer of the day, and Lieutenant A. R. Phillips the officer of the guard, and they will be looked to, until they go off duty tonight, to see that order is maintained in the entire Second Regiment encampment. Sergeants DeCamp, Manning and Conklin are the sergeants of the guard; Private Hartpence is detailed to the regimental headquarters as orderly, and Private Niles is detailed to General Collins-tent, as brigade orderly.

This afternoon a manoeuvre is being worked out, with the foot commands, including the Second regiment, making an infantry attack, the defending force being made up of the Fifteenth United States Cavalry, with the exception of two troops, who are defending Colebrook road. The manoeuvre will continue until late this afternoon.

Fifteen men in Company F, Third regiment, with headquarters in Camden, were poisoned last night, because of eating improperly cooked food, and the entire company is on the sick list. Some of the men are seriously ill, but all are expected to recover.

Mt. Gretna, July 19.—From daybreak to the rising bell the roar of the regular artillery is heard for the first time. The Second Regiment of New Jersey comprising 800 men, has taken its position five miles south of the camp with the Third Artillery, Fifteenth Cavalry and Twenty-ninth Infantry. The Third Regiment is fighting detachments from the same regular organization near Cornwall.

The Maryland troops are fighting each other, all of which is preliminary to the big manoeuvre on Monday and Tuesday. All will get into action Monday at daybreak. Both armies have pitched shelter tents preparatory to Tuesday's fighting.

There was a scare in the Third New Jersey camp, last night, when sixteen men from Camden were taken violently ill with what was at first supposed to be ptomaine poisoning. They were rushed to the regulars' field hospital, where it developed that the illness was acute indigestion. Six men were still pretty sick late last night, but today all are out of danger. Another Third Regiment man broke his collar bone.

A girl baby was born this morning at the field hospital of the Third Regiment. The mother was hurried from the parade grounds to the hospital last night. Formal action was taken and the baby officially adopted as the daughter of the regiment. The troops are awaiting the arrival tomorrow afternoon of Governor Goldsborough, of Maryland. No word has been received as to Governor Wilson's plans. Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, is in California, and will not be able to return in time to review the troops.

When the men returned drenched to the camp yesterday, it developed that a majority following the brigade order had only khaki uniforms and they had to remain in their tents in underclothing. The rain continued violently yesterday afternoon when the New Jersey troops were ordered

IN J. B. DUKE'S CAR THEY SEE LONDON

Tobacco King Places His Motor at Disposal of the Daily Press Tourists.

VISITED FAMOUS SITES

The Six Young Women Traveling Abroad As Guests of This Paper "Fall In Love" With England—Paris the Next Capitol.

The six young women spending the summer abroad as the guests of the Plainfield Dail Press are having a jolly time according to letters received here by relatives and friends. The party, composed of Miss Helen Howard, as chaperone, and the Misses Mabel Vail, Ethel Hudson, Agnes McWilliams, Agnes Leighs and Mrs. Ida Smith-Brokaw, went direct to London from Liverpool when the "Merion" docked at the latter city on the morning of July 5. How they enjoyed their visit to the capitol of the British Empire is interestingly told in the following letter from Miss Hudson:

"We took the 11:25 train for London. The railroads look like miniatures and are the most comfortable things I ever rode in. At Cheadle Heath we changed to a dining-car and had a splendid lunch. We finished the trip in the diner. The country we passed through was beyond description. I never saw such beautifully kept farms and the roads are white and wonderful. The houses are all of brick or stone and look like spotless town. They are immaculate. But the most beautiful things were the fields of poppies, all shades from pale rose to deep red. I never saw anything so gorgeous.

"We arrived in London at 3:45 and it, too, is fine. But I can't seem to get accustomed to everything driving to the left. There seems to be more traffic than in the streets of New York. The hotel is very nice. Some women are still wearing furs, but all of them are wearing shoes 10½ and 11. I never saw such big feet.

"Sunday, July 7, 1912, I had to drop my letter to go sight-seeing. Now I will tell you some of the things I have seen in this beautiful city of London.

Friday we visited the banqueting hall of the King, the London Art Gallery, London Bridge, Tower Bridge and the wonderful old Tower of London in which are the Crown jewels. I saw those two diamonds which put together would be almost the size of your fist.

"We think our collection of pictures in New York is fine but there are only a few of them that can begin to compare with the hundreds they have here. And flowers- Why, we don't know what flowers are! Heliotropes up to my chin and bunches of blooms as big as my hand. We cannot grow them in hot houses as they grow naturally here. All the houses have iron balconies and office buildings too and flowers are growing on them all. Every one wears flowers and one can buy a bunch of half a dozen roses for a penny, that is two cents in our money.

"Just by chance we attended the funeral of the great artist, Alma Tadema, in St. Paul's Cathedral and it was a most impressive sight. The weather is perfect. We haven't seen a drop of rain since we left home and the sun is actually shining in London for us. After lunch we went through Kensington palace, the home of Queen Victoria. We saw her dolls and play things and a great many of the clothes she really wore. Such materials, woven especially for her. We saw the Albert Memorial and Hyde Park inside the gates of which is a dog's cemetery. We wound up the day at the British Museum. Here we saw the real coronation robes. Oh, they were beautiful.

"Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Duke, of Raritan, are staying in London. Miss Agnes McWilliams called on them Friday night and Mr. Duke lent us his newest car and a chauffeur for all day Saturday. The chauffeur is a young English fellow by the name of Crocker. He showed up at nine o'clock Saturday morning with the beautiful new Rolls, Boice car. It holds seven easily and would carry another. Mr. Crocker took up to the House of Parliament, Westminister Abby, Westminister Cathedral, and all over town. In the afternoon we went to Hampton Court, the home of William III., and other British Monarchs and Windsor Castle. These places are way out in the country and the drive would be too great to take in a bus, but we flew over the ground and passed everything on the way. Windsor Castle is the one used to entertain visiting Emperors and Kings. The last one who occupied it was King Manuel. The dining table is 180 feet long. In the evening Mr. Crocker

DEMENTED MAN PICKED UP HERE BY POLICE

Martin Brennan, a demented man living in Perth Amboy, was picked up by the police of this city yesterday morning. His relatives were notified and his son came here last evening to take him back home. While waiting for a main line trolley car at the corner of Watchung avenue and East Fifth street the father got away and ran wild through the East End of town, until finally captured hiding behind a hedge at the corner of Franklin place and East Sixth street.

Brennan is sixty-two years of age and is a retired Government employe. He was a gatetender at a railroad in Perth Amboy for a number of years and the lonely life he led at this place is said to have something to do with his deranged condition. He was recognized by several old railroad men who dropped into the local police headquarters yesterday afternoon and talked freely with them.

DAVID J. GARTH DEAD; IN HIS NINETIETH YEAR

David J. Garth, aged eighty-nine years, for many years a resident of New York city and Scarsdale, N. Y., died yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, George R. Cornwell, on Gresham road. Death was due to paralysis of the heart. He had been living for the past six years in California, and was visiting his brother-in-law, when he was taken ill and died. He had been here but a few weeks.

Mr. Garth was a native of Virginia and during his early life was engaged in the wholesale tobacco business in the south and New York. He finally sold out to the Lorillard Tobacco Company and since then had lived in retirement, spending considerable time in travel. For more than forty years he was a member of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, of which the late Rev. Dr. John Hall was the pastor. He was also an active member of the Red Cross Society and deeply interested in that work. He is survived by a wife, several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. The announcement of the funeral will be made later.

JARED FLAGG AND AIDS, IN COURT, PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Jared Flagg, who was reindicted on Wednesday by the Federal Grand Jury in New York on the charge of using the United States mails to defraud investors in a stock scheme which he promised would net them 53 per cent. a year, appeared before Judge Hand in the United States District Court in New York yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

With Flagg were five of the eight codefendents in the case. They were Daniel Nash Morgan, once treasurer of the United States; Alvin M. Higgins, a lawyer at 200 Broadway; the Rev. James T. Schock, formerly of this city; Henry A. Jackson, and Elbridge C. Sewall, cashier for Flagg.

Three other defendants named in the indictment are said to be on their way from the West. They are Rufus P. Wolfe and James Allen, of Chicago. They were Flagg's agents.

It was said at the office of United States District Attorney Wiss that the men will be tried in October. Until then they will be out on $5,000 bail each, furnished yesterday.

DR. MOLEDEZKY HERE.

Dr. Meyer D. Moledezky has returned fro Chicago having completed the combined course of bachelor of science and doctor of medicine at Loyola University. He was honored during his school career by the election to the presidency of the A. Y. H. fraternity; also the presidency of a student surgical society. He was senior editor-in-chief and business manager of the Loyola Medicus and was also honored by the appointment as anatomy quiz master at the college. Dr. Moledezky spent the past year at St. Mary's Hospital, Chicago and in a maternity hospital in New York city. The doctor has noe yet decided on his future plans.

HORSE RUNS AWAY.

While Mrs. Alexander Adams, of 135 Netherwood avenue, was visiting Miss Carrie Coombs, of Linden avenue, this afternoon, her horse, which was tied to a post in front of the house, became frightened, broke the halter and ran away. The animal dashed through Linden avenue to Somerset street, almost knocking down Charles Lyman, Jr., who stood on the corner. Continuing its chase the horse collided with a pole in front of Applegate's market, where it broke away from the wagon. It was caught by George Kline at Watchung and Jackson avenues.

I. N. SCUDDER DIES IN 90TH YEAR

Had Voted for Seventeen Democratic Nominees for President.

HE LEFT BIG FORTUNE

Retired Farmer Said to Have Possessed Half-Million Dollars—Funeral Services to Be Held on Sunday Afternoon.

Westfield, July 19.—Isaac N. Scudder, one of the oldest residents of this place, died last night at his home in the ninetieth year of his age. He had been ill for four days. Death was due to complications. Mr. Scudder was one of the old-time Democrats, it being his proud boast that he had voted for seventeen Presidential nominees. He cast his first vote for James K. Polk in 1844, and he was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention which nominated President Buchanan. He had also attended a number of State Democratic conventions as a delegate.

When Woodrow Wilson was elected Governor Mr. Scudder was the first man to send the Chief Executive a telegram of congratulation and he had hoped to live to vote for him for President. Throughout his life it was also his claim that he had never scratched his ticket at an election, always voting the straight Democratic ticket.

Mr. Scudder was born in Fanwood township but had lived in Westfield practically all of his life. He was a farmer and a very successful one. It is estimated that he was worth nearly a half million dollars. Many years ago he was tax collector of Westfield and also a member of the township committee in the early days. He is survived by one son, Isaac Scudder, Jr., of Westfield; a grandson and granddaughter living at Reno, Nevada.

The funeral service will be held at the home of the son on East Broad street, Westfield, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be in the family plot in Fairview cemetery.

DANIEL CROWLEY DIES A VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

Daniel Crowley, aged 57 years, a resident of Plainfield for many years, died in Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elizabeth, yesterday, following a ten days' illness with pneumonia. Mr. Crowley, who was well-known here, came to Plainfield more than twenty years ago at the time the Pond Machine Tool Works located in the city. He was employed by the company for a number of years as a moulder.

After leaving the company he conducted a cafe on East Front street, where Ellsworth C. Westcott is now engaged in business. He was succeeded by Henry Haurand. He had been living in Elizabeth for some time. Surviving are two brothers, Michael and John Crowley, of this city, and two sisters living in Boston.

The funeral service will be held at St. Mary's R. C. church, at 8 30 o'clock tomorrow morning, where a requiem mass will be said. The burial will be at Nashua, N. H.

GRACE M. E. FESTIVAL.

The official board of Grace M. E. church will hold a lawn festival and entertainment tonight on the church lawn at Somerset street and Park place. Two tents have been erected, one for the refreshments, the other for the orchestra, which will be under the leadership of E. D. Young. H. K. Carroll is chairman of the committee in charge. Other members of the committee are Mrs. George Nelson, ice cream and peaches; Mrs. Conroy, fruit punch; Mr Heath, tents; Mrs. Darby, cake, and Miss Lippincott, flowers.

Mrs. Frank Wagner, of West Second street, left this morning for Atlantic City. She will return home next week.

SAYS TEACHER MUST NOT BE A HIRELING

Former Plainfield High School Instructor Says Standard of Teachers Must Be Raised.

Dr. A. B. Meredith, assistant Commissioner of Education for New Jersey, and formerly a member of the Plainfield High School faculty, spoke to the teachers of the New Jersey summer school at Cape May yesterday afternoon.

"The teacher must not be a hireling," he said, among other things, "but we must be professional workers, and in order to force the hireling idea into the background we must ourselves raise the standard of the profession. It is only the running stream that keeps clearest, and those teachers who hope to be successful must be constantly increasing their efficiency. As teachers we should stand for all that is broad and professional, giving willing praise to our fellows in true professional spirit whenever it is due.

"I hold that teaching efficiency cannot best be brought about by methods and systems dictated by principal or superintendent, but rather through the initiative of each individual teacher herself," he continued. "We cannot compare the profession of teaching to modern principles of scientific management in business, for we have no bulk work to unload in teaching as there do in unloading pig iron, for instance. Each child is an individual problem, and the original method of the teacher, as a rule, will solve it best."

The summer school has the largest enrollment in its history this year. T. D. Sensor, dean of the school, has been ill during the last week and unable to attend to his duties, but is expected to be present at the first session next week.

HEART TROUBLE FATAL TO MRS. MARY L. ANDERSON

Mrs. Mary Long Anderson, widow of William Gibson Anderson, expired at 5 o'clock this morning at her late home, 334 Franklin place, after an illness of five days. Her death was caused by heart trouble. She was eighty-seven years old and had been a resident of Plainfield over twenty-eight years, having removed here from Madison in 1884. She was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church but recently has been unable to take an active part in church affairs. Surviving her are two grandchildren, Miss Marian Mortimer and Francis Mortimer.

The funeral services will be held at her late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, will officiate. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

READY TO LAY SEWER PIPE AT WEST END AVE. BRIDGE

The sewer pipe which is to be laid under Stony brook, where the new West End avenue bridge is now being built, has arrived and a contractor has been engaged to do the work. The idea in laying the pipe now is that at some future time when the borough sanitary sewer is built it will be necessary to have a line running underneath the brook, and it was decided that the work could be done more easily just at present and at less expense.

The pipe will be laid in concrete in an addition to the bridge so that it will be entirely invisible from any point. According to an agreement made with the Somerset County Board of Freeholders the North Plainfield Council assumes all risk and will take care of the pipe line. The cost of the pipe and construction will be about $1,000.

COMMITTEE AGREE ON DARLING SITE

Joint Sewer Planners, However, Are Still Debating On Question of the Pipe Line.

TWO ROUTES PROPOSED

One a Gravity Line With 3,000 Foot Siphon and the Other a Direct Line Requiring Pumping—Other Matters Considered.

The joint trunk sewer committee met in the committee room of the Plainfield Common Council last night and made substantial progress. The location of disposal works at the Darling farm in Piscataway township was confirmed, it being shown that the cost of extra excavation for works for present needs at the Cramer site, after deducting cost of short siphon across Green brook, would considerably exceed that of the Darling farm, while for a future extension at the Cramer site, an additional outlay of about $35,000 for extra excavation would be entailed.

An exhaustive discussion of the most advantageous route for the trunk sewer was had. The question was as between a line through Dunellen direct to the Darling farm and another through North Plainfield township. The former would be much cheaper to build, but would require pumping; the latter, through a gravity line, requiring no pumping, has the objection of a 3,000 foot siphon at Rock avenue, dipping under Green brook.

George W. Fuller's partner, James C. Harding, assured the committee that there would be no decomposition of the sewage in the siphon, nor any deposit of solids to putrify, as the siphon would be divided into two twenty-inch pipes, with necessary gates, so that the full flow of sewage could be diverted to either pipe for flushing purposes.

In relation to the extra first cost of the no-pumping line, letters were read from financiers showing that an annual payment of $7,000 or $8,000 would discharge the entire cost of the trunk sewer in about twenty-six years, while in case the sewage is pumped the payment for pumping would continue and increase year by year. The writers expressed themselves as decidedly in favor of the gravity plan as a business proposition.

The question of what part of the connecting lines should be considered as belonging to the trunk sewer was then taken up, though some of the members understood that this had been previously agreed upon. It was finally decided to leave the interpretation of this understanding to Councilman F. E. Mygatt and A. A. Tilney, they to also report whether present circumstances call for any modification of the former agreement, with which they are familiar. It was then voted to direct the engineer, George W. Fuller, to prepare for the gravity or no-pumping line.

Those present at the conference were: Councilman R. I. Tolles, F. L. Holt, Duncan W. Taylor and Street Commissioner Gavett, of Plainfield; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Councilman W. J. Buttfield and E. S. Boyer and J. O. Osgood, of North Plainfield; Mayor Richards and A. J. Hamley and A. S. Todd and Engineer I. T. Churchill, of Dunellen; Mayor Hoard and Messrs. Hall and Talmadge, of Fanwood.

The North Plainfield Council will hold a regular meeting on Friday night, August 2, while the Dunellen Council will have a session in the meantime. The Plainfield Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday night, but there will probably be no sewer discussion at that time. The next regular meeting will be on Monday night, August 5, so that if anything comes up in the meantime necessary action can be taken by any of the three municipalities.

PASTOR'S AT HOME.

The last of a series of "At Home" given by Rev. and Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey for the members of Warren chapel, was attended by over sixty members in the church parlors, last night. During a social evening refreshments were served by the Missionary and Aid Society of the church. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. John Higgins, chairman; Mrs. J. Johnson, Mrs. William Newmiller, Mrs. Randall, Miss Tyler, Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Gibson Smith.

ROGER WHITFORD BETTER.

There was a change for the better today in the condition of Roger Whitford, the young son of Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Whitford, who has been critically ill at the hospital with peritonitis, and the physician in charge now believes that the lad has a chance for recovery.

FINDS THIRTY BAKERIES BELOW BOARD STANDARD

Jersey City, July 19.—In a report made by Dr. J. J. Magner to the Board of Health he shows that out of the 159 bakeries he has visited within the last two weeks to learn if the law was being obeyed, as to sanitary requirements, thirty do not conform to the standard laid down by the health board.

"The location of thirty-nine bakeries was submitted to me by the State Board of Health," the doctor continues, "and of these I have inspected thirty. Two-thirds of them have made the necessary alterations, and are within the law requirements. Of the remaining one-third some have issued contracts for work to be done, and a few have taken their cases to court to learn if their landlords can be compelled to make the necessary changes."

Dr. Magner recommended to the health board that two shops be put out of business. These are in Warren street and in Essex street.

CHARGES BIGAMY AND FRAUD.

Trenton, July 19.—Bigamy and fraud by the man she married are charged by Mrs. Maria Di Sapio in a bill filed in Chancery. She asks to have deeds to property in Long Branch set aside and a receiver appointed. Chancellor Walker has granted a rule to show cause. Following the marriage of the two, Mrs. Di Sapio discovered, it is alleged, that the husband had another wife. The court annulled the marriage. Mrs. Di Sapio had a property in her own name in Long Branch, and the husband, it is charged, represented another woman as his wife and conveyed the property to a fourth party, and, in turn, conveyed it to himself.

HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $50.

Bayonne, July 19.—Mrs. E. C. Biden, of 82 Broadway, was attacked on the street near her home Wednesday night and robbed of a mesh bag containing $50. The highwayman lay in wait for her in a vacant lot near her home. When he had wrested the bag from her grasp he ran toward Avenue C. Patrolman Cosgrove, who was summoned by Mrs. Biden's cries, fired a shot in the direction of the fleeing man, but he quickly disappeared.

SALTER OUSTED AUGUST 1.

Trenton, July 19.—The City Commission Wednesday night took the last step in the fight to oust Harry B. Salter, a machine Republican, from the city clerkship and replace him with Frank Thompson, secretary of the Mercer County Roosevelt Republican League. The commission fixed Thompson's salary at $2,000 a year, in lieu of all fees, following a court decision against Salter.

MET AT PARTY, WED ON SPOT.

Bridgeton, July 19.—Going to Lewes, Del., to visit friends, Elmer Friant, an electrician of this city, attended a social gathering and while there was introduced to a Miss Fisher. It was a case of love at first sight and the attachment was mutual. A proposal of marriage was made before the party was over and in a few hours the couple were united. Mr. Friant returned home within three days of the time of his going from Bridgeton, accompanied by his bride.

MANIFESTO OF T. R. AGAIN IS DEFERRED

To Serve as Pattern For Coming Convention Platform.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—The long awaited publication of the articles of political faith that Colonel Roosevelt has espoused for his present campaign has been again deferred. This time the word has gone out from Sagamore Hill that the manifesto will be held in reserve to be presented to the national progressive convention in a speech which the colonel will deliver on Monday, the opening night.

This address, according to his announcement, will be a long and comprehensive review of the issues for which the progressives will fight and will serve as a pattern for the platform which the convention is to draw up. His platform, he says, will be "a contract with the people," and he believes that it will work. No program will be drawn up which is not practical. He told his two Illinois visitors—Ralph C. Otis, chairman of the convention arrangement committee, and Day McBurney—that no promises will be made that cannot be carried out.

A Washington dispatch which stated that Senator Dixon was on the point of taking a back seat in the third party councils, drew from the ex-president the assertion that the statement was untrue. Senator Dixon, he said, was now laying plans for the third party organization in Georgia.

In lieu of the vigorous personal campaign in the west, which he decided to abandon, the colonel plans to dispatch long letters to the several states in which primary elections are imminent. These messages will call for a careful study of the widely different conditions prevailing in each state, and they will carry expressions of his opinion on subjects at issue.

SWARTZ'S BODY FOUND.

Slayer of Julia Connors Ends His Miserable Life.

New York, July 19.—Nathan Swartz, suspect in the death of twelve-year-old Julia Connors and then branded by his father and sister as a murderer, was found, a suicide, in a room at 219 Chrystie street, where he had lived since the day following the finding of the body, within a few blocks of police headquarters.

Door cracks and windows were stuffed with clothing and a tube hung down from a fixture into the dead man's mouth, the gas still escaping. About the walls, on the margins of the newspapers that littered the floor, even on a collar in a corner, was scrawled in disjointed sentences a confession.

ROSE IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Gives Name of Gun Man In Slayers' Auto.

DETECTIVE BURNS ENGAGED

Bold Assassination of Gambler Rosenthal Likely to Result In Sensational Revelations, and It Is Said Many Police Officials Are Quaking at Consequences.

New York, July 19.—William Shapiro, part owner of the car "Bald Jack" Rose hired for the assassins of Herman Rosenthal, said that he had been told when the car was engaged that policemen had knowledge of what his passengers were going to do and that nobody was in danger. Rose, friend of Lieutenant Becker, surrendered himself and is held on a murder charge.

"Bald Jack" told a tale to the district attorney of the busiest day he ever spent in his life—last Monday night when he worked up evidence for his friend Becker against Rosenthal and then went on the auto ride that had for its purpose the death of Rosenthal. The most important part of his revelations was the name of a gambler and gang fighter who rode in the Libby-Shapiro car with him and Itzke and Shapiro. This man's name is Schaps, and half the police department are sweeping the town for him.

Shapiro's story, offered to the district attorney as evidence that the man in his fear and hatred of the police is willing to become state's witness if the district attorney will let him, emphasized Mr. Whitman's belief that the killing of Rosenthal did not spring from the enmity of a chque of gamblers. Mr. Whitman did not question Shapiro again, but he will collect the details of Shapiro's information and estimate their value. In line with Shapiro's hints comes information from an official of the police department to the district attorney "that it looks after all as if policemen had been mixed up in the Rosenthal case."

Mayor Starts Investigation.

This factor in the situation has produced two new features. Mayor Gaynor, not satisfied with the explanation that Rosenthal was slain in a gamblers' feud, has begun an investigation to determine what policemen might have had an interest in Rosenthal's murder.

William J. Burns, who will confer with the district attorney today, will have men at work on this feature of the case immediately. The county hasn't funds to pay Burns' men, but the money has been promised by private citizens who want to see what they consider the most shocking scandal in years cleared up.

The surrender of Rose was a surprise, and no man seemed to be more surprised than Lieutenant Charles Becker, who had not been home all night and who appeared to be unwilling to explain what kept him from his bed. Rose drove up in a taxicab and surrendered to the police. When he appeared Commissioner Waldo ordered Rose taken downstairs before Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Hughes, and these officials put the gambler through a long cross examination.

Rose explained to the police that he would have turned up sooner if he had known that he was wanted, and he grinned in friendly fashion as he said it. Just about that time Lieutenant Becker popped into the inquisition room. Dougherty waved Becker out of the room. "Bald Jack" backed up Shapiro's story about his having hired the gray car, but when they pressed him about the killing of Rosenthal and other essential details "Bald Jack" became vague and cloudy. Inspector Hughes summarized the results of the talk. Hughes said:

"Rose came here because we had sent Bridgey Webber and Sam Paul with the intimation that if he were a wise man he would walk down to police headquarters. He says that he did hire the gray car owned by Libby and Shapiro and used by Rosenthal's murderers, but he denied positively that he was in the car when it went to the Metropole. He admits that he was an enemy of Rosenthal's, although once Rosenthal's close friend.

"He tells us that after visiting several places, including a saloon far uptown, he left the automobile near Jack's restaurant. He says he doesn't know what the passengers of the car did after that, because he went to see a friend."

File, Who Saw Murder, Suspended.

Following Dougherty's interview with Rose, Police Commissioner Waldo announced that William J. File, the patrolman of the East Sixty-seventh street station who was in the Metropole at the time of Rosenthal's murder, had been suspended pending charges in connection with the affair.

The commissioner was asked if Lieutenant Becker was also to be suspended, but refused to answer.

Meanwhile, the entire department has been thrown into a panic by a report that has spread to the effect that "heads" are to be lopped off wholesale as a result of the scandal that the department has been plunged into in connection with Rosenthal's murder.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

(From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 7:27, rises 4:44. Evening stars: Mars, Jupiter, Mercury, Venus. Morning star: Saturn.

Plainfield, N. J., July 19, 1912.

It is high time that some action be taken to suppress the smoke nuisance caused by the use of soft coal at local manufacturing plants and we hope that the Common Council will provide a means. During the last few days a petition has been circulated asking the city fathers to frame an ordinance, the Corporation Counsel having said that that body has the power to thus make the practise illegal, and there has been no trouble in obtaining signers to the document. As has been pointed out in these colmuns many times, not only several of the local plants but the passing locomotives contribute to the evil and almost at any time of the day one can see black clouds of smoke and soot rising from stacks and settling over the city. It is a condition not to be tolerated in a well-regulated municipality.

Yielding to the Anti-Saloon League, the Pennsylvania Railroad a few days ago issued an order discontinuing the sale of liquor on all trains of the system east of Pittsburg. Following its example, the Jersey Central, the Reading and the Lehigh Valley have put a similar order into effect but the new rule of the Jersey Central-Reading system only applies in the State of Pennsylvania and therefore by that road liquor will be sold on its trains running between New York and Philadelphia. It will only be a question of time, however, before public opinion will compel the Jersey Central-Reading system to make its order Reading system to make general its order forbidding the sale.

Rapid progress is being made at Bonnie Burn, the Union county sanatorium, back of Scotch Plains, and the buildings will be ready for ocupancy late in the fall or early in the winter. As soon as the structures are ready for occupancy patients will be received and the chances are that there will be as many applicants as can be accommodated at one time. With the able directorate of which Dr. William H. Murray, of this city, is president, and with a superintendent of the standing of Dr. J. E. Runnells, the outlook for a splendid administration of affairs at that institution is very bright.

It is with regret that the people of this city interested in up-lift work bid farewell to Captain and Mrs. Samuel Hewitt, who have been transferred from the local barracks of the Salvation Army to another field. These two zealous Christian workers made many friends while in charge here and reflected credit on the Army which they represented.

A letter from one of their number, published today, gives every indication that the six young women travelling in Europe for two months as the guests of the Plainfield Daily Press, are enjoying every minute of the time. A trip of this sort is a real education that unfortunately does not fall to the lot of the average girl.

Former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, is the latest victim of a United States Senatorial boom. There are about a dozen prominently mentioned so far and it is a long way off before the term of Senator Briggs expires. But what's the harm of it all for news is dull in mid-summer.

Plainfield is no ideal summer resort, the heat and humidity at this season of the year generally being almost unbearable, but if all days furnished the brand of weather that is being enjoyed today none would flee to the mountain or shore to escape conditions here.

Washington dispatch says that G. W. Mooney has declined an appointment as assistant secretary to the President. In doing so, he has broken all precedents for Ohio.

Don't fail to read the contributed editorial in tomorrow's issue.

PROPERTY IN DUNELLEN ASSESSED AT ONE MILLION

Dunellen valuations will undoubtedly reach the million dollar mark this year, according to the figures compiles by Assessor John H. L. Peters, who has finished his work. The land valuations aggregate $272,500, the improvements $575,200, and the personal property, $102,700, making a total of $950,400.

The total valuation will soar above the million dollar mark when the second class railroad property, which will probably amount to $70,000, is added into the sum.

GOLF SCORES.

Glenney, 46, 39—85; P. J. McKeon, 43, 47—90; L. G. Carman, 43, 47—90.

COUPLE IN COURT.

Following a quarrel last night Vincent Gregory, an Italian, residing on East Second street, appeared at police headquarters this morning to make a complaint for disorderly conduct against Miss Ethel Kiederling, aged 18 years, also of East second street. Chief Kiely learned enough to hold both Gregory and Miss Kiederling. The hearing was put over by City Judge W. G. DeMeza until tomorrow morning. The couple obtained a marriage license on June 28. The inability to fix a date for the ceremony is said to have led to the quarrel and subsequent arrest.

COURT NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Elizabeth, July 19—Next Wednesday's session of the Court of Quarter Sessions will be the last until September and but little business is scheduled for that day. There are no Plainfielde offenders to be arraigned. Judge Atwater will go on his annual vacation after next Wednesday. The court will not convene again except in case of an emergency. But two sessions of the district court will be held in August and it will then be adjourned until the middle of September.

SEWARD TALKS OF APRIL 14, 1865

Recalls Attack on His Father, Lincoln's Secretary of State.

AND ALSO OF HIS OWN ESCAPE

He Was Assistant Secretary of State During the Administrations of Lincoln and Johnson—Has Just Observed His Eighty-second Birthday.

Frederick H. Seward, assistant secretary of state during the administrations of Presidents Lincoln and Johnson and son of William H. Seward, who was secretary of state at that time, recently observed his eighty-second birthday.

Mr. Seward has lived at Montrose, N. Y., for forty-seven years. He went there to recuperate following the attempt upon his life by the man who tried to assassinate his father almost at the same minute that Wilkes Booth shot and fatally wounded Abraham Lincoln in Ford's theater, in Washington, not far from the home of Mr. Seward.

A Memorable Night.

The incidents of the memorable night of April 14, 1865, were recalled by Mr. Seward as if they had happened only recently.

"It was about 10 o'clock when the doorbell at my father's house rang," he said, "and one of our negro servants, after an altercation, admitted a man who explained that he had come with a prescription from Dr. Verdi, our family physician, for my father, who was then ill with a high fever, induced by injuries he sustained in a carriage accident.

"I met the man at the top of the stairs and told him to hand over the prescription to me, positively refusing to let any one disturb my father. Impressed by my determination to prevent his access to my father's chamber, the stranger turned as if to depart and after descending two or three steps suddenly whirled around and, drawing a long revolver, rushed at me. He snapped the pistol close to my temple and when it missed fire exclaimed, 'That navy revolver!'

Thought Him Done For.

"Before I could seize him he grasped the revolver in the middle and dealt me a blow on the head that stunned me and sent me staggering against the wall. In the fierce scuffle that followed he kept pounding me over the head and finally wrenched himself from my grasp. He then darted into the room where my father was lying—fortunately on the far side of the bed on account of his injured arm, which he allowed to hang over the side—and there attacked him with a long bowie knife. Before he could be restrained by my sister and an invalid nurse, who were in the room at the time, he succeeded in inflicting a dangerous gash in my father's throat, almost reaching the jugular vein, and making several slashes at his face. Thinking that he had accomplished his purpose, he dashed out of the room, down the stairs, mounted his horse, which had remained standing in the street, and galloped away.

"This man was later arrested, and, of course, you know that his name was Henry Paine-Powell, an accomplice of Wilkes Booth, who had conspired to assassinate the secretary of state and the president of the United States.

"Well, the injuries I received that night left me in an unconscious condition for nine days. It was six months before I was able to resume my duties, and after I had finished my term as assistant secretary of state under President Johnson I decided to seek a quiet life to recuperate. For the benefit of my family I decided to take out a life insurance policy, but I could not get one, because the doctors said I couldn't live but a few years. I came to Montrose, and, to my surprise, I found that I was still living beyond my allotted time."

CONSTELLATION ROTTING.

Navy Department Urged to Save Hulk of Gallant Ship.

The frigate Constellation, Truxton's gallant old ship, which cleared the Atlantic of French privateers and struck the colors of many a hostile craft in the war of 1812, lies off Newport with bottom a-rot. Many patriotic societies are pressing the navy department to see to it that she is preserved.

While there is a strong sentiment in the navy for the preservation of the famous old ship which first won respect for the flag on the high seas, congress has been reluctant to appropriate for it.

The famous Constitution—"Old Ironsides" to a loving nation—was saved from an ignominious end only after the genius of Oliver Wendell Holmes had immortalized her name in verse.

Unless a patriotic public sentiment demands her preservation the once magnificent old Constellation will become a rotting wreck of old timbers and moss.

IRVING'S STAGE EFFECTS.

Silence, Light and Just One Other Essential Produced Them.

Wendell Phillips Dodge relates in the London Strand Magazine an incident growing out of the first meeting of Robert Mantell with Sir Henry Irving back in 1882, when both were playing Romeo in London. There were reviewers who found Irving too old for the youthful Romeo, and one advised that he should make way for "the young fellow over at the Olympic."

Irving prepared a special afternoon performance in the Lyceum, to which all the players in London were invited. After it was over Mantell went back of the stage, and Irving asked him how he liked the performance. "It has been like an afternoon at school with congenial lessons," replied Mantell. "How do you do it? How do you manage effects? How do you get such atmosphere, such a realization of the glory of the tragedy, with such little effort? Is there no recipe?"

"There is—indeed, there is," answered Irving; "simple, too—only three things to remember. The first is silence and plenty of it behind the scenes, so that the actor may be at ease, with nothing to distract when striving for his shadings. The second is light, regulated as far as possible so that nature is counterfeited, and that, young man, is the recipe."

"But," protested Mantell, "you said there were three things to remember. You have mentioned but two. Is there a third?"

"Did I say a third?" asked Irving. "Um—perhaps I did, perhaps I did, but what could I have had in mind? Let me see. Ah, yes, silence, light and—um, shall I say—actors? Remember that, my boy, actors. Silence, light and—actors, that is the third."

Named For His Satanic Majesty.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that hardly a county in the British isles is without some place or thing with the designation Devil, all of which prompts the thought that his Satanic majesty must be a holder of a considerable amount of property on this terrestrial globe. The Devil's Punch Bowl, the Devil's Bellows, the Devil's Kitchen, the Devil's Beef Tub, the Devil's Frying Pan, the Devil's Lake, the Devil's Dike, the Devil's Caldron, are a few instances which occur at random, scattered about in various parts of the country.—Dundee Advertiser.

Paint that Stays Painted
That has been my slogan for years I aim to do the best possible painting—using only the best materials that the manufacturers can furnish and employing the most skilled mechanics that can be procured. I stand back of every job I do, and when I am allowed to use my own judgment in regard to the best method of doing it, I will gladly make good any work that by any chance proves defective

The Scrap Book

Had to Rock.

Rocking himself slowly from side to side, an old man sat in a Glasgow railway carriage. His queer movements attracted the attention of the other passengers. Presently a solemn looking man, dressed as a clergyman, came up to him and remarked sympathetically:

"My venerable friend, you appear to be suffering. May I ask if it is bodily pain?"

The venerable friend made no reply, but continued his eccentric movements.

"Perhaps," the clergyman went on solemnly, "perhaps it is spiritual pain? Mayhap the searing finger of conscience has set its mark on you and"—

"Oh, shut up!" interrupted the old man angrily. "I wish folk wad mind their ain business. Ye see," he continued, turning to the other occupants of the carriage, "I bocht a silver watch frae Jock McNab last week for 10 shillin's, an' aye when I stop movin' this way the watch stops too."

The minister had no more to say during the journey.

Unspoken Words.

The kindly words that rise within the heart
And thrill it with their sympathetic tone,
But die ere spoken, fail to play their part
And claim a merit that is not their own.
The kindly word unspoken is a sin—
A sin that wraps itself in purest guise
And tells the heart that, doubting, looks within
That not in speech, but thought, the virtue lies.

But 'tis not so. Another heart may thirst
For that king word, as Hagar in the wild.
Poor, banished Hagar prayed a well might burst
From out the sand to save her parching child.
And loving eyes that cannot see the mind
Will watch the expected movement of the lip.
Ah, can ye let its cutting silence wind
Around that heart and scathe it like a whip?

—John Boyle O'Reilly.

He Caught a Tartar.

This one was told about an east end dancing class, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. There was a young woman who thought a good deal about ancestry and descent, and there was a young man who thought that all such stuff was snobbish. The two sat out a dance together, and the girl mounted her hobby almost at once.

"What was your father?" interrupted the young man.

"Father was a gentleman."

"Ha! But what did he do for a living?"

The young man thought that smart, but the girl came right back.

"What was your father?" she asked.

"My father raised hogs."

"I see he did. But what did he do for a living?"

An Unlucky Draw.

Don Simplicio to dispel the clouds of melancholy that cast a gloom over his spirits had taken to theater going. "Ernani" was produced, and everybody spoke highly of the performance, our hero among the rest.

"But there is one fault about it," he said on coming out of the house one evening.

"What is it?"

"I'll tell you. In the third act, where the conspiracy takes place, they draw lots to ascertain which of them is to kill Charles V. Now, what was drawn the first night? Ernani. And the second? Ernani. And the third? Ernani again. Always Ernani. Six nights running! Now, that's unlikely on the face of it. For the same name to be drawn once or twice may pass, but six times running—that is too much."

His remarks were received with a regular ovation.—Giornale delle Donne

A Prudent Editor.

In a record of Dr. Momerie's life and work we find this story, with which he once concluded a sermon:

When Dr. William Smith was bringing out his Biblical dictionary, being a prudent editor and understanding the taste of the public extremely well, he determined that the articles should contain as much science as was compatible with orthodoxy and no more. The one on "The Deluge" was to be written by a man whom the doctor considered safe, but when it was finished it turned out to be quite heterodox. There was no time to procure another, as that part of the dictionary had to appear at once, so when people looked for "Deluge" they discovered only "See Flood." A fresh writer was then found, but when his article was returned it was worse than the first. It was not allowed to appear; Dr. Smith simply wrote: "Flood, see Noah." How he managed with this article I don't know.

Field Arrived.

After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince," and before he went to Denver he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a leading St. Louis hotel and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well known copperplate chirography. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance and said:

"Do you wish a room, Mr. Field?"

"No," was the answer.

"Dinner?"

"No."

"Then may I ask what you do want?" continued the clerk.

"I just wanted to arrive," replied Field solemnly. "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you." And he stalked out with long, heavy strides.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The Kitchen Cupboard

SOME PEACH DAINTIES.

PEACHES must be altogether ripe to be wholesome uncooked. They are one of the most delicious of foods served alone or in combination with other viands.

Peaches and Cream.—When peaches are to be served raw always select freestones. To take off the skin first drop the peaches into boiling water. Let them stay there only a couple of minutes, then drop into ice cold water. The skins may then be slipped off. Halve the peaches and take out the stones. Put on ice in the refrigerator until ready to serve; then fill the centers with powdered sugar. Melt marshmallows; pour over the sugar, and stick the two halves together, securing them with fine toothpicks. Coat with powdered sugar and serve with whipped cream flavored with peach juice. This is a delicious way to use them.

Novel Pastries.

Peach Pot Pie.—Fill a pudding dish one-third full of peaches, pared, stoned and quartered. Pour a cup of boiling water over them and set upon the stove to cook. When they begin to boil lay over them a crust made as for biscuit. Cover closely and bake twenty minutes. Serve with sugar and cream or with hard sauce.

Peach Shortcake.—For this make a rich baking powder crust. Roll out about a fourth of an inch thick, cut with a cooky cutter into rounds, butter half of these and place the unbuttered ones on top. Bake and split them open. Butter, fill and cover each one with fresh peaches cut in slices and sprinkled with powdered sugar. Serve hot, surrounded by whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with almond extract.

Baked Peaches.—Pare and place whole peaches in a baking dish and sugar well. Add some bits of butter and about a cupful of hot water. Sprinkle with chopped almonds and bake. Serve cold with whipped cream.

A Delicious Dessert.

Peach Sponge.—Take a quart of ripe, juicy peaches, mash the fruit and stand the juice on ice. About half an hour before serving whip the whites of four eggs stiff and into them beat the peach pulp, first sweetening this with powdered sugar. Put a half pint of sweetened cream with the peach juice. Line the inside of a glass dish with sponge cake or lady fingers and decorate the top with halves of peaches. Pour in the peach juice and cream. On this heap the peach meringue and arrange slices of peach on top of this. Set on the ice until needed.

Woman's World

Miss Fulton Only Woman Rubber Expert.

MISS DAISY FULTON.

Miss Daisy Fulton holds the unique position of being the only woman rubber expert in the world. This very clever and energetic young lady is a native of Australia and has recently come to this country to act as organizing secretary of the rubber exposition to be held in New York city next September. She has acted in a like capacity for expositions held in England and other countries.

This little woman who talks so glibly about the great Brazilian product, its manufacture, its possibilities and the "present bogy of synthetic rubber" is far from the awesome person one pictures her. She is gentle voiced and slender, with hazel eyes and a mass of hair that is prematurely silvered.

Miss Fulton started in the rubber business as secretary to a busy man in a rubber concern, and, to use her own words, "the more I heard about rubber the more interested I grew. I read and listened and worked along in a sort of rubber atmosphere, I suppose, and now my work is wholly in the interests of the rubber industry."

When asked if all Australian women were so enterprising Miss Fulton replied that as far as she knew she was the only woman rubber expert in the world, but "there is no reason why women should not enter the field with great success."

Miss Fulton has a casket glittering with jeweled souvenirs from many countries—all the gifts of industrial organizations which she has served in one expert way or another.

Thoughts on Womankind.

Men lean more to justice and women to mercy. Men excel in energy, self reliance, perseverance and magnanimity; women in humility, gentleness, modesty and endurance.—William Edward Hartpole Lecky.

Women are much more like each other than men. They have, in truth, but two passions—vanity and love.—Lord Chesterfield.

A man without religion is to be pitied, but a godless woman is a horror above all things.—Elizabeth Evans.

There are few husbands whom the wife cannot win in the long run by patience and love.—Marguerite de Valois.

Men love at first and most warmly. Women love last and longest. This is natural enough, for nature makes women to be won and men to win.—George William Curtis.

Women never lie more astutely than when they tell the truth to those who do not believe them.—Anonymous.

A New Mop.

Quite the latest in floor cleaners is a mop fastened to a metal brush back which slides on and off the handle. This mop works like a scrubbing brush with none of its inconveniences. All its parts spread out into direct contact with the floor, so that it can be readily used under radiators, bookcases and all odd corners. Various kinds of mops can be fitted into the same handle. For bathrooms or kitchen, where the floors must be daily scrubbed, the ordinary white mop cleans with practically no dust and can be used either dry or with floor oil. Another mop for the same handle is chemically treated and impregnated with oil sufficient to last for six months and furnishes an easy and practical way of keeping the floors in perfect condition. It is an improvement over the old fashioned mop, which was the cause of much drudgery, wasted time and ill temper.

A Carnegie Pensioner.

Mrs. J. B. Nixon, for a great number of years chief instructor at Tulane university, New Orleans, is the first woman to receive the Carnegie pension for work of that character. Mrs. Nixon had traveled extensively about the world previous to beginning her work as an instructor and since resigning has spent much time abroad, chiefly in touring Europe. Although somewhat past the allotted threescore years and ten, she is as active as many young matrons and endures traveling with fewer signs of fatigue than do many women of half her age. She is tall and commanding, her manner is vivacious and her conversation exceptionally bright and entertaining.

LET BURGLAR ESCAPE; CHIEF NOW SUSPENDED

Metuchen, July 19.—The escape of the burglar who was caught in Metuchen, Tuesday morning, has resulted in the suspension of Chief of Police John J. Flaherty. The burglar was shot and handcuffed and then left alone. While the chief left him to get medical aid the burglar got away.

When the chief reported for duty Wednesday night Acting Mayor Edward Kramer suspended him. The reason was "for the good of the service."

Mayor Clark, of Metuchen, is a New York broker. At present he is away on his vacation. The police situation of Metuchen, it is said, is likely to cause Mayor Clark to cut short his outing.

Flaherty has been a policeman only six months. He says he welcomes a complete investigation.

SALARIED POST UPHELD, DECLINES PAYLESS JOB

Atlantic City, July 19.—William B. Loudenslager, who contested the action of the City Council in March in abolishing the office of sinking fund commissioner after he had been appointed to the $1,800 position by Supreme Court Justice Kalisch, has refused to accept a place as one of the sinking fund commissioners of three appointed by the newly elected commissioners now in charge of the city government.

Loudenslager was appointed by resolution, but would have to serve without a salary.

The Supreme Court returned a verdict in his favor declaring that City Council had no legal right to abolish the office, and now Loudenslager claims he is the real sinking fund commissioner despite any action the commissioners may take until his term ends.

STATE MASTER PAINTERS NOW IN NATIONAL BODY

Asbury Park, July 19.—An amendment to the bylaws of the State Master Painters and Decorators' Association, making every member of that body a member of the National Association, was adopted yesterday after a spirited debate. The fee is $2, and of this amount one-half will go to the national body and the other half to the State organization.

Heretofore, only the larger locals, such as those in Newark, Paterson and Camden, have been affiliated with the National Association, and it was suggested that every member of the State body become connected with the national organization.

Delegates from the Orange local objected to this plan, and as a compromise it was suggested that the whole question be left with the executive board. A motion to this effect was lost, and then the original motion, that all members join the nationals, was carried.

TRIO OF RAILROADS TO REMAIN "WET"

More considerate of thirsty Jerseyites than the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has eliminated the sale of liquor on its entire system east of Pittsburg, the Philadelphia and Reading, the Lehigh Valley and New Jersey Central Railroads will continue the sale of drinks outside of Pennsylvania. The order of the Pennsylvania road went into effect the latter part of last week. On the other roads the orders were issued Wednesday, becoming effective immediately.

"Primarily because of the activities of the Anti-Saloon League of Pennsylvania," said the publicity agent of the Pennsylvania at Philadelphia today, when asked for the reason that led to the making dry of the Pullman trains in this and the Keystone State.

From the same source came the information that the road, having decided to stop selling drinks in Pennsylvania, had also decided to do the same thing in New Jersey and other States east of Pennsylvania, simply for reasons of convenience. Liquor has been sold on trains in the past for the convenience of patrons of the road, not from a money-making standpoint, it was said, and it was decided to stop the sale on the eastern end of the system purely as a matter of utility.

The publicity departments of the Philadelphia and Reading, the Lehigh Valley and the New Jersey Central stated that the new order of things came about as a result of the activity of temperance workers in Pennsylvania, and that no change would be made by their roads, except in that State. Thus drinks may be purchased on trains of these three roads during two-thirds of the journey between Jersey City and Philadelphia.

MORE FROZEN EGGS SEIZED BY STATE

Trenton, July 19.—Another seizure of frozen eggs, which were pronounced unfit for human consumption was made by the pure food division of the State Board of Health in Jersey City Wednesday. Under the direction of Dr. R. B. FitzRandolph, chief of the division, a thousand pounds of the eggs were denatured at the establishment of the Merchants' Refrigerating Company. They were the property of the Excelsior Baking Company of Jersey City.

Dr. FitzRandolph was accompanied on the trip by William C. Tice, assistant chief of the division, and Inspector Walter W. Schofield. The examination convinced the three that the eggs were decomposed and putrid. Another lot of eggs, belonging to the same company, was examined. They were not so far gone as the first, and action was deferred pending the result of a chemical analysis.

STATE DENTISTS ARE NEAR TO HARMONY

Cape May, July 19.—The two factions of the New Jersey State Dental Society, which is holding its annual meeting in this city, have come to the understanding that they will bury all their differences.

The real test will come today when the election of officers will take place. At first it was proposed that a nominating committee be chosen to select a list of available candidates for offices. This proposition was frowned upon by those who are doing all they can to harmonize the "insurgents" and "old guard." Then it was decided that all officers should be nominated from the floor, and each side agreed to abide by the decision of the majority.

Both factions, it is expected, will put up candidates, but who they will be neither side is prepared to say at this time.

Wednesday both sides clashed when a motion was adopted that there be expunged from the minutes that part of last year's session which concerned the election officers by the "old guard" and the adoption of the new constitution and by laws by the "insurgents." Dr. William W. Hawke, who was chosen as head of the "old guard" set of officers last July, when the society met at Asbury Park, ruled that the motion was out of order. Dr. R. S. Hopkins, of Newark, took an appeal from the chair and the appeal was sustained.

SIXTY ARDENT LETTERS IN GIRL'S $50,000 SUIT

Trenton, July 19.—Ardent love letters, sixty of them, are made the basis of a breach of promise suit filed Wednesday by counsel for Miss Bernice E. Conniss, twenty-two years old, of Beaumont Park, Gavans, Md., against J. Edward Traynor, reputed to be one of the wealthiest young men in Ramsey, Bergen county.

Miss Conniss blames the mother of Traynor for the alleged broken engagement, saying that her opposition to her son's marrying finally ruled, after several postponements of the dates set for the nuptials. Because of humiliation in the result of the banns and in the preparation of a useless trousseau, Miss Conniss asks $50,000 damages.

The engagement dated from December, 1910, says the petition, as the fruit of an acquaintance that began the same year in Orlando, Fla. The wedding was set for June 21, 1911. The date was broken, says the petition, because the mother threatened to disinherit her son if he married. A second postponement advanced the date to June 5, last, but Traynor, the petition says, failed to appear.

Following the alleged explanation by Traynor that he could not overcome the opposition of his mother, Miss Conniss assembled the young man's letters and came north from Maryland to the home of her sister in Ramsey, and engaged James S. Carroll, of Paterson, as her counsel. The case probably will come to trial in September in the Bergen county court.

LOSES LIFE IN SAND PIT.

New Brunswick, July 18.—John Nellovitch, employed at the South River Brick Company, lost his life Tuesday afternoon in a cave-in. He was standing out of the sun's rays underneath a projection of earth, and it fell upon him. Henry Holmes, a negro, running to the sandpile, found Nellovitch buried to his neck. He went for help, but Nellovitch was dead when his would-be rescuers arrived.

SAVED GIRL FROM DROWNING.

Trenton, July 19.—Miss Nettie Castang, an inmate of the State Home for Girls, was saved from drowning in the "feeder," opposite the Calvalader Park pavilion, Wednesday afternoon, by Levi H. Morris, of 231 Passaic street. The girl had come to the park with a number of other inmates of the institution and fell into the "feeder." Mr. Morris was attending the picnic of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church at the park. Hearing cries of companions of the girls, he dove into the water after her.

TEACHER EXONERATED.

Trenton, July 19.—After completing the examination of a dozen witnesses Wednesday afternoon the State Board of Examiners dismissed the complaint by which I. H. Cramer and other citizens of Stafford Township, Ocean county, sought the revocation of the license of Mrs. Parthenia Johnson, a teacher in the public schools at Cedar Run. The board held that the evidence presented was not of such a character as would warrant unfavorable action against Mrs. Johnson. The complainants sought to involve Mrs. Johnson in improper conduct. Although some of the testimony indicated that the teacher might have been somewhat indiscreet, considering her position, the board concluded that she deserved to be exonerated from the allegations reflecting upon her character.

BIG BUILDING STONES STOLEN.

Paterson, July 19.—Thieves who worked with an audacity that has amazed the local police, got away with two fourteen-foot stones, Tuesday morning. The stones are such as form door sills in big buildings. The robbers drove up to the business place of Stanley & Co., 103-105 Dale street, loaded their wagon and departed without attracting attention.

NEW BRUNSWICK TO PLAY BRIDGEPORT NINE

Dave Driscoll, Plainfields' captain and first baseman, will make another effort to reopen the baseball season in New Brunswick next Sunday. Rain spoiled the plans of last Sunday, making it necessary to cancel the game. The Bridgeport team made a long trip to New Brunswick from Bridgeport, only to meet a downpour of rain on their arrival in that city, and the same team will oppose the New Brunswicks next Sunday.

Dave Driscoll will present his regular lineup in this game, with Steve White, the former Princeton star, in the box, and with the same supporting cast. If there is the least possible chance of getting Jack Martin for the game, he will surely play. Otherwise the job will go to either McLaughlin or Hartman, both exceptionally good men.

It might be interesting at this time to note what Driscoll's players are doing in this city, where they play on Saturdays. The team as a whole is batting .297, which is some mark. Joe Harter is in the lead with the Ty Cobb average of .404, while Eddie Stallings is not far behind with .388. Then comes Bill Dalton with .369, and he is followed by Wallie Cosgrove. Dave Driscoll himself is batting .231, and this will come as a matter of surprise to the local fans, who imagined that Dave's days as a batter had passed. But Dave keeps his number of times at bat as low as possible and uses the head on his shoulders to good advantage. He had that knack, when he played in New Brunswick several years ago. Eddie Stallings is at the lead in another runaway race for the stolen base honors, with 11 swipes on the roll. He has also scored 22 runs in 11 games, or a quarter of the total number of runs scored by Plainfield during the season.

Eddie Craig, Steve Lee, Hartman and McLaughlin do not play with Plainfield on Saturdays.

FLYNN STRENGTHENS NINE FOR COLORED GIANTS' GAME

When the Westfield baseball club meets the Royal Giants of this city at Recreation Park tomorrow afternoon it will be strengthened by the addition of George Ortlieb, who will from now on be their regular box artist. He has just returned home from the Lawrence club of the New England League and is in first-class form. They will also have the services of Bob McNisch to cover third base. He is from Newark and is conceded to be one of the fastest guardians of the difficult station in the business. He umpired last week's game with the Plainfield nine and is not a total stranger to the fans who never forget an umpire. The addition of McNisch will probably mean the benching of Ulrich, who has been Westfield's regular third sacker.

Manager Eddie Flynn, of the home nine, evidently thinks the Royals a tough proposition as he has evidenced by the bolstering of his team. The colored ball players are setting a fast clip just at present and their good showing against Dunellen last week gives them a claim to the local semi-professional title which has heretofore been monopolized by Bound Brook, Plainfield, Dunellen and Westfield. Manager Simmons, of the Giants, says he will have his strongest lineup on the field at Westfield and expects to walk away with the game. This team has a large number of dusky followers in this city and they will probably take a large bunch along to Recreation Park. Either Dawson or Brown will do the box work for the Giants, while Steward will take care of the receiving end.

LABORER IS SHOT DOWN IN FIGHT WITH BOSS

Paterson, July 19—Having been shot by a man whom, it is alleged, he was attacking with a razor, Patrick Priore, a laborer, is in a dangerous condition at St. Joseph's Hospital here. The bullet entered his intestines, making eleven perforations. The shooter, Howard C. Lambertson, superintendent for the George E. Brackett Company, has been placed under bonds to await the outcome of Priore's injuries.

The affray accurred at Clifton. It followed an alleged attempt by Priore to collect money from the company upon another man's pay check. Priore got employment with the Brackett Company Monday, but worked but three hours. In some way he got the pay check of another laborer and presented this to Lambertson for payment. The superintendent did not know Priore and took him to a section boss for identification. Lambertson's and the section boss's questions angered Priore, who, it is declared, drew a razor and slashed the superintendent in the shoulder. Priore was making another lunge with the blade at Lambertson when the latter sent the bullet into his body.

—There is no more refreshing drink these summer days than iced tea and Neuman Bros. have just the kind of tea with which to make this beverage.

MISTAKE IN OLD DEED HELD UP CHURCH WORK

A defective deed figures in a somewhat curious story that has just come to light in connection with the building of the new $25,000 First Baptist church of Caldwell, Essex county. The trustees, however, can "read their title clear" now, the defective deed having been made good largely through the efforts of Rev. Horace S. Quillin, pastor of the church.

The story begins way back in 1848 when the church property was bought. Rev. John Quincy Adams was the first pastor. In 1853, in settlement of some financial matters the church deeded to the pastor forty feet on Bloomfield avenue, on which the parsonage now stands. Curiously enough, no record of the transaction was ever made on the minutes of the church.

The pastor held the deed until December, 1866, when the land was transferred by him to the Baptist State convention, the State organization of the denomination. A year later the organization deeded the property back to the church.

There was no suspicion of anything wrong until last fall when, with the idea of building in view, the church made an application to the Howard Savings Institution for a loan. John Monteith, a lawyer of Newark, and connected with the savings institution, made the usual search and found that the deed made by Mr. Adams to the State convention was defective, because the assignment clause had been left out. This made all other transactions defective.

Mr. Quillin made many a trip to New York State and through New Jersey hunting up the heirs to the property and was successful. Then a new deed, with the proper clause attached, was made out and is now on record in the county courthouse.

Wells Knocks Out Kennedy.

New York, July 19.—A well directed right hand swing on the point of the jaw delivered by Bombardier Wells, the heavyweight champion of Great Britain, knocked out Tom Kennedy of this city in the eighth round in Madison Square Garden. Kennedy had been floored a moment before with a similar blow and was practically helpless when his second threw up the sponge. The American was game, but outclassed.

BUTLER GIRL REPORTED LOST.

Paterson, July 19.—Miss Dinah Biersma, of Butler, became lost in this city Wednesday night, and early this morning Acting Captain McBride sent out a general alarm to all the night patrolmen to find her, if possible. She came to this country from Holland two months ago. Since that time she showed signs of being demented.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

The Dunellen baseball team, with half the town as rooters, will swoop down on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon—If it doesn't rain.

Now that the local ball tossers succeeded in taking the germ out of Germany Ortlieb, they will try to work the lock in McLaughlin tomorrow.

Because of the fact that Ben and Flatt Adams, two Olympic heroes, were born in Newark, the people of that town are going wild and reports say that they have made a bid to have the next Olympic held in that city.

It listens good but is a long way off at present.

"Poor pitching, wretched fielding and inability to hit when hits were needed were the causes for the defeats of the Giants," declared one writer. In our opinion that is all that is necessary for the defeat of any club.

Jack Martin has played in forty-seven games for the Yankees so far and has pounded out thirty-six hits and scored eighteen runs. His bingles include four two-baggers and a three-bagger, and his average totals up to .230.

Twelve years ago Thursday Christy Mathewson pitched his first big league baseball game, and he celebrated the anniversary by stopping the Giants losing streak and winning from the Pirates 10 to 2.

He is the only pitcher now in the big leagues with a record of 300 winning games.

You have to hand it to the St. Louis Browns for running true to form. Here's the rope:

July 10, 1911—20 wins, 53 defeats, .274.

July 10, 1912—20 wins, 53 defeats, .274.

Cornell University, which has won the intercollegiate cross country race 12 years out of 13, will for the first time hold the contest in Ithaca next fall. It will be the first time an intercollegiate meet of any kind has been held there and Cornell hopes to win, as John Paul Jones is captain of the team.

'YALE' DOWNED 'PRINCETON' 5 TO 4, THIS MORNING

Two picked nines of future greats styling themselves the Yale and Princeton teams, respectively, played a red hot game of ball on Parker Field this morning, the former managing to come out as head with a 5 to 4 score. The two aggregations were evenly matched and the score see-sawed back and forth throughout the whole contests.

Score by innings:

Princeton	1 0 1 0 1 0 0 1—4

GOOD GAME ON OVAL FOR TOMORROW SURE

The Dunellen and Plainfield Battle Expected to Be a Bitterly Contested One.

The Dunellen baseball team will be the leading attraction on Crescent Oval tomorrow afternoon when it plays the fast-going Plainfield ball tossers. The suburban players are setting a fast clip just at present and Manager Bogardus says the local nine is due for a reverse when they stack up against his men, headed by Warry McLaughlin, a former Pittsburg National League twirler. The well-known veteran of the pitching game has been twirling some of the best contests of his career and those who have been keeping constant tabs on him say that he is far from a has-been, as he was rated when he left Plainfield. McLaughlin has one of the best backstops in this section to hold his shoots and this fellow, Dixon, is proclaimed by his team mates as one of the best in the business. He is a natural long distance hitter and a game seldom goes by but what he hits for an extra base. The rest of the Dunellen lineup is composed of ball players well known to local fanatics and include such men as Captain Brit Martin, who formerly led the Plainfield nine; Billy Coyle, one of the best little short stops now in the game; Barnes Plainfield's old first baseman, and Adam Schott, another local product. All of these men occupied the center of the baseball stage in this city two years ago when Plainfield had one of the fastest teams in its history, and none of them have gone back a step.

It now looks as though this aggregation is going to give the Queen City combination a good run for its money. Dunellen broke even in her series with Bound Brook and as Plainfield managed to do the same thing only on a fluke, the respective records of the two nines favor the visitors. Their win over Bound Brook was clean cut and undisputed while the locals victory is still questioned by a large number of fair-minded rooters. These early season triumphs, however, do not win games later in the season and the victorious nine Saturday will have to play some ball.

Manager Dorflinger says he will have his regular lineup on the field and local fans have the idea that this is good enough to win from almost any team. Frederickson will be on the firing line and Walter Nelson will as usual hold him up behind the bat. Both twirlers are southpaws and it has been a matter of local discussion as to which is the better flinger. This will be the first time that these two pitchers have faced each other in a game on the Oval, although they came together unannounced a couple of weeks ago at the Plains, when Freddy was sent in to do relief work for Slocum, who got into difficulties in the Bound Brook-Scotch Plains game. Freddy was only in the game for three innings and the contest had been sewed up by Warry's backers before the local southpaw entered the box.

The Dunellen fans are highly enthusiastic over tomorrow's contest and a large delegation of rooters will accompany the nine to this city.

The visitors will lineup as follows: Giddes 3b, Martin 2b, Dixon c, McLaughlin p, Barnes 1b, Baldwin rf, Elliott cf, Schott lf, Coyle ss.

Plainfield will come to bat as follows: Cosgrove rf, E. Stallings lf, Harter cf, Dalton 3b, W. Stallings 2b, Driscoll 1b, Emery ss, Nelson c, Frederickson p.

CUBS DEFEAT PIRATES BY 7 TO 4 ON PARKER FIELD

The Cubs established a firmer hold on first place in the Parker Field baseball league this morning by taking a game from the Pirates by a 7 to 4 score. La Porte's ability to tighten up with men on the bases kept the Cubs away from the scoring station at dangerous times.

The Cubs obtained a big lead in the first round when they totaled up three runs and from then on the Pirates worked wholly on the defensive trying to keep the leaders score down and at the same time slip a run across the rubber now and then.

MAY BREAK THE TIE IN S. S. NINES STANDING

Likely That Either Hope or First Baptist Will Drop From First Place.

The chief proposition confronting the six contenders in the Sunday-school baseball league in their regular weekly games tomorrow, is to shatter the tie that exists for the first place argument. Something is bound to break when Hope Chapel and First Baptist, two of the nines concerned in the tie-up, meet on Hyde Field. It will be a case of either one or the other giving up its hold on the top rung and as both are playing some fast ball it is hard to predict which will pull through the fray. Monroe will also have to play ball in order to keep its hold, but this is an aggregation that always puts up a speedy exhibition and they will without doubt annex another in the win column.

There does not seem to be much chance of Temple Baptist breaking in with a win as it is carded to line up against the strong Park Avenues. The latter nine has a splendid chance of getting a hold on first place this week and will probably take advantage of it.

P. S. C. HAS A CHANCE TO CAPTURE THE CUP

It Tackles the Commercials Tomorrow and the Game Will Be An Exciting One.

With the schedule of the Manufacturers' baseball league drawing rapidly to a close another series of three games will be run off tomorrow afternoon. The contest that promises to be the banner attraction is the Public Service and Commercial battle. The P. S. C. nine is going along at a fast clip just at present and if it succeeds in putting one over on the Commercials it can be reckoned on as a championship possibility. The Clerks, on the other hand, will have to shape their game tomorrow in order to keep in the running for first place. Earlier in the season they were generally conceded to be the leaders when the final gong sounded on August 17, but they have been up against a hard proposition in the R. G. E. bunch who refuse to drop a single contest so that the Commercials can pass them. If the R. G. E. nine keeps up its winning streak for one or two weeks more it will have the title cinched, but the five other aggregations are still in the running and any of them may succeed in turning the tables on the leaders. The Banks have the first whack at them tomorrow afternoon and this eccentric combination is likely to do the least expected by trouncing the R. G. E.

The Spicers nine will have a splendid opportunity to clean up another contest when it goes up against the Saurers, but this is another team that plays the game very erratically and is liable to blow up in any round and hand the tailenders a win.

Taken as a whole this week's trio of contests promises to be an unusually good one and should result in some material change in the official standing which has not been shaken up in the last two weeks.

WILLIAM STRONG AGAIN FREE MAN

Was Sentenced For Thirty Years For Wife Murder.

IS NOW SEVENTY YEARS OLD

Had Served About Year of Sentence. Supreme Court Ruled Out Evidence of Alleged Confession Extorted by Boardwalk Medium, and Case Never Will Be Retried.

Mays Landing, N. J., July 19.—William Strong came forth slowly, but with the light of a great joy in his eyes, an aged man, bent with the weight of three score and ten years, and stepped forward as the cell door of the county jail was thrown open by Turnkey Scott Champion. His cellmates crowded close to the bars to bid him goodby.

"Are you going to let me go for good, Scotty?" he asked, and as the turnkey nodded the old man wept tears of joy, while a cheer went up from the throats of his fellow prisoners.

Convicted a year ago for the murder of his wife at Nesco in October, 1910, Strong, an old farmer, was sentenced to a thirty year term in state prison.

He served about a year, when the supreme court reversed the verdict and he was brought back to the county jail. His counsel, former Judge Howard Carrow, made a motion before Justice Samuel Kalisch that the old farmer be released on his own recognizance, and the state concurring, through Prosecutor C. L. Goldenberg, he was set free and left for the home of a brother at Glassboro.

The supreme court having ruled out the evidence of an alleged confession extorted from the superstitious old man by a boardwalk "medium" and the exhibition of the dead woman's throat showing finger prints, the state is powerless to convict, and the case will likely never be retried.

MADE LOST GIRL PRISONER.

She Tells Paterson Police of Being Kept In a Mill by Men.

Paterson, N. J., July 19.—All night long David Poersna of Butler searched the streets here for his sister Dinah, about twenty-two years old, and, according to her brother, not entirely of sound mind. He had lost her at the Straight Street station of the Susquehanna railroad when they were waiting for a train to Butler.

Early in the day Policeman Kinney saw a girl answering the description of Miss Poersna wandering about at Straight and Market streets. She semed dazed and ill, and when the policeman questioned her admitted she was Miss Poersna.

She said, having become separated from her brother, she had wandered from the station. A man accosted her and, instead of leading her back to the station as she had asked, took her to a mill, where he and several other men kept her all night. The girl was put in an automobile and driven around the city until she pointed out the mill of the McNabb-Harlin company as the one in which she had been kept prisoner.

NEW AUTO LAW FOR JERSEY.

Proposed to Enforce the Fifteen Day Reciprocity Privilege.

Trenton, N. J., July 19.—The enforcement of the fifteen day automobile tourist privilege in this state in the automobile reciprocity plan is puzzling the state automobile department, as there is no way at present to check up those using the privilege.

State Motor Commissioner Job Lippincott has drawn up a bill to meet the condition. Mr. Lippincott says his department has not a sufficient number of inspectors or the necessary legal authority to do the work. The proposed law will require garage owners and dealers to keep a record of all machines which go in and out of their places, both as to the date when the machines entered and as to the time they are taken out and by whom. The bill is modified after the Massachusetts law and will have the double purpose of providing a means of enforcing the fifteen day clause by punishing those found violating it, and also it will enable owners to discover if any unauthorized person has taken out their cars.

GIRL NEARLY DROWNS.

After Hard Fight, Miss E. Nofer Is Saved—Sailboat Capsized.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 19.—After a fight of ten minutes in the swift currents of the thoroughfare off South Atlantic City, Miss Elizabeth Nofer, daughter of Washington Nofer, a wealthy Philadelphia packer, was rescued by Charles Klele of Philadelphia and Joel Leeds of this city. She was badly exhausted.

The girl was cruising about in her sailboat when caught in a squall, which capsized the craft and threw her into the water. She was in bathing togs and started to swim ashore, after clinging to the bottom of the boat for a time. The current proved too strong, however, and she called for help. The two men heard her screams and put out to her aid in a fast motorboat.

JAMES B. M'NAMARA.

Convicted Dynamiter Has Been Placed In a Dungeon Cell.

M'NAMARA IN DARK CELL.

Convicted Dynamiter Stubbornly Refuses to Conform to Prison Discipline.

San Quentin, Cal., July 19. After a week of solitary confinement J. B. McNamara, one of the convicted dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times building, stubbornly refused to conform to prison discipline, and Warden Hoyle said he would be kept in the dungeon indefinitely.

McNamara was placed in solitary confinement a week ago when he refused to obey an order given by a guard in the jute mill. He had been punished before for insubordination, and Warden Hoyle had him locked in the dark cell.

"McNamara's punishment was the result of repeated acts of insubordination," said Warden Hoyle. "He has been a persistent violator of prison rules, and there was nothing for us to do but take extreme measures."

GIRL HURLS HATCHET AT ENGLISH PREMIER

Vicious Attacks on Asquith Charged to Suffragettes.

Dublin, July 19.—During the evening performance at the Theater Royal, where Premier Asquith is to speak, a burning chair, which apparently had been soaked in oil, was hurled into the orchestra from a box, the curtains of which were set on fire. The audience was panic stricken for a moment, but calmed down when the attendants extinguished the blaze. The box was occupied by a woman, who escaped in the excitement.

During the procession a heavy hatchet was thrown at the carriage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Asquith and John Redmond. The ax was thrown by a young woman of twenty-three, presumably a suffragette. Fortunately the missile was thrown with little force. Later it was noticed that there was a cut over Mr. Redmond's eye, from which the blood was flowing.

WILSON CAMPAIGN BOARD IS NAMED

Senator Reed, Clark Champion, One of Fourteen.

NEW YORK HEADQUARTERS

Plan of Battle Outlined After Five and One-half Hours' Conference at Sea Girt, N. J.—Will Select Finance Committee of Forty.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 19.—Woodrow Wilson's campaign for the presidency will be directed by a board of fourteen men, eight at present members of the national committee and six others. There will be a finance committee of from thirty-five to forty from all parts of the country.

Committees on publicity, on speakers and what not, also to be organized, will look after the details of the fight. Hard working progressive Democrats, no matter what may have been their choice before the convention, will be utilized in many ways. Chairman William F. McCombs and the nine men invited by Governor Wilson to work out details in pursuance of the authorization of the national committeemen met at Sea Girt, and after five and a half hours of conferring it became known that the ten, with four added, are to be the board of directors of the campaign. Governor Wilson himself made the announcement because he had acted as secretary of the meeting, and he read off the following list:

Members from the national committee—William F. McCombs, Joseph E. Davies, Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, Colonel Robert Ewing of Louisiana, A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, Judge William R. King of Oregon and Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey.

Members from outside the national committee—Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York, Congressman Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Maine, Congressman Albert S. Burleson of Texas, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and William G. McAdoo of New York.

The committee at present therefore sizes up as seven from the national committee as chosen by the states, or eight with Mr. McCombs, and six from the outside. The new members who were selected by the ten men, after Governor Wilson through Chairman McCombs had named them, are: Colonel Ewing of Louisiana, Judge W. R. King, Senator Reed and Congressman McGillicuddy.

Senator Reed Nominated Clark.

By the appointment of Senator Reed as a member the governor for the first time went outside the list of the men who were his warm supporters in the fight for the nomination. Senator Reed put Champ Clark in nomination at Baltimore and stuck to his fellow Missourian to the last.

Further announcement by the governor was that the selection of a vice chairman of the national committee and of a treasurer will be postponed for a time. New York city will be national headquarters, with Chicago and one other far western city as branches. There is such a fight for the honor in the west that it was thought best not to name the city at present.

WON'T BE TAFT'S SECRETARY

Granville Mooney's Refusal Gives Another Ohio Man a Chance.

Washington, July 19.—Granville W. Mooney, ex-speaker of the Ohio assembly, has declined the post of assistant secretary to President Taft to succeed Sherman P. Allen of Vermont, who was nominated for assistant secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Mooney was recommended for the place by Senator Burton, but declined because he wished to stay in Ohio. It was said that another Ohio man might be selected.

Mr. Allen may continue at the White House until President Taft finds a man to fill his place.

UNITED WIRELESS MAN OUT.

George H. Parker, Partner of Wilson, Is Released on Parole.

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—George H. Parker, fiscal agent of the United Wireless Telegraph company, who was alleged in court proceedings to have cleared $1,315,000 by his operations and was sentenced to two years in a federal prison, has been paroled from McNeil's island.

Christopher Columbus Wilson, partner of Mr. Parker, is still in the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.

The Powerful "Big Five" of New York's Clearing House

F. A. Vanderlip, J. G. Cannon, W. E. Frew, R. Delafield and O. T. Bannard.

They Comprise the Greatest Banking Power In the Country.

WHEN the congressional committee investigating "the money trust" held its sessions in New York, attention was focused on the clearing house committee, which it was testified practically embodied the power of the Clearing House association, typifying in its turn the banking power of New York and of the United States. The five men who constitute that committee are Frank A. Vanderlip, James G. Cannon, Walter E. Frew, Richard Delafield and Otto T. Bannard.

To be named among this annually changing group is, from the banker's point of view, to be listed in the roll of honor of finance.

The five are men of widely differing personalities, tastes and experiences.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP.

One found newspaper work the stepping stone to his banking career, another steered into his place through the law and a brief later career as a manufacturer, and a third, coming of a family of merchants, cut off his mercantile connections to become exclusively a banker after a gradual entrance into the field through his activities as a director in banking institutions. Only two climbed the banking ladder from the bottom.

President Vanderlip of the National City bank never worked in a banking institution until a dozen years ago. At the age of thirty-seven he resigned his assistant secretaryship of the treasury to become a vice president of the institution of which he is now the active head. Although it was as a reporter and later as a financial writer that he first began to carve out his career, he really started to make his own way in life as a machine shop apprentice in his native town of Aurora, Ill. He was born a farmer's boy there in 1864.

When Lyman J. Gage became secretary of the treasury he took Vanderlip with him as private secretary, but Vanderlip quickly proved himself too big for that job, and within a few months he had been appointed assistant secretary of the treasury. After four years he went to the National City bank of New York as vice president, and in January, 1909, when James Stillman retired from the presidency, Vanderlip succeeded him.

President Vanderlip's chief claim to fame outside of his financial activities is as an author and a promoter of business education.

Like the president of the National City bank, President James G. Cannon of the Fourth National bank, who follows him on the roster of the clearing house committee, is an author. His "Clearing Houses" is the standard authority on the subject and is so complete a treatise that the national monetary commission in its monumental report on monetary and banking systems of the world transferred it bodily into its documents. This work has made his name well known to every student of banking and economics, but to the average man his name is familiar only incidentally as a banker and chiefly as a militant Christian.

Mr. Cannon was the chief lay figure in the men and religion forward movement, which commanded attention a few months ago, and he is recognized among church workers as a leader in active movements for reviving religious life. He has been one of the most forceful spirits in Y. M. C. A. work.

His banking career is the traditional story of a rise from the bottom. Born in Delhi, N. Y., he removed to New York city early enough to get his education in the city schools. He began his banking career in 1876 at the age of eighteen, starting as a messenger with the Fifth Avenue bank. His specialty as a banker has been "credits," and it was largely his pioneer work which brought about the highly perfected systems with which the banks work now in this most important department.

Walter E. Frew, president of the Corn Exchange bank, is the other of the two present committeemen who began at the bottom in banking. He has been connected with a bank in some capacity or another ever since he left school at fifteen. He was born in Brooklyn in 1864.

Delafield, Vanderlip, Bannard and Cannon are all giants physically. Frew is of the small wiry type, which sometimes shows such astonishing capacity for continuous labor, physical and mental. His first business experience was with the banking and brokerage house of Sheppard Knapp & Co. After six years with that firm he went over to the Eleventh Ward bank in 1885 and in four years took the position of cashier with the Queens County bank of Long Island City. He had reached the presidency in four years more and stayed there until he went over to the Corn Exchange bank in 1899 to become vice president. His bank has the largest number of branches of any in New York and probably in the country and therefore makes heavy demands on its executives.

Richard Delafield, president of the National Park bank, is the merchant banker member of the group. He is by inheritance associated with New York's commercial greatness, being a son of Rufus King Delafield and descended from a line of New York merchants whose forbear was John Delafield, who came over from England in 1783. It is not many months since the Delafield family incorporated itself with the idea of assuring to all of the descendants of this John Delafield a collegiate or professional education "or other suitable education to such members of the Delafield family as may be designated or approved by a majority of the directors." Other purposes of this novel corporation are the preservation of Delafield heirlooms and the extending of pecuniary aid other than loans to the wives, widows and daughters of lineal Delafields.

Richard Delafield had a long career as a merchant before he became a banker. He began as a clerk, but at the age of twenty-seven he had embarked on his own account in the California trade. His firms were Delafield, Morgan, Kissell & Co. and Delafield, McGovern & Co., which had branches in St. Louis and San Francisco. They were reputed the largest dealers in Pacific coast products. In 1890 he became a vice president of the National Park bank and has been president since 1900.

Otto T. Bannard, president of the New York Trust company, is named last in the roster of members of the clearing house committee. He was first a lawyer and became president of the Continental Trust company, which was merged with the New York Trust and Security company to form the present institution, after twelve years of law practice and a few years as head of the Dolphin jute mills of Paterson, N. J. He was commissioner of the board of education under Mayor Strong and was the Republican candidate for mayor of New York in 1910. He is a graduate of Yale.

PRAISE FOR CO. K PLEASES CAPTAIN

Regular Army Officers Compliment Peterson for Plainfielders Guard Mount Efficiency.

Major Martin Congratulates Local Military Boys, Too—Baseball This Afternoon Between Jersey and Maryland Troops.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

U. S. Camp of Instruction, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 20.—After a strenuous week the national guardsmen and regular soldiers encamped here for a ten days tour of duty, including Company K, of the Second Regiment, from Plainfield, are looking forward for the rest of today, and all of tomorrow, for a little chance to rest. This morning there were a few routine drills which the men were put through, and then they were allowed to return to camp. This afternoon the big attraction will be a baseball game, in which the teams from the New Jersey regiments and the Maryland regiments will form the opposing forces. The Jerseymen have taken the pick of the men in the two regiments, and they expect to make their friends from further south sit up and take notice.

The men of the guard in both states are awaiting with more or less impatience the time when the forces will clash in battle, next Monday and Tuesday, both sides being aided by regulars. General Collins declares that his men will administer such a drubbing to the enemy that they will not know what hit them. It will be remembered that it was his command that won a theoretical battle against a brigade of Pennsylvania troops in 1910 at Gettysburg.

Company K's boys were relieved of their twenty-four hours tour of guard duty late yesterday afternoon by the members of Company L, of the Second regiment, which has its headquarters at Princeton. When they went off duty they were highly complimented by the regular army officers, who stated that their's was the best guard mount they had ever seen by a national guard company, and compared very favorably with that done by the 29th U. S. Infantry men. Captain Peterson was highly pleased at the compliment, and he is receiving the encomiums of the other officers in camp on the work of the Plainfield boys.

In yesterday's manoeuvre, when the Second infantry made an attack on the Fifteenth United States Cavalry, Company K formed a patrol about five miles from camp, and were ordered by Major William B. Martin to patrol his left flank. In order to carry out his instructions the Plainfield boys had a hard time of it, but they did their work splendidly. At one time, in order to remain undiscovered by the "enemy" they were forced to advance up a creek bottom, wading through water knee deep, for over a mile. Several times during this movement they came in contact with the enemy's partol, and drove them back, and at a decisive and critical stage in the manoeuvre they were able to secure a good position on the enemy's right, pouring into them a heavy fire, and theoretically aiding the main army materially. This work of Company K relieved Major Martin of anxiety regarding the left flank, and was so well performed that Captain Peterson was called to headquarters and highly praised for the work of his men.

The New Jersey boys hoped until this morning that Governor Wilson was going to pay them a visit today, as a story to that effect had gone through the camp. They were disappointed when they learned that he would entertain the Democratic members of the House of Representatives at Sea Girt, and would therefore not be at camp, and probably not be here at all. General Collins has tried very hard to get the Governor to be his guest in camp, but from reports at his headquarters this morning, it is evident that he does not now expect the Commander in Chief.

A delegation of officers from the First Maryland visited General Collins and promised that if Governor Wilson should visit at the camp the band of the First, the only one in camp outside of the Twenty-ninth regulars, shall be placed at the disposal of the New Jersey troops until such time as the Governor shall be surrendered to the Maryland forces.

The word that the New Jersey Chief Executive might visit camp resulted in a straw vote at many of the officers' messes in the First and Fourth Maryland. The result in each instance was unanimously in his favor.

The New Jersey and Maryland officers have exchanged many social calls, and the burden of the general conversation is not so much military as it is praise of Wilson.

AIMS TO STOP ABUSE OF AUTO RECIPROCITY

State Commissioner Drafts Proposed Law to Remedy Growing Abuse.

For the purpose of getting public opinion on changes in the automobile law, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Job Lippincott Thursday gave out an interview, showing difficulties in enforcing the present statute, and appends the text of a new law which he believes will fill the bill.

"The question confronting the motor vehicle departrment of how to enforce the fifteen-day provision in the new eciprocity law is giving considerable trouble to the department, owing to the fact that we are not at the present time provided either with the proper inspection machinery or with the necessary provisions in the law to aid us in this work.

"With only eight paid inspectors, it is a practical impossibility to strictly enforce this provision of the act and compel automobilists from other states to take out licenses in New Jersey after their cars have been operated in this State for fifteen days.

"In our efforts to enforce this part of the act, we have repeatedly checked up the machines in the different garages in the State, but have found this wok exceptionally difficult for the reason that our garages and dealers are not compelled by law to keep proper records. For this reason a great many machines have escaped and are escaping the license law of New Jersey.

"In order to meet this condition, I have drafted a supplement to the automobile law, providing that garage owners and dealers shall keep a record book of all machines which go in and out of their places of business, both as to the date on which the machine entered the garage and the time on which it was taken out and by whom. This law is modeled from the Massachusetts law, and will serve the double purpose; first, of providing a record which will be open to our inspectors and police in their efforts to enforce the fifteen-day clause, and also will afford a means by which owners of cars can find out whether their machines are used by their chauffeurs or others contrary to their instructions. I believe that the passage of such a law will go toward aiding us in this work. The great need, however, of the department is for more inspectors, as without proper machinery it is impossible fo any department to is impossible for any dearptment to enforce the law."

TOMORROW'S VESPER SERVICE AT THE HOME

The weekly vesper service will be held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, and the speaker will be Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. The quartet choir of that church will render special music and the children's choir will sing.

The usual services will be held each night next week except Wednesday, when Mrs. Royle T. Phillips and Miss Jane Bailey, Mrs. Heath and others will entertain the mothers and children with a program of music and story. The Sunday services are largely attended and the interest the friends are taking in its welfare is gratifying to Miss Sara Curry, the matron.

Many of the little folks who came out to the Home ill are either well or improving and the work this season bids fair to exceed that of previous years. The Home is always open to the public and Miss Curry will welcome all who visit the camp.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Ethel Kiederling and Vincent Gregory were arraigned in the City Court this morning on the charge of disorderly conduct and were held by Judge DeMeza in bonds of $200 to awati the action of the Grand Jury. J. Henry Crane, representing both defendants, waived examination, asking the court to fix bail for his clients. In default of furnishing the required bonds the accused will be taken to the county jail in Elizabeth this afternoon.

CATHERINE BURNETT.

Catherine Burnett, the six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burnett, died yesterday morning at the home of her grandmother on the Dugway road, North Plainfield. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GRAVITY ROUTE BEST FROM FINANCIAL POINT

Some Figures Presented—Bankers Convinced Joint Sewage Commission.

In support of the cliam that it would be advisable from a business point of view to run the joint trunk sewer line into North Plainfield along the foot of the mountains and thence to the Darling farm in Piscataway township by what is known as the gravity system, several letters from financiers were presented at the conference of the sewer committee Thursday night. Among them were the following showing the relative cost of construction for each plan:

"Replying to your inquiry as to the relative merits of Plan No. 1, gravity line, cost $140,200; plan No. 2—trunk sewer, cost $90,000; cost of pumping plant, $17,300; operating expenses, $3,150. It is only necessary to say that $3,150, deposited annually as sinking fund at 4 per cent. interest, would retire $140,000 bonds issued to build plan No. 1 in twenty-six years. Further it would be a sufficient sinking fund at 4 per cent. interest to liquidate $480,000 bonds in fifty years. How foolish to expend this sum for pumping expenses when you can have a gravity system at so much less cost. Plan No. 2 should not be thought of for a moment."

"In reply to your favor of the 12th inst. it seems to me there is no question from a financial sandpoint that plan No. 1 is preferable to plan No. 2.

"If I figure correctly, the adoption of plan No. 1 with yearly payments of $7,978 will not only meet the interest upon an issue of $140,200 4½ per cent. bonds, but will pay off the entire issue in 36 years; whereas, if plan No. 2 is adopted, with yearly payments of the same amount ($7,978), at the end of thirty-six years the entire $107,300 bonds will remain outstanding and unprovided for, and in addition to the yearly interest thereon the operating expenses of the pumping plant will still have to be provided for—in other words, the yearly payment of $7,978 will have to be continued.

"The figures are as follows on a basis of an issue of 4½ per cent. bonds at par for cost (bonds under plan No. 1 to be redeemable at par and interest if drawn for the sinking fund).

'Plan No. 2—Issue bonds for cost, $140,200; yearly payments, 4½ per cent. on $140,200, $6,309; sinking fund of $1,669; $7,978.

"An annual payment of $1,669 invested at 4½ per cent. compound interest will amount in thirty-six years to $143,850, a sum more than sufficient to retire the $140,200 bonds issued.

"Plan No. 2—Issue bonds for cost, $107,300; yearly payments, 4½ per cent. on $107,300, $4,823; operating expenses of pumps, $3,150; $7,978.

"I shall be glad to have my figures confirmed by an accountant. I have used the Mutual Life Insurance Co.'s compound interest tables, which I assume are correct.

BITTEN BY MAD DOG; SAGE OUT OF DANGER

Willis Fletcher Sage, son of Edmund E. Sage, of Mt. Bethel, who was recently bitten by a mad dog, is doing well under the Pasteur treatment and in the opinion of physician all danger is now passed. Steps are to be taken by his father for better protection from dogs throughout Warren township, and the matter will doubtless be brought to the attention of the Township Committee.

The dog which bit young Sage was owned by Alfred E. Binz, and a report from Trenton on the case showed that the animal was suffering from the rabies at the time of the attack.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF DAVID J. GARTH HELD

The funeral service of David J. Garth, who died on Thursday at the home of his brother-in-law, George R. Cornwell, on Gresham road, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, of which he was a member for more than forty years. The burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mr. Garth was visiting in this city when he was taken ill and died. During the past six years he had lived in California. For many years he was engaged in the wholesale tobacco business which he later sold to the Lorillard Tobacco Company. Since that time he had lived in retirement.

DO NOT APPOINT HEALTH OFFICER

Board's Time Taken Up With Rules for Protection of Food from Contamination.

SUMMON MERCHANTS

Seek Their Co-operation In Preventing Exposure of Fruit, Vegetables, Etc., From Dust, Flies and Dirt—Permits Granted.

The Board of Health at its semi-monthly meeting last night received a copy of the rules and regulations adopted recently by the State Board of Health, for the guidance of local boards in the enforcement of Chapter 231, laws of 1909, in regard to the exposure of food stuffs to contamination by dust, dirt and flies. The board decided to arrange for a conference with the dealers with a view to securing their co-operation in carrying out these rules.

The matter is considered of great importance and all concerned are urged to work together to bring about a better condition in the way of having the food supplied to the public protected against all possible contamination. The board maintains that the public has this matter largely in its own hands by refusing to buy fruits and vegetables unless they are properly protected.

The board adopted a resolution to the effect that all new applicants desiring to do work in the city as a master or foreman plumber, must first submit to an examination by a committee from the board. In accordance with the provisions of this resolution, the bonds of Joseph Goros and Charles Krauss were referred to this committee until they comply with the resolution.

No further action was taken by the board in regard to the matter of appointing a health officer. The present arrangement, John O'Brien as supervising health officer and Miss Harriett Mattison as acting health officer, will probably continue for several months. Permits to sell milk were granted to the following: The Rogers' Grocery Company, Burnley Farms, Mrs. W. E. Wiegand and Mrs. J. H. Norgard. The Independent Ice Company was also given permission to sell ice, while the plumber's bond of Jacob Voehl, Jr., was ordered filed.

TUESDAY'S EXCURSIONISTS CAN SEE T. R. CONVENTION

The Baptists of Plainfield and their many friends are anxiously looking forward to the annual excursion to Asbury Park, next Tuesday. The annual outing will be held under the auspices of the First Baptist and Temple Baptist churches, and as usual, promises to be one of the red letter days of the summer season. The old adage that it always rains when the Baptists go to the shore is no longer true and everything points to fine weather and there is no doubt but that a record attendance will result.

The train will leave Plainfield at 8:15 o' clock in the morning and arrangements have been made for a sufficient number of coaches so that everyone will be able to make the trip in comfort. Be sure and plan to go with the Baptists. An added attraction at the shore will be the State convention in the interest of Roosevelt's candidacy and those interested will doubtless find the excursion a convenient means of reaching the shore.

UNION SERVICE AT 1st BAPTIST.

The union service of the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, First M. E. and Trinity Reformed churches will be held at the First Baptist church tomorrow night at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. J. Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will preach, his subject being, "Humanity's Greatest Question." The pastors of the other three churches will assist in the service and the chorus choir of the church will sing.

Mrs. A. B. Laing and children, of Washington avenue, are sojourning at Point-o-Woods, Long Island.

PTOMAINE POISONING NEARLY FATAL TO TWO

Mrs. Bostwick and Son, Critically Ill After Drinking Milk at Algeciras.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Eoff, of Franklin place, have received a letter from their daughter, the wife of Dr. Bostwick, of Algeciras, in which she tells of a very narrow escape she and her son, Walton, had from death through ptomaine poisoning. They were taken ill the latter part of June and by the time the parents received the letter both Mrs. Bostwick and her son had about recovered.

The illness was caused by milk which the family obtained through the usual source and was thought to be all right. Some of it was used for cooking purposes, while both Mrs. Bostwick and her son also drank some of it. The fact that the latter swallowed two glasses of it probably saved his life. He got an overdose which caused him to vomit immediately and in this way the liquid did not have an opportunity to poison him as it did his mother. However, both were in a critical condition for days and at one time their recovery was in doubt.

The health officer at Algeciras immediately obtained a sample of the milk took it to Gibraltar where a rabbit was innoculated. The animal died in twenty-four hours. Steps were taken at once to see that that source of milk was shut off.

Dr. Bostwick, who is a dentist, being a graduate of the dental department of the University of Pennsylvania, has been practicing in Gibraltar and vicinity for several years. Fortunately he did not drink any of the milk which poisoned his wife and son, and he was able to render valuable assistance.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. ANNE E. DUNN

The funeral of Mrs. Anne Elizabeth Dunn, wife of Solomon F. Dunn, was held at the late home, 320 Park avenue, at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including many co-workers in the missionary societies of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the church, officiated. There were numerous floral tributes from relatives and friends.

Mrs. Dunn was one of the charter members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. She was born in Westfield, being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Hadley. After her marriage she removed to this city. Following the service yesterday the burial was in Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were George Worth, William Worth, John Worth, Allen Dunn, William Dunn and Charles Dunn.

LAWN FESTIVAL NETS $45.

About $45 was realized at the lawn festival held under the auspices of the Official Board of the Grace M. E. church on the church lawn, Somerset street and Park place, last night. There was a large attendance and everything was sold. Two features of the evening were the music under the leadership of E. D. Young of West Front street, and the clippings and Chinese laundry tags by Miss Steiner. The committee were H. K. Carroll, chairman; Mrs. George Nelson, Mrs. W. J. Conroy, V. P. Heath, Mrs. J. Darby and Misses Myra and Elza Lippincott and Grace and Carrie Williams.

In quite a number of instances there are vacancies in this list where candidates failed to pass and in many other cases not enough eligibles succeeded in the test. The men to be appointed to the Election Board are to be chosen in the presence of the County Judge by the County Election Board by the same manner in which a jury is drawn, namely, by putting all the names in a box, shaking up the box and then drawing out as many names as there are positions to be filled.

In those cases where there are no eligibles the Geran act provides that the County Judge shall select men from the proper political party in the respective election district and certify these names to the County Board of Election, which shall then make the appointment.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ROBERT ZERGIEBEL HELD

The funeral service of Freeholder Robert Zergiebel was held at the Mt. PLAINFIELD DEMOCRATIC CLUB
No. 102 North Avenue.

Plainfield, N. J., July 19, 1912.

Plainfield Daily Press,
Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—

At a meeting of the Plainfield Democratic Club held on Tuesday, the 16th inst., mention was made of the editorial in your paper of July 3d, in which you discuss the nomination of Governor Wilson at the Baltimore Convention. The fairness and lack of narrow partisanship that you display in your comments in this editorial, appealed so strongly to the membership of this Club that they passed a resolution congratulating you, and appointed the undersigned a committee of one to advise you of the fact.

There is no doubt in our minds that the Daily Press is an independent newspaper, and that such a policy will greatly enhance its power and influence in the community.

Yours very truly,
PLAINFIELD DEMOCRATIC CLUB

FORMER LAWYER IS RELEASED

Horace Coddington, Convicted of Misappropriating Township Funds, Out of Jail.

WARREN TWP. SCANDAL

Lawyer Fought Hard Against Going to Prison—State Board of Inspectors and Governor Act Favorably On His Case.

Following repeated efforts and the influence of Inspector Jacob Shurts, Horace Coddington, who was convicted on a charge of misappropriating funds in Warren township, Somerset county, and sentenced to a term in State Prison, has secured his release and returned to his home. The Board of State Prison Inspectors took up the question of releasing prisoners under the indeterminate sentence law passed last winter. By the provisions of this law prisoners who have served two-thirds of their terms may be released by the approval of the inspectors and the Governor.

A few days ago the first lot of prisoners was acted upon and the first one to secure his release was Horace Coddington, who had served two-thirds of his term. Prior to going to State Prison Coddington was successful in securing a stay of sentence for a time, but on the last appeal the courts decided that he must go to prison.

The charge against Coddington, his trial and sentence to a State Prison term were among the most sensational happenings in Somerset county in years. About the same time Joel Coddington, who was the treasurer of Warren township and custodian of school funds, was convicted on a similar charge and was sentenced to serve eighteen months in State Prison. Horace Coddington's sentence was about one year. The latter bitterly fought the case from the beginning and did all in his power to escape going to prison.

According to the evidence brought out at the trial and later reviewed by the Court of Errors and Appeals there seemed to be no question of the man's guilt and he was finally compelled to pay the penalty for misusing the funds of Warren township. Coddington was a lawyer, but following his conviction he was disbarred from practicing law in New Jersey.

HARRY BENNETT UP ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

Harry Bennett, of 817 George street, was brought before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning charged by Overseer of the Poor De Forest with non-support of his wife and six children. This is the third time he has been arraigned for the same offense and he told the court he was out of work and could not supply the needed funds. Garret T. Dunham, assistant to the overseer, said he was obliged to pay $13 for the rent of the Bennett home on George street last month, in order to keep the family from being put out, and further stated that the accused is an expert mechanic and it was because of his own laziness that he was out of work.

Judge DeMeza suspended sentence on Bennett upon his promise to avoid further trouble in the matter by keeping up the financial end of the family affairs.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JULY 20, 1912.

The editorial columns of this paper are conducted on Saturdays by representative citizens who are free to express their own views. Henry L. Hall is the contributing editor for today.

John Lathrop Motley, our ambassador to the Court of Austria, absorbed by the labor of collecting data for his "History of the United Netherlands," wrote the following paragraph, in 1866, to his old friend and fellow student, Count Bismarck, who was then busy bowling down German sovereigns like nine-pins to the confusion of France and Austria and to the glorification of William the First: "I am very busy myself with the politics of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and am always amused at seeing how much they resemble those of this age. The world is a cat always going after its own tail."

Unrest is a topic that is attracting the attention of the serious-minded theorist. He rings the alarm of national calamity in as many changes as newspaper space will permit.

Unrest stalks like a pestilence up and down the country, carrying dismal foreboding into each community.

Unrest gets into his very fibre and tissue until he becomes pessimistic and suffers from the malicious thing more than all who read his warning. This individual form of unrest is probably hepatogenic.

Some years ago old Elm Street, New York, was torn asunder to permit the construction of the subway. The thoroughfare with piles of stones and dirt looked like a mining camp. Double-decked tenements arose like cliffs to add realism to the mining scene, viewed from the office windows. Among the dwellers of the "cliffs" lived a wild aggregation of street gamins, surcharged with a quality of unrest that found an outlet in heaving stones at everything, especially selecting some entirely breakable windows of the offices. The chief could not discover the offenders though the evidence of unrest was liberally distributed over the map. One morning the chief addressed himself to a small collection of humanity, known as kids, requesting the name of the boss of the gang. The collection of kids rapidly increased. From the crowd gathered, a diminutive Italian stepped up to the chief and claimed this distinction.

The chief suggested that with such talent as the gang displayed in throwing stones a ball nine could be supported and offered baseball, bats and other equipment for a team. The offer was met with a howl of derision that would have struck terror to a gentle soul; but the chief urged the boss to lend his influence, and strange as it reads, the tiny son of Italy was an epitome of the real thing. Silencing the crowd of kids, pointing his finger at the petitioner, he exclaimed in a shrill voice, "Say, Chief, is dis on der level?" The chief replied in the affirmative, whereupon his questioner cried out, "Well, den if youse is on der level, spit to show it's no lie." The chief spat and immediately each unit of the human aide spat and proclaimed in loud chorus, "He spit! It's on der level." A ball nine was formed, the unrest was not quelled; it was controlled and directed in a reasonable channel. These organized sons of unrest were impelled by an individual force to do something. They could not keep still so they played ball and loyally protected the chief's windows.

A prevalent form of unrest finds outlet in the facile pen of the magazine contributor who deplores the sordid race for riches and social preferment; or an emotional outburst against alleged infamous political systems; or an array of staggering figures that indicates the early decadence of the human race. It is a composite picture that looks like a Bacchanalian tumult.

Unrest is not in the "mote and beam" class. Unrest is human and means activity, doing things, being something and somebody. In the hands of the pessimist it means 'knock' when it could do such good work 'boosting.' Unrest is not a calamity that requires treatment at the hands of a master of economics. It has always been a part of the human makeup. The profound Motley unearthed it in the United Netherlands of the sixteenth century; Bismarck harnessed it and discovered a force to control Central Europe.

Chicago and Baltimore recently witnessed the development of unrest and great good will follow its expansion.

Among the visitors yesterday was Mrs. Catherine Hoyt, of Pittsburg, Pa. She is a probation officer of that city.

PLAYGROUNDS WANTED FOR RED BANK NOW

Red Bank, July 20.—The King's Daughters of Red Bank are advocating public playgrounds for the borough. A public meeting to discuss the matter was held last night in the Board of Commerce chambers. Miss Julia Schoenfield, one of the field secretaries of the Playground Association of America, addressed the meeting. A. B. Wilson, of Red Bank, who has had experience in playground work, also spoke.

The Red Bank Board of Education contemplates the purchase of two pieces of property. They are the land at the rear of the High School building and a part on the Drummond property on Shrewsbury avenue. It is planned to build a new school on the latter. By the purchase of these properties, the town, it is figured, would have good-sized sites for playgrounds in localities convenient for children in the Eastern and Western sections of the town.

The King's Daughters were instrumental in having the Town Council enforce the curfew law of the borough, thus keeping children under the age of fourteen years off the streets after 9 o'clock at night unless accompanied by their parents or guardians.

W. H. LUDLOW BURIED.

Craig Smith, John Coddington, Henry Frazze, Abram King and Edward Vanderbeek.

There were many floral tributes. Six members of the Moulders' Union, acted as bearers. They were William B. Smith, Morris Kennedy, William H. Smith, Edward Coffey, Michael Regan and Peter Sheridan. Father Bogan officiated. The body was removed to Nashua, N. H., where interment will be made.

MAN BURNED IN PIT BY AUTO TRUCK BACK-FIRE

Red Bank, July 20.—Standing in a repair pit under his automobile, H. N. Ransom, of New York, who is spending the summer at his country estate at Locust Point, near here, was badly burned about the body and arms by a back-fire in the carbureter Thursday afternoon. After temporary treatment he was hurried to the Long Branch Hospital.

Prompt action by his colored chauffeur spared Mr. Ransom more serious injury. Mr. Ransom, while under the car, asked the chauffeur to start the engine. As this was done the back-fire occurred. The pit was aflame in a moment. The chauffeur dragged his employer to safety and helped put out the blaze in his clothing.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

NEW CARROTS.

WITH new carrots in the market, even those who do not ordinarily care much for this vegetable may find it palatable in the many attractive forms in which it may be served.

Cut in fancy shapes carrots are useful as a garnish for meats or other vegetables.

As a Dessert.

Carrot Pudding. — Take three-quarters of a pound of boiled and mashed carrots and mix with them a half pound of breadcrumbs, a quarter of a pound each of raisins and currants, three beaten eggs, a cupful of sugar, a half cupful of milk, a quarter of a grated nutmeg and a half teaspoonful of salt. When well combined pour into a buttered pudding dish. Bake for an hour and serve with cream and sifted sugar. This can be sliced and served cold.

Carrot Croquettes.—Boil fresh, tender carrots until they are soft enough to mash quite smooth. Then add a beaten egg, a large spoonful of melted butter and pepper and salt to taste. Set the paste aside to cool. Form into croquettes. Roll in fine crumbs, then in beaten egg and then in crumbs again. Let them stand in a cold place half an hour and fry in deep fat to a good brown.

Appetizing Recipes.

Stewed Carrots.—Take a quart of carrots, a tablespoonful each of butter, flour, onion juice and finely cut parsley, also a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Wash, scrape and cut the carrots into pieces one inch long, cover with boiling water and boil until tender. Pour off the water, then add the onion juice, salt, pepper, butter and flour, rubbed together, and boil three minutes; then add parsley.

Creamed Carrots.—Take one quart of cut carrots, one tablespoonful of chopped onions, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of white pepper. Put the carrots on in boiling water enough to cover and boil until tender. Drain and save the water in which they are cooked. Put the butter and onion in a saucepan over the fire and cook one minute, add the flour and mix well. Then add one cupful of the carrot water. Mix the carrots and sauce together, add the salt, pepper and parsley. Cook three minutes.

A bunch of artificial flowers at the waist or higher on the bodice is the finishing touch to many afternoon gowns.

Russian dresses or those that are made with belted blouses are exceedingly new and smart for girls' wear. This dress is made of blue linen with stripes of white and trimmed with white collar and cuffs.

GOV. THOS. R. MARSHALL.

Wilson's Running Mate Is Preparing Speech of Acceptance.

© 1912, by American Press Association.

MARSHALL SEEKS QUIET.

Governor Wilson's Running Mate In Seclusion Preparing Speech.

Helmar, Ind., July 20.—Seeking a vacation and a quiet spot where he can prepare his speech accepting the Democratic vice presidential nomination, Governor Thomas R. Marshall settled down to his task at Pleasant Lake, eight miles from here. Mrs. Marshall accompanied him, and they are staying at the home of her parents.

No date for the Marshall notification has been announced yet, but it was said that the news may be broken to him at Sea Girt in the presence of the presidential nominee. Governor Marshall approves this arrangement if Governor Wilson requests it.

LEADERS TO DECIDE PLANS FOR STATES

T. R. Insists, However, on "No Taft Support."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 20.—Fresh from a meeting of the Connecticut state third party committee, of which he has just become a member, President Luther of Trinity college, Hartford, came to Sagamore Hill to consult with Colonel Roosevelt on the situation in his state. Herbert Knox Smith, who recently resigned as commissioner of corporations in order to take an active part in the Connecticut campaign, is expected late today. He has also been added to the state committee.

The progressives in Connecticut have not yet determined just what course will be followed in naming their electors. The question is held over for settlement at a mass convention scheduled for July 30.

Colonel Roosevelt, it is believed, will adhere to his repeated determination to leave to his leaders the details of organization in their respective states.

The only interference on the part of the colonel so far has been his disapproval of any plan by which the compromise was carried to the point of pledging his electors to contingent support of President Taft.

The colonel is hard at work upon his platform, but he is not neglecting to keep himself in physical trim for the arduous campaign trip upon which he will embark after the convention.

STUMPED THE SPELLERS.

One Simple Little Word Vanquished the Entire School.

The following story is vouched for by A. J. Carter of Carbon Center, Pa., his grandaunt having been a witness of the incident, says the Philadelphia Record.

In Armstrong county, Pa., in the year of 1830 or thereabout, when educational facilities in the rural districts were decidedly crude, and the burden of the curriculum in the old log "skulehouse" was involved in spellin' 'ritin' and 'rithmetic, with considerable high pressure on the spellin', as exploited in periodical spelling matches between rival neighboring schools, a "skulemaster," with all the proverbially quaint attributes of his time and calling—long, lank, cadaverous, spectacled, prominent nose and Henry Clay locks, even down to the threadbare frock coat, broad brimmed hat and blue cotton umbrella—piloted his flock of linsey clouted and skirted "scholars" to a neighboring school to break a lance or two in the orthographical pastime. The ensuing "spellin' bee" was spirited, the visitors finally being vanquished after a long set-to.

The visiting master then requested to be permitted to test the opposition with a few special "twisters" he had in preparation for them. His host consenting to the ordeal, the entire school was lined up and proceeded to unwind the twisters with more or less success until their examiner propounded one that caused them all to stutter and trample their toes in dismay—"Egg-wiped."

They all had a try, many tries, and the master pronounced the word over and over for them, enunciating clearly, distinctly, syllabically, "Egg-wiped!"

Everybody missed to his or her own discomfiture and confusion, and to their own master's humiliation. Again and again they were asked if they gave it up. At last the premier spellers of the school shamefacedly acknowledged their inability to spell the word and gave it up.

The schoolmaster then spelled it for them with a flourish of triumph not unmixed with contempt, "E-g-y-p-t!"

Just Like a Real "Uncle."

Nat Goodwin was once the victim of an amusing incident in the theater. In one of his parts he had to come on the stage with a coat over his arm and call out loudly, "Uncle, uncle!" According to the book, he should have received no reply, but one night one of the "gods" answered him with: "All right; I'm coming in a minute! How much do you want on the coat?"

Gave Him a Hand.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Field of Bangor is a very absent minded man. When on the street, in the cars, or even at dinner, his mind is often so fully concentrated upon the subject of his next sermon that he appears to take no notice of surrounding circumstances. At one time, traveling between Bangor and Boston, as the conductor of the train, passing through the car making collections of tickets, came to Dr. Field with hand outstretched, the reverend gentleman, glancing up quickly from a reverie, looked into his face a moment, then grasped the extended hand and said: "Good afternoon, sir; but I think you have a little advantage of me. What name?"

GRASPED THE EXTENDED HAND.

Dodging the Doctor.

Joseph Jefferson, Jr., is fond of repeating a yarn that his father used to tell concerning a friend of the elder Jefferson who was an inveterate smoker. The man was getting along in years and found himself afflicted with some ailment which caused him a great deal of anxiety.

"Why don't you consult a specialist?" Jefferson asked him.

After thinking it over he decided he would. Several days later Jefferson met him and inquired as to his health asking him if he had seen a doctor.

"Yes, I went to see one," said the old man.

"And what did he say??

"Well, you see, I'm a great smoker," he answered, "and I knew he would ask me the first thing how much I smoked and tell me to go a little slow. I smoke about twenty cigars a day and, when he asked me how many I consumed, I told him on an average of forty. 'That's too many,' he said; 'just cut the number in half.' I am now smoking but twenty."

PLAN BICYCLE RACES FOR NEXT LABOR DAY

The annual city and county championship bicycle races will be held on Labor Day this year as usual by the Plainfield Bicycle Club. This was decided last night at a meeting of the club held in its rooms in the rear of Jack Horner's bicycle shop on Somerset street. It is the intention of the club to have a one mile city heat race and a one mile county heat race on Mountain avenue, where the races were held last year. A diamond studded gold medal will be the prize for first place and silver and bronze medals for second and third places respectively. As the sport of bicycling has revived this year, many entries are expected.

M'COMBS TALKS WITH MR. MACK

Herman Ridder Is Likely to Be Selected Treasurer.

QUARTERS OPEN NEXT WEEK

William G. McAdoo Apparently Doesn't Care For Vice Chairmanship and Will Not Take It Unless Governor Wilson Insists—McCombs Later to Open Western Offices.

New York, July 20.—Norman E. Mack, the retiring chairman of the Democratic national committee, gave to William F. McCombs, the new chairman, some pointers on the work before him. The two met and talked in Mr. Mack's rooms in the Knickerbocker hotel. After a long talk Mr. Mack took a train for Buffalo.

The question of selecting suitable headquarters was discussed, and it is understood that, acting on the advice of Mr. Mack, the new national chairman will open quarters in an office building in the neighborhood of Forty-second street and Broadway. It was also decided to have, in addition to the headquarters in Chicago, headquarters which will be located in either Denver or San Francisco. Mr. McCombs said that the New York headquarters would be opened next week and that after he had got these in running order he would go to Chicago to start the campaign there.

Another matter that was discussed by Mr. McCombs and Mr. Mack was that of the treasurership. It is believed that Herman Ridder, the treasurer of the Democratic national campaign in 1908, will be asked to take the office again this year.

Campaign Committee Meets.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 20.—Governor Wilson's campaign committee had its second meeting at the New Monmouth hotel, Spring Lake, and adjourned to meet Monday in New York city, probably at the office of Chairman William F. McCombs. The meeting was attended by eleven of the committeemen, but the governor himself did not appear. It was devoted mainly to a discussion of organization, although some names were mentioned. For vice chairman there seemed to be but one name at that time, and that was William G. McAdoo, who does not want the job and will not take it unless the governor asks him to do so.

There were four names mentioned for treasurer—Herman Ridder, the present incumbent; Nathan Straus, Henry Morgenthau and John D. Crimmins.

Mr. McCombs hurried away to catch a train for New York, where he was to see Norman E. Mack, and Senator O'Gorman went to Washington. The other gentlemen prepared to rest up over Sunday.

VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN ILL

Will Remain at Home During Rest of Senate Session.

Washington, July 20.—James S. Sherman, vice president of the United States, has been ill at his home in Utica for several weeks and has decided, after consultation with the leaders of the senate, to remain there during the rest of the present session of congress.

Mr. Sherman's condition just now is said to be very favorable, but for a time his friends were alarmed. He was threatened with a chronic disorder attended with heart weakness and in a few weeks lost thirty pounds.

PRAISE FOR COMPANY K

medical officers have heard several lectures by the regular army surgeons, and next week will devote the entire time to theoretical field work.

A laughable incident occurred in camp when an orderly for one of the New Jersey officers reported on the picket line of the First Troop for a horse, declaring, "I am the best rider in this camp."

A lively horse was given to him and a few minutes later the animal, with the "rough rider" hanging to the saddle and yelling to be taken off, dashed through the field kitchen of General Collins' mess and deposited the rider on the back of the brigade cook, who was making bread.

The cook is a favorite of the brigade commander and General Collins, after ascertaining that his chef had escaped serious injury had to speak sharply to the man, who planned to pursue the "rough rider" with an axe.

Major Evan M. Johnson, Jr., U. S. A. infantry inspector for New Jersey, and during the camp, inspector attached to the New Jersey Brigade headquarters, has expressed himself well pleased with the way the commissary arrangements have been carried out by the brigade staff.

In Lebanon and the amusement park near the camping site, the police authorities and citizens have remarked the orderly behavior and clean-cut appearance of the New Jersey soldiers. Not so much is said of some troops that occupied the camp last week.

Plans for the big general fight have not been communicated to the guardsmen by Colonel Cecil, camp commander, and it is understood that the New Jersey and Maryland commanders will not be given the plan of operation, the problem or the terrain location, until tomorrow night, twelve hours before the beginning of the "big war," and then there will be some hurried councils in the opposing camps.

CAMP NOTES.

The men of Company K are looking forward to the big manoeuvre on Monday and Tuesday with much interest, and are speculating as to just what they will be required to do at that time. The camp has become quiet, and so far as the Plainfield and Somerville boys are concerned there has been little or no sickness. All have settled down and the novelty of camp life has worn off, a few having begun to get home sick. There is some talk that certain of the boys may enlist in the regular army, as a number of inquiries have been made by them about regular army life.

So pleased is Captain Peterson about the way his men have acted that he is thinking of a plan to give them a treat when they return home, or before they leave here.

According to the gossip about camp Sergeant Pierson has been so busy as acting quartermaster sergeant that he issued ten rounds of blank ammunition, instead of a portion of beans to one man. The rumor has not been verified.

There is only one man up to date with whom Sergeant Apgar has had trouble, and he is so noisy that the sergeant is threatening to make him sleep out in the street during the rest of the encampment. The remarkable thing about this man is that two years ago at Gettysburg he was only heard to utter three words, and they were "I am hungry."

The other day the sun came out, and the boys started to do some washing. Then it started to rain, and as a result it was necessary for a number of the boys to wear blankets about camp because their clothes were not dry. One lot of men tried to dry their clothes out in the oven, and as a result they had to go to the quartermaster's headquarters for new clothes.

Yesterday the dispatch from the camp said Lieutenant Hort was homesick. He is not homesick for Plainfield especially, but is homesick for the boys of Company K, and although detailed as aide to the commander, he makes frequent visits to the company street.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

For the first time in a cycle of blue moons we have our old friends, the Dunellen baseball team, with us on the Oval this afternoon.

And with six local men in the line-up, including our favorite little leader of two years ago, Britt Martin.

Eddie Stallings is tired of confining his valor solely to extra base blows, so now he has formed the habit of stealing home.

Wally Cosgrove is well versed in Greek mythology. In Westfield last week he spiked Germany Ortlieb in the heel, thinking it was his vulnerable spot. He found that Germany wasn't Achilles. Ortlieb fanned him on the next trip to the plate.

Harward Savant says that the Sphinx was built in 2800 B. C. That's 4707 years before Gage started to make a notable of himself in the Sunday-school Baseball League.

Frank Dunning has mended a big rent in the Bank's infield. He has polish and manners for a regular berth.

Christy Mathewson, by the way, is compiling a record that will soon rival Marquard's. He has now won fourteen games and lost but four.

How many baseball fans take the recent slump of the Giants seriously? Few, very few.

They have suffered quite a little from the phenomenal record made by Marquard. He was on the edge during his sensational run of nineteen victories and when he was at last drowned by Lavender, of Chicago, the fire went out and the strain under which the Giants' twirler had been working asserted itself.

A Dunellen baseball enthusiast dropped into the Daily Press office this morning and called upon the sporting editor to decide a simple yet interesting question. Here's the conversation:

"Are you the sporting editor?"

"Yes, in cool weather; in warm temperature I'm usually the verbal slinger. What can I do for you?"

"Well, I'm Mr. B—., of Dunellen, and I've come to decide a bet made between two Dunellen fans, regarding Dave Driscoll's age. Mr. C—. bets that Dave is under the voting limit, while Mr. M—. covered the other end."

What was our answer? Why, Mr. M—'s bet is like taking candy from a kid.

Umpire Langdon has departed for the land where the canned tomatoes bloom. James Cullem is arbitrating this afternoon.

President Taft congratulates the Olympic team. Now why doesn't the Olympic team congratulate Mr. Taft?

Why is the bluefish blue?
Because the clamor of the clams.
Because the crabs are crabbed.
Because it doesn't like to have the horse-shoe crabs.

In nearly every one of the 365 newspapers we read this morning we saw something about Jack Martin, the local boy playing shortstop for the New York Yankees. He scored the tying run in yesterday's game and drove out the hit that brought in the winning count in the tenth.

Yesterday marked the twelfth anniversary of McGraw's advent in New York as a manager and he was guest of honor at a banquet held last evening.

JACK MARTIN A BASEBALL HERO

Young Plainfielder Wins the Game for the Yankees In the Tenth.

Jack Martin, of this city, won fame in the Yankees' game yesterday afternoon for he was the sole cause of the hard luck team winning a game. He drove out a long two-base hit and thus scored the tieing run himself, and in the tenth he singled to left bringing in Hartzell with what proved to be the winning count.

By virtue of his work on the hilltop yesterday Martin got his face in the New York Herald's "Prism of Prodigies" with the following notice:

"Nothing gives more pleasure than to introduce a winner, and a new one at that. Therefore 'Jack' Martin, shortstop of the New York Yankees, is our hero today and is reproduced in the Prism of Prodigies because he was instrumental in winning the game for the Yankees against Cleveland yesterday. John doubled in the fourth inning and scored the run which tied the score then, but his big act came in the tenth round. Two were out when Simmons doubled. Hartzell was passed on purpose, Blanding, the Cleveland pitcher, concluding that Mr. Martin, late of the bushes, would not be there in the emergency. But "Jack" laced a single to left and drove home the run which won the game."

The World this morning made the following comment on his work:

"'Kid' Martin, who plays shortstop for the Highlanders when he is not injured and when Manager Harry Wolverton is not trying somebody else at short, is a game youngster. Rumors that Tommy McMillan, formerly a Dodger, was on his way to the Broadway ball lot to replace Martin didn't disturb the Kid. Four times it came his way yesterday to produce a hit and bring in the run the Highlanders needed to beat the Cleveland Naps. Three times he failed, but he kept on trying. His fourth chance came in the tenth inning. Then, with George Simmons, who had doubled on second, the Kid smashed the ball on a line to left, and the Williamsburg lad tallied the run that got the Broadway Boys a much needed victory by 4 runs to 3."

NEWARK VS. WESTFIELD.

Eddie Flynn will take his Westfield ball team to Newark tomorrow afternoon to oppose the Newark Athletics. Most of Flynn's balltossers were playing with him when he ran the Roseville A. C. in Newark and are all well known in the latter place. In Westfield this nine has made good, losing but two contests, but he will without doubt find the going a little fast against the Athletics. They have played with almost invariable success, a single defeat marring its record for the year.

PHILADELPHIA HAS AN ATHLETIC CARP.

Is a Combination High and Broad Jumper—The Record.

While American athletes are breaking records abroad an American athlete living in Philadelphia, says the Philadelphia Press, has broken a world's record and set a mark which will doubtless remain for some years unless the athlete in question sees fit to break his own record.

Being modest and spurning the applause which attends such events, he performed the remarkable feat in the presence of two of his associates belonging to the fair sex and a stranger of whose presence he was unconscious. It was through this stranger that the new champion was made known to the world.

He did not search for a big stadium filled with thousands of admirers, but took in preference his everyday environment.

The new world beater is a large carp which has recently been received at the aquarium, who in defiance of Mr. Meehan, in charge of the aquarium, jumped from his tank and started to make a tour of inspection in Fairmount park showing marked partiality for the Schuylkill river.

Since his arrival at the aquarium Mr. Carp has entertained his lady acquaintances and his keepers with marvelous jumping feats. His aerobatic accomplishments were becoming too pronounced for his good health and the state of mind in which he kept his keepers. As a check to his wanderlust a wire netting was placed above his tank to prevent him trying his hand at aeronautics.

One day recently he resented this restraint of his liberty and with a mighty jump lunged against this screen, knocked it off and hit about six feet from his tank. His jump was fully three and a half feet high, which makes a combination high broad jump.

Mr. Meehan has now solved the question of Mr. Carp's captivity and has tied this top on with large rope.

Undressing While Swimming.

An authority on boating and swimming advises that every boy and girl who is learning to swim also learn to undress in the water, so that in case of falling overboard from a boat there will be less danger of drowning. Put on old clothes, he says, swim with one hand and the opposite foot and take off the shoe from the free foot with the free hand. After the shoes are off they being the first things to get rid of, the swimmer should turn on his back and take off his clothes or as many as he can get off, swimming meanwhile with his legs.—New York Herald.

What Makes the Valet.

"It's so ridiculous," said Cholly Sapbead, "to say that 'clothes don't make the man.'"

"Indeed?" replied Miss Pepprey.

"Yaas. You see, if a fellow like me didn't have such lots of clothes he wouldn't need a man."—Catholic Standard and Times.

HEALTH OFFICER STILL MISSING

Think Absconding Official Is on Way to Europe.

CIRCULARS ARE SENT OUT

Commissioner Kehoe of Passaic Says "We Will Get Elliott if He Is on Top of Earth"—Was $1,045.42 Short In His Accounts.

Passaic, N. J., July 20.—Dr. J. Nelson Elliott, health officer of Passaic, who disappeared last Monday without a word of farewell to his wife and two children, was $1,045.42 short in his accounts, and a general alarm requesting his capture was sent out by order of City Commissioner John H. Kehoe, one of the heads of the Passaic commission government.

Commissioner Kehoe, who has charge of the police and health departments, said when he announced Dr. Elliott's shortage: "We will get him if he is on top of the earth." The disappearance of the health officer is being made much capital of by the political element that opposed a commission government.

It was learned that when Dr. Elliott boarded a train last Monday he said to Plumbing Inspector Frank S. Kivitt, "By this time tomorrow I will be on the briny deep."

In the circulars being sent out requesting the police of different cities to hunt for Dr. Elliott there is the suggestion, "He may be found in first class cafes."

Dr. Elliott is thirty-seven years old and the son of a distinguished New York surgeon now dead. He came to Passaic three years ago, after having been employed as a sanitarian in the Croton watershed. His relatives in Chicago will care for the abandoned wife and two children.

Because of the absconding health officer's statement to Plumbing Inspector Kivitt detectives were sent to New York to look up the passenger lists of vessels that have sailed since Monday. It is known the Elliott family had a Cunard line pass.

MAY DIE OF EATING PORK.

Midnight Meal of Kantor Family Upset All but Baby.

Passaic, N. J., July 20.—Michael Kantor and his wife of this city and Michael Devock, a boarder in their house, were believed to be dying in St. Mary's hospital and three of the Kantor children were in a serious condition as the result, so the doctors say, of eating pork just before midnight. The three children were Nicholas, six years old; Cornelius, five years old, and Carl, four years old.

Mrs. Kantor purchased the pork in a local butcher shop for 10 cents. It was close to midnight when the family, including the children and the boarder, sat about the table and ate heartily. An hour later neighbors of the Kantors were aroused by the screaming of the children.

THINK BABIES KILLED.

Elizabeth Police Believe Bodies Found Indicate Many Were Slain.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 20.—That wholesale destruction of infants has been carried on in Elizabethport is the opinion of the police as the result of the finding of the bodies of two baby boys buried in a lot. They had been under ground for some time. The attention of John Yorksz, a boy, was called to the spot by pieces of cloth protruding from the ground.

A month ago a Cranford domestic was placed under arrest for causing the death of a new born infant found at that place. She was sent to the reformatory. A short time before another body was discovered. The section is inhabited chiefly by Poles and Lithuanians.

PREACHER SAVES CHILDREN.

Mother Uses Oil on Fire, Which Explodes, Fatally Burning Her.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 20.—Mrs. George Mitchell of this city was fatally burned when a can of oil exploded. Her two children were saved from suffocation by the Rev. D. C. Cobb, who carried them out of the house.

Mrs. Mitchell sought to hurry along the kitchen fire by using kerosene, and the flare of flame caused the can to explode. Neighbors ran to her rescue, but were too late to save her.

FREE MAN CONVICTED ON "MEDIUM'S" WORD

Mays Landing, July 20.—William Strong, a farmer seventy years of age, has been released from prison after serving twelve months of a thirty-year sentence imposed upon him for the killing of his wife at Nesco in October, 1910.

Recently the Supreme Court reversed the verdict, ruling out the evidence of an alleged confession extorted from the aged farmer by a boardwalk "medium," and Strong was brought back to the county jail. Thursday his counsel, former Judge Howard Carrow, made a motion before Justice Kalisch that the farmer be released on his own recognizance, and, the State concurring, he was given his freedom.

DIDN'T PAY ALIMONY, NOW SUED ON NOTES

Trenton, July 20.—In addition to his marital troubles which have recently occupied the attention of the Court of Chancery, Aloysius J. Maguire, a whisky merchant of Philadelphia, has been made a defendant in three suits of attachment in the Supreme Court. The latter proceedings are to recover on notes of Maguire to Rose M. Humphreys for $6,454; to Marie R. McClellan, $6,454, and to Danied Ragna, $6,659.

In the Court of Chancery a summons has been issued for the arrest of Maguire in contempt proceedings, which charge him with being several thousand dollars in arrears in the payment of alimony to his wife.

BACK TO REFORMATORY.

Elizabeth, July 20.—Frederick Davis, twenty-five years old, a former inmate of the State Reformatory at Rahway, was taken back to that institution yesterday. Davis, who belongs in Elizabeth, was sentenced by Judge Atwater in the Union County Court to the reformatory for larceny, but was afterward released on parole. Last week he was arrested here for disorderly conduct and Judge Mahon in police court committed him to the county jail for ten days. His term expired yesterday and for breaking his parole he was sent back to the reformatory.

PASSAIC HEALTH BOARD CHANGES ITS SYSTEM

Passaic, July 20.—The alleged defalcation of Chief Sanitary Inspector Nelson J. Elliott, who is charged with embezzling $1,045, received from milkmen and plumbers' licenses, has prompted the health commissioners to change the system of receiving moneys. Hereafter all licenses will be issued by the secretary, who will collect the fees. He will be under a bond of $5,000, and every month his accounts will be checked up.

Several applications have been received for the position made vacant by Elliott's disappearance. Dr. Frank C. Makepeace, of Paterson, would like the position.

A meeting of the Health Board was held Thursday and it was decided that Drs. Gerald J. Van Schoick and John N. Ryan should do the work of the health officer until an appointment is made. Neither will accept any pay for their services.

Thus far the police have found no clue to Dr. Elliott's whereabouts. It was learned through John Scott Davison, counsel of Elliott, that Mrs. Elliott with her two children will leave Monday for Chicago, where they will be taken care of by her husband's relatives.

DROPS DEAD ON THE STREET.

New Brunswick, July 20.—While walking along French street Thursday evening talking with J. C. Hammersley, freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Lloyd Burt, yardmaster of the Pennsylvania here and for years an employe of the railroad, fell to the sidewalk and died almost instantly. A blood vessel had burst in his head. His son, Alderman-at-large Edward Burt, and his daughter, Mrs. James F. Stabley, live in this city.

BURNS' MEN WORK ON AUTO SLAYING

Think Rosenthal Murdered With Police Approval.

ASSASSINS DELIBERATE.

Shapiro Says They Lounged About the Hotel Before and After Murder, and He Was Repeatedly Told That Nobody Need Be Afraid of Getting Into Trouble.

New York, July 20.—Three of Burns' detectives questioned William Shapiro, who drove the car in which rode the men who murdered Herman Rosenthal. The Burns men then had a talk with District Attorney Whitman. They then declared that Rosenthal had been slain by a gang that was procured by "Bald Jack" Rose with the knowledge or the approval of a policeman.

From Shapiro, who is trying to save himself, they secured the most astonishing information yet obtained. Shapiro says now that the assassination was a leisurely affair, that the killers did not leap desperately at their work at all and that they lounged in front of the Metropole before and after they pistoled Rosenthal, with no apparent fear of arrest.

The gray car's owner cursed his passengers for dragging him into the murder and sat down and told in detail all that he professes to know about the murder. He was pressed hard to clear up certain points that have been only vaguely referred to. But Shapiro, remembering the threats made by Rosenthal's murderers that they would kill him, threw himself altogether upon the protection of the district attorney and swore that he was walking the straight line of truth.

Protests His Innocence.

"I am innocent, so help me God," he said, with his face working with emotion. "I had no more idea that my car was going to be used for murder than I thought I was going to jump into the East river. Rose has been an old customer of ours. But he hasn't paid for Monday night's ride, and we would like to have the $50.

He repeated what has already been told of the call for the car, told of picking up Rose and a couple of others in front of Sharkey's and said:

"When we started uptown Rose said nothing about trouble ahead. It wasn't until after Rosenthal was killed that I was told that nobody need be afraid about getting into trouble. We went on uptown, and the boys stopped in several places to get a drink. The trip took us finally to a house in West Forty-fifth street, where Rose wanted to see somebody. We started back pretty late, and it wasn't until nearly 2 o'clock in the morning that we got in the neighborhood of Sixth avenue and Forty-third street."

Shapiro at this point was sharply questioned as to whether Rose left the car here or whether he stayed in for the Metropole killing. His answers withheld other important information. It is also known that he put the district attorney and the Burns men on the right track, and he told them of a change in the makeup of the party. Additional passengers, who seemed to be waiting by appointment, were taken into the car, and at least one man stepped out. Shapiro went on:

"I was then ordered to drive down to the Metropole slowly. I picked out a position just east of the Cohan theater, whirled the car round and came to a stop. I saw several policemen not far from the Metropole. Three of my passengers got out of the car slowly and walked over to the Metropole."

Shapiro was not left alone in the gray automobile. Who remained behind to watch him and to see to it that the gray car would not disappear before the need of its passengers cannot be revealed because that would hamper the investigation. But it was evident that the car was guarded coolly and that it was a part of a deliberately worked out plot.

Murderers Took Their Time.

"Three stopped in front of the Metropole," Shapiro continued. "They spoke to somebody who appeared to have come out of the restaurant just about the time they got there. Pretty soon the man they were talking to went back into the restaurant and was gone two or three minutes. Then another man came out and looked around. And just as he glanced from side to side the shooting began. I was scared then and would have given anything to get out of the mess, but the man in the car with me pressed a revolver to my head and asked me if I wanted to die. I didn't, and I sat still with my hand on the wheel.

"The men that shot Rosenthal walked away with their revolvers in their hands. They put the guns in their pockets without any rush, and they stood in the middle of the street half a minute before they started back toward me. They strolled back, walking slowly, and they got in the car as easy and quiet as you could imagine.

Delayed Starting Car.

"By that time we had been in the street twenty minutes or more. I was over a minute getting the car started. I thought sure that policemen would appear and grab us all, and I hoped they would. So I stalled with the motor, pretending I couldn't get it started, but that didn't make any hit with the passengers. One of them stood up and pointed a gun at me and told me to quit monkeying and roll along. I did the best I could then, but I got a wallop alongside the head that made me see stars. I was sick for twenty-four hours because of that lick."

Shapiro then went on to tell of the getaway. His story on this point did not differ materially from what has already been published.

"Going up Fifth avenue," Shapiro continued, "the man who had banged me over the head told me I was a damned fool to get scared. He said nobody was going to get into trouble, because the job had been fixed and that the police weren't doing anything. Then I was warned to keep from talking if I didn't want to get a hole bored in me. I dropped my passengers at Third avenue and Forty-ninth street."

TAFT ADVISERS TO BE KNOWN MONDAY

Tentative List Will Be Submitted to President.

New York, July 20.—The subcommittee of the Republican national committee which was chosen to select an advisory body to assist Charles D. Hilles in running the Taft campaign held sessions which began in the morning at the Waldorf and then drifted to the national headquarters in the Times building, finally winding up in the Knickerbocker hotel.

It was announced that while a tentative list of the men selected for the advisory board had been agreed upon their names would not be made public until Mr. Hilles had an opportunity to submit them to President Taft. A tentative list for the executive committee also was made up, but again these names are to be submitted to the president before any formal announcement is made. It was learned that Mr. Hilles insisted on this course being followed, and as the members of the subcommittee agreed to his suggestion it was decided that Mr. Hilles as national chairman should be authorized to name the two committees.

Mr. Hilles during the meeting of the subcommittee and afterward consulted with President Taft over the long distance phone, but he said that he would not make known the makeup of the committee until Monday. It can be stated that the advisory committee will consist of eighteen members. Not all of them will be members of the Republican national committee.

BOY IS RUN OVER BY AN AUTO.

Red Bank, July 20.—While crossing Monmouth street, near Broad street, yesterday morning, Thomas Morris, Jr., eleven years old, of Wallace street, was struck by an automobile owned and driven by William Orr, of Englewood. The boy was knocked down and the left front wheel passed over his body. He was taken to the office of Dr. J. E. Sayre, where it was found he suffered contusions on the body. Two of his teeth were broken and his upper lip received a bad gash. He was later removed to his home. Young Morris is a member of the Red Bank branch of the Boy Scouts of America. He was engaged in distributing circulars advertising the tuberculosis exhibit to be given here next week when he was struck.

NO TRACE OF BURGLAR.

Metuchen, July 20.—Although the police in cities all over the State have been asked to look for the handcuffed, barefooted, shot-in-the-leg burglar that escaped early Tuesday morning from Chief of Police Flaherty, no trace of him can be found. The trail was lost near Elizabethport where the last man to have seen him was a flagman at a railroad crossing between East Rahway and Elizabethport. Thursday the New York police notified the Metuchen police that they had three suspects and asked that somebody be sent down to identify them. A reward of $200 has been offered for the capture of the man, dead or alive. Acting Mayor Edward Kramer denies that Chief of Police Flaherty is suspended, but Flaherty says he is.

DUNELLEN 'PHONE COMPLAINT HEARD

Representing Borough Trade Board, Bearman Argues Before Public Utility Board.

OPPOSES A FRANCHISE

Claim Made That Term of Proposed Permit Is Too Long—Other Objections—Mayor Richards An Attentive Listener.

"Legally right, but morally wrong," was the way F. D. Baerman, of Dunellen, described before the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners the giving of three free telephones to Dunellen by the New York Telephone Company as compensation for a franchise to do business in that borough.

Mr. Bearman, as a representative of the Dunellen Board of Trade, was arguing against the franchise measure, which is before the Borough Council. He gave many reasons why he thought the ordinance should not be adopted in its present form.

The board took the case under advisement, and assured Mr. Bearman and William MacKarg, the latter representing the telephone company, that it would give a decision soon.

Mr. Bearman was the sole opponent of the franchise present although he claimed to represent the sentiment of every one of the 126 members of the Dunellen Board of Trade. He said in the first place that he was opposed to long franchises, the one in question being for thirty years with a twenty-year renewal provision. Then he opposed that section of the measure which gives the company the right to string wires on the poles of other companies without procuring the consent of the property owners in front of those lands the wires are to be strung.

The speaker suggested an amendment to the ordinance giving the Borough Council the right to say where the poles should be located or relocated.

At this point in his argument, Mr. Bearman brought up the question of free 'phones, saying it was wrong in principle even though it might be right in law. Along the same line he objected to the custom of utility corporations paying for the publication of franchise ordinances in newspapers. It was pointed out by the Utility Board that this was required by law.

Something was said about the protection the Council should give the public and Mayor Charles E. Richards, of Dunellen, who was an interested listener, was asked if the Council was not generally a representative body. The Mayor replied that he "believed so."

Mr. Bearman wanted among his amendments one that would compel the telephone company to lay its conduits—in the event of the wires being put underground some day—in a manner that would not interfere with the Borough in case that body also wanted to lay pipes. This seemed unreasonable to some members of the Commission.

About this time Mr. Bearman thought the commissioners were trying to belittle his arguments and he spoke out:

"I thought I would be given a sympathetic hearing, but it seems as if I were mistaken."

The president of the board hastened to assure the speaker that he had not advanced any argument that "tends to awaken our sympathy."

The part of the proposed ordinance that was attacked had to do with a revision of the terms. In its present form it reads that at the end of thirty years it can be revised "except as to compensation."

According to Mr. Bearman this would prevent the counties from getting a franchise fee, the only stipulation now being three free telephones.

Mayor Richards was asked by a member of the Utility Board if the ordinance was accepted by the Council under duress, and he replied: "Our plan was to get the best we could."

Mr. Bearman, closing his argument, asked for two more amendments, in addition to those already referred to. One of these would give the Council the right to say after ten years whether or not the telephone wires should be placed underground, and the other provided that there should be a readjustment of the terms at the end of each ten years of the life of the franchise. This last suggestion was declared by the board to be "unreasonable."

After Mr. Bearman had finished his argument Mr. MacKarg spoke for the telephone company. He declared that the borough was fully protected by the ordinance; that the company wanted to be fair in all its dealings; that people were clamoring for better telephone service, and that the only way they could get it was through the company spending $7,000 of $18,000.

FOUR CONGREGATIONS UNITED IN A SERVICE

Rev. Mr. Broek Preaches On "What Think Ye of Christ."

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was the preacher at the Union service of the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, First M. E. and Trinity Reformed churches, last evening. The service which was held in the First Baptist church was well attended. Rev. Dr Charles M. Anderson, Rev Dr. C. E. Herring and Rev. Dr. C. R Strong assisted at the service.

The text selected for the sermon of the evening was taken from Matt. chap. 22, verse 42, "What think ye of Christ." This, according to the preacher, was "Humanity's greatest question," for upon it depended the salvation of the human soul. Mistakes in other questions, he added, "did not matter so much as a mistake on this all-absorbing question. Yet it was surprising how little thought was now-a-days devoted to this far-reaching topic. The average man was apt to do anything but his own thinking."

Proceeding Rev. Broek divided his subject into three heads showing the life of Jesus as a teacher, as an example and as a Saviour. By following his teachings, living up to his example and accepting him as their Saviour the masses would be fulfilling the object for which He had lived and died, viz. their Salvation.

A special musical service was contributed by the choir.

MRS. EDWARD L. GODDARD PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Mrs. Edward L. Goddard, formerly of Plainfield, died suddenly Saturday evening at Higby Camp, Big Moose, N. Y., where she was spending the summer. Mrs. Goddard was nearly eighty-eight years old; had excellent health, and was physically and mentally vigorous and active up to the time of her death. She was the mother of George H. Goddard, of East Ninth street, and of Christopher M. Goddard, with whom she lived many years in Plainfield, removing with him to Newton Center, Mass., about twenty years ago. Nearly all her life she was active and a leader in good works. While in this city she was for a time president of the Relief Association. The burial will take place at Clearmont, New Hampshire.

GOSPEL MEETINGS.

W. H. Smith, of Newark, an evangelist, has leased a site on Darrow avenue, near Fourth street, where he will erect a 40x60 ft. pavilion, where a series of free gospel lectures will be given each night except Saturday. No pains will be spared in making these services every thing that can be desired. Subjects will be illustrated with large, prophetic charts, which accompanied with good music, will add largely to the interest of the meetings. The tent will be equipped with screen doors and mosquito netting, which will shut out all pests that would bother the congregation. The opening service will take place Thursday night.

A SMALL BLAZE.

The local fire department was called out shortly after midnight Saturday night to extinguish a blaze in the store occupied by H. W. Crow and Company, at 201 Watchung avenue. The smoke was so dense that the firemen had a great deal of difficulty in locating the blaze and it got a good start on the men before it was discovered. The blaze was caused by matches. It resulted in damage amounting to about $100. The building is owned by Frank H. Smith.

FINED FOR SPEEDING.

J. M. Benisel, a hackman of Summit, was fined $10 by Judge Gano in the Borough Court Saturday on a charge of speeding on June 2, preferred by Chief Weiss. This is the second man fined for speeding in the Borough within the last ten days.

U. S. Camp of Instruction, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 22.—Although the expected manoeuvre, which the men of the Second regiment have been looking forward to since they entered camp a week ago, began today, the one topic of conversation among the members of Company K, of Plainfield, and the whole regiment, for that matter, was the fire which yesterday destroyed one of the tents and all of the equipment of a squad of men in Company K.

morning, in the tent occupied by Corporal Milwater and Privates Wood, Steve Milwater, Kline, Tyrrell and Mindell, and the cause is unknown, although the impression about the camp is that it was started by a spark from a nearby incinerator lodging near the top of the tent. The entire company had been turned in for some time, after a hard day, and were sound asleep, when Captain Warren, of Company I, of Elizabeth, which occupies the next street, discovered the tent ablaze. He sounded an alarm and woke the men, but before they got out of the tent Private Kline was badly hurt in the face by flying debris.

All of the men in the regiment were soon about the scene, and they watched the guard extinguish the fire, and turned their attention to putting out flying sparks which hit nearby tents. If the wind had been strong, the probabilities are that the entire Second regiment would have had its quarters wiped out, as the straw bed ticks burn like tinder. When the fire was out the entire company was complimented by the regimental commanders for their action during the fire.

WANT TRAINS "DRY" IN NEW JERSEY, ALSO

Declaring that the recent action of a number of railroad companies in continuing to sell liquor on their trains in New Jersey, after discontinuing the practise in Pennsylvania, is a discrimination against this State, State Superintendent Edwin I. Stearns, of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey, has written letters of protest to the chiefs of the passenger department of the New Jersey Central, the Pennsylvania and Reading, the Lehigh Valley, the Lackawanna and the Erie railroads.

As a result of activity of the Anti-Saloon League of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Railroad issued an order stopping the sale of liquor on its trains, not only in Pennsylvania, but on the whole of its system east of Pittsburgh. Other roads followed with orders which were similar in regard to the State of Pennsylvania, but which were not effective in other States.

The Anti-Saloon League letters recite that railroad companies cannot lawfully serve liquor.

MARTINE'S TALK WINS THE SENATE

Appropriation for Mt. Ranier Made On Jersey Senator's Eloquent Plea.

ON THE YELLOWSTONE

"The Farmer Orator" Vividly Describes the Beauties of Nature's Wonderland and Gets Money For Improvements.

Washington, D. C., July 22—Rivaling in an oratorical outburst the chromatic grandeur of the Yellowstone, or the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, which Senator Ashurst said was really in Arizona, Senator James E. Martine, of New Jersey, told the Senate Saturday that, although born on a farm in New Jersey, he had visited the Yellowstone.

He spoke for an appropriation which would make the beauties of this and other wonderlands of the West accessible to the people. At the time he was answering Senator Reed, of Missouri, who critised the expenditure of $48,500 to build roads and bridges and trails in the Mount Rainier National Park, which is in Montana, the home of Senator Dixon.

"I am as close to the people as the Senator from Missouri," said the Senator from New Jersey in his fine tremolo, which, though hoarse, is a rival for that of James "Ham" Lewis. "I would like to make it possible for every American citizen to see the glories of this great region, which is unparalleled in any part of the globe.

"I made this vow long ago as I stood amid the marvellous beauties of this magical country, and I feel it is the duty of every man who can to visit that wonderland of America."

By this time Senator Martine was going strong and Senators Reed and Ashurst were gazing at him with real concern for their laurels. Senator Lodge had his face behind his hands in deep thought.

Senator Reed demanded the ayes and nays on the appropriation, but still under the spell of Mr. Martine's oratory, the Senate denied the request and passed the appropriation by a viva voce vote.

Albert Hurling, colored, of South Second street, was arrested by Patrolman Dobson who caught him in the act of disposing of Mrs. Farbman's bag. He was arraigned on the charge in the city police court before City Judge De Meza and held in $200 for the Grand Jury.

ARRAIGNED FOR ILLEGAL SELLING

Fanwood and North Plainfield Dealers Are Brought Into City Court.

HEARING IS POSTPONED

Defendants Plead Not Guilty—Judge DeMeza Not to Hear Evidence As He Is Counsel For Some of Those Accused.

At a special session of the City Court this afternoon, Henry Moskowitz, of Fanwood, and Ben Rich, his driver; Raffile Venenzia, of Fanwood, and Mike Dadetti, his driver; Lena Hoerster, of North Plainfield Andrew, Kollik, Thomas Long, owners; Morris Latzko, of Somerset street, and Samuel Dawson, driver; Adolph Bohren, of North Plainfield, and Peter Kane, driver, were arraigned on charges of unlawfully selling beer and alcoholic liquors contrary to law. Walter L. Hetfield Jr., assistant prosecutor, appeared as special corporation counsel.

The defendants, who entered pleas of not guilty, were each held in $200 bail to appear for hearing before Mayor G. W. V. Moy on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge DeMeza giving as his reason for not presiding that he had previously acted as counsel for two of the defendants.

The defendants are accused of delivering liquor in Plainfield, a violation of the order of Judge Atwater, who has held that wholesalers have no right to carry on their trade except in the district in which they are licensed to do business.

TO FIX DATE FOR RAISING FLAG AT SANATORIUM

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the dedication ceremonies of Bonnie Burn Sanatorium has as yet not definitely decided on a date. The date will be one that will be satisfactory to the largest number of members of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, of Plainfield. The reason the committee wants to fix a date that will suit the knights is because a part of the dedication ceremonies will consist in formally receiving and raising the flag presented to the institution by the organization.

It was previously announced that the sanatorium would be in readiness for occupancy August 1, that being the date the new superintendent, Dr. J. E. Runnells, will assume charge. There is still a great deal of work to be done on the buildings, and all of it will not be completed before October or November, particularly the auxiliary building to accommodate the women servants to be employed on the place, in which there has been a delay in awarding the contract.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT OCEAN GROVE

Over 700 Tots Parade In Pouring Rain.

BIG TIME AWAITED THEM

Youngsters March Into Big Auditorium While Clarence Reynolds at Big Organ Played "Onward, Christian Soldiers"—Rev. Dr. Robert T. Y. Pierce Gives Lecture.

Ocean Grove, N. J., July 22.—More than 700 tots defied a pouring rain and marched into the big Auditorium in pairs, led by their respective marshals of division. The girls wore white dresses, and the boys looked too sweet for anything in their white duck suits. Many of the girls wore miniature American flags in their hair. The procession filed through the side aisles while Clarence Reynolds at the big organ played "Onward, Christian Soldiers." Back of the platform Talli Morgan, the musical director, parent of the children's carnival, which will be celebrated in August, had rigged up a white ship. The sails and hull were white, and around the platform were white streamers attached to white columns.

The Rev. Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce gave a lecture, his subject being "The Voyage of Life." Talli Morgan, attired in a white flannel suit, led a mixed musical service, which he called "The New Kingdom." At this service the children were seated in the choir lofts. They sang carols and Sullivan's "Lost Chord."

With infantile enthusiasm the soloists at the entertainment were Miss Anna Ballard Lewis, Miss Alice Mertens, Donald Chalmers, Mrs. Sterling and Miss Ruth Harris. Clarence Reynolds presided at the organ and Miss Louise V. Moore at the piano. The children's festival chorus, the temple carol choir, the angels' choir and the woman Auditorium choir also assisted at the service, which was attended by an audience of 10,000.

BODY FOUND ON R. R. TRACKS

Son of Editor Chamberlain Hit by a Train and Badly Mutilated.

Hackensack, N. J., July 22.—Harold Chamberlain, thirty-five, a son of Editor Alonzo Chamberlain of the Hasbrouck News-Letter, was found dead on the tracks of the New Jersey and New York railroad between Woodridge and Carlstadt. Two men who were walking the tracks made the discovery. Chamberlain's body was badly mutilated. He was employed by the Echs Ice company of Carlstadt and was returning from the parade of the Little Ferry fire department, in which he drove a Carlstadt hose cart.

Chamberlain lived at Woodridge and told a friend he had to go to Carlstadt to transact some business. He was struck by the train going east at 11:07. The engineer evidently did not see the man, for no report was made of the accident by him. Chamberlain leaves a widow.

BURIED IN DEBRIS AT FIRE.

Jersey City Chief Hurt Trying to Save Point Pleasant School.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 22.—In a fire that destroyed Point Pleasant's new high school building, causing a loss of $50,000, Assistant Chief W. Hudson Lovell of the Jersey City fire department was seriously injured when a staircase collapsed, burying him beneath a mass of twisted iron and block slate.

Lovell was trying to save the first floor of the building, the upper floors having been destroyed, and was directing a stream of water upon the threatened section when the slate steps broke loose from under their iron supports. Lovell and John Moore were buried in the debris. Moore has internal injuries.

HURT BOY CRAWLS A MILE.

With Two Legs Broken He Drags Himself Home Cross Country.

Mount Holly, N. J., July 22.—With both legs broken by a fall from a tree, Henry Bergen, nine years old, dragged himself over a mile to his home and then fainted on the doorstep, where his mother found him. The boy lay two hours in agony before he started to drag himself home.

He had to crawl around trees and bushes and rocks to reach his house. His clothing was torn through and his abdomen lacerated. He was unconscious when his mother found him at the door.

KILLED WHEN TRAIN BREAKS.

Philadelphia Man's Body Badly Mangled at Decosta.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22.—When a Reading train leaving Camden for this resort broke in two at Decosta, John Callahan of Philadelphia, an employee of the firm of Firth & Foster, planing mill owners, was just stepping from one car to another.

He was hurled to the track, and before the automatic air brakes had stopped the rear end two or three cars had rumbled over him, killing him almost instantly and horribly mangling his body.

WILSON IS AT WORK ON HIS ACCEPTANCE

Will See Only About Three Persons at Sea Girt Today.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 22.—Governor Woodrow Wilson is going to write that speech of acceptance this week if he has to lock himself in the attic of the little White House to do it. Up to the present moment he has been so rushed by delegations, callers, conferences and correspondents that he has not been able to formulate his ideas on the platform, much less than put a line to paper, and it is only about two weeks and two days before Ollie James and his notification committee will be here to tell him formally that he was chosen at Baltimore.

The governor had a good rest yesterday, one of the long sleeps which so refresh him. He was where no visitor possibly could get at him, with the telephone wires and his address not known at the telegraph office.

He will see only about three persons today. One of them will be Senator Reed of Missouri, a new member of the executive committee. Then he will go into retreat, not to be disturbed except by his executive committee on important business.

The governor expressed himself as greatly pleased with two classes of letters he is receiving. One class contains money, checks drawn principally to his order for campaign expenses. The amount so received is said to be in the neighborhood of $65,000. The second class is made up of letters from Republicans who say they are going to vote the Democratic ticket this fall.

WILSON AND TAFT TO MEET.

Each Will Address the American Road Congress in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, July 22.—President Taft and Governor Wilson, the respective candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties, are to be on the same platform and make speeches in Atlantic City some time between Sept. 30 and Oct. 5, according to an announcement made by the American road congress, representing fifty associations, which is to be in session there between those dates.

Both accepted invitations to address the congress before they were nominated, and while their addresses will be non-political, there will be considerable interest manifested as to how the two candidates will greet each other.

"GET RICH QUICK."

Startling as it may seem, there is authority for the statement that gullible people in this land have given up one hundred and twenty million of dollars to swindlers operating through the mails during the last fiscal year. This enormous amount is the figure given by Postmaster General Hitchcock and is based on a special report of the department. The investigation during the twelve months developed the fact that the frauds were manipulated in various ways by shrewd men in various walks of life. Some of the crooks were mechanics, some merchants, some politicians, some professional men. Paupers and millionaires were both included.

The stock in trade of these clever swindlers was chiefly bogus mining stock, but there were numerous other schemes resorted to as a means of separating the man or woman with a hard earned hoard from his or her money. Fake remedies and worthless land were among the tempting propositions. The victims, mostly a class unused to the ways of the world and too trusting in their makeup, learned through the mails of the supposedly easy route to riches. The ever alert and efficient Postoffice Inspectors caught more than 1,000 of these swindlers in their dragnet but despite that the "easy marks" had parted with millions upon millions.

As the Asbury Park Press observes, a State law requires automobile drivers to be licensed, and yet it is not unusual to see small boys steering cars about the streets. The practise is common at the coast resort, says the Press, and it exists to a certain extent in this city also. The State law should be enforced. There should be no trouble in causing an arrest here and meting out punishment calculated to put a stop to the violation of the statute.

For the man or woman who has little opportunity to get away for an extended vacation, the weekly day's excursion to Asbury Park should prove particularly attractive. For a nominal sum, one can spend at least eight enjoyable hours at the shore and return home at night decidedly refreshed by the outing. One of these excursions is scheduled for tomorrow and all who can should join in it.

Wildwood, New Jersey, votes tomorrow on the proposition to have the municipality governed by a commission and the chances are that the businesslike scheme for local rule will be adopted. So far about 200 municipalities in the United States have chosen this form of administration and so far none has regretted the change.

By the provisions of the Dick law, the National Guard of New Jersey became an adjunct of the United States Army. The wisdom of that measure has been brought forcefully home to every Jersey guardsman who has undergone the rigorous and excellent training and discipline at Mt. Gretna.

Paris newspaper correspondents evidently don't know Chauncey Depew. They are taking that famous jester seriously and as a result some papers are printing his opinions on the political situation and other subjects as matters worthy of serious consideration.

The states which supported Taft at Chicago, says the Trenton Times, cast in the last Presidential election, of 1908, a Republican vote of 2,911,397. In the same election the states which supported Roosevelt at Chicago cast a Republican vote of 4,329,917.

New York's police force now has a chance to live down its rotten reputation. The arrest of the Rosenthal murderers will serve this purpose, but are the police afraid to get too close to home?

What have you given for the support of the Baby Camp, conducted by the King's Daughters?

Surely, St. Swithin was not a false prophet.

Bubonic Plague Situation

REPORTS, from Porto Rico and Cuba to the United States public health and marine hospital service indicate that the bubonic plague situation continues serious in both islands, with an increase of cases in the former. Dr. Creel, representative of the federal health service in Porto Rico, says that the spread of the plague there is traceable to rat infection, and active measures have been taken to check it. Because of the increase of the malady Dr. Creel asked for several men in addition to the seventy already assigned him in the work of fighting the plague. Surgeon General Blue at once sent additional men. The laboratory force is being worked day and night, according to Dr. Creel.

Passed Assistant Surgeon Von Ezdorf, stationed at Havana, has greatly increased his field in fighting the disease and has drawn a quarantine line about the zone of infection, including in this district the strip from Menzarrato street to the bay. This includes the confines of the old city. Dr. Von Ezdorf stated that 800 rats have been examined, but no infection was discovered in them.

While the situation in Havana is still regarded as serious because of the increase of the epidemic in Porto Rico, Surgeon General Blue took steps looking to the expediting of commerce between Havana and the United States. This was done at the request of a number of big shipping interests. Surgeon General Blue issued orders that passengers for New York shall be allowed to embark without quarantine delay subject to a completion of examination at New York. Allowing five days from Havana to New York, passengers would be detained two days in quarantine.

Following the example of Norfolk, the health commissioner of Pensacola, Fla., notified the public health service that $250 had been appropriated for the purchase of rats at 3 cents each. The Norfolk authorities have put a small army of rat catchers at work and are paying boys and others 5 cents for each rat delivered to them.

It is the flea and not the rat that is directly responsible for the transmission of the dread disease to human beings. The rat acquires his evil reputation as a plague carrier because he is infested with fleas. Sometimes they kill the rat with their poison. In that case they are certain to leave the dead body to attach themselves to human beings if they can reach them. The only practicable way to keep fleas away from the human is to exterminate the rats that bear them.

That the bubonic plague will continue through the summer despite the fact that the authorities have it fairly under control was the report of the commission of army surgeons from the United States Marine hospital who were sent to Porto Rico to make a study of plague conditions.

Lieutenant Colonel Jefferson R. Kean, who heads the commission, said that more than 2 per cent of the rats subjected to examination showed infection, but that few fleas were found on them.

"Unquestionably the plague will reach the United States," he said. "It seems to be going around the world, and I do not think it will be possible to keep infected rats from reaching our piers. In order to prevent this the piers would have to be faced with sheet iron or reconstructed with concrete. Sanitary conditions are better in the city of San Juan than in the environs, where it will be impossible to stamp out the plague until better conditions prevail through modern sanitary methods."

The other members of the commission are Major Frederick F. Russell, Lieutenant Fred H. Foucar and F. Y. Howard. They visited San Juan, Mayaguez, Ponce, Carolina and the outlying districts which are affected. In Carolina they found that 7 per cent of the rats were infected.

Before they left San Juan sixty-four rats were killed on the ship.

Experiments of methods for preventing and fighting the plague are being carried on at quarantine, New York harbor.

KEEP CUTS CLEAN.

Then There Isn't Anything For Them to Do but Heal.

The cut made by the surgeon should always be kept absolutely free from germs. If infection occurs we know that some one has blundered. Accidental cuts, on the other hand, are almost invariably infected.

The germs of disease are everywhere. No matter how small the cut may be or how brief its exposure to the air, germs are almost certain to enter. If an accidental cut is to heal quickly and well all germs must be carefully removed at the first dressing.

When we consider how many are the ways in which a cut may become infected we can understand why such precautions are necessary. Infection is often introduced by the very implement that makes the wound. Only surgeons use sterilized instruments. A knife or a pair of scissors or a piece of glass or crockery is almost certain to plant germs in the furrow it plows. Germs may also enter from the clothing, from the hands of whoever rushes to help, from the first piece of cloth or handkerchief used to stanch the flow of blood or from the water used for the first washing.

Since the avenues of danger are so numerous, it is safest to assume that infection has occurred. It follows that every family should understand some of the simplest methods of sterilization. Heat is the simplest of all. The mother of a family should keep a supply of soft linen rags that have been thoroughly boiled. She should keep them not on an open shelf with towels or other cloths, but done up in a carefully closed oiled paper bag or protected from the air in some other equally effective way. For washing the wound she should use only water that has been boiled. When the doctor comes he will add some kind of chemical antisepsis, and it will be proved once more that a clean cut can do nothing but heal.—Youth's Companion.

CHANGEABLE CHICAGO.

Has Eight Counties and Many Varied Spellings to Its Credit.

"Few people know that Chicago has been in eight different counties of Illinois," said an old Chicago man. "It was first placed within the limits of Madison county, Illinois then being a territory, Sept. 14, 1812.

"Subsequently it was included in the following counties seriatim: Edwards in 1814; Crawford, 1816; Clark, after the territory was admitted as a state, 1819; Pike, 1821; Fulton, 1823; Peoria, 1825, under the jurisdiction of which it remained until the creation of the county of Cook, Jan. 15, 1831.

"The name of the city, too, has been spelled more than a dozen ways. Father Hennepin called it Che-cau-gou; La Salle, Shecagou; on an old French map of 1682, Chekagou; on another old map (1673) in the Historical society library at Madison, Wis., it is Chicaugua; Father Gravier (1690) wrote it Chicagoua, and in 1700 St. Sosme wrote it variously Chikagu, Chicagou, Chicaqu and Chicago, he being the first to give the letters the arrangement which finally was settled upon as the authorized spelling. Charlevoix gave the same spelling in 1721. In the Greenville treaty (as revised) it is Chikagu.

"In an old deed filed away among the archives of the Chicago Historical society, as applied to the river or creek (1774), it is plainly written Chicagou. The word was the Indian word for garlic or wild onion and signified to the red man strong, mighty, powerful, courageous.

"In 1725 a chief bore the name Chicago (under some one of its many spellings), who went to Paris and was made much of by kings and princes."

"Watches" on Board Ship.

On board all ships a series of "watches" are established, so that work is shared equally among the sailors. To aid this object also the crews are divided into two divisions, starboard and port. A ship's day commences at noon, and there are seven watches. The watch which is on duty in the forenoon one day has the afternoon next day, and the men who have four hours' rest one night have eight hours the next. This is the reason for having "dog watches," which are made by dividing the hours between 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. into two watches.

Living on Rubber.

The rubber slug is one of the many pests of rubber plantations. It attacks the young trees and feeds on the juice oozing from the cuts. Doubt having been cast on the suggestion that any animal could subsist on rubber, a saucerful of juice was placed before some rubber slugs, which lapped it up like a cat lapping up milk. Scientists have come to the conclusion that this slug contains some rubber digesting ferment as a gastric juice.

What Jane Said.

"Did you hear the satirical reply Jane Sharp made to Tommy Gilder?"

"No; what was it?"

"He said, 'It wouldn't be my money you would marry me for, would it?'"

"And what did Jane say?"

"She said, 'What awful conceit!'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

THE HUCKLEBERRY.

HUCKLEBERRIES may be dried and preserved for winter use, but they are preferred in the form of jam, although they make also an excellent jelly.

Huckleberry Pie.—Make a nice short puff paste and line a baking dish with this. Then fill the center with fruit, adding a tablespoonful each of flour and water, a lump of butter and sugar to sweeten. A dash of lemon juice makes the pie nicer. Cover with a crust slashed with a knife or with a lattice formed of strips of the puff paste.

A Delectable Jam.

Huckleberry Jam.—Weigh the berries and set aside as many pounds of heated sugar as there are pounds of berries. Let the fruit simmer in water and when about one-third of the original bulk add the melted sugar and when it has boiled place in jars and seal. Jam may be made by combining currants with the huckleberries. Lemon or cranberry or any other tart juice may be used to accentuate the flavor of the huckleberries.

Huckleberry Jelly.—Berries that are a little tart are the best for jelly, so unripe fruit should be selected for this purpose. Add sugar, pound for pound, to the fruit and proceed as in making any other jelly.

Served With Cream.

Huckleberry Slump.—Take two cupfuls of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, half a cupful of sugar, an egg, a tablespoonful of butter and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Sift the baking powder with the flour and add a pinch of salt. Mix the ingredients with the exception of the berries which should be stirred in the last thing. Butter an earthen mold. Cover and steam for a couple of hours. Serve hot with milk or a sweet sauce.

Huckleberries and Crackers.—Pick over the berries and place them on ice until required. Provide individual dishes for each person and break a couple of crackers into each, add a layer of berries, powdered sugar and some whipped cream, or the berries may be served with plain cream.

THE NEW NECKWEAR.

The size of neckwear is decreasing, and fan frills and jabots are taking on more moderate proportions, which undoubtedly are more becoming.

All kinds of fancy collars of pique will be worn with one piece frocks and coat suits and will have scalloped or embroidery trimmed edges.

Strands of flowers hang from the neck in place of jabots.

Deeply plaited frills of net and lace mounted to high standing or very low collar bands are fashionable.

Frill pins of aluminium set in a single row of rhinestones are dainty and not conspicuous.

All manner of frilly neck and sleeve ideas are considered good style for the simple frock of foulard and taffeta.

The treatment of the neck resolves itself into individual preference, as both the tall, well fitting collar and the collarless styles have their admirers.

Many models admit of a chemisette, so that one of lace or net or chiffon may be had adjustable.

When collars are worn low they are turned well away from the throat, with a deep fichu-like piece of softest muslin and lace or a sailor collar of oriental embroidered linen.

The very high collar, perfectly shaped and boned, of soft and filmy material is considered smart and figures on most of the smart afternoon gowns.

Stocks with jabots to match are seen, and instead of the lavishly fluted varieties the simple graduated plait is shown. Hand embroidery and simple thread laces are the favored trimmings, and a bit of color is occasionally introduced by means of ribbon and loops.

Pretty Negligee.

A convenient dressing sack is made of a square of fine outing flannel or other material.

The "sleeves" are formed by tying a point together about six inches from the point itself. Another point forms the back, while the last point is cut to a circle in the center to form a place for the neck. The whole is edged with pretty lace and tied under the chin with fancy ribbon.

Relieving Bed Sores.

To treat bed sores successfully, as soon as redness or numbness of the surface appears in a spot subjected to pressure, apply hot fomentations for half an hour twice daily; afterwards apply alcohol, then rub the parts thoroughly with vaseline or olive oil.

Summer Frocks For Afternoon Wear.

Over this handsome hand embroidered French frock of linen and real cluny lace is a gay little coat of fillet lace which hangs in almost straight lines, giving a very slender effect to the figure. The costume is in all white and black tones, the tunic falling over a petticoat of black satin and the fillet lace coat being lined with black chiffon, which throws the lace pattern into bold relief. The hat of black straw is trimmed with white wings, and the parasol has a cordeliere handle of black and white stripes.

The Latest Slang.

Already the word "bunty," taken from a popular play, seems to have come to possess a meaning of its own and is applied to the eldest daughter in a household over the members of which she is apt to exercise somewhat dictatorial authority. Here is an expression one of a certain family used toward another lately: "You don't come bunty over me."

—The people who are well heeled are generally those who give the stamp of approval.

—If you do not get your Press regularly 'phone or write to the office.

SUMMER SASHES ARE TRIMMED WITH DAINTY RIBBON ROSES

THE fashionable summer sash is not too long nor too wide, and the ends fall from the side of the waist. Generally there is a fancy draped girdle of satin ribbon. The illustration shows two fancy summer sashes, one of them with a wreath of silk roses knotted into the girdle and with roses depending from the ribbon fringe of the sash ends. The other model is of brocade satin ribbon with wide sash ends rounded below and edged with plaited frills of narrow ribbon. A bow of ribbon knotted with satin roses holds the streamers together. Satin roses are used at the sides of the girdle.

SUMMER LINGERIE.

Petticoats Cut on Narrow Lines to Suit the Fashionable Figure.

In spite of the popularity of silk models, the washable petticoat is as much worn as ever.

A pretty model sufficiently simple to be worn with the morning tub dresses, while it is equally suitable for more elaborate costumes, has three scant flounces with the edges embroidered in scallops, the top one having for a heading a row of eylet holes threaded with broad pink satin ribbon.

Eyelet embroidery and all of the softer laces, both real and imitation, in combination with bows and rosettes of ribbons of various widths, are used to trim the models made up in the sheer linen and cotton fabrics which take precedence of all others for general wear in hot weather.

Many of the new lingerie petticoats are so narrow that it is necessary to make them with a slash at the side as illustrated here. This dainty outfit, over which a thin summer frock is to be worn, includes a brassiere in eyelet embroidery and a lawn petticoat which has a deep flounce of embroidery finished with a frill of valenciennes lace.

Silk fringe is used on many of the more elaborate petticoats and is specially effective on a crepe de chine model where it edged several inches of fillet lace. German valenciennes is the most popular lace for edgings, but Chinese, renaissance and baby Irish are also much in demand for this purpose, most manufacturers contenting themselves with imitations except for the very high priced models.

Shining Brasses.

To polish brass and yet preserve its deep, rich yellow tone, use rotten stone and oil. Acid polishes, while giving it greater brilliance, whiten the brass.

SENSE AND NONSENSE.

The lovemaking of a man of thirty-five is usually too good to be true.

There is only one cure for love, and that is suggestion—suggest to the man that the girl is trying to marry him.

A man's advice to women: Try to keep a secret. You have no idea till you try how interesting you will find it.

What inveterate gamblers the women must be who do not find enough in matrimony to keep them from games of chance and cards.

A little romance and a far-away look in his eyes in a man go much further with a woman than much wisdom and a look of alertness.

The Bedroom Candle.

The little table standing beside the bed and bearing nothing but a candle and perhaps a Bible gives a finishing touch of refinement to the bedchamber. Nowadays the ready to hand candle is replaced by an even more ready electric bulb, which may be switched on in an instant if occasion requires.

One of these bedside candlestick arrangements in up to date style is an exquisite affair of white celluloid matching the celluloid bureau fittings now so fashionable. The candlestick is a tall column of the celluloid, and the shade is a latticed affair of paper-thin celluloid over a shade of pink silk.

Of course no candle flame is used with the celluloid, a tiny electric bulb is hidden under the shade, and a white silk cord extends from the bulb to the electric button convenient to milady's hand.

Mending Window Shades.

When the window blinds require patching or stitching take a piece of the material, dip it in boiling starch, lay it over rent or hole and press with a hot iron. This plan will be found much better than the old way of sewing on the patch, for the blinds so soon become brittle through exposure to the sun and smoke that they cannot always bear mending with needle and thread.

When Crocheting.

When crocheting, if you are bothered by the spool of thread falling from your lap to the floor, have a small pocket pinned to your apron, with an eyelet hole for the thread to run through, to keep the spool in place. It may be removed from the apron when not in use and saves much time and annoyance.

The Old Boiler.

A use for an old wash boiler is to stand it in a convenient place on the back porch or near the back steps and put all old papers in it. When the boiler is full set it in the path and apply a match to the papers. Keep the lid of the boiler on until the proper time comes to burn the waste.

COMPANY AT BREAKFAST.

A Surprise Party That Startled a Bride in India.

"I was married in India," says a writer in the Contra Costa Gazette, "and rented a little house fourteen miles or so from any other habitation of white men. The morning my wife and I arrived the servants laid breakfast on the veranda overlooking the river. At the clatter of the plates there began to come down from the big tree that overshadowed the house and up the tree that grew in the ravine behind it, from the house roof itself, from everywhere, a multitude of solemn monkeys.

"They came up singly and in couples and in families and took their places without noise or fuss on the veranda and sat there like an audience waiting for an entertainment to begin. And when the breakfast was all laid and the monkeys were all seated I went in to call my wife.

"'Breakfast is ready, and they are all waiting!' I said.

"'Who are waiting?' she asked in dismay. 'I thought we were going to be alone, and I was just coming out in my dressing gown.'

"'Never mind,' I said. 'The people about here are not fashionably dressed. They wear pretty much the same things all the year round.'

"And so my wife came out. Imagine her astonishment: In the middle of the veranda stood our breakfast table, and all the rest of the space, as well as the railings and the steps, was covered with an immense company of monkeys, as grave as possible and as motionless and silent as if they were stuffed. Only their eyes kept blinking and their little round ears kept twitching. My wife laughed heartily—at which the monkeys only looked all the graver—and sat down.

"'Will they eat anything?' she asked.

"'Try them,' I said.

"So she picked up a biscuit and threw it among the company. Three hundred monkeys jumped into the air like one, and for an instant there was a riot that defies description. The next moment every monkey was sitting in its place as solemn as if it had never moved. Only their eyes winked and their ears twitched.

"My wife threw them another biscuit, and the riot broke out again. Then she threw them another and another and another. But at last we had given away all that we had to give and got up to go. The monkeys at once rose and, advancing gravely to the steps, walked down them in a solemn procession and dispersed for the day's occupations."

A Study In Punctuation.

A celebrated eastern educator comma who has spent much time in studying literature comma tells us that the modern writer uses too many punctuation marks semicolon that he often gets them in the wrong place and that they are a nuisance comma anyhow period

Another shark on literature comma however comma says that it is impossible for any person to write without using punctuation marks period Being of a genteel turn comma we do not feel like coming right out and calling the latter gentleman a quotation marks liar comma quotation marks but we have demonstrated comma to the satisfaction of ourself comma at least comma that writing can be done without the use of any punctuation mark whatsoever period How do you like it interrogation point—Brooklyn Eagle.

COLORS OF BUOYS

Spell the Same Words of Warning In All Our Waters.

DAY GUIDES FOR MARINERS.

The Simple Code That Governs These Valuable Aids to Navigation—How the Whistling Buoy and Bell Buoy Fog Signals Are Operated.

As everybody knows, there are black buoys and red buoys, buoys with horizontal black and red stripes, buoys with black and white vertical stripes, not to speak of bell buoys and the much larger buoys that lie well out at sea and are called "mammoth buoys."

Each of these aids to navigation has, of course, its own particular meaning. The place that each occupies is carefully chosen for it, and its arrangement is governed by a careful system.

Buoys are called "day marks," in contradistinction to the "night marks"—the lights and beacons.

For the purposes of the lighthouse board the coasts of the United States, including the lakes and navigable rivers, are divided into various districts, each district being under the charge of an officer who sees that all buoys in his district are properly cared for.

For obvious reasons similar buoys in all districts mean the same thing. In other words, a buoy of a particular distinguishing color off the coast of Maine carries the same significance that a buoy of that same color has off the coast of Florida. So the mariner who enters the New England port is guided and directed in precisely the same way as the mariner who enters a southern port, and the same is true of all other parts of the country.

The government publishes coast charts showing the colors and positions of the buoys. The lighthouse board publishes, in addition, a yearly list, distributed gratis for the benefit of navigation, in which each one of the thousands of buoys is located and described.

The passenger standing at the rail of the liner coming in from sea will probably first notice a "mammoth buoy." These buoys are used only in special cases—as, for example, to mark the approaches to channels over bars or shoals that lie some distance from the coast.

Red and black buoys designate the channel. They lie on either side. The red buoys, which have even numbers, must be left on the starboard or right hand in passing in from sea. The black buoys, always with odd numbers, must be left on the port hand.

When there are two or more channels these are distinguished by a difference either in the size or in the shape of the buoys.

An isolated rock, wreck or any obstruction that has a channel on either side of it is shown by a buoy with red and black horizontal stripes.

Buoys showing white and black perpendicular stripes and lying in mid channel indicate that they must be passed close to avoid danger.

As an indication that there is a turning point in the channel we see buoys surmounted by triangles, cages, etc.

There are buoys which are also fog signals, such as the bell buoy and the whistling buoy. The latter is used off the coast to show dangerous outlying shoals or other obstructions. It is surmounted by a locomotive whistle made to sound by the rushing through it of air admitted and compressed by the rising and falling motion of the buoy itself. It has been found that these buoys are particularly adapted to turbulent waters, inasmuch as the more violent the sea is the louder the sound given out by the buoy. The whistling buoy, a most unpleasant neighbor, may be heard a at distance of about ten miles. Under very favorable conditions it has been heard fifteen miles.

The bell buoy consists of the bottom section of a buoy floating in the water on which is mounted a framework bearing a bell which, instead of the ordinary tongue and clapper, shows a small cannon ball supported on a platform just beneath the bell's mouth. This ball rolls to and fro with every motion of the sea.

Bell buoys are employed in harbors and rivers where the water is smoother than in the roadsteads and where it is not necessary that their sound shall be heard a great distance.

The ordinary buoy, not of the whistling or the bell variety, is made either of wood or of iron. Those of iron are hollow with air tight compartments and are of three shapes, called respectively nun, can and ice buoys. The nun buoy is almost conical in shape, the can buoy approaches the cylindrical form, and the ice buoy is very long and narrow, somewhat resembling the spar buoy in form.

The wooden or spar buoys are sticks ranging in length from twelve to sixty feet and painted according to the uses to which they are to be put. The lower end is fitted for a mooring chain.

Buoys have many vicissitudes and are exposed to many dangers. Passing steamers run down the iron buoys and rip them open or cut off big pieces of spar buoys with their sharp propeller blades. As the iron buoys are made in compartments, they are seldom sunk by such collisions, but their line of flotation is often so lowered that they have to be replaced.—Harper's Weekly.

Didn't See It.

"Now," said the lawyer, "please tell us how the altercation began."

"I didn't see any altercation," replied the witness. "I was too busy watchin' the fight."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Scrap Book

Begging His Pardon.

One day Beckmann, the comic actor, was induced to take off a well known newspaper editor, Frankel by name, in one of the characters he was representing in Berlin. He performed his task so cleverly that at the close the audience broke out into loud calls for Frankel. The journalist brought an action. Beckmann was condemned to go to the house of the insulted party and there beg his pardon in the presence of witnesses. At the hour appointed Frankel sat in the circle of his family, together with a number of relatives and friends whom he had convened for the occasion, waiting the arrival of the delinquent. He tarried long, and half an hour had passed in weary suspense, when at last the door opened and Beckmann put his head in and asked, "Does Mr. Meir live here?" "Oh, no," answered Frankel; "he lives next door." "Ah, then I beg your pardon," said the actor and hastily withdrew, having thus acquitted himself of the imposed penance to the great annoyance of Frankel and the intense amusement of the assembled witnesses.

"AH, THEN I BEG YOUR PARDON."

Fret Not Thyself.

The little sharp vexations
And the briers that catch and fret,
Why not take all to the Helper
Who has never failed us yet?
Tell him about the heartache,
And tell him the longings, too;
Tell him the baffled purpose
When we scarce know what to do,
Then, leaving all our weakness
With the one divinely strong,
Forget that we bore the burden
And carry away the song.
—Phillips Brooks.

The Wrong Crowd.

Mr. George Grossmith tells this story of when he was performing with his father. On one occasion, instead of beginning the performance at 8 o'clock, as advertised, they did not arrive in the town until twenty minutes past that hour. "We dressed in the cab, which flew along like a fire engine. Suddenly we espied a building lighted up and a large crowd coming out. 'Go back, go back!' shouted my father to the crowd as he put his head out of the cab. 'Go back; it is all right—Grossmith is here. We have arrived—go back!' Unfortunately it was not our audience, but a congregation leaving a Methodist chapel after service!"

"GO BACK!"

The Missing Chord.

When Richard Mansfield was rehearsing the minuet scene in "Beau Brummel," the end of the music left him with one foot suspended in midair. Poised on the other foot, the actor burst into explosive anger, demanding in no uncertain tone of voice:

"Give me a chord to put my foot down on!" The musicians jumped to their instruments, and, to a grand blare, Mr. Mansfield planted his foot on the stage.

He Needed Time.

Henry Guy Carleton, the playwright, stuttered something fearful. At one time he was a lieutenant in the army and used to give his orders in a quick, high pitched voice and always ended with a squeak. One day a new drill sergeant was on duty who repeated Carleton's orders in the same high pitched voice and didn't forget the squeak, either.

Carleton turned upon him and sputtered: "Be-e-e-cause I-I-I have g-gg-got an im-m-pediment in m-m-y sp-sp-peech, that's no-no r-r-eas-on y-you s-shoul-uld have one in y-your-ur b-b-brain."

Daniel Frohman tells a story about Carleton which is amusing. It seems that Carleton had been writing Mr. Frohman intermittently in regard to a play of his, and as it was before he became famous the manager paid but slight attention to him. One day he happened to meet Carleton on Broadway and Henry Guy called to him:

"I s-say, M-m-mister F-F-Frohman, if y-you have g-g-got an hour t-to sp-pare I I-I'd l-l-like t-t-to t-t-talk to y-you f-f-five m-m-minutes."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WEBBER AND PAUL HELD FOR MURDER

Two More Gamblers In Police Dragnet.

SIXTEEN ARE IMPLICATED.

So Says Shapiro, Who Drove Auto—He Declares Street Was Sentineled by Thugs, Who Confused Things In Order to Help Getaway—Heard a Low Whistle.

New York, July 22.—Sam Paul, who helped "Bald Jack" Rose, Lieutenant Becker's confidant, to collect the gun men, and Bridgie Webber, in whose poker rooms at Sixth avenue and Forty-second street the final plans were laid to murder Herman Rosenthal, are under arrest.

And Jack Sullivan, the former newsboy, who went from Lieutenant Becker's auto to the murder headquarters in Bridgie Webber's room, was arrested as a material witness.

Sam Paul was put through an inquisition by Commissioner Dougherty until he sullenly let fly statements that materially advanced the investigation.

As for Jack Sullivan, Dougherty drew from him an admission that the second deputy was after, that when Lieutenant Becker left him at Broadway and Forty-second street, about 1:30 a. m., or twenty-seven minutes before Rosenthal was shot down, he went to Bridgie's poker parlors looking for Sam Paul. He didn't find Paul there, but did find some of the men who killed Rosenthal.

Dougherty would not talk about the developments that had caused the arrest of Webber and Paul and Sullivan.

He did say, however:

"We are not yet willing to say that any of the men under arrest fired a shot, but they knew a lot, and they have told a lot. There will be more arrests—important arrests."

"Have you had Lieutenant Becker at headquarters?"

"No," said Dougherty after a pause. "But do not ask me any questions about Becker because I will not answer them. You must draw your own conclusions."

Sixteen Men In It, Says Shapiro.

From Shapiro, driver of the gray car which "Bald Jack" Rose used to round up the gun men and the lookouts for the Rosenthal killing, the district attorney has obtained a story more startling than anything the driver had revealed.

Not four or five or six men only were in the plot to murder the informer, at least sixteen says Shapiro, had knowledge of the crime and were on station in front of the Metropole to blackjack or kill if necessary, but active particularly in obstructing the chase and in blocking off pursuers.

"I have described," said Shapiro, "how we went up and down town, how we drove from the east side to the west side and collected the passengers. Itzky and Sam Schepps were waiting with Jack Rose at Sharkey's when I turned into Fourteenth street about 11:30 a. m. and came to a stop under Sharkey's lights. Schepps was dropped at Bridgie Webbers, at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue. Then we got another man at Seventh avenue and One Hundred and Fortieth street and picked up two more near Third avenue in the Forties. When we got back to Bridgie's once more Rose left the party. He didn't dismiss the car; he just faded away.

"That wasn't the last I saw of Jack that night, because he was near Sixth avenue and Forty-third street when I sent the car into Fifth avenue. That was just when one man in the car threatened with a gun, telling me that I was a damned fool, because the cops was in the know and that nobody was to get into trouble. Out of the corner of my eye I saw Jack near Sixth avenue."

Shapiro's story bears out what Deputy Commissioner Dougherty says, that "Bald Jack" was not one of the killers, but that he waited nearby to see that "the job had been pulled off."

Saw Several Pacing Street.

"There were four in the car besides myself," said Shapiro, "when I stopped, facing eastward, near the Cohan theater. There were Itzky, Sam Schepps, a man who has been called Vallon—Harry Vallon—and the fourth man I did not know. It was not later than 1:35 a. m. when we got opposite the Metropole. One of my passengers" (the name is withheld by request) "stayed by the car apparently to see that I didn't skip. While I was using my eyes I noticed that a bunch of men were walking up and down near the Metropole. It struck me that some of the faces in that bunch were familiar, but I couldn't place them.

"Well, my passengers, as easy as you please, poked along over to the Metropole and looked around. From somewhere near by, either from one of my passengers or from the other crowd, came something similar to a low whistle.

"The bunch that had been holding down the sidewalk before my crowd got there seemed to be in and out of the Metropole. After the whistle all of them seemed to know that something was doing. Several spoke to my passengers. It looked very much as if orders or suggestions were being whispered as the Jack Rose crowd strolled up and down and smoked cigarettes.

"After fifteen minutes of rubbering and wondering what was going to be pulled off I dropped into a dose. I don't know how long I was asleep—not very long probably, but five or ten minutes anyway. And then the bunch in the street, my crowd and everybody else, stopped prowling around and faced toward the Metropole. Out came a guy, and the next was the shooting.

In No Hurry Getting Away.

"As I have said, there wasn't any hurry about getting away. The man who had been standing by the car to watch me climbed in, and a minute or so afterward along came the others. I noticed that the gang that had been walking up and down, the fellows I spotted for lookout men, were all over the place, butting into the crowd, getting in front of cops and generally mixing themselves up with the whole bunch. It looked to me as if they were there for the job of helping the getaway or of covering the trail. There were cops in the mob that got there before my car left. It struck me that the tough birds that I had noticed were tangling up matters pretty well, and my passengers thought so too. One of them laughed as he looked back."

Shapiro again told of his attempt to stall the old motor and one of the boys hitting him with his gun. He also repeated what has been known—that he dropped the crowd, as prearranged, in Third avenue, that he took the car to his and Libby's home on Stuyvesant street and that he turned the car over to Libby to stable because he felt so sick.

The police, headed by Dougherty, pieced out Shapiro's story with information of their own—information from Jack Rose, Sam Paul, Bridgie Webber, Jack Sullivan and half a dozen gangsters who spoke when they saw that they had to. And here is the police information as it stands now:

That the job of putting Herman Rosenthal out of the way was so systematically and perfectly planned that even Forty-third street was sentineled in advance of the shooting so that there would be no danger of Rosenthal slipping away and little danger that the killers would be caught after the killing.

HERMAN RIDDER.

Says That Tammany Contributed to Bryan's Campaign In 1908.

Herman Ridder, publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung and treasurer of the Democratic national committee in the campaign of 1908, disclosed the fact before the senate investigating committee that William J. Bryan, who was the nominee for president in 1908, accepted several thousands of dollars in campaign contributions from Tammany Hall as an organization and from the individual members of that organization.

DROWNED IN A DRAIN PIPE ON SKYSCRAPER

Victim Caught by Suction of Rushing Water.

New York, July 22.—Robert Kinsela, employed by a corset company, was drowned on the top of a twelve story building when he went to the roof to release a foot and a half of water which had collected there when the drain pipe became clogged up.

He ran his right arm down into the drain pipe after he had cleared away the rubbish from the mouth of the hole when the suction of the rushing water caught him. He was drawn into the pipe up to the shoulder.

Despite the efforts of three companions to pull him out, the suction held him firm and his head was drawn into the water, which still remained on the roof. In plain sight of them, looking up at them through the few inches of water which covered his face, he was drowned.

Trenton, June 12, 1912

Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, Elizabeth, N. J.:

Dear Sir—At a meeting of the Board of Health of the State of New Jersey, held June 11, 1912, plans for a sewage disposal plant for the treatment of sewage from the Union County Tuberculosis Sanatorium near Plainfield, were presented.

Motion was made and carried that said plans be approved subject to such conditions of construction operation and purification as this board may from time to time require and that the county authorities be notified that if they exceed the quantity of water which they are proposing to use at said sanatorium it will doubtless be necessary to increase the size of said disposal plant.

Very respectfully,
BRUCE S. KEATOR, Secretary.

On motion by Freeholder Wilbur this communication was received and ordered placed on file.

June 8, 1912.

Hon. Board of Chosen Freeholders County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Whereas the specifications for the paving of Westfield and Rahway avenues in your county with bitulithic, warranite and other classes of pavement, provide that the contractor shall guarantee the pavement for a period of one year after the completion of the contract; and

Whereas, Your board desires a further guarantee of one year on the warranite pavement and a further guarantee of four years on the bitulithic pavement, and as it is your further desire that such guarantee should be given by the manufacturers of the material, we hereby guarantee that the bitulithic material to be supplied to C. H. Winans & Company, for the paving of a part of Westfield and Rahway avenues, will be suitable, durable and properly mixed, and that if, at any time during five (5) years from the date of the completion of the contract, said mixture should show any disintegration or decay due to faulty materials or mixing, and necessitating repairs to the pavement, the Standard Bitulithic Company will make such repairs without any expense to C. H. Winans & Company or to your county.

We give you the same guarantee on the warrenite material to be used on these avenues, except that the guarantee period is to be for two (2) years from the date of the completion of the contracts instead of five years, as in the case of bitulithic.

Yours very truly,
STANDARD BITULITHIC COMPANY.

Linden, N. J., June 12, 1912.

Road Committee, Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—We beg to call your attention to the fact that the gas and water companies operating in the city of Elizabeth are putting in numerous new mains and house connections on both Rahway and Westfield avenues, on which streets we hold the repair contracts.

As water is not being used to thoroughly puddle and settle these trenches, they will not have sufficient time to completely consolidate before it becomes necessary to lay the asphaltic surface.

In view of these facts we desire to inform your honorable committee that we will not be held responsible for any settlement that may occur in our finished work that may be caused by reason of any future settlement of the earth or stone filling in the above mentioned trenches.

Yours very truly,
C. H. WINANS Co.
(By C. H. Winans, President.)

On motion by Freeholder Gruener this communication was referred to the County Road Committee.

JAPAN'S EMPEROR IS FAST SINKING

Death Believed to Be Only Question of Hours.

EMPRESS AT HIS BEDSIDE

She Has Not Left Sickroom Since Friday—Patient Is Suffering From Great Exhaustion and Violent Fever—Heart Action Is Growing Weaker.

Tokyo, July 22.—It is thought here that the death of the emperor is only a question of hours. The patient is growing steadily worse. A late bulletin says that the delirium hasn't abated and that there was a cramp of the upper limbs. Nourishment is taken under difficulties.

The emperor is suffering from great exhaustion and a violent fever. The empress has not left his bedside since Friday afternoon. The imperial family is very anxious. Prayers for his recovery were offered at special services in the Buddhist temples, and there was a special intercession at the Russian cathedral.

The principal physicians who are in attendance were in consultation. They found that all his symptoms had been aggravated and that the heart action had become weaker.

Unconscious Since Friday.

The emperor has been suffering from diabetic nephritis since 1904. A heart wave a week ago, complicated with some intestinal trouble, precipitated a bad attack, and he has been unconscious since Friday. The indications as to his recovery are decidedly unfavorable.

The issuance of bulletins in regard to the condition of the mikado is a new departure in Japan, and is due altogether to the influence of Premier Saion Ji with the court. It is believed that the present prime minister, who is a progressive, will disregard the old custom of concealing the truth in regard to the condition of the emperor and will continue to keep the public informed as to his condition.

During the imperial cherry party in April many persons remarked on the changed look of the mikado. He presided at the commencement of the imperial university on Jan. 10.

Another official bulletin said his condition was graver. His pulse was irregular and weaker and the arms had become convulsive.

LORIMER IN AUTO SMASH.

Ousted United States Senator Is Cut, Bruised and Stunned.

Claysville, Pa., July 22.—William Lorimer, the Illinois senator recently deprived of his seat by the United States senate, was cut, bruised and stunned when his automobile was wrecked one mile west of here.

Mr. Lorimer was not seriously hurt, but had a narrow escape. His private secretary and chauffeur suffered scratches. All three proceeded to Chicago by train.

Mr. Lorimer and party left Washington Saturday morning en route to Chicago in a large touring car. Shortly after passing Claysville a fractious horse driven by William McCoombs, a farmer, was encountered. In an effort to avoid a collision the steering gear was thrown out and the automobile crashed into a telegraph pole. The three occupants were thrown out.

LABOR TO AID HEALTH WORK.

State Department Enlists Co-operation of All Unions In Crusade.

Albany, July 22.—The state department of health is to enlist the co-operation of labor unions in its efforts to diminish the prevalence and mortality of disease.

With this end in view Commissioner Porter has appointed Michael J. O'Brien of Rochester, a labor leader, as a special representative of the health department to visit labor organizations throughout the state and explain what is being attempted by the state authorities. He also will arrange for meetings of labor organizations to be addressed by special lecturers.

GIRL ABDUCTED BY MORMONS?

English Farmer Tells Police His Daughter Has Disappeared.

Ipswich, England, July 22.—J. Wilson, a rich farmer, notified the police here that his daughter had been abducted by Mormon missionaries, taken to Belfast and thence smuggled to America.

He added that he believed thirty six London young men were sent to the United States at the same time.

HOPE CHAPEL OUT OF TRIPLE TIE

First Baptist Holds Lead By Taking Close Game From the Chapelites.

SCHOTT BEST TWIRLER

He Fans Ten—Both Nines Are Greatly Handicapped by Condition of Field—Hope Starts Eleventh Hour Rally.

Although it pulled off an eleventh hour rally and began to take on a winner's aspect, the Hope chapel nine was compelled to accept defeat at the hands of the First Baptist ball tossers, who came out ahead with a 5 to 4 score. This puts the Hope's out of the triple tie for first place in the Sunday-school Baseball league.

The game was played on Hyde Field which is at present in the poorest kind of condition, having been gutted by the recent rains. The infielders made fizzles out of plays which under ordinary circumstances on a fairly good diamond, would have been the easiest kind of putouts.

Although he twirled for the losing nine, Schott had decidedly the better of the pitchers' argument. He struck out ten of the opposing batters and allowed but five bingles, but these coupled with the five misplays recorded against his team were enough to win the game. Smith was not up to his usually high standard and was hit freely by the chapelites. The hits were well scattered and the support he received pulled him through with the game.

Hope chapel came dangerously near tying the score in the eighth when it managed to garner two runs during a batting rally. Again in its half of the ninth the Hope's were dangerous. J. Heron led off with a bunt and came in on Angleman's hit but was forced to go back to third because of ground rules. He was left stranded when the next two batters popped up easy flies.

Although out of first place at present, the Hope chapel aggregation is a lively contender for the cup, and is likely to get back on the top rung very soon.

MONROE CLINGS TO FIRST PLACE

West End Nine Defeats South Plainfield and Is Still Tied With the First Baptist.

TERRY BEST PITCHER

He Allows But Five Hits But Is Accorded Rank Support — South Plainfield Makes Ten Errors—Good Contest Until the Eighth.

Monroe Avenue held on to its Sunday-school Baseball League reputation Saturday afternoon by annexing a 7 to 2 win from the South Plainfield Baptist nine. Although Walter Brown was hit hard and frequently by the village players, his fielders gave him gilt-edged support and helped him out of all his tight holes. Elmer Terry, who was on the slab for South Plainfield, was given rank support, and while he held the Monroes to five hits, these mixed in with the misplays were enough to lose the game. He also pounded out two healthy hits for his team, as did also his brother. Hess was the only man on the winners to get more than one bingle and his two were about one-half of Monroe's total for the afternoon.

TEMPLE TEAM DROPS ONE MORE

Steward Twirls Excellent Game For the Losers.

MAKE FIFTEEN ERRORS

VanArsdale's Debut on the Mound For Park Avenue—Given Fine Support and Allows But Five Scattered Hits.

Park Avenue was the cause of the Temple Baptist combination's eighth straight downfall in the Sunday-school League schedule on Saturday afternoon, when it got away with a 9 to 1 win. The contest was carded as a shut out for Park Avenue up until the eighth, when a series of misplays let Temple's first run in. Steward, as usual, twirled a fine article of ball for Temple, but the ragged support he has been given all season was exhibited again Saturday and was the cause of another loss. He fanned nine of the batters that faced him and allowed but eight scattered hits.

Temple Baptist started what had the appearance of a well placed rally when Steward laced out a hit to left, with a man on base, that had the marks of a circuit clout. He was slowed up at third, however, by some poor coaching, and he died at this station. Gullberg, who was doing the coaching at third, held Jaeger, who was on the bases when Steward made the hit, at third; when there was plenty of time for both runners to count. Steward naturally ran Gullberg off third for the third out.

SCOTCH PLAINS DEFEATS RAHWAY, SCORE 6 TO 3

The Scotch Plains baseball team took another game from its old rivals, the Rahway baseball nine, at the latter place Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 3. Brown and Alberts did the battery work for the 'Plains, while Smith and Fairman were in the points for the home nine.

Owing to the rain yesterday afternoon the game scheduled to be played at the 'Plains with the Nutley team was postponed. This is the second straight contest which has been put off on account of the weatherman's interference.

WESTFIELD DEFEATS GIANTS IN RATTLING GOOD GAME

Westfield had to work hard to win from the Royal Colored Giants of this city, at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. Its lone score in the first inning was the only run made by either team during the whole nine rounds. The fielding of both teams was faultless, not an error being made by either side. McDougauld steadied down after the first inning and twirled great ball, holding the home nine to two scattered hits during the remaining eight innings. The colored nine's best opportunity to score came in the eighth when Coleman led off with a clean three bagger, but Ortlieb held him on third while he disposed of the next three batters in easy fashion.

Lang, Westfield's center fielder, featured in the play by making the star catch of the game in the sixth inning. McNish, who umpired last week's game between Plainfield and Westfield, occupied third base for the locals, and made himself solid with the fans by cracking out three of the six hits made by the home team.

YANKEES BEAT GIANTS IN PARKER FIELD SERIES

In a close and well played game on Parker Field this morning the Yankees of the Parker Field Baseball League, scored a victory over the Giants by 3 runs to 2. The winning count came in the ninth inning when Denney passed the first three men to face him and a bad throw scored Kennedy from third. Vaughn twirled an excellent game for the winners, striking out 14 batters and allowed but one base on balls and four hits. Denney, on the other hand, was a little off form and was a trifle wild.

Schlinger gathered in the hitting laurels with a trio of clean singles.

Morristown Field Club's Players Won Five Out of Seven On Local Courts.

The Morristown Field Club met the Park Club in a tennis tournament on the courts of the local club, Saturday afternoon, and the visitors succeeded in winning five out of seven matches. The Parks missed some of their best players while the Morristown club brought its strongest team with them. The visitors proved much too strong for the Parks, but in a return tournament at Morristown the last of August, the Plainfielders hope to regain lost honors. The summary of Saturday's play follows:

Men's doubles—Messrs. Freeman and Watson, Morristown, defeated Messrs. Daniel and Boice, Park, 6-3, 6-8, 6-4; Messrs. Andrews and Stevens, Morristown, defeated Messrs. Barlow and Schoonmaker, 6-3, 6-4.

ROYAL GIANTS WANT GAME.

The Royal Colored Giants' baseball team which has given such a good account of itself during the last two weeks against the Dunellen and Westfield baseball aggregations, are without a game for next Saturday afternoon and would like to hear from any strong semi-professional nines offering a suitable guarantee, preferably Bound Brook or Raritan. The Royals have a game scheduled with the Scotch Plains ball tossers for next Sunday and Manager Simmons says his team is due for a win at this place. Games can be arranged by phoning to 1988-W.

J. R. EVANS WINS SWEEPSTAKES

The only event at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, was a golf sweepstakes, which was won by J. R. Evans with a net score of 62. The leading scores follow:

CHANGES IN MFG. LEAGUE STANDING; TRIPLE TIE IN S. S. LEAGUE ENDED

Only one change resulted in the week-end games in the Manufacturers' league and this was credited to the Banks, that dropped a 14 to 0 game to the R. G. E. combination. The latter nine managed to just keep in the lead of the Commercials, who are now only seventy-five points in the rear. They appear to be waiting for the leaders to drop a game which will afford them an opportunity to slip into the top rung claim. Public Service lost a good chance to increase its championship stock by dropping one to the Clerks. Spicer took a well played and close game from the Saurers, thus getting a hold on fourth place.

The triple tie that stood in the standing of the Sunday-school baseball league was shattered by the defeat of Hope Chapel at the hands of the First Baptist aggregation on Hyde Field Saturday afternoon. This loss put the Chapelites back in third place and Park Avenue by reason of its defeat of the luckless Temples got up to second place. Monroe held its own in the race for first place honors by taking a one-sided game from the South Plainfielders.

This still leaves the top rung argument doubled up with a tie between Monroes and First Baptists. As these two teams do not meet for some time to come the tie is very likely to remain unless Hope can manage to break in to the first division.

DUNELLEN PUTS UP GOOD BATTLE

Makes Plainfield Hustle to Win a Contest in Which Visitors Make Good Fight.

BRIT MARTIN BEST EVER

Triumph of a New Pitcher Over An Old-timer—Not An Individual Contest—McLaughlin Was Up Against Aggregation of Sluggers.

In a close and well played game on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, the Plainfield baseball team managed to record to its credit a 6 to 3 decision over the Dunellen ball tossers. It was one of the hardest fought battles of the year played on the oval, and the Dunellenites never gave up hope of downing the local aggregation. Several times they threw scares into the camp of the Plainfielders only to have the rally ended by a sensational piece of fielding.

The contest was a twirler's battle. Both moundsmen were given gilt-edged support. The fact that Plainfield won is no disgrace to McLaughlin, for he pitched the article of ball that generally wins. He was up against a team of sluggers that have pounded the offerings of every twirler who has appeared on the local diamond this season. Frederickson, on the other hand, was not up to his usual standard and his success against the Dunellen youngsters was the result of snappy and consistent fielding.

In the first inning Dunellen began to liven up after Giddes, the first man up had flied out to Cosgrove, Britt Martin came to bat and the crowd cheered itself hoarse. Britt responded with a two base wallop to right field. He was left stranded, however, when Dixon struck out and McLaughlin flied out to Cosgrove.

Plainfield had no better luck in its half of the initial round as Cosgrove, the leader off, laced a red hot line drive to Martin. The ball was so hot that when it struck Britt's mit it bounded into the air again, but the veteran was after it like a flash and scored the put out amid another round of applause.

The visitor's went out in order in their half of the second but the home nine managed to push two scores across the rubber. Bill Stallings got a hit, Driscoll was given his base on balls and Emery cleaned up with a two bagger to centre field. Emery was finally put out trying to steal third and Nelson flied out to Martin.

Although Giddes got a hit in the third and Martin came across with his second, after Coyle and Dodwell had fanned, they were left stranded on the bases when McLaughlin was out, W. Stallings to Driscoll.

Plainfield got two more counts in its half of the third, when Eddie Stallings got a two base hit and came in on Dixon's error at home plate. Dalton was presented with a base on balls, stole second, and came in on Bill Stallings single, his second of the game. He was left on third, however, when Emery flied out to Giddes.

McLaughlin steadied down at this point and both sides were held scoreless until the seventh when the visitors had their big inning. After Adam Schott had gone out, Dalton to Driscoll, Coyle got to first on an error by Dalton and went to second on Dodwell's hit. Coyle and Dodwell raced home on Giddis' beautiful two bagger. On the throwin which got by Nelson, Giddis went to third and essayed to steal home, when the plate was left unguarded while Nelson went back to the grandstand after the passed ball. No apparent attempt was made to get Giddis and it was one of the cleanest steals ever pulled off on the oval.

Wally Cosgrove came to Frederickson's rescue at this juncture and made a beautiful one hand stab of Martin's long fly which was ticketed for a two bagger. McLaughlin made the third out by the W. Stallings to Driscoll route.

Plainfield managed to get a run across in the seventh when Frederickson, smarting under the walloping he received in this inning, did the unexpected by pounding out a hit. Cosgrove followed with another single and both could have scored easily on Eddie Stalling's two bagger, but Wally was a bit peeved at something and just jogged around to third, where he was left stranded when Harter and Dalton both popped to Giddis.

Plainfield drew blood again in the eighth when Bill Stallings pounded out a three bagger and registered on Driscoll's single.

This ended the scoring for both sides, and although the visitors went back defeated they made a showing worthy of another crack at the locals. Let us have that other contest before we forget this one.

NO RUNS, ONE HIT, BANKS' SHOWING

Vail's Single Was Only Hit Made Off Fleming's Delivery.

R. G. E. FOURTEEN RUNS

Winners Have Big Day at the Bat—Pound Banks' Two Twirlers For Seventeen Hits—Fleming Accorded Gilt-edged Support.

A single by Vail, of the Banks, is all that separated Fleming, the R. G. E. pitcher, from a "no hit, no run" game Saturday afternoon. While his backers piled up a total of 14 scores, Fleming held the opposing batters almost at will, and fanned seven. He was well supported by his fielders, who played errorless ball and although the sphere was hit hard at times, the swats were always handled cleanly and easily.

Ricketts started the box work for the coin chasers but was compelled to retire in favor of Demler in the sixth, but he had no better luck than his predecessor and was pounded hard.

Every man on the winning side, with the exception of Savage, managed to fatten his batting average with at least one hit. This gives the R. G. E. a firmer hold on the top rung of the Manufacturers' Baseball League standing.

UP-HILL CONTEST GOES TO SPICERS

After Four Bad Innings They Pull Together and Pull a Win Out of the Fire.

HEAVY HITTING IS DONE

Respective Twirlers Hit Hard—Two and Three Baggers Predominate—Some Sensational Fielding—Errors Few.

The Spicer baseball team of the Manufacturers' league took an uphill battle from the Saurer combination Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 7. All of the winner's scoring was done after the fifth inning, while the losers completed their end before that time. Both nines put up a good fielding game and the respective twirlers were accorded some fine support.

Heavy slugging marked the progress of the contest and the winner's scoring was all the result of good work with the willow. The batting laurels were devided among Buckley, O'Loughlin, Keily and A. C. Jaeger. A number of sensational catches were made by members of both aggregations which brought the large crowd to their feet.

COMMERCIALS DO NOT INHALE GAS

Public Service Twirler Pitches Good Game But Is Given Ragged Support.

CONOVER SHOWS CLASS

He Fans Thirteen and Allows But Five Hits—P. S. C. Never Dangerous—Fritts Wallops Ball For a Circuit Clout.

The Commercials surprised the Public Service nine by overwhelming it with a 12 to 3 score Saturday afternoon. The losers presented a much patched up and weakened line-up and although Terry twirled his usual steady and effective game he was accorded poor support. Every man on the victorious team came out of the fray with at least one hit to his credit, and Jack Fritts pounded out a circuit clout and a single. Fritts has not been hitting the ball as consistently as he used to but in Saturday's contest he appeared to have regained his old time form. A number of long hits were chalked up, aside from this four base wallop, and two three baggers and a two bagger were among the spoils. The third and the seventh were the big innings for the victors and at these two times they circled the bases at will, and every man came to the bat in the seventh at least once.

What Many Thousands Know—You Can Believe

There is conviction back of every Studebaker Automobile. And the weight of this conviction is a tremendous resource to an automobile buyer

Every Studebaker car comes to you stamped with the confidence of many thousand men. Yes, there are literally hundreds of thousands of the most discriminating people in this country who unreservedly believe that the name "Studebaker" represents the best. Their fathers knew it for years before them and today an army of people will tell you, "If Studebaker built this car, that's enough for me."

Studebaker cars represent ideals. They give a buyer a thorough-going effort by unexcelled skill and resources to produce high grade automobiles at a low price. In your Studebaker car you get the kind of a car you would build for yourself. It is honest through and through. That's what Studebaker stands for.

But you can prove what we say. Ask Studebaker owners. 75,000 of them will tell you that Studebaker cars, and the service given Studebaker owners after they buy, are precisely what any one would expect from the Studebaker organization.

Such conviction is a tremendous resource to the prospective buyer. You can rely upon the Studebaker belief that only honest cars can succeed and the overwhelming testimony of many thousands that Studebaker cars have succeeded.

You will find no freak features in Studebaker construction. Only speed, power, comfort, at a price which can't be equalled.

That is if it is put together rightly and placed in the right mediums. Under such conditions it is certain to influence your business to the betterment of it if you will only have the courage to "keep at it."

How did John Wanamaker and our other commercial kings build up their vast enterprises? Simply by good business ability and—Advertising constantly—keeping at it. You wouldn't apply a liniment with a feather would you, you rub it in—just the same with advertising, except that you keep on rubbing it in and the harder and longer you do the rubbing the greater the returns.

We once read in a country paper the following: "If you have a prosperous business, advertise and keep it—if not advertise and get it. If you can't find the necessary time to devote to advertising your business properly phone us. We have an expert who will put up your "Copy" that will bring sure results.

To all were supplied before leaving camp emergency rations, consisting of three slices of bacon, hard tack, two potatoes, an onion and coffee will be made on the field by the company cook. Each battalion is equipped in heavy marching order, with a wagon to carry supplies, and the men carrying blanket, poncho, shelter tent and haversack containing cooking outfit, soap and towel. It is expected that the first engagement between the two opposing armies will take place some time tonight or early tomorrow morning.

Brig. Gen. Collins, of the Second Brigade, commands the blue army, including Companies K and M, and Col. Chas. Little of the First Maryland Regiment, commands the red army.

Final orders for leaving have been given, and the Second regiment will get away from here about ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, Company K being dropped at Plainfield about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, or a little later.

Sunday was spent dodging rain drops, as it was by far the stormiest day of the many stormy ones encountered since leaving home. Quarters were inspected in the morning by regular and regimental officers, and Company K and M boys were congratulated on the appearance of their streets in spite of the bad weather. In the afternoon, after the rain had been at it for several hours the grounds began to look like a lake, and in some places resembled a mill race. All hands were soaked to the skin. It was decidedly unpleasant, as the rain even beat through the canvas after several hours downpour.

Saturday afternoon Adjutant General Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., accompanied by Major John M. Rogers of his Trenton office force arrived here, and he reviewed the two New Jersey regiments, the boys making a splendid showing. The twenty-ninth Infantry, U. S. A., loaned their band for the occasion, and for the first time since arrival here it seemed like Sea Girt, with the big afternoon parades, and other show movements, which however give little chance to get practical schooling in the real war college. General Sadler returned to Trenton in the evening.

A telegram was received by General Collins from Governor Wilson, in which he expressed regret at not being able to attend the encamp-days and New Jersey State pay for only six days. The State has no money to pay for more than the week's manoeuvre, but it is expected that the four days' difference will be made up after the next State appropriation.

COMPANY K NOTES.

First Sergeant Apgar is certainly the hardest working "Top" in the outfit. His only complaint is that he cannot sleep on account of the action of his tent mates, all of whom are Sergeants, and he is surprised they do not set a better example.

Do you know these three members of Company K?

A mysterious barrel arrived in Company K street Saturday. Strange, and this is a closed camp, too. So little water is now used that the cook does not have to heat any as it comes boiling from the pipes.

It is funny, but no one complained of the cold Friday night except those in Company F. They said they had to get up and go outside of their tents because of the hot air that was coming from Company K street after taps made them warm.

Cooks Phesant and Apgar are somewhat worried about all of their boarders. They have been notified by the boarders that they will leave next week.

If some of the members do not soon scrub up, the sanitary squad will be after them and the scrubbing will not be mild.

Private Bird certainly is named correctly. Still, poor boy, he can't be blamed for he has only been married three months and he has been so worried he has not been able to eat.

COMPANY M NOTES.

Company M, of Somerville, relieved Company L on guard Saturday night.

They have not had a man on the sick list and have enjoyed themselves and had more horse play than any company in the regiment. Their initiations were especially interesting and attracted quite a number of visitors from other companies. The initiation squad was composed of Cook Leonard and Quarter-Master Sergeant Dunham, assisted by other members of the company who were too modest to have their names used.

Privates Hackel, Brokaw and Ramsey were painted and dressed in rather abreviated costumes of the weaker sex, and led around the streets with chains around their necks as a warning to all Somerville young ladies to keep single.

Mud duels were held by Privates Linke and Southwick, McConnell and Pierce, and Brogley and Ballard; and they resembled the streets when through, and were hard to recognize; consequently no decision given.

The most comical affair was between Rookies Schenck and Wachter who were made to wrestle with greased hands. They were stripped to the waist, blindfolded and instead of grease their hands were covered with shoe blacking. Time was called and after about 10 minutes at hard work they presented an appearance that a Bowery bootblack would have been proud of. While the fight was in progress several members were stationed on the top of the cook tent with pails of water which they threw into the crowd, and created a laugh at the drowned ones expense.

Sergeant Edgar is a leader of the Food Kickers and pronounced all potatoes sour, but it is hard to suit some star boarders with a Delmonico appetite on Government rations.

Private Hacket must have been asleep Thursday noon as he did not fall in for mess until five minutes after call and it is the first time he has not been the first in line since coming to camp.

Private Higgins, the jestor of the company, must be affected by the heat as he is springing some of the most aged jokes ever heard as original, and has the nerve to say he intends getting out a book which Newsdealer Genert has promised to copyright and sell for him.

Private Fritts was the first to reach the bottom of line in one of the hike's toward camp. He certainly has learned to be a soldier, which means do all you can to soldier (on the job).

A number of "Rookies" still expect to be initiated and have lost their appetites much to the benefit of company mess.

May Be Republican Nominee For Governor of New York.

The boom for James W. Wadsworth, Jr., erstwhile speaker of the New York state assembly, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, launched at the meeting of the state Republican committee in New York, is the subject of lively discussion in political circles.

NAVAL CADET KILLED IN FALL OF 100 FEET

"Dare" Required Him to Climb to Flagship Top.

Annapolis, Md., July 22.—After a successful effort to climb to the topmast of the Hartford, Farragut's old flagship, now moored at the Naval academy wharf, and pierce his cap with a spike which adorns the highest point, thus fulfilling the academy tradition thought to be a necessity for all newly entered midshipmen, William L. Bullock, who entered the institution only six weeks ago, fell a hundred feet to the deck while attempting to descend and broke his neck, dying instantly.

Young Bullock was an excellent physical specimen, being six feet in height and well proportioned. He possessed aptitude for the naval service, and his death caused profound melancholy here.

Bullock was with his roommate, Midshipman Alston, also from Texas, when the fatal accident had taken place. He reached the highest point of the main point without serious difficulty and transfixed his cap on the spike at the top. In attempting to descend Bullock tried to slide down a single rope, and his hands were evidently burned by the rapid descent. He attempted to grab the mast or other ropes and lost his hold completely. Bullock struck the crossbars of the mast in his fall, and it is believed that he then received fatal injuries. He struck the deck, a hundred feet below.

SWINDLERS GET $120,000,000

That Amount Stolen Through Mail Operators In One Year.

Washington, July 22.—One hundred and twenty million dollars was stolen from the American people during the last fiscal year by swindlers who operated largely through the United States mails, according to a statement just made in a formal report to Postmaster General Hitchcock. This was an increase of approximately $50,000,000 over the previous year.

Of those alleged to have operated the fraudulent schemes 1,063 were arrested by postoffice inspectors, 452 persons were sentenced and 571 cases are awaiting final disposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillaire Blatz, of Somerset street, will leave for Atlantic City this week.

STILL NEED $600 FOR A MEMORIAL

Continental Chapter, D. A. R., Issues An Appeal to Complete the Fund of $3,000.

THE WORK IS STARTED

Can't Be Finished, However, Until Balance Is Contributed By Patriotic Residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

It will doubtless be gratifying to those who are interested in the Washington Rock Memorial to know that the work of which so much has been said has actually been started. In the issues of both of our town papers under date of May 25, the history of Washington Rock was reviewed, again, on May 28, former efforts to mark the rock were described and the steadily increasing importance of such a memorial urged; and June 1 the plans of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution were given with a cut of the design adopted. At the same time an appeal was made to the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield for financial aid, as the fund which Continental Chapter had accumulated was far from sufficient to erect a memorial which would be worthy of a spot of such historical value, and at the same time express to the generations to come the true spirit of Plainfield of today.

Responses to this appeal have been both generous and indicative of patriotic sentiment and have been most gratefully received and acknowledged by the organization having the work in charge. At the present time the sum of $1,966 has been received which with the $500 of Continental Chapter aggregates $2,466. To carry out the project the sum of $3,000 was estimated to be necessary, and perhaps here a word of explanation will be timely, as the impression may have been gained that the required amount had been subscribed.

To all who have had any experience with masonry, the sum of $3,000 will not seem too great when the surroundings of Washington Rock are understood. In addition to the Cairn with its bronze tablet, lofty flag-staff, etc., a retaining wall is quite indispensable for two reasons. The two rocks stand some eighty feet apart and will in time be undermined by surface drainage if nature is not checked; then too this wall will enable visitors to reach a point where the widespread view of the plains below will be possible.

This wall then, as will be readily seen, is the main item of expense, but one which is from every standpoint most desirable.

Continental Chapter considers the beginning of the work quite justifiable, believing that future contributions will speedily reach the $3,000 mark. Even more could be used to good advantage as a trip to the Rock will prove. Much could be done to enhance the beauty and accessibility of the place, but what is done now should be permanent, laying the foundation for all improvements of the future.

EXCURSIONISTS FILL FIFTEEN COACH TRAIN

"Bull Moose" Convention Attracts Many Who Go to Asbury Park.

Fifteen well filled coaches left the North Avenue station this morning at about 8:15, carrying the members of the First and Temple Baptist Sunday-schools and their friends to Asbury Park on their annual excursion. Many were attracted to the shore by the "Bull Moose" convention which is being held today in the Ocean Grove Auditorium. Others left to enoy the cool ocean breezes which were reported as even cooler than those enjoyed by the ones who stayed at home.

The station platform presented a gala day appearance long before the excursion train arrived. Fathers and mothers, with lunch baskets, baby carriages and babies to watch, were seen coming from all directions, up until train time; and a few unlucky ones showed up a few minutes after. But they were not many, and the jolly crowd left for a pleasant day at the shore.

The committee from the two Sunday-schools having charge of the arrangements for the affair was under the direction of John McLaughlin, chairman, of the First Baptist Sunday-school, assisted by U. B. Crane, of the same school; and L. W. Randolph and Charles Conover, of the Temple Baptist school.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE DEALERS ARE INVITED

A conference between the Plainfield Board of Health and the grocers and dealers in fruits and vegetables will be held in the office of the board, 104 East Front street, Thursday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, for the purpose of devising a plan for the carrying out of the provisions of the State Law, which prohibits the exposure of food products to dust, dirt, flies and other contamination.

The Plainfield dealers are invited to be present at the conference. Supervising Health Officer John O'Brien will be present to impress upon the dealers the necessity of cooperation and united support in the enforcement of the law in question.

APPLICATION FOR LIQUOR LICENSE

Petitioner a Driver Employed By Borough Wholesaler Arrested for Violating Law.

HAS A SMALL CHANCE

Mrs. Lena Hoerster, For Whom Thomas Traynor, the Petitioner, Works, Released In $200 Bail For a Hearing On Illegal Selling.

Thomas Traynor, a driver employed by Mrs. Lena M. Hoerster, a wholesale liquor dealer, of 98 Somerset street, North Plainfield, made application to the Plainfield Common Council last night for a wholesale liquor license at premises 41-43 Somerset street, in this city.

According to Section 7 of the Ordinance to "license inns and taverns and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors" such an application on presentation to Common Council must be signed by at least five freeholders and residents of the city of Plainfield, three of whom reside in the same ward in which said proposed place of business is situated and within one thousand feet of said proposed place of business of said applicant.

The following signatures were appended to the application which was referred to the committee on licenses:

Samuel Smelson, 675 West Third street, not listed as a property owner in the city of Plainfield; Moses Bender, 230 West Second street, owns property at 25-27 Somerset street, assessed at $3,250, 228 West Second street, assessed at $3,025, and 234 West Second street, assessed at $6,950; Morris Rosenbaum, 314 New street, assessed $1,750; Samuel Rosenbaum, of 310 New street, assessed at $1,650; Amos B. Stites, of 247 East Second street, assessed at $3,500, also property at 1709 West Front street, assessed at $1,650; Louis Kornfield, of 127 West Front street, owns property at 7 Spruce street, assessed at $1,000; Mrs. Lena Hoerster, of 98 Somerset street, North Plainfield, property at 39-45 Somerset street, assessed at $6,500, and 47 Somerset street, assessed at $900.

The list of signers in itself shows that the provisions of the ordinance have not been fulfilled. Moreover, the Common Council went on record when the licenses of the year were granted not to increase the number. Mrs. Hoerster, Traynor's employer, was released in $200 bail a day or so ago in the Plainfield city court when arraigned on a charge of delivering liquor in Plainfield in violation of law. It is the general opinion that the Common Council will promptly refuse to consider Traynor's application.

COLLINS FOR MAYOR.

The probability that General Dennis F. Collins will be a candidate for Mayor was admitted by his friends today. They say his candidacy is contingent upon the decision of Mayor Stein, when he is waited upon by the committee named by the Elizabeth Democratic Club to urge him to seek renomination. General Collins, who is now with his troops at Mt. Gretna, Pa., is chairman of this committee, and it will not call on the Mayor until his return late in the week.

REDS AND BLUES BATTLE TODAY

Fighting Begins at Daybreak and Will Continue Throughout the Day.

NO ADVANTAGE AS YET

General Collins Opens Battle By Attacking Left Wing of Enemy With Cavalry—Weather Conditions Favorable For Fight.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

U. S. Camp of Instruction, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 23.—Company K, of Plainfield, and Company M, of Somerville, members of the Blue Army, awoke this morning at an early hour to prepare for the coming battle which began at 6:30. The weather of last night could not have been better for sleeping and each man awoke fit. No accidents had happened to mar the prospects of a battle royal.

Company K and Company M left camp yesterday afternoon at 1:30 with the Blue Army, under the command of Brigadier General Collins. Five o'clock found them in bivouac at Bellair, about five miles from the camp at Mt. Gretna. Here the army of blue waited impatiently for the morrow and battle. Both Companies K and M made the entire march without a halt.

The force of the Blue Army under General Collins consisted of a portion of the Twenty-ninth Infantry and Battery E, Third New Jersey as the main body and the Second New Jersey as a rear guard and out posts.

Opposing them was the Red Army, under the command of Colonel Charles A. Little, of the First Maryland. This force was made up of the First and Fourth Maryland, a portion of the Twenty-ninth Infantry and Battery E. The Fifteenth Cavalry divided, acting as scouts to both armies.

Promptly at 6:30 the advance guard reported the presence of the enemy and lines of protection were immediately thrown out. Once the sound of battle had broken the stillness of the morning air continuous volleys told plainly in which direction lay the fray. Both the Plainfield and Somerville companies were in the thickest of the fight.

General Collins broke camp at daylight and proceeded against the left flank of the enemy. Cavalry was used to open the attack while the Second and Third New Jersey regiment were withheld for the time being. The morning hours were spent in manouvering, each army trying to gain some slight advantage from position. As the day advanced however the fighting became sharper and more spirited.

Volley after volley told in what direction the thickest part of the fray was. At one o'clock the advantage if any lay with the attacking army of which Companies K and M are members. This advantage however was slight and the Red Army threatened to reverse conditions at any time. The fighting will continue until six o'clock tonight.

BIDS FOR SEWER BEDS IMPROVEMENTS AUG. 19

Proposals for bids for the reconstruction of contact beds will be received by the Common Council at its meeting on Monday night, August 19. The specifications provide for the removal of the stone at present in the beds, cleared of the clogging material, screened and the coarser parts replaced. The under drains and floor shall be cleaned and additional drains made if required, by the contractor at actual cost. The beds will be filled with septic effluent measured by weirs and the voids shall equal at least 45 per cent. of the capacity of the empty beds.

The engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required and work to be done for the repairing of the beds is as follows: 11,200 cubic yards of stone to be washed and 2,850 cubic yards of stone to be furnished.

AT BETHEL CAMP.

It is reported that everything is going fine at the Bethel Chapel boys' camp at Pleasant Plains, on Staten Island, and all the campers are having a great time. Among the sports enjoyed by the boys are fishing, bathing, crabbing, and baseball. There is something new for the lads every day. Today they expect to cross bats with the Roseville School nine, and tomorrow they will sail to Boynton Beach from Roseville and spend the day.

PATRLOMEN ON VACATION.

Patrolmen John Kelly and Tobias Nolan are next on the vacation list, after Charles Flynn and Charles Wicht resume duty on July 30.

Chief of Police David H. Ramsey yesterday afternoon at Rahway arrested John A. Schneider, of Central avenue, this city, and Thomas Trotter, of Woodbridge, for racing their automobiles in Hamilton street, Rahway.

When arraigned before Police Justice John W. Buckley each was fined with costs, $17.50, for exceeding the speed limit and they paid under protest. Witnesses against them were ex-Councilman J. E. Tier and Dr. J. L. Brown, of Rahway. Chief Ramsey says that automobiles must observe the speed limit strictly while in Rahway.

NEW PARTY LAUNCHED

Progressives Organize and Shape Plans and Policies for the Campaign in N. J.

QUIT REPUBLICAN PARTY

Twelve Hundred Delegates Assemble at Asbury Park—Candidates to be Named In Every Congressional District, County and Municipality.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

Asbury Park, July 23.—Promptly at noon today the Progressive Republicans gathered at the Auditorium to shape their plans and policies for the Presidential campaign in New Jersey. There were fully 1,200 delegates present when Republican National Committeeman Borden Whiting, of New Jersey, called the convention to order.

After the call had been read by Judge Higgins, of Jersey City, Whiting made a red hot speech in which he gave a vivid description of the Chicago convention, declaring that Mr. Taft had obtained the nomination by frauds perpetrated by a discredited National Committee. At the conclusion of his gingery remarks, he introduced former Governor John Franklin Fort, of Essex county, as temporary chairman.

The Governor told in plain words why it was necessary for the Progressive Republicans of New Jersey to come together on this occasion. His speech, which was frequently interrupted by applause, will be found in full in this issue.

It was decided that the Progressives should be represented by a complete ticket in every section of the State. Congressional, county and local nominations will be made everywhere.

Among the vice chairmen named before the convention adjourned for luncheon was Mayor Moy, of Union; H. Raymond Groves, of Middlesex; William N. Whiting, of Somerset, and Charles R. Pettit, of Morris.

Two committees, each consisting of nine members with the convention chairman as one, were named after proper resolutions had been passed. One on resolutions consists of Record, Colby, Osborne, Gill, Jess, Fowler, Blauvelt, Howland and John C. Love. The other was on rules. When Fowler's name was called a delegate asked the chairman whether the former Congressman had joined the movement. Mr. Fowler answered by stating that he would declare his position this afternoon.

On motion of Mott, of Essex, it was decided to appoint nine delegates at large to join with the delegates calling the convention to form a State committee. This committee will meet on the call of the chair and will select officers.

It was decided to refer all resolutions to the proper committee without debate.

The title of the new party in New Jersey and of its State committee was not selected. The convention will defer that matter until after the National Progressive convention and will abide by its decision.

The Roosevelt State Executive Committee went into session at 9 o'clock last night at the new Hotel Monterey, whipping into shape the resolutions to be adopted this afternoon. It was 3 o'clock this morning before the meeting broke up and the committee reassembled long before noon.

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes, wearing a Roosevelt button, was at the conference, as was Congress man Charles N. Fowler, of Elizabeth. Both had been reported as wavering in their enthusiasm for a third party after the Chicago convention nominated Taft. Stokes left for home early this afternoon.

Former Governor Fort, George L. Record, Edmund B. Osborne and all the other men who have been in the forefront of the Progressive movement in New Jersey were at the meeting.

The problem confronting the executive committee was whether to remain in the Republican party and fight it out at the September primaries or to secede at once and give battle to the Taft forces from outside the Republican breastworks. George L. Record, former Governor E. C. Stokes, former Congressman Charles N. Fowler and James G. Blauvelt were the chief leaders for remaining in and fighting at the primaries. Among those who enthusiastically advocated breaking away and forming a Progressive Party in New Jersey were Harold Howland, of Montclair; John E. Gill, of Trenton; John Klein, of Belleville; William H.

The freeholders are being criticized for the manner in which Central avenue, between this town and Rahway, has been repaired. Broken stone was placed over the surface of the road, this covered with clay binder and rolled, then a top dressing of fine stone, which was rolled and then sprinkled with crude oil. The fault is found with the oil, which experts claim is a lubricant and not a binder and that it permits disintegration of the road. It is claimed by road experts that the present condition of the roads in the county is due more to the free and persistent use of oil than to wear.

HARMONY MOVEMENT NOW IN ELIZABETH

Collins-Stein Factions in Democratic Party to Attempt to Bury the Hatchet.

Elizabeth, July 23.—Some subtle moves are being made just now on the political chessboard in this city. This is, according to a statement made by former Republican Mayor Mravlag, of Elizabeth, yesterday. The former Mayor says he has reliable information that the strife which has existed for some years between the General Collins faction and the Mayor Stein faction in the Democratic party, and which has nearly torn asunder the party in Elizabeth, is about to end, and that a truce has been declared between the contending forces.

The former Mayor alleges that a deal has been made, or is about to be consummated, by which there will be such a division of the spoils as will placate the opposing warriors. Dr. Mravlag goes on to state that the information, as given to him, is that there will be no opposition made by the Collins faction to Mayor Stein's renomination this fall.

The program as outlined is for General Collins to run and be elected alderman in the Sixth Ward to succeed James Walker. Former City Clerk James J. Manning is to be slated for alderman in the First Ward to succeed Patrick J. McGuire, who has grievously offended the Stein-Nugent faction.

General Collins is to be elected President of the Aldermanic Board to succeed Edward Nugent. This the General in return for this favor from his former enemies is to use all his influence with Governor Wilson to have Mayor Stein appointed as prosecutor for Union county. Stein is then to resign as Mayor, and General Collins, by virtue of his position as president of the Board of Aldermen, becomes acting Mayor of Elizabeth.

Dr. Mravlag thinks this is a beautiful scheme, if it can be carried through, but he doubts it. The ex-Mayor himself is in a receptive mood for his renomination. He believes that his chances for re-election in view of his previous record, would be as good as Stein's, and he does not think the truce between the warring Democratic factions will be permanent.

The deal, as he outlined it, would eliminate Robert H. McAdams. The latter, who is president of the Union County Board of Elections, is also a strong candidate for prosecutor.

It is pointed out, however, that in order to restore harmony in the Democratic ranks some one must be sacrificed on the altar of political ambition.

Mr. McAdams seems to be placed in that predicament, if the plans of the peacemakers go through.

City Attorney James C. Connolly seems to think he has a cinch on the county judgeship appointment to be made by Governor Wilson.

Former Prosecutor William R. Wilson, who is likewise a candidate for Republican County Judge Atwater's place, is hopeful, but not sanguine, as to the outcome.

S. H. Voorhees and family, of Madison avenue, are on a motoring trip through the New England States.

Mrs. John Wynans and Mrs. W. Wynans and son, of East Front street, have returned from Asbury Park, where they have been spending a week.

STANLEY REPORT IS DRASTIC ON TRUSTS

It Provides That Individuals May Bring Suits.

Washington, July 23.—The legislative recommendations of the majority members of the Stanley steel committee, which were finally completed, are radical beyond anticipation.

The steel committee proposes the most far reaching changes in the Sherman anti-trust law that has ever been laid before congress, and the program is particularly interesting in view of the fact that Woodrow Wilson is understood to have approved it.

The bill offered by the Stanley committee proposes that individuals shall have the power to bring suits in equity for an injunction under the Sherman anti-trust law and that they also shall have the power to intervene in any suit brought by the government under this act.

The bill also proposes that the burden of proof in regard to the reasonableness or unreasonableness of a restraint of trade shall be shifted from the complainant to the defendant corporation. In addition to these recommendations the committee's bill defines acts which shall constitute unreasonable restraints of trade.

MEN WHO KILLED GAMBLER KNOWN

Police Give Out Names of Rosenthal's Assassins.

ARE PROTECTED HIGHER UP

Whitman and Dougherty Working In Harmony—Citizens' Union Engages Detective Burns—Said That Men Who Did Actual Murder Have Fled to Chicago.

New York, July 23.—The men who are wanted for the actual murder of Herman Rosenthal are known to District Attorney Whitman and Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. Efforts to secure the release on bail of Shapiro, Libby, Rose, Webber and Paul were abortive. Dougherty prided himself on the fact that, while he hadn't the real murderers in custody, he knew their names.

These men are "Dago" Frank, one of the most desperate gangsters the east side ever produced, a man who has boasted of killings and who has lived by blackjack and pistol; Harry Vallon, a gambler; "Lefty Louie" and "Whitey" Lewis and Harry Horowitz, notorious under his gang name of "Gib the Blood." These are the men who fled town on Tuesday and who, some of them at least, are believed to have sought refuge in the gang holes of Chicago. They are the men that Dougherty is after. It was their names that no amount of grilling on the lawyer's part could drag from him before the coroner.

Dougherty Expects a "Squeal."

As for the others now under arrest—William Shapiro, part owner and driver of the gray car used by the murderers; Louis Libby, his partner; Jack Rose, who collected the gangsters after affidavit work for Lieutenant Becker; Sam Paul, the gambler who went to the Webber poker room where the murderers rendezvoused, and Bridgie Webber himself—Dougherty stands pat. He said that he will have the truth out of them before he is done, and, naming one of them as a likely "squealer," added: "I'd be a fine dim fool, wouldn't I, to blab all the information.

And Whitman and Dougherty, amiably agreed in intent, joined in the statement that when the story is told it will be found that fifteen or sixteen men at the lowest count had a hand in the taking off of Rosenthal.

"Oh, it was a clever job," said Whitman. "Bit by bit, and piece by piece the plot shows the shrewdest of planning. It was piece work to a nicety—so many men to give the hint that Rosenthal must be killed; so many men to round up the killers; so many men to do the killing. Gaps were made purposely between these parties so that only a few would show at each stage of the crime. The intent was to make it impossible to connect any one set of men with any other. It will be found in the end that bigger men than a mere policeman had to do with the job."

It is for the big men he has in mind that Whitman and Dougherty are laying snares, if they can get the evidence against policemen, big and little, that they want.

Dougherty Moves Cautiously.

Dougherty, strong in the belief that policemen connived at the killing of Rosenthal, did not throw all of his cards on the table when he went before Coroner Feinberg and testified for the benefit of lawyers retained by the five men now held for murder that there was no evidence connecting any of them with the actual murder. The little cards of coincidence and conjecture and suspicious circumstance were exposed freely, but Dougherty palmed his face cards—the evidence as to who the murderers were and where they are.

And so there was disappointment over the result of the coroner's hearing, so much so, indeed, that within ten minutes District Attorney Whitman was gratefully accepting the offer of William J. Schieffelin, E. H. Outerbridge, Robert Fulton Cutting, James Speyer and other citizens of large means and public spirit to provide all the money necessary to pay William J. Burns for getting at the blame of the police gambler scandal and finding out what policemen had most at stake in silencing Rosenthal.

Mr. Whitman's attitude, plainly put, is a lack of confidence in the police sincerity, Dougherty and Commissioner Waldo excepted, and the feeling that nobody but Burns can dig up the truth, for the police, says Whitman, have lagged in the hunt, and all save Dougherty are confusing the trail.

FILM ACTORS TRESPASS.

Garden City, N. Y., July 23.—The Garden City representatives of the Long Island Episcopal diocese are distressed over the publicity given to the visit of a moving picture concern to St. Paul's school here a few days ago, the placing of a sign, "Miss Yates' Select School For Girls," on the dignified old building, and the enactment of several scenes, in which a clergyman was the central figure.

The clergyman depicted was a member of the troup of actors and actresses who accompanied the machine from the aviation field to the grounds.

MINISTER PRAYS GOD TO SEND AN INGERSOLL

Chicago, July 23.—"O God send us another Bob Ingersoll to arouse the people," was the plea made by Rev. Charles B. Mitchell, pastor of St. James' Methodist Episcopal church, at the Desplaines campmeeting Sunday.

"They sit in the pews with dull, dead indifference that breaks our hearts. It would be better if they threw bricks at us as they did at Wesley, but they don't even talk back.

"This is an age of doubt. We ministers need more than apostolic succession in this scoffing, indifferent and godless age. The pendulum, I believe, will soon begin to swing back again."

OLD HISTORIC MANSE IN ELIZABETH RAZED

Elizabeth, July 23. One of the oldest landmarks in this city is being torn down. It is known as the Gracie mansion, on Elizabeth avenue, formerly Water street.

The house was erected long before the Revolutionary War, and for many years prior to the Civil War it was the home of the Gracie family, wealthy Southerners.

When Fort Sumter was fired upon, Archibald Gracie, who was a hot-blooded Southerner, fled to escape the wrath of townsmen who resented some of his utterances. He made his way from New York to New Orleans, where he enlisted in the Confederate army, was promoted to be a general and was killed in battle. Shortly after he disappeared most of the family left Elizabeth for New York.

The Gracie property was purchased recently by the Gordon Lumber and Building Company, of Elizabeth. Before the transfer of the estate could be made it was necessary for former Jude P. H. Gilhooley, who conducted the negotiations for the Gordon company, to send to South Africa to obtain the signature of a surviving heir.

GEORGE M. D. APGAR.

Whitehouse, July 23.—After a long illness from a complication of ailments, George M. D. Apgar, seventy-one years old, died Sunday at his home at Whitehouse Station. He was a native of Tewesbury Township and was a son of the late Peter Apgar, for many years a prominent farmer there. Mr. Apgar was engaged in farming until several years ago, when his health became impaired. He was a bachelor and leaves one sister, Mrs. Jacob Alpaugh, of Cokesbury. The funeral services will be held today. Rev. Henry T. Jones, pastor of the Reformed church, will officiate. The interment will be made in the Methodist cemetery.

HOSPITAL HEAD QUITS.

Elizabeth, July 23—After being superintendent of the Elizabeth General Hospital nine years, Austin F. Knowles will sever his connection with the institution September 15. Mr. Austin's successor will be Miss Eugenia Fayres, now attached to a Paterson hospital and formerly assistant superintendent of the Ear, Eye and Throat Hospital, of Manhattan. Before taking the position at the General Hospital, Mr. Knowles whose home is in this city, was for many years general coal shipper at Perth Amboy for the Lehigh Coal Company.

ILLEGAL SELLING.

Co-operating with Mayor Moy and Police Chief Kiely, Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., in obedience to the instructions of Judge Atwater, has lost no time in causing the arrest of three North Plainfield and two Fanwood wholesale liquor dealers to answer charges of violating the law. The specific complaint against each of these defendants, and their drivers too, is that of delivering liquor outside of the jurisdiction in which they hold licenses.

It is a matter of common knowledge that Judge Daly, of Middlesex county, recently issued an order that, inasmuch as a wholesaler is only permitted to deliver his goods within the bounds of the municipality that has given him due authority to engage in the liquor business, it is an offense to deliver his goods in another district. This jurist ordered that the illegal practise be stopped forthwith. Still more recently, the County Judge of Union made a similar official statement. The latter instructed Prosecutor Swift and his assistant, Mr. Hetfield, to get busy.

Without any delay, Hetfield offered his services to Mayor Moy to aid in a crusade to suppress illegal selling. Our confidence that he would bring about the desired results was not misplaced for on Friday morning a half score of alleged offenders will be given a hearing. They have all pleaded "not guilty" and have been released in bail. There will be no escape for any of them if it can be clearly shown that they delivered beer or alcoholic liquors within the city of Plainfield. If they are guilty, we have not the slightest doubt but that the licenses of the owners will be revoked for that would be the only proper punishment. Such sentences by the courts would have an excellent effect not only in this section but throughout the State. It would be the means of effectively ending the illegal traffic for the offenders in this neighborhood and in every other part of New Jersey would not for a moment run the risk of losing a license by attempting to violate the law in this way.

Coming as it does right after these arrests have been made, the application of Thomas Traynor, of North Plainfield, filed with the Common Council last night, for a wholesale license on Somerset street, near the dividing line between city and borough, is open to suspicion. In the first place it appears that Traynor is a driver for Lena Hoerster, of North Plainfield, who is released in bail to answer the charge of illegal selling and is to be given a hearing on Friday. In the second place Mrs. Hoerster owns the property for which a license is sought. In the third place, only one of the five required signers to the Traynor petition, it is stated, reside within 1,000 feet of the said place, although the law provides that three of them must.

There are other apparent defects, but why bother with them? The petition has been referred to the Councilmanic license committee and will certainly meet the fate it deserves when reported back to the Common Council. Following their annual custom, the city fathers went on record as against receiving any applications for new licenses. Even had they not done so, there is not the slightest chance that the petition will be given serious consideration.

Somerset County's Board of Freeholders would be doing the right thing should it build a winding roadway from the foot of the southern slope of the Watchung mountain to Washington Rock, where Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is placing a suitable memorial. Work has already been begun to mark the site where George Washington viewed the movements of the Hessian troops and the undertaking will cost approximately $3,000. But $600 is still needed in order that the work may be finished, but after that is subscribed, as it surely will be by patriotic residents, it will be difficult for the people to visit the place. The Rock is remotely situated and a road leading to it or pass it should certainly be built.

GUNDA.

Ferocious Bull Elephant in the Bronx Zoo, New York.

New York has a real elephant on its hands. What to do with Gunda, a big bull elephant, is a question that is puzzling the authorities of the Bronx Park zoo. Just at present Gunda is in chains, being given a chance to think things over and decide if he intends to be good. If he doesn't decide that way, he will get a dose of apples and strychnine.

Gunda is young as elephants go, hailing from Assan in northeast India, where he was born some sixteen or seventeen years ago. He was captured in 1903 and presented to the zoo a year later by Colonel Oliver H. Payne, who paid $3,000 for him. At that time he weighed only 3,740 pounds and was only six feet seven inches tall at the shoulders. Now he is eight feet nine inches tall and weighs more than four tons. It is traditional that bull elephants grow testy with the passing years.

Gunda's latest escapade was a deadly attack on one of his keepers, Walter Thuman. Thuman was cleaning Gunda's stall one day recently, when the elephant swung his trunk through the air with the impact of a rushing locomotive and struck the keeper across the breast, hurling him fifteen feet to land with a crash against the iron wall.

Thuman crumpled up on the cement floor, limp, dazed and breathless, while Gunda drew back for a rush at him. In those few seconds the keeper managed to crawl a few inches further toward the corner of the stall. Gunda rushed, but his prey was too far into the corner. With his own great head in the way, he found it hard to trample on the man and kill him that way.

Then he used his tusks—a vicious lunge. One thrust, and the long ivory weapon was lifted into the air, dripping with Thuman's blood, and in the fleshy part of Thuman's leg there was a great hole three inches deep. The man was helpless, Gunda swayed back and thrust again—thrust blindly, and this time his tusks struck a smashing blow upon the converging walls of the stall. There was a splintering noise. Five pounds of ivory clattered to the floor and rolled over to the side of the wounded keeper.

Furious at the breaking of his tusk, Gunda was backing away for further attack on Thuman when another keeper arrived with a pitchfork, which he hurled like a javelin into the elephant's head and drove him off.

—No, Maude dear; we couldn't advise you to look for an heirloom in a windmill.

Arbitrating Demands of The Engineers

CAN the railroads give the engineers any more pay without going into bankruptcy? That is the important question to be decided by the arbitration commission of seven men which is going into the merits of the demands made last spring by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The hearings will be continued until the members of the commission have had an opportunity to go into the details of all differences between the engineers and the fifty-two railroads east of the Mississippi and north of Washington and the Ohio river.

Everybody in the railroad world is therefore watching the outcome of the hearings of the arbitration commission, for the decision of the commission will indicate to what extent all the other organizations among railroad employees will meet with success.

The action of the arbitrators is to be binding upon both sides. That is why shippers as well as railroad men and organized labor interests all over the country have their eyes upon these hearings. It will be recalled that when the engineers asked for more pay and shorter hours the railroads declared that they could not raise the pay of the employees because the interstate commerce commission had refused to let the railroads raise their freight rates. The railroads contended that in the circumstances a further increase of wages to the engineers, which would surely necessitate raising all of the other employees, would either bankrupt the roads or eliminate all the profits from railroading as an enterprise.

Then Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers threatened to call a strike.

United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill and Presiding Judge Martin A. Knapp of the court of commerce stepped in as peacemakers and induced both sides to submit the matters in dispute to a commission of seven arbitrators.

Under the agreement to submit the whole dispute to arbitration the railroads and the engineers each selected one member, while the remaining five were appointed by the chief justice of the United States supreme court, the presiding judge of the United States commerce court and the United States commissioner of labor, acting together. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was chosen as a member of the commission by the railroads. P. H. Morrissey, former president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, was chosen by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to be a member of the commission. The five other members of the commission are as follows: Oscar S. Straus, former secretary of the department of commerce and labor; Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; Otto M. Eidlitz, former president of the Building Trades Employers' association; Charles H. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, and Frederic N. Judson, a member of the St. Louis bar. Mr. Straus was chosen as chairman of the commission.

CLAUSSEN QUENCHES FIRE.

Hans Claussen, of the West Fourth street fire house, was having a pair of the Fire Department horses shod at Flannery's blacksmith shop on East Fourth street when he chanced to look out of the window and discovered a line of fire creeping along the top of the rear fence. With all the instinct of a trained Plainfield fireman he shouted to the crowd that was fast gathering, "Don't pull the box, boys. I will have this under control in a minute!" With this he picked up a bucket of water near at hand and dashed it on the flames, quenching them immediately. Claussen's quick action probably prevented a serious conflagration as the fence is one that creeps along the side of the Gas Company's tanks.

$265 IN BILLS A CAT'S BED.

Trenton, July 23.—Whether Mrs. Mary Keresen, of Laines Court, stole $265 from a boarder or whether a pet cat is responsible for the larceny is a question that will have to be decided by the Mercer County Grand Jury. A few days ago the woman was arrested and held in $300 bail. She protested her innocence and declared she did not know where the money was. Yesterday the family cat, with a litter of young, was found resting on the bills in a kitchen closet.

BURGLAR MYSTERY SOLVED.

With the arrest of Albert Hurling, of South Second street, for the larceny of Mrs. Fairbaum's bag, and his being held in $200 for the Grand Jury the mystery of a number of small burglaries committed in the West End of the town has been unravelled. Hurling has confessed to breaking into at least six houses in West Third street and Plainfield avenue, and carrying off more or less booty.

—Some people are satisfied to follow the crowd at a safe distance.

—Money talks, but some people grab it so tight as to choke it.

VINCENT GREGORY RELEASED.

Vincent Gregory, of Cottage place, who was committed to the county jail last week to await the action of the Grand Jury, was released this morning upon securing the necessary $200 bail. Eethel Keiderling, who was arraigned on a serious charge together with Gregory, has not as yet been able to secure a bondsman and she will probably have to remain in the county jail until September in default of the required bail.

REV. HENRY DUCKGEISCHEL.

The Rev. Henry Duckgeischel, rector of St. Mark's church, Rahway, for nine years, died yesterday in the rectory, in Hamilton street, Rahway. He was sixty-five years old and had served as a priest for thirty-one years in Rahway, New York and Milwaukee.

Two Irish Stories.

In a book dealing with Irish life George A. Birmingham (the pen name of an Irish clergyman) tells of an Irish veterinary surgeon who sent in his bill in the following terms: "To curing your honor's mule till it died—10 shillings."

Another of Mr. Birmingham's stories is based on a mistake in pronunciation. An Englishman traveling in Ireland had some important business in hand and was anxious to know when his letters would be delivered.

"What mails are there here?" he asked.

"Three, yer honor," replied the Irish waiter, "breakfast, dinner and tea."

JAPANESE BLOWN ASHORE.

Strange California Shipwreck Worries Immigration Officers.

Washington, July 23.—The case of five Japanese sailors who sailed from Japan in a little junk, the Sumiyosi Maru, and were blown clear across to California is worrying immigration officers. The Japanese were shipwrecked near Delmar.

They were arrested on a charge of having entered the country without inspection.

CARRIES RESCUER DOWN.

Philadelphia Girl Drowns While Mother Looks on.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 23.—While her mother and sister watched from their cottage on shore, sixteen-year-old Margaret McCarren of Philadelphia was drowned here and in her struggles carried to the bottom with her twelve-year-old John Deal, who had tried to save her.

Her grip loosened under the water and Deal came to the surface unconscious. He was rushed to the hospital, where his condition was said by the doctors to be serious.

Miss McCarren, who lost her life, already had a narrow escape from drowning when she had lost her oars while rowing in a dory. At that time twelve-year-old Frank Steelman went to her assistance and succeeded in getting her boat ashore.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

HERE AND THERE.

Underbrim Trimmings on Smart Summer Hats.

Trimmings beneath the brim on a large hat are seen now and again, often in the shape of a big bow of soft ribbon.

The Byron collar is now in vogue, and the Byron cascade of lace is a delightful variation of the ubiquitous fichu.

Some gowns feature the leg-o'-mutton sleeve. This fits the arm snugly and has a frill of lace falling over the hand.

In general it may be said that white is preferred to colors for summer wear both in wash fabrics and other costume materials.

Mercerized threads are used in some of the embroidered designs on soft batistes, cotton voiles and dainty crape fabrics.

The blouse made with a big collar is the smart one this summer, and it is especially liked for small women and those of girlish figures.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

PICNIC SANDWICHES.

HERE are recipes for light sandwiches suitable for the picnic basket or for the summer lawn or porch party. Their ingredients are such that they may be served with tea, lemonade or any light summer beverage.

When making sandwiches remember that your success will be more assured if you use the special sandwich bread. Thin slices maybe cut out with fancy cutters and in this form will be more appreciated by the youngsters.

Fruit Sandwiches.

Apricot Sandwiches.—Whip three large eggs, the yolks and whites together, with three ounces of sifted sugar, for ten minutes. Then add to the mixture three ounces of sifted self raising flour and whip again for five minutes. Grease a flat, shallow tin very thickly or line it with buttered paper. Bake in a fairly quick oven for seven or eight minutes, then leave till cold. When cool cut into fingers. Split each finger in two, spread liberally with apricot jam, ice the top and serve.

Mixed Fruit Sandwiches.—Take figs, candied cherries, dates and blanched almonds in equal proportions and chop fine. Moisten with pineapple juice and a little thick mayonnaise. Spread on buttered white bread cut into thin slices.

Fig Sandwiches.—Cover fresh figs with cold water, then simmer over a slow fire until tender. Add, while cooking, half a cupful of sugar and the juice of half a lemon to each pound of figs. Chill thoroughly in the icebox, chop to a paste and spread on thin white bread or on thin slices of pound cake. Use a diamond cutter for shaping these.

Dainty Confections.

Nut Bread Sandwiches.—Take one egg beaten light and stir one and one-fourth cupfuls of milk, one cupful of chopped nuts, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half a cupful of butter, four cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Bake in buttered bread pans for half an hour.

To prepare the filling for the sandwiches, stone and stew dates until soft and thick. Cool and add a sliced banana and beat. Cut nut bread into thin slices and spread with the date filling.

Marshmallow Sandwiches.—Melt some marshmallows and mix them in a bowl with chopped English walnuts. Cut white bread in star shapes and put the paste on the lower slice.

Sweet Sandwiches.—Take slightly stale bread and cut in thin slices. Spread one slice with butter beaten to a cream and the other with honey. Take care that the honey does not come close to the edge. Press the slices together. Arrange on a plate and garnish with leaves.

For the Children

July 1 the children of New York city were afforded great joy by the opening of vacation playgrounds in various parks. These grounds are placed in the most populous sections of the city and are a source of continual pleasure to both boys and girls. Baseball is the most popular game with the boys.

Another game which is very popular is basketball. Rope quoits and handball are also liked, and some of the playgrounds have a shuffleboard. Relay races and other athletic sports vary the proceedings. Many of the playgrounds are arranged for girls exclusively, and they run potato races, do gymnastic exercises and have as good a time as the boys. Many of the playgrounds have shower baths and a few maintain swimming pools. The picture shows a young athlete in summer costume refreshing himself at a fountain in one of the parks.

How the Catcher Was Caught.

How can you catch two fish on one single hook at the same time? A man down in Texas did it the other day, though he had not had any expectation or intention of doing it. The man had gone fishing by setting a line over night. That is, he put a live frog on the hook and put the frog in the water and tied the other end of the line to a tree on the shore of the river. The next morning he came back and found that there was a fish on the line. He looked closely and saw that it was an enormous catfish. The line it was hooked on was small and would ordinarily have been broken by such a big fish, but it was still entire. The man investigated. He pulled the fish up on shore, and then he found that inside it was a smaller catfish that had swallowed the frog before the big fellow had come along. The little fish was in the big fish's stomach, and the struggles of the latter against the line had pierced the stomach with one of the little fish's sharp fins.

The Game of Letters.

Empty the contents of a box of "anagram letters" on a table so all the letters are in a pile, face downward. The players sit around the table.

The leader begins by turning up one of the letters and saying "Bird." The letter is laid where all can see it, and the first one who responds by giving the name of a bird beginning with that letter is given the letter, and it is then his place to turn up another card and call out "Bird," "Animal," "Fish" or "Famous man," or any other class of objects he wishes.

Suppose the first letter turned was "L," and a player answered it with "Eagle," the next might be "G," and "Famous man" called. Some one would be sure to say "Grant."

The one who answers the most and has at hand the greatest number of letters is the winner and should receive a prize if it has been decided to give prizes.

The Months—A Game.

The leader need be the only one who understands this game. He asks, "What month are you going away in?" One player might answer, "September." The leader then asks, "What will you wear?" "What will you take with you?" and "What will you do?"

All the answers must be given with the initial letter of the month chosen. For instance, the answers to the above questions may be, first, "Silk stockings;" second, "Sardine sandwiches," third, "See the sights."

The answers will probably be mixed, as the players do not know the trick. Each one who misses pays a forfeit, and the leader questions the next player. When one or two do "catch on," the more ridiculous they make their answers, the funnier the game.

A Riddle.

A blind beggar had a brother; the brother died; deceased had no brother. What relation was the blind beggar to the one that died?

Answer.—A sister.

—Henpeckke—"I feel like a hypocrite." Wigwag—"What have you been doing?" Henpeckke—"Offering my congratulations to a bride and groom."

A SUMMER JOY FOR THE SMALL FOLKS IS THE SWING IN THE GARDEN

SWINGING in the open air is an ideal exercise for the small folks. If in doubt how to manage a fretful youngster on a hot afternoon find the nearest swing and he or she will give no more trouble. The swing on the lawn solves many a problem for the small folks in the summer. When they are too tired to play or when mother has put on the nice clothes which they are to keep clean the weary hours may be delightfully whiled away in swaying back and forth on a swing under the shadow of the big trees. For tiny folks the swings with the safety seats are the best. Strapped in, there is no danger of the youngsters falling out. The swing shown here is a simple one, and the small fashion plate seated on the wide board wears a gown of fine white lawn laid in tucks and finished at the neck and sleeves with bands of lace. A white satin sash tied very high at the left and a dainty bonnet of lace, ribbon and flowers completes the costume, which is cool and dainty yet simple enough for everyday wear.

THE BABY ON THE SWING.

FEMININE METHODS.

You can judge a woman by her dressing table. If it is bare, she is intellectual—or deceitful.

If a woman wears her best hat and carries no umbrella, it does not of necessity mean that she is rich. It may mean that she has not got one.

It does not follow that because a girl wears simple frocks she would not run up bills at a dressmaker's if she had the credit.

Don't imagine that a man has found favor in a girl's eyes because she chooses to sit out a dance with him. She may not like this dancing, or be saving herself for the next one.

When a woman confides her secrets to you it does not always mean that she is simple and trusting. Very often she only wants them repeated.

For That Swinging Door.

If you have a door in your house that will swing shut when it is desired to stay open or ajar, make a small bag as ornamental as you please, though the color of the door or wall paper is recommended. Fill this with sand. Attach to it a ribbon or cord long enough to slip over the doorknob and let the weight drag on the floor. This makes a door stop that is always at hand and can be lifted out of the way without stooping.

Cut Work Popular.

Colbert embroidery is cut work and differs from Richelieu embroidery in that it has a few lace stitches in the flowers or pattern, while the Richelieu embroidery is composed entirely of the buttonholing. The foundation stitch is, as in all cut work, the buttonhole. Cut work is always in good taste and just now seems to have again been revived as a popular form of embroidery.

Putting Away Patterns.

When putting away a paper pattern for future use, fix around it a piece of the material of the garment that has just been cut. This will save much time in folding over and opening patterns when they are again desired for use.

Smoking Chimneys.

If you wish a brilliant light and do not want your chimney smoked trim the wick round or curved, the shape of the burner. Then cut a small V in the center of the wick. It is a tried and true fact that the wick will not smoke.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Suggestions That May Be of Use in Domestic Emergencies.

Cistern or any impure water may be purified by charcoal put in a bag and hung in the water.

Oriental carpets may be cleaned and the colors revived by washing with sea water or a solution of sea salt.

Feathers that have grown grimy can be given a bath in alcohol, after which they should be shaken until dry.

A room may be swept without raising a dust by scattering damp grass or finely cut and damp scraps of paper.

If forks, etc., used with fish are rubbed with a little mustard before washing an taste and smell are quickly removed.

To remove grease spots from wall paper, sprinkle a piece of blotting paper with baking soda, hold it over the spot and press with a warm iron.

To give the edges of a solid pattern in embroidery a raised effect, first run a line of plain stitches of the same working thread inside the tracing line.

Once a week in summer sponge pantry windows with a weak solution of carbolic acid and water. This drives away flies and keeps all sweet and wholesome.

The walls of cupboards and pantries are often damp. The best device to make them impervious to moisture is by applying varnish, one part shellac and two parts naphtha.

If strong ammonia is poured over glassware and it is then scrubbed well with a brush and rinsed in warm water it will, when dried, look quite as bright as one could wish.

White of egg used instead of water in mixing a mustard poultice prevents the skin from blistering. A little white of egg spread promptly over a burn eases the pain and prevents the formation of blisters.

When washing curtains or any toilet covers, etc., with fringe, shake thoroughly before hanging up and once or twice during drying. This will effectually separate the fringe and prevent it from matting.

An excellent coat hanger can be made from a portion of a wooden barrel hoop cut to the proper length and bound well with white muslin, with a small loop of material fixed in the center to hang the coat up by.

To clean papered ceilings, mix two cupfuls of flour with a little cold water to make a ball of stiff paste. Roll the paste ball in dry flour and rub the paper with it. As the paste gets dirty keep dipping it in dry flour. After rubbing the paper all over with the paste rub gently with a piece of old soft curtain.

WILSON NOT TO RESIGN.

Will Remain as Governor of This State Say Friends.

Sea Girt, N. J., July 23.—Governor Wilson returned to Sea Girt from his "retreat" at the home of a friend, with a record of sleeping twenty-four hours out of thirty-six. He announced he would forego his usual weekly trip to Trenton and again go into seclusion to write his speech of acceptance.

He hopes to write the speech within two or three days. No one here except his family, his private secretary and the newspaper men will know his whereabouts during that period.

Close friends of the governor announced that the governor had decided not to resign as governor of New Jersey during the presidential campaign. The governor has indicated that this would be his decision in talks with interviewers.

Auto Skids; Four Hurt.

Newton, N. J., July 23.—An automobile driven by William Corille of Harrison skidded on the Lafayette road outside of Newton and overturned in the gutter. The four persons in it were all thrown clear of the car and escaped with bruises and slight lacerations.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN.

Although Slightly Better, His Condition Still Is Very Grave.

MIKADO SLIGHTLY STRONGER.

Little Hope, However, For His Ultimate Recovery.

Tokyo, July 23.—After a whole day of anxiety and with the death of the emperor expected at any moment, the royal physicians issued a bulletin, in which they declare that the royal patient is slightly stronger.

Little hope is retained, however. As the emperor continued to hold his own, the physicians became a little more encouraged that the royal patient might survive. However, they warn against overconfidence, as only the first stage of the emperor's illness has been passed.

A later bulletin says the mikado rallied somewhat, his temperature being 97.5 and his pulse 82 and stronger than before. He has taken some liquid food with fairly good results and has had some sound sleep. Otherwise his condition is unchanged.

TWO CHILDREN DYING IN WAR OF GUN MEN

Tots Fall as Gang Fighters Engage in Battle.

New York, July 23.—Three children were shot down in the streets of New York by revolver carrying feudists, who opened fire upon one another without the slightest regard for the danger to the crowds of persons sitting on doorsteps or walking in the streets. Two of the little victims, one a girl and the other a boy, are dying in the hospital, and the third is under a physician's care in her home.

The victims are: Tessie Bierbauer, a schoolgirl, nine years old; shot in the abdomen; dying in Bellevue. Vincent Mazzarello, a student, thirteen years old; shot in the abdomen; dying in Bellevue. Angelina Schibbela, six years old, of Brooklyn, shot in the left leg; attended by an ambulance surgeon and left in physician's care at her home.

Miss Bierbauer and Mazzarello were the victims of the first shooting and the Brooklyn child of the second. Both of the fights were attended by similar circumstances and came so suddenly that the peaceful residents in the danger zone had no chance to run to safety.

THEY DISREGARD MOY'S PROTEST

Council Does Not Heed His Objections to Bills Incurred By Department Chiefs.

Ordinance For Widening Somerset Street to Be Passed On Final Reading on August 19—To Receive Bids For Sewer Bed Improvements

At the Common Council meeting last night Mayor G. W. V. Moy returned without his approval a resolution proposed by the Council appropriating the sum of $75 to defray the expenses of Chief of Police Kiely in attending the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs at Toronto, Canada. By way of explanation the Mayor stated that he considered it an unnecessary waste of money. The members of the Council disagreed evidently for they passed the resolution over his head, the chairman of the police committee, Charles Randolph, stating that in order to have an efficient police system it is necessary for the chief to attend these conventions and that in sending him there they were only following the example of all other cities and towns throughout the country.

A bill for $51, from A. C. Thompson Auto Company for repairs to Fire Chief Doane's automobile, was returned to the Council without the Mayor's approval, accompanied by the statement that the bill read for repairs to fire apparatus, and upon investigation he found that repairs were made to Chief Doane's car which was not fire apparatus. The Council decided to pass this bill also over his head.

Joseph Brandt made application to move a building from 211 to 209 East Seventh street, which was granted. Thomas Traynor made application for a wholesale liquor license at 41 and 43 Somerset street. The matter was referred to the committee on licenses.

A communication was received from the Board of Health, calling attention to the investigation made by the Charity Organization into the condition of the houses in Cottage place and asking that the Council take steps to have that street curbed, flagged and improved in general. The matter was referred to the street committee. Dr. T. S. Davis, secretary of the Board of Health, sent a communication to the Council urging on that body the necessity of passing an ordinance to abate the smoke nuisance.

George Sabine, of Jackson avenue, petitioned for a sanitary sewer from St. Mary's avenue and Jackson avenue to Hill street. It was referred to the street committee.

August 19 was set aside as the date to receive bids for proposals to reconstruct the contact beds at the sewerage disposal plant.

An ordinance was passed on first and second reading authorizing the widening of Somerset street between Front street and Green brook. August 19 was the date set apart for its final consideration and passage.

Elliott T. Barrows, William Woodruff and Michael Rimmer were appointed a commission to assess benefits and damages to property incident to the extension of Manson place, McDowell street, Bergen street and Halsey street, from West Third street to West Fourth street.

DEATH REVEALS MARRIAGE.

Certificate Found In Room Where Bride Died of Apoplexy.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 23.—From a marriage certificate found among her effects it was learned that Mrs. Esther Sweet, who died of apoplexy in her room in the Asbury Park and Ocean Grove bank building, had been married a week ago to George C. Ormerod in Troy, N. Y.

A physician said she had been dead several hours. She was a Christian Scientist. She had been employed as a telephone operator by the Western Union company in the main office here.

Mr. Ormerod is a widower, having lost his first wife a year ago. He has been a member of the New Jersey assembly and is a veteran of the civil war. He said today that he and his wife had agreed to keep the marriage secret for a time.

JUST TAPS BY "BUNTS"

Philosophical Phelix Says:

Although the locals won over Dunellen on Saturday they did not do it without some extra hard work. The plucky little suburbanites deserve another whack at the Plainfield bunch and they will probably turn the tables if this is made a reality.

It looked rather squally for the Queen City aggregation in the seventh and the large crowd of Dunellen enthusiasts went wild.

In view of the existing conditions we would advise Bob to get back at Ernie.

The local bunch play the game with a decided lack of harmony and rumor has it that several of the players "do not speak as they pass by."

This was evidenced when Wally Cosgrove was on second, when Eddie Stallings came through with a two bagger and he made no exceedingly strenuous effort to score what might have been a needed run.

Some say the above allegation is simply preposterous. What's that?

The umpire question seems to be definitely settled at last as Cullem is a man the grandstand fans cannot see through and therefore have no chance to kick on the decisions.

Dunellen fandom was out strong and it is simply surprising how many of the fair sex were attracted to the Oval. Ladies' day did not seem to effect any of the players, however, with the exception of Eliott, with the beautiful haircut. He tried to keep an eye on the grandstand even when he was at the bat.

Baseballically gurgling the Dunellen fans are some ball players.

The Royal Giants again came out on the short end of another cracking good game of ball at Westfield Saturday afternoon. We would suggest that the dusky ball tossers throw their shadow on local ball lots for a change and see if they can shift the dark outlook.

Steward of the Temple Baptist nine, has become discouraged over the poor support he has been receiving and has threatened to join another team in the league. Stick to it Jim, we know you have been twirling gilt-edged ball but the season is well under way now, so don't bust up the league.

Somewhat personal — and the fourth time he failed. Not a bad day's work, eh?

Speaking of ancient history—remember the time when Britt Martin wore a Plainfield uniform? Some of the Dunellenites still wear them but Martin says they are a hoodoo.

SPICER TEAM PROTEST EXPLAINED BY MANAGER

Thompson Gives His Nine's Version of Dispute With Saurer Aggregation.

The Spicer team of the Manufacturers' Baseball league, through the manager, has sent to the Plainfield Daily Press this statement in regard to the protest filed at last night's meeting.

Dear Sir:

"In answer to the protest that was filed at last night's meeting of the Manufacturers' league, by the Saurer team in regard to their week-end game with the Spiced nine, I wish to state that I notified the Saurer manager on the field Saturday afternoon that I would send in a protest in regard to the interference of a spectator on the grounds at this game. "Tuts" Jaeger was struck out by the Saurer twirler, but the catcher of that team dropped the ball on the third strike. Jaeger immediately took advantage of this and sprinted to first, but a spectator in the meantime had picked up the ball and thrown it to first, thus cutting Jaeger off. Time was called at this juncture and Jaeger left the base but was immediately ordered back by his captain until the play could be settled satisfactorily to those concerned. The Saurer management finally gave into the play and the game continued.

"A second charge was made by the losers claiming that the Spicer pitcher, Scott, made a number of balks delivering the ball to the batter. If the said accusation was true it would be up to the umpire to call it and advance the baserunner. I would say that the motion made by Scott is characteristic of his delivery and is seen daily in the big league ball games.

"These protests will come up before the monthly meeting of the board which is called on the first Monday in each month, and the by-laws require both parties to be present to state their side of the case.

"If the above charge is allowed by the board there will be a counter charge made by the Spicer Athletic Association on the play at third base when a runner was held by their player after the ball was missed and blocked by the crowd who kicked the ball back on the field. If the runner was not held at this base he could have scored easily and the man who was at that time on second would have went to third and counted on the next hit. This would have given the Joint makers a sufficient number of runs to win the game.

"Respectfully yours,
"C. C. Thompson,
"Mgr. Spicer B. B. Team."

At the meeting last evening the Public Service nine was allowed to enter four new players who will take the place of the four that quit after last Saturday's game with the Commercials. This will greatly strengthen their claim in the league race.

CONWAY'S LOW SCORE AT PARK GOLF CLUB

The Westfield "Pro" Gives a Good Exhibition on Borough Club's Course.

Playing at the Park Golf Club yesterday for the first time in over six years, "Andy" Conway, club "pro" of the Westfield Golf Club, made one of the lowest scores since the days of Gus. Faber. Faber's score for nine holes was 34. "Andy" Conway played 45 holes of golf in the afternoon, playing with W. P. Taylor. He made 36-37—73 for the first eighteen holes. The distances are as follows: 217, 115, 616, 238, 271, 183, 346, 226 and 394 yards for the nine holes, 2,606 yards, for the eighteen holes 5,212 yards.

Conway's cards for the first 18:
Out..4, 3, 8, 3, 4, 3, 3, 3, 5—36
In...3, 3, 6, 3, 4, 4, 5, 4, 5—37—73

Conway's cards for the twenty-seven holes:
Out..3, 3, 7, 4, 4, 4, 6, 3, 4—38
In...4, 4, 5, 3, 5, 4, 6, 4, 5—40
Out..4, 3, 6, 4, 4, 4, 6, 3, 5—39

The figures show the consistency of his game. Had Conway not been careless in putting on the last eighteen his medal score would have been under par. Playing a midiron on the first and eighth holes, he placed the ball hole high every time, the distances are 217 and 226 yards. On the long third, 616 yards, twice with a beautiful drive, followed by an equally good brassy, and a half mashie he was on the green, getting a five one time and six another. His three on the seventh hole was a drive, a mashie and an easy put. Three times on the hard ninth he was hole high in two, getting a four and four fives on it. Conway's powers of recovery are strongly emphasized on the ninth. Once playing a slice on this hole, the ball was deflected back within twenty yards of the tee by hitting a tree. Taking a jigger he got a two hundred yard out, and on his third shot he was on the green, missing a put for a four, he had an easy five.

The Westfield course is only sixty yards longer than the Park course, being 5,272 yards in length. The distances are as follows: 338, 317, 234, 300, 340, 257, 274, 204, 372—2,636 yards for the 9 holes, 5,272 for the 18.

On June 23 1912, when the ground was fast, he made this low score for the eighteen holes:
Out—3, 5, 3, 3, 5, 3, 3, 4, 4—31
In...5, 5, 5, 4, 3, 4, 3, 4, 4—37—68

On July 15 "Andy" again lowered the course record held by himself one stroke. The record was 68, it is now 67 strokes for the 18 holes. The course was very slow from the recent rains, and it is severly trapped and bunkered, so his score showed golf of a very high quality. His card:
Out..3, 4, 3, 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, 5—34
In...4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 4, 4, 3, 4—33—67

BATTING AVERAGES OF THE SPICER AGGREGATION

The batting averages of the Spicer baseball team of the Manufacturers' League, as compiled by their hustling manager, C. C. Thompson, show that Billy O'Loughlin is leading the team with the remarkable percentage of .500. O'Loughlin, who is also captain of the team, has pounded out one hit for every two times at bat and has at present a total of sixteen safe bingles, many of which were good for two and three bases. Thompson is trailing on behind the leader with eleven bingles out of the same number of times at bat. The other members of the team are all clouting the ball at a fast clip and although the averages do not show it there are a number of extra base hits chalked up to the credit of the Joint makers.

The averages of the leading men on the nine are as follows:

Player	G	AB	R	H	Av.

PIRATES SHUT OUT CRIPPLED ATHLETICS

Excursion Weakens the Losing Team, Who Drop Game With 6 to 0 Score.

In this morning's game in the Parker Field Baseball league, the Pirates shut out the Athletics with a 6 to 0 score. Many of the Pirate players were away on the excursion today so that Captain Conroy had to take on players of other teams in the league in order to fill in and these included Coughlan, Denny, McDowell, Schemeyer and Murphy. The Pirates hit the offerings of Rosenson freely and ran around the bases at will.

"MARTY" A WINNER.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, "pro" of the Plainfield Country Club, beat the best ball of James Hill, Thomas Hughes and John Hilton, all of the Apawamis Golf Club, yesterday, in a 36-hole match, on the Country Club course. "Marty's" score for the last 18 holes was a 35-34—69.

Confidence Is a Plant Of Slow Growth

Gradually the people of Plainfield are beginning to realize that I really mean business. That when I say it is my intention to give them the best possible values at the lowest possible price I am not throwing out a lot of "humbug" BUT THAT I MEAN IT.

And the quicker others learn the sooner will they begin to save money on their clothing and fixings just as the men who have already been "Rothberged."

I am now in the midst of my first sale. I have slashed prices right and left and offer the best values obtainable.

You'd better drop in soon. These offers only hold good for a very short time.

YALE LOSES CLOSE GAME TO PRINCETON

Both Pitchers Strong, Force Getting 14 by the Srike-Out Route.

The Princeton team took a close and well played game from the Yale nine on Parker Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 7 to 6. Force, who twirled for the Yale team, was in fine form and fanned 14 batters. Wilson, on the other hand, was a little wild but managed to dispose of 11 along the strikeout route.

Smith was the star hitsmith of the contest, pounding out four healthy ones out of five trips to the plate.

OLYMPIC GAMES OVER.

Stockholm, July 23.—The Olympic games concluded yesterday with the finish of the yacht races. With the points gained in the yachting events Sweden leads the nations in the number of points in all events, Sweden's total being 133, only four points ahead of the United States, in spite of the fact that there was no American representative in the yachting competitions. Great Britain stands third with a total of 76 points. The United States leads in firsts with 24 to Sweden's 23.

Many a play fails because it isn't as broad as it is long.

The trouble with flattery is that so little of it comes intact.

FLINN AND T. R. IN LONG CONFERENCE

Said Colonel Advised Straight Third Party Ticket.

PENNSYLVANIA IS WAITING

Final Decision May Be Deferred Until Convention In Chicago—Flinn, Optimistic, Says No Matter What the Electoral Arrangement Colonel Will Beat Taft.

Oyster Bay, July 23.—Following a four hour conference with Colonel Roosevelt on the method of conducting the third party movement in Pennsylvania Senator Flinn made this statement:

"I still prefer our plan, because it makes certain that all the thirty-eight votes of Pennsylvania will be cast for Roosevelt. But we will be content with running the independent ticket if the colonel wants it. I told him that we could do nothing in Pennsylvania which he didn't want. The question will be left open until after the Chicago convention for the ultimate decision."

On his side, the colonel said:

"Mr. Flinn came to discuss the Pennsylvania situation. After he talked to me we agreed that he should go back to talk it over with the people in his state, and we would take it up again after the convention. I have merely tried to express my own views; I will not dictate."

T. R. Prefers Distinct Lineup.

All further efforts to secure from Colonel Roosevelt his opinion as to how the Pennsylvania muddle would finally be cleared up were waved aside with a grin.

Mr. Flinn, when asked what the colonel's idea was, said:

"He has no fixed idea. He prefers a straight third party ticket, but under any electoral arrangement he will beat President Taft."

The expectation is that as a result of the meeting the Roosevelt men on the Republican electoral ticket will stick, and that these men will be renamed on the progressive ticket. On this ticket the Taft electors will be replaced by new Roosevelt men.

SEEK GIRL WHO WAS ENGAGED TO MARRY

Disappears After Leaving For New York Shopping Trip.

New York, July 23.—A general alarm was sent out from police headquarters at the request of the Mount Vernon police for Miss Dorcas Snodgrass, a young woman of twenty-four, who was last seen at the Grand Central station on Wednesday, when she came here from Mount Vernon on a shopping trip. She is a daughter of John Tabb Snodgrass of Martins Bridge, W. Va., who is connected with the United States fisheries commission and is now on duty in Oregon.

Within the past few months Miss Snodgrass has become acquainted with F. Eugene Schmidt, senior partner in a firm of electrical contractors. They were to have been married within a year.

When Miss Snodgrass left home last Wednesday to shop in Manhattan she had only about $10 in money and wore a diamond ring.

While Mr. Schmidt said he had no idea what has become of Miss Snodgrass, he does not believe she is alive.

LORIMER HOME AGAIN.

Little the Worse For Automobile Accident In Pennsylvania.

Chicago, July 23.—William Lorimer, who was unseated by the United States senate, arrived in Chicago and went at once to his summer home at McHenry, Ill. He appeared little the worse on account of an automobile accident, in which he was thrown out of a machine when it struck a telephone pole near Claysville, Pa.

Lorimer said he intended to go to work immediately upon his speech to be delivered at a meeting in Orchestra hall, when, he said, he will explain to his friends everything connected with his going to the senate and his subsequent removal.

PERU INQUIRY RENEWED.

Second U. S. Investigation Working on Putumayo Rubber Atrocities.

Washington, July 23.—American investigation of alleged atrocities committed by rubber magnates in Peru on their laborers will be renewed by a second investigator on Aug. 1, when Consul Stewart Fulfer at Iquitos will enter the Putumayo district to study conditions.

A special agent is already at work in other sections of the rubber country. The investigation resulted from Great Britain's protest that conditions in Peru were worse than the atrocities in the early days of the Kongo.

PREPARING NOW FOR THE RIFLE TOURNEY

Program Announced for Sea Girt Shooting Competition Aug. 24 to Sept. 7.

The program has been announced for the annual Interstate Rifle Tournament, which will be held on the State range at Sea Girt, from August 24 to September 7 inclusive, under the auspices of the National Rifle Association of America and the New Jersey Rifle Association.

The matches of the National Rifle Association will occupy the first part of the program. The contests will begin on September 24, and will run until September 5. Then will come the matches of the New Jersey State Rifle Assocation, which start on Friday, September 6, and continue until September 7. This makes thirteen days of shooting.

There will be a new feature to the tournament this year in the nature of a trap-shooting tourney. A gun club within the New Jersey Rifle Association has been organized and a layout for trap-shooting has been installed on the grounds adjacent to the Sea Girt clubhouse. Trap-shooting events will be held every day during the tournament.

The principal events of the National Rifle Association tournament will be the Wilbledon cup match, which is the long-range championship, which take place on August 30; the Leech Cup match, on August 31; the championship regimental team match for Tuesday, August 27; the championship company team match, on August 30, and the President's match, for the military championship of the United States, which is billed for August 24.

Leading off in the New Jersey State Rifle Association events will be the Dryden Trophy match, which is also the big match, from a New Jersey standpoint. SIX MONTHS FOR A WOMAN.

Elizabeth, July 23.—Mrs. Mary Daubner, thirty-three years old, a native of Elizabeth, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday for acting disorderly while under the influence of liquor and resisting the police. Judge Mahon sentenced her to six months in the county jail, the heaviest punishment yet inflicted on a woman in Elizabeth for the offense. Mrs. Daubner left her husband, who is in Chicago.

GOV. WILSON TO PLANT TREE NEAR APPOMATTOX

Washington, July 23.—The famous old apple tree near Appomattox Court House, Va., under which Lee surrendered to Grant, long since carried away piece by piece by souvenir-hunters, is to be replaced by a tree planted by Governor Woodrow Wilson.

Colonel George A. Armes, U. S. A., owner of the Appomattox farm, has returned from a visit to Sea Girt with the news that the Democratic Presidential nominee has accepted an invitation to plant the new tree within the next few weeks.

It is expected that the trip to Virginia will be made with a party of Senators and Representatives and that a visit will be paid to Monticello, Jefferson's home.

CHURCH INCORPORATED.

Elizabeth, July 23.—Articles of incorporation were filed here yesterday with the Union county clerk by the Methodist Episcopal church of Kenilworth Borough. The incorporators are the six trustees of the church, Joseph E. Soehr, George W. Bailey, Freeman S. Lamphere, Horace F. Stevens, Andrew C. Ogden and Annie Pettit. NEW PARTY LAUNCHED

Bright, Cape May; Wilbur H. Mott, Essex county; H. M. Bailey, Hackensack, and Edgar Knapp, Elizabeth. Edmund B. Osborne, of Essex, presided at the meeting.

They said that the great weight of opinion favored leaving the Republican party now. While there is no doubt where Mr. Record will stand when the final showdown comes he will be with Roosevelt, no matter what policy may be decided in New Jersey. He advocated last night a fight in the September primaries for the control of the State convention that will name the Presidential electors.

The Progressives in Hudson, who recognize Mr. Record as their leader, have control of the organization and are strong enough to maintain their grip on it. Hence there was a strong motive behind Record's plea to remain in the Republican forces yet a little while. He had support from a few Roosevelt men who are strong politically with their local constituents and who are aspirants for office. Otherwise there was no backing for the Record idea.

The convention will adopt a set of resolutions outlining the plan of action to be followed. These resolutions may declare not only for a complete set of Presidential electors on a third ticket, but for Congressional, Assembly and Senatorial nominees on a third ticket, leaving the question of municipal candidates to the judgment of the local organizations.

The resolutions will recite the conditions at the Chicago convention which caused the rebellion of the Progressives. A platform, it is expected, will not be adopted until after the Progressives National convention is held at Chicago on August 5. It being planned thereafter to call a State convention in New Jersey.

Whiting said today that he would not resign from the Republican National Committee because he did not consider that committee worthy of any courtesy.

Among the delegates today are Mayor Moy and City Judge De Meza, of Plainfield, and William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights.

Former Senator Everett Colby and George L. Record will head the committee on resolutions.

At the afternoon session will come the reports of various committees. Mr. Colby, George L. Record, Adrian Lyon, Edmund B. Osborn and John E. Gill will speak on the reports.

The delegates at large to the Chicago convention will be Edgar C. Bacon, ex-Senator Colby, ex-Governor Fort and Frank B. Jess. There will be twenty-eight delegates and twenty-eight alternates.

Governor Fort's speech, as chairman, follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention—For the compliment you pay me in making me your presiding officer I return my grateful thanks. We gather today under circumstances which are quite unique. The movement we are starting here is destined to be farreaching and of great moment to our state and the republic.

At the Republican primaries held in this state on the 28th day of May last a solid delegation of twenty-eight men was sent to the Republican convention held at Chicago on the 19th day of June last, carrying a commission from the Republicans of New Jersey approved by 63,000 of our fellow citizens. This was the first commission of that kind ever taken by any delegate from this state to a national political convention. The people of New Jersey by that significant vote declared that their representatives at that convention should support Theodore Roosevelt as their choice for president of the United States. What New Jersey did at that time every other state having the direct primary also did. By a majority of over 1,500,000 votes the states that are surely Republican and which could surely give their electoral votes for a Republican president all declared for Theodore Roosevelt. By any fair count of delegates duly elected to that convention Colonel Roosevelt would have been nominated. But the will of the people, thus forcibly expressed at the polls, was defeated, and by the fraudulent action of the national committee, composed largely of men repudiated at the primaries, another nomination was made. For the first time in its history the Republican party stands pilloried before the nation as the receiver of stolen goods. No amount of excusing or explanation can remove this crime or wash away its stain. It is so burned into its record that neither time nor repentance can ever efface it. And this is the party with which most of us here have always been associated and by which some of us have been greatly honored. To you your delegation at Chicago comes today to give an account of its stewardship and to submit for your consideration its conduct in repudiating the fraud and crime of that convention and to ask your condemnation of the action of that convention for its fraudulent subversion of the popular will.

Chicago Convention Repudiated.

It is not my purpose at this time to go into the details of the fraudulent seating of over seventy delegates in that convention who were not legally or morally entitled to their seats. I have in my possession a clear, convincing statement made by John Boyd Avis, the New Jersey member on the committee on credentials of that convention, giving the facts as to the unseating of forty-five of the honestly elected delegates to that convention which, at my request, he prepared. These forty-five alone would have reduced the vote of Mr. Taft in that convention, without counting other fraudulent delegates, to a number far below that required to nominate. Mr. Avis' paper demonstrates what your delegates all know—that Mr. Taft was not the nominee of that convention, and no Republican is bound in law or morals to support him at the polls. A Republican convention has been held in the great Republican state of Iowa and by a vote of 773 to 343 it has repudiated the action of the Chicago convention and its nominee. South Dakota has done the same. California, Kansas, Nebraska, Maine, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Maryland, New Jersey, West Virginia and other states will do likewise. Before November the Chicago convention will be a stench in the nostrils of every honest man.

Moral forces are counting for more in public life today than ever before. Party zeal and partisan spirit awake no echoes. A party name no longer has any potentiality.

It has been suggested we should have compromised at Chicago. Compromise what? Is it not perfectly apparent to every intelligent person that the two wings of the Republican party do not think alike? Let us give the reactionaries credit for being as honest in their opinions as we are. What results? We favor and they oppose the election of United States senators by the people. We favor and they oppose the physical valuation of railway property by a commission to secure thereby a basis for fixing rates. We favor and they oppose the taking over of all express matter and delivering it by the government as a part of its parcels post system. We favor and they oppose the direct primary for the selection of all nominees for public office. We favor and they oppose economic legislation looking to the regulation of the hours of labor and the issuance of the injunctive process of the courts in all labor controversies. We favor and they oppose restrictive constitutional provisions on the power of the appellate courts to declare acts of the legislature unconstitutional. We favor and they oppose under reasonable constitutional provisions the initiative of legislation and a popular referendum.

What Progressives Demand.

We favor a stricter control of the banking business of the country and a definite defining by statute of what interstate business may or may not do to prevent further controversy over its legality. We favor a more speedy accountability of the judiciary to the popular will and a trial by jury in proceedings for contempt not committed in the presence of the court if demanded by the accused. We favor the compulsory arbitration of all disputes between employer and employee arising out of any matter involving any business which affects commodities entering into common use and necessary to the domestic or individual life of all the people. We favor stringent pure food laws and health and sanitary legislation for the inspection and regulation of all factories, mines or dwellings where men and women work or live. We favor the largest participation of the people in public affairs and the elimination of all boss control and corrupt influences in politics. They do not favor any of these things. No one who sat in the convention at Chicago last month failed to see how clearly the line ran between the two factions, and it was and still is absolutely irreconcilable. They cannot be reconciled. We cannot live together; one or the other must prevail. The existing party must become all one thing or all the other, or a new party must come where members all think alike. All thinking men see that the present leadership of the Republican party does not represent the rank and file of that party. Either it must go or we must.

There is but one of three courses open to a Republican in the present state of political affairs: First, continue in the party and support Mr. Taft, the nominee of the fraudulent convention held at Chicago in June last; second, leave the party and support Governor Wilson, the Democratic nominee at Baltimore, or, third, go into the progressive movement which must ultimately lead to a third party or the purification of the present Republican party by the elimination of the boss element now dominating it. A new party is not made in a day. It is a growth. Fremont and Dayton did not succeed in 1856, but they laid the foundation for success in 1860. Old political methods and ideals do not appeal to the voter today. The moral or ethical side of public life has a greater hold on the people than the partisan system or methods.

The Parting of the Ways.

No man is bound to recognize the action of the convention held at Chicago as legally or morally binding. It was dominated from its beginning by the clearest purpose on the part of the national committee to control a majority by fraud. In making up the temporary roll that committee simply seated enough delegates with those elected from non-Republican states to make a majority. The larceny was not hidden nor attempted to be hidden. It was done openly. They declared their purpose to do it, and they did it. If an election board in Newark, Jersey City or Atlantic City make a false return we indict and convict them, but no election or canvassing board ever perpetrated clearer fraudulent returns than this committee did in putting on the temporary roll certain delegates not elected. And that was called a Republican convention! Every sure Republican state in that convention was against Mr. Taft. They made no defense of the theft on the floor of the convention because they could not. They cut off all debate by motions to lay on the table, which their chairman, if there was not a roll call, always declared carried; if there was a roll call they carried the motion by the votes of their fraudulently seated delegates.

The platform adopted by the convention is without the least hope of any advance. It does not advocate one of the live issues or principles now demanded by the people. It does not indorse the proposed amendment for electing United States senators by the people. It does not promise to strengthen the interstate commerce commission as to rate making or to enact laws permitting that commission to make a physical valuation of the property of railways and other public utilities to furnish a basis for fixing rates. It does not condemn the obnoxious commerce court. It declares no fixed conservation policy as to the water power or mining property of the nation. It is a spineless platform of platitudes. It can be read either way and mean the same thing. Under it any reactionary policy can be done and still be claimed to be within it. On the tariff it does not meet popular expectation, but it smothers revision under a lot of words about investigation and tariff board reports, which shows a clear intent to deceive the people. The states which made the nomination of Mr. Taft are those which will not give him a single electoral vote, and coupled with these were the territory of Hawaii and Porto Rico, Alaska and the Philippine Islands, where the people have no vote at all. The steam roller ran at Chicago to exceed the speed limit, crushing out every man who represented the popular vote at the primary and the voice of all the delegates from the every sure Republican state. "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad."

Thus the end came, and none of the progressive delegates approved it. They simply sat silent. The last national Republican convention has been held. The people see it prostituted to the base designs of scheming men, and they will turn their faces to the light of the rising sun. In Orchestra hall, Chicago, on Saturday night, June 22, with an enthusiasm I have never seen equaled, the progressive movement was launched. Over 400 delegates from the sure Republican states were present. A convention to nominate a ticket to be supported by all progressives has been called to meet in Chicago on the 5th of August next. It will be a mass convention straight from the people. Past party affiliations will not matter. It will formulate a declaration of principles in response to the demands of the times. It will put man above the dollar, social justice above special privilege, fair wage earning above greed, stock watering and excessive dividends. It will stand for subordination of the machine to the popular will and the destruction of bossism and fraud in our political life. It will be a new declaration of industrial and political independence founded on the right of the people to rule under the constitution as our fathers made it.

It is well that it is to be. The divergence in political belief between the two factions within the Republican and Democratic party is greater than it is between the two parties. Let the progressives of both parties now unite in a new, aggressive, liberty loving people's party, based on justice for all and special privilege for none, and the progress of the nation in the future will equal, if not exceed, the glories of all that is best in the past. The issue is no longer personal. The division from now on will be on principles only. In California, Maine, Kansas, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and one or two other states the Republican organization is in the hands of the progressives, and they will nominate Roosevelt electors on the regular Republican or a progressive ticket. Names are of little consequence. They will pay no attention to the action of the fraudulent Chicago convention. They do not recognize that convention as binding upon the party in those states.

In New Jersey the reactionaries still hold the organization (except in Hudson county), and our problem, therefore, is different. We must meet the conditions as we find them and unite in a new progressive party inviting all, whatever their past political differences, to join us in our purpose to repudiate fraud and political trickery and establish social and political justice in governmental affairs. In this there can be no halfway measures. If we are to succeed, either now or eventually, and we will succeed eventually if not now, we must have the courage of our convictions; we must stand manfully for what we believe. We must not fear defeat. What difference does it make in a fight that is based on principle whether you win or lose? If the wrong shall triumph we will not be responsible—when one is right he is never defeated—but we shall not be defeated. Some have proposed that the regulars and progressives run the same set of electors and let the voters express their preference, and if Mr. Taft secures the majority he shall have the vote of the state, and in case Mr. Roosevelt shall win he shall have its vote.

A People's Fight.

Pray, what does that lead to? That means that our votes are to be counted for Mr. Taft if he shall have a single vote more than Mr. Roosevelt in the balloting. That means that my vote and yours are to be counted in a given contingency—namely, if Mr. Taft gets a majority—as an indorsement of the fraud at Chicago. So far as I am concerned, I am unalterably opposed to such action. I am not willing under any contingency or combination of circumstances that Mr. Taft's nomination or the men who fraudulently gave him his alleged nomination shall be approved. I would not vote for Mr. Taft's electors if there were no other electors running, and I would support any electors on any ticket for any honestly nominated candidate, whatever party name he might bear, in preference to aiding such a result. Public sentiment in our time does not approve halfway measures nor a compromised, fraud indorsed candidate. For myself, I have reached a time of life when political ambitions do not trouble me, when no desire for political preferment animates me, when only the well being of the nation and state furnishes a basis for political action, and I will not join with the men who stand for personal selfishness and the success of special interests in public affairs.

The signs of the times clearly indicate that the people are against these men and their aims for personal aggrandizement and the success of the special interests. This is a people's fight for better things and for a more just recognition of popular control in legislation and government. It cannot be downed, it cannot be put aside, it cannot be compromised, and it will not fail. I have great faith in the American people. All they wish to know is the facts. They are not selfish. They are patriotic and love liberty. The laborer, the mechanic, the merchant and the farmer represent the average citizenship of the republic. They have no other ambition for their country than that which gives to every man an equal opportunity and an even chance in the race of life. They are looking for and are ready to follow honest, disinterested leadership.

At Chicago on the 5th of August next the progressive movement will adopt its platform and present its candidates, and with that convention will come the dawn of a brighter and better political morning.

GOV. DENEEN FOR TAFT.

Illinois Executive Will Not Join the Third Party Movement.

The committee of five appointed by Medill McCormick to wait on Governor Deneen and ascertain whether he would support Taft or Roosevelt for president were informed by the governor that he considered Taft the regular nominee of the Republican party for president and that as such he felt obligated to support his candidacy.

WE CAN REDUCE YOUR POWER COST

If you can get Central Station Electric Power to operate your plant for less money than your steam drive costs you would it not be to your advantage to make the change?

With Electric Power you save on coal bills, on oil bills, on water bills, on insurance bills and on your pay roll.

You save space, as the room ordinarily given up for engines and boilers would not be required, or else it could be devoted to increasing your productive capacity.

And we can demonstrate that Central Station Electric Power is more efficient, as well as being more economical than your own steam drive.

Let our representative lay the facts and figures before you. A postal or 'phone call will bring him.

MILK STATION TO BE OPENED AUG. 1

Mothers May Buy Fresh Milk at Cost and Nurse Will Visit Sick Babies.

6 WEEKS EXPERIMENT

Contributions for the Charity Enterprise Solicited by the Nursing Bureau—One Hundred Dollars Is Needed For the Trial Period.

Arrangements have been made by the Nursing Bureau, which is maintained jointly by the Plainfield Anti Tuberculosis League, the Charity Organization Society, the City Union of the King's Daughters and the Plainfield and North Plainfield Boards of Education, for a milk station for this city. The following statement as to the plans and purposes was given out at the Charity Organization headquarters today:

"Through the courtesy of the City Union of King's Daughters in lending part of its beautifully equipped Nursery, the Nursing Bureau is about to establish a milk station. The need for such a station becomes apparent when one ralizes that of the 296 deaths in Plainfield last year, 59 or twenty per cent. were deaths of children under five years of age, and forty-two of these fifty-nine under one year of age. Now Plainfield is blessed with a very active Board of Health, consequently a very good milk supply. Why is it that so many little children whose sickness and death can be traced to diet, and whose diet is largely or wholly milk, are thus needlessly sacrificed?

"The answer to this question has been found in New York, Philadelphia and everywhere where milk stations have been established. Many mothers do not know how to keep milk clean and to prepare it for their babies. Infant mortality is bound to decrease where babies get clean, fresh milk with the proper proportions of cream and fat. Children of the well-to-do get certified milk with proportions prescribed by the family physician. At the milk station to be established at the Day Nursery, 502 West Front street, on August first, any mother may buy clean fresh milk at cost, or she may bring a formula from her family physician or doctor at the Muhlenberg Clinic, and obtain the milk bottled in the exact proportions prescribed. A nurse or attendant in charge will show how to prepare the milk and keep it clean and sweet and sick babies will be visited in their homes, to see that all is being carried out as directed. No milk will be given away at the milk station; applicants unable to pay will be referred to the Charity Organization.

"It is hoped that this experiment, undertaken for six weeks, may prove so beneficial to the babies of Plainfield that next summer a station may be opened as soon as the warm weather begins. In the meantime $100 is needed to establish and carry on this life-saving station. Who will help Contributions of any amount may be sent to Miss Helen Lovell treasurer of the Nursing Bureau, 323 Babcock building."

HANGS HIMSELF ACCIDENTALLY SAID TO BE LOCAL MAN

Yarmouth, N. S., July 24—William S. Bryant, Jr., a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bryant, of Plainfield, N. J., lost his life in a peculiar accident at Central Argyle yesterday.

The youth was attempting to rig a tackle with which to hoist corbide into a gas house at the Addamurchen Club. Standing on a high perch he threw a rope with a loop at the end over a hook. Losing his balance he fell forward, his head passing through the loop, which closed around his neck. He was unable to release himself and, dangling from the end of the rope, he soon choked to death.

Willim S. Bryant, Jr., is unknown here. His name is not in the directory nor on the tax books.

BAD CHILDREN MOSTLY ABNORMAL PHYSICALLY

And Education of Child Should Begin Years Before Its Birth, Says Dr. Haas.

It has been declared by famous lips that the education of a child should begin 100 years before he is born. While a teacher can scarcely hope to carry out this suggestion, he should, when dealing with exceptional children, make use of data from the family history of each case as far back as possible. This contention was made yesterday afternoon by Dr. Sidney V. Haas, a chief specialist of New York City, in his lecture in the Teachers' Training Course, conducted by the National Association for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, at Watchung Crest. While stating that the diagnosis of the physician and the educator should go hand in hand, he confined his attention to the physical aspect of the problem. He spoke in part as follows:

"In making diagnosis the physician examines the past history of the child's family, of the child himself, in search of disease. He next considers any peculiar habits of the child. Such 'habit spasms' as tossing the head, shrugging the shoulders and throwing the hand, not in any way connected with St. Vitis dance, are symptoms of a neurotic tendancy, as are also sleeplessness and rapid heart action. Squinting the eyes is a danger signal after the age of 13. A slouching gait and a stooping posture are also signs which attract the attention of an alert physician. Obstructions in the nasal passage hinders normal development."

Dr. Haas agrees with Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, the Educational Director of the Association, that nearly all so-called bad children are abnormal physically and can be reclaimed by the co-operation of the physician and the teacher.

Dr. Haas emphasized the pioneer work of Dr. Groszmann, who has for many years followed these lines of investigation of the problem of the exceptional child.

That a sound mind can exist only in a sound body was graphically shown by Dr. Otto Glogau, a well known specialist of New York City, in his illustrated lecture. He spoke especially of the passage of the nose which in young children is small and easily closed. Any obstruction to nasal breathing is most injurious to the child's mental progress. Not only is it a sure cause of hardness of hearing, but it compels mouth breathing. This, in turn, is followed by impared nutrition, hollow chest, and inability to study.

Borough Chief John J. Cronin, of the New York City Department of Health, addressed the class. He quoted some startling figures, obtained from the City Public School records, to show the necessity of medical treatment of backward pupils. When the eye-test was first introduced in the schools, 30 per cent. of the children were found defective in this regard. Many pupils were physically handicapped in other ways. In 1905, 40 per cent. of the school children were behind grade. In 1911 only 18 per cent. were retarded, a result attained very largely by medical inspection and treatment. In one school alone, one hundred and fifty backward children were cared for by physicians. The result was that every pupil has since been placed in the grade where he belongs, one child doing three terms work in one term.

COAL STEALERS IN COURT.

In the police court this moring before Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who presided in the absence of City Judge DeMeza, Anna Mango, Angela Mango, Rose Camp, Mary Camp and two boys, James Petrosani and Peter Austin, all of Cottage place, were arraigned on a charge of stealing coal from the coal wagons in the Jersey Central freight yard. The usual method of obtaining the coal was adopted; that is to say, the boys clambered on the cars as they were shunted into the yard and pushed the coal off, the women subsequently appearing and collecting it. They were cautioned against this practise and allowed to go on suspended sentences.

EXECUTOR HAS CLAIM FOR ALLEGED LOAN

Garret Dreier Does Not Want to Wait Until 1926 to Collect His $2,000.

Former Judge William Newcorn, counsel for Garrett Drier, appeared before Judge Atwater in the Orphans' Court at Elizabeth this morning to present a claim of $2,000 against the estate of the late Samuel Drier, of this city, who died about a year ago, and in whose will he was named as executor. He asserted that he loaned his father $2,000 prior to the latter's death and under the present conditions is unable to obtain the amount. There is no personal estate and according to the will th real estate is not to be sold until fifteen years after the time of his death. Judge Newcorn asked the court to make an order providing that the $2,000 debt be paid now.

Charles Broder, of Newark, counsel for Mrs. Charles Bender, one of the heirs, objected to the claim. The estate amounts to $87,000 and is to be divided equally among five children, but the real estate can not be sold until 1926. The hearing was adjourned until next November.

Mrs. David Drier, wife of one of the heirs, was given $5 a week alimony in her suit against her husband whom she is suing for divorce, the amount being awarded this morning by Judge Atwater.

MUCH IMPRESSED BY PROGRESSIVES MEET

W. L. Smalley, Jr., Enthused by the Rooseveltian Convention at Asbury Park.

Plainfielders attending the Roosevelt convention at Asbury Park, yesterday, were distinctly impressed by the enthusiasm, earnestness and sincerity that permeated the large assemblage. "Never," declared W. L. Smalley, Jr., "have I witnessed such an inspiring scene. I have attended and taken part in many conventions but none appealed to me in the manner that this one did. There was something about it that was absent from all the others. Few, if any of the old political fakes that I have seen in other conventions were there; and I was glad of it. Of the 2,000 enthusiasts 1,500 were young men—men of the new school of thought—men of ideals and sincerity of purpose. There was a set and fixed look of determination such as was worn by the early Christian crusaders, on each clean cut face. In the speeches delivered there was nothing platitudinous; there was something in every utterance that gave pause for thought and convinced the hearers that here indeed was a gospel worth preaching and worth following. I have no fear that such a cause will be lost. We have the right kind of men behind the guns—the young and the thoughtful—who are convinced that the only salvation for the advancement of this country's ideals is along the lines advocated by Colonel Roosevelt."

Mayor G. W. V. Moy when seen, said that he was profoundly stirred by what he witnessed. To his mind it represented the launching of a mighty crusade in which all the better elements of the country would be found. He had hope and faith in the good results that would come from it. It was bound to succeed because it was founded on the bedrock of common sense and progression. The old parties had served their purpose. But their day was past. The new party included all that was good in them and had discarded all that was bad.

RETURN HOME AFTER 'BATTLE'

Company K Comes Back Happy and Well After Eight Days of Camp.

NO DECISION WAS MADE

Reds and Blues Fight All Day Without Advantage On Either Side—Thank Daily Press for Interest Taken In Manouvres.

After spending eight days in a Camp of Instruction at Mt. Gretna, Pa., where yesterday they participated in a sham battle as members of the Blue Army, Companies K. of Plainfield, and M, of Somerville, returned home today. Happy and well the members of the Plainfield company greeted their friends at the North Avenue station this afternoon.

(Special from Staff Correspondent.)

U. S. Camp of Instruction, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 24.—After a hard fifteen mile hike through the woods, tearing through brush and fording shallow stream, the Blue Army, of which Companies K and M were members, rested last evening at about six o'clock. No decision was rendered from the judges, although the Blue Army seemed to have a slight advantage over the one of Red. A day spent in the woods jumping ditches and wading through the mire is not the easiest kind of work even when the weather is as cool as it was yesterday and yet each member of Company K enjoyed every minute of the day.

It was very soon after the break of day that the activities of the two armies became evident. As told in yesterday's Daily Press, the Blue Army, under the command of General Collins, opened the attack. It was not long before the thin lines of Khaki-clad men were fighting back and forth from rocks and trees, and from their places of concealment in the high grass.

The crack and rattle of the rifle-fire reverberated over the hills, enacting a very realistic scene. It looked like real war, and what is more, it sounded like real war. As each advance guard would move onward to protect the main body, scouts were sent still further ahead to warn those following of any hidden dangers, or traps. Then suddenly the firing would break out anew, the advance guards would fall back to the main column and the battle begin in earnest once more.

And so the fighting continued throughout the day. When each side stopped at about six o'clock the advantage was given to neither army. In reality however the Blue Army had the better of the argument, as they had held two regiments in reserve throughout the contest. Had the Twenty-ninth Infantry or the Third New Jersey been called into the fray the Red Army would surely have been annihilated.

Captain Peterson, of Company K, was especially pleased last night with the work of his men. The entire Second and Third regiment have been complimented by the camp commander for their share in the manoeuvres. All of the boys were in the best of spirits and not a single member of Company K was sick and none have been reprimanded.

Last evening found the camp gay with the usual festivities. The Twenty-ninth Infantry band entertained the Second New Jersey regiment with a band concert. Those who had never been members of a camp before found plenty to do and time hung heavily on the hands of no one.

Four-thirty o'clock this morning found Company K's street alive and each member busy breaking camp, preparatory to leaving Mt. Gretna at 10:30 o'clock. The rain made it necessary to work in the mud. All were glad to leave and yet each man felt that the time spent amid the Pennsylvania hills had been most enjoyable. Both companies left a clean and sanitary camp.

Promptly at 10:30 the train pulled out of the station with Companies K and M on board. It seemed to be the general impression that Mt. Gretna would always be considered one of the most successful encampments of the National Guard.

Last evening the members of Company K gave a vote of thanks to the Plainfield Daily Press for the interest taken in following their movements.

NOT AS REPRESENTED.

Many residents of the city and borough have been called to their front doors during the past few days and requested to buy soaps, the proceeds to be used in the interests of the poor. A well dressed, middle-aged woman is the agent for these soaps and claims to be selling in the interests of the Charity Organization. Miss Maybelle Phillips says that the woman is an imposter and that she has no connection whatsoever with the institution which she claims to represent.

ENFORCE DOG LICENSE ORDINANCE IN BOROUGH

Crusade Begun and Five Owners Are Arraigned Before Recorder Gano.

An ordinance requiring that all dogs shall be licensed and properly tagged to that effect is being strictly enforced in North Plainfield, as was shown this morning, when five dog owners were arraigned before Recorder Gano for disregarding the regulations. Although all gave excuses for not obeying the ordinance, Recorder Gano required that they obtain licenses for their dogs before they would be released. All complied readily. They were John Colley, of Fritts place; Gustave Baldwin, of Grandview avenue; William C. Kirchner, of Duer street, William Pasch, of Harrison avenue, and A. Cumeal, of Harrison avenue.

Recorder Gano and Acting Chief Keller say they are going to enforce the ordinance to the best of their ability. There are many dogs running about the streets unlicensed, and these will be taken to the pound where, if they are not claimed and licensed, they will be asphixiated.

Dog owners who fail to license and tag their dogs will be served with a summons to appear before Recorder Gano and explain their reasons for not complying with the regulations.

The Recorder says that a fine of $20 will be imposed for not obeying the ordinance and desires to give this advice to dog owners, "Obey that impulse and do it now, because delays are dangerous."

The licenses may be obtained at the borough clerk's office in the Borough hall on Somerset street.

SALVATION ARMY PLANS FOR DIVISIONAL CAMP

Major G. F. Casler to Have Charge of Camp Meeting at Wayside Park.

Arrangements for the Metropolitan and New Jersey Divisional camp meeting of the Salvation Army which is to be held at "Wayside Park," opposite the car barns near Dunellen, is now complete. The camp will open on Friday, August 2, and continue until Monday evening, August 12. Services will be held every afternoon and evening at 3 and 8 o'clock and on Sunday two additional services will be held at 7 and 10:30 a. m. The camp will be under the direct supervision of Major and Mrs. George F. Casler, of Newark, who are the Divisional officers for the Metropolitan and New Jersey division, which comprises all the Army corps in Greater New York and all of New Jersey, north of New Brunswick.

Some of the Army's most capable leaders will take part in the services. The music will be furnished by a brass band of about twenty pieces under the leadership of Captain John Allan, well-known in Plainfield for his cornet solos during the visit of the National Staff Band here each spring. In addition there will be a songsters brigade in charge of Ensign Barrett, who will furnish the vocal music; there will also be a string band and many other musical attractions.

Among the prominent speakers will be Colonel W. A. McIntyre, of New York; Staff Captain George Anderson, of Albany, N. Y.; Colonel E. J. Margaretts, the National Young Peoples' secretary; Staff Captain Mabee, editor of the "Young Soldier" and one of the Army's best vocal soloists; Colonel E. J. Parker, famous for his lecture, "Problems of the Poor;" Major Baillie, secretary to Colonel McIntyre; Brigadier Hunter, the Army's prison chaplain, who will lecture on prison work; Majors Winchell and Stitts, prominent officers in the social work, besides many prominent Corps officers who will take part. Besides the meetings at the Park the band will conduct open air services in all the towns in this section of the country from Westfield to Somerville.

This is the first time that the Army has held its annual camp meeting in the vicinity of Plainfield, and the leader, Major Casler, is looking forward to large gatherings. A regular restaurant will be established on the camp grounds where the prices will be very moderate. Tents may be hired to as many as wish to spend several days at the camp, and the friends of the Army are urged to spend their vacation at the Park where everything will be provided at a nominal cost.

Mr and Mrs. John D. Slorah, of West Fourth street, are the parents of a son born to them this morning.

Mrs. A. Welsing and daughter, Margaret, of Mountain View, Watchung, are spending their vacation near Waterbury, Conn.

POLICEMAN SNATCHES BOY FROM JAWS OF DEATH

But for the prompt action of Patrolman Mac Donald, Craig Blair, the ten year old son of Adam C. Blair, 519 Park avenue, would have been knocked down and killed by a locomotive at the North Avenue station last night. A big crowd had assembled to witness the return of the Baptist Sunday-schools excursion from Asbury Park. As the train steamed in the crowd pressed forward to greet the excursionists. Patrolman Mac Donald had a busy time in keeping them back. Blair eluded his notice and darted across the tracks right in front of the incoming train. Without a moment's hesitation the policeman sprang after him and pulled him clear of the track with the locomotive not a foot away. The crowd cheered the patrolman. The boy was thoroughly frightened and made a hurried escape from the crowd to his home. Later when MacDonald inquired as to his whereabouts he learned from one of the boy's companions that "Craig did not feel well and had gone home."

THIRD PARTY MEN PLAN LOCAL FIGHT

Progressives Will Probably Make Complete Ticket and With Moy for Mayor.

FOR AN ORGANIZATION

Messrs. Moy and Gunnison Discuss the Outlook—A Hot Fight to Be Waged Against Taft Party In Union County, Too.

Complete county and local tickets will be made by the Progressive Republicans in Union county, according to some of the leaders in that movement. In Plainfield it is understood that a thorough organization will be effected and that nominations will be made for every office to be filled by the voters at the November election. Just how soon a call will be issued for a meeting of the Progressives here is not known for it seems to be the concensus of opinion among the more active Rooseveltians that concerted action along these lines should be deferred until after the National Convention of the Progressives to be held at Chicago on August 5.

Mayor George W. V. Moy, an alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention, who also attended the State Convention of the Progressives at Asbury Park yesterday, stated this morning, on being questioned by a Daily Press reporter, that he fully expects to see a thoroughly organized Progressive party in Plainfield within a very short time. His opinion is that there will be a complete ticket named for all local offices. In the county too, he stated, the plan is also to have a separate ticket.

When asked whether he would accept a nomination for the mayoralty on the Progressive ticket, the Mayor said that he would consider it a duty and a pleasure to do so. As to who other candidates would likely be for the various offices, his honor stated that he had no doubt but that there would be plenty of good men who would take the view that he does and consider it a duty to stand for office for the sake of the movement.

The one obstacle to holding a meeting now for the purpose of effecting an organization it appears is the fact that not until the National Convention of the Rooseveltians will the new born party have a title. Therefore, action will have to be deferred until early next month.

One of the most aggressive and enthusiastic local workers in the new movement is Stanley E. Gunnison, of East Seventh street. When the question was put to him today as to why he would leave the Republican party to follow Roosevelt, he said: "I hope ever radiated from the progressive cause in the United States it was the day that Theodore Roosevelt gave as his answer to the question, 'Will you accept the nomination of a progressive party?' his answer 'I will.'

"It would have taken many years to develop a man of the world-wide experience with such a tremendous popular following and commanding such universal respect as the ex-President, and it was almost beyond the comprehension of his most ardent admirers and those who hold national above party loyalty that one who had already been the recipient of the greatest honors within the power of the American people to bestow would consent to lead the cause of the people in the comparatively disorganized way that it would necessarily have to be presented. His candidacy can ask no better support than his record, and if deeds, not words, are to count in the coming campaign there is little doubt but the progressive cause, guided by its matchless champion, will give a magnificent accounting of itself on election day."

Mr. Gunnison, who lives on East Seventh street, is superintendent for Ward & Gow, of New York, one of the largest advertising agencies in the world. For many years while a resident of Brooklyn, he was one of the most active lieutenants and a close personal friend of "Tim" Woodruff. As a leader in his district, the old Ninth of Brooklyn, he declined offers of nominations for the Assembly and other offices.

WANT MRAVLAG FOR ELIZABETH MAYOR

Elizabeth, July 23.—That the Republican machine leaders in this city are determined to have former Mayor Mravlag as chief local standard-bearer, is plainly evident.

A special committee of prominent members of the G. O. P. called on the ex-Mayor at his residence, in East Jersey street, and strongly urged him to become the party nominee for Mayor this fall.

While the doctor, it is said, reserved his decision, there is scarcely any doubt if his personal wishes are acceeded to as to the management of the campaign, that he will enter the race.

This will mean a red-hot fight for political supremacy in Elizabeth

It is claimed that he would get the bulk of the Socialist vote in the city, which this year is expected to reach 1,500.

Besides this, he is popular with the Germans, Hungarians and Poles, as shown when he ran four years ago and defeated General Collins for Mayor by more than 1,000 votes.

The regular Republicans in Union county are going to use every endeavor to strengthen the Taft electoral ticket, and they realize that the former Mayor would bring an element to its support that is not to be despised.

Hence their anxiety to have his name at the head of the local ticket, especially in such a fight as will be waged this year, when five excise commissioners and seven freeholders are to be elected.

The Democratic leaders in Elizabeth were surprised on reading yesterday that their harmony plans had leaked out. They claim, however, that former Mayor Mravlag had not the correct line on their harmony scheme.

One of them said that the slate was to nominate General Collins for Mayor, instead of Stein, the latter to step aside, and later to be named by Governor Wilson for county prosecutor.

If the rest of the program works all right, the Governor is to name City Attorney James C. Connolly to succeed Edward S. Atwater as county judge, and Robert H. McAdams as judge of Elizabeth District Court, to succeed Judge Whittemore.

No provision seems to be made in this scheme for Edward Nugent, president of the Board of Aldermen. He was Mayor Stein's chief lieutenant in the fight waged against General Collins. Nugent's term as alderman from the Eighth Ward will expire January 1, if he succeeds in getting reelected this fall, and it is hinted he will have strong opposition, he may probably be taken care of in the distribution of political favors.

The real reason for the hatchet being buried between the warring Democratic factions is the knowledge that if peace is not proclaimed none of the opponents of General Collins may look for any of the political plums that will fall from the Governor's tree next year.

General Collins, it is well known, has been an ardent supporter of the Governor in all his policies and worked tooth and nail for his election to the office he now holds. The General also put in three strenuous weeks at Baltimore, where he spent both time and money in behalf of Wilson.
